Tache Station, Ont., Sept. 26.—Although little or nothing is heard from this part of the mining district of New Ontario, it is a well known fact that almost within a stone's throw of the main line of the C.P.R. are situated rich claims, awaiting the long-expected tide of capital and development. That such properties should be suffered to remain dormant so long is a matter of surprise to many, considering their very prominent surface indications and their proximity to the station of Tache. Perhaps, if these claims were situated in some inaccessible place, say fifty miles away from the track, the chances are that they would now be in a very advanced state of development. Somehow or other, human nature, even to this day, is prone to follow those laws which invariably govern the inclinations of the gold-thirsty explorers of far-away fields, and take it as a matter of course that nothing rich can be found anywhere except in places remote from the haunts of civilized man.

The geological position of this part of the mining world may, perhaps, account for its being left "severely alone." Wabigoon and the Manitou regions constitute the chief mining centres, and, as Tache is twenty-three miles east of these points, it may therefore be presumed that this unfavoured locality, from which only vague rumours are heard occasionally, has not yet made its "debut" in the rather fastidious mining circles of Canada. The writer knows of people prominent in mining who, upon being told of what Tache had to offer, with its splendid natural advantages, absolutely refused to believe that such was the case. The point was this; the claims were near home, and they couldn't be of any account. The fact that they are so easily gotton at took away the spice of adventure and charm, and everything that suggests the wildly romantic with which other fields abound.

Years ago a few enthusiastic individuals tried to make mines of a couple of these claims, but, as these parties lacked sufficient backbone, only a few test pits filled with water remain as memorials to those whose intentions were far beyond their means to carry out their schemes to a successful issue. It goes without saying that it would have been far better for Tache's reputation if these miners had never struck a drill. The best known claims here lie within half a mile of Tache station, and are known as follows:—

The Lady Marion group, from which very good ore has been taken, the values per ton averaging $18, while picked samples assayed $85 in gold.

Claim H. W. 611, lying north of and adjoining the Lady Marion, has also made a record for itself in rich surface ore, a picked sample going as high as $812 per ton, and an average assay giving $22.50.

Claim H. W. 642, a short distance east of claim 611, made the best record in these parts a few years ago, when it was discovered by David L. Guthrie, the well-known Tache explorer. Very beautiful visible specimens of native gold were taken from this property, one assay from rock showing no visible gold, giving $996 in gold per ton, and an average sample gave $26 in gold and silver. In regard to seeing down the bowels E. B. Young, late of Winnipeg, a metallurgist and mining engineer of long experience in different parts of the world, declared a few years ago that there was no part of the Rainy River mining district in which he would sooner invest his money than in and around Tache, as it certainly gave very strong evidence of having immense quantities of paying ore in its claims, a fact which, combined with other superior advantages, was bound to be brought to the knowledge of practical men sooner or later; and so far as his knowledge went the outlook for some of these claims [illegible] in their initial stage, to become [illegible] dend payers, was very bright. A yo[illegible]ded practical mining men, back- and [illegible] systematic management, took them, as he (Mr. Young) be- P.O. Box 56. EXAGGERATING THE SITUATION

Some of the daily papers seem to be taking a delight in making the state of affairs existing at the "Soo" appear much worse than they realy are, and, in commenting upon this the Globe says editorially:—

"We have been shown more than one letter from Sault Ste. Marie protesting against the exaggerations which are appearing in the newspapers with reference to the situation there. Mr. John Dawson, a well-known resident of the Soo, in a letter, dated Sept. 24, to a friend in the city, says:—

"I notice the papers say there are thirty-five hundred men out of work, and no pay, also that there were several men imprisoned. This is false. There are not five hundred men in town out of work, and none from those works for food or shelter in jail. Several of the works closed down, and I should think there are about two hundred men out of work. But they are leaving town every day, and we have had no trouble. Only two special constables were added to our force, and they have not been needed. Several of the stores are doing as much cash business as they did months ago. Why there is such cause for alarm in Toronto we fail to understand."

Other letters repeat the same protest. It must be regarded as unfortunate that any attempt should be made to represent the situation as worse than it is, and we may be sure that all our papers, having had their attention called to the tendency to exaggerate, will exercise special zeal in pruning such extravagances. There can be no objection to telling the truth, but the truth is surely."

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and travelling grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself, for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines, and they maintain their their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicines as much as in selling barbwire.

PROVINCIAL WINTER FAIR.

To be Held at Guelph on December 7th to 11th.

A copy of the premium list for the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair to be held at Guelph on Dec. 7th to 11th, 1903, has been received at this office. This will be the twentieth annual fair and, judging by the liberal prizes offered, it should be highly successful. Prizes are being offered for cattle, both beef and dairying types; sheep, swine and poultry. The prizes offered by the Association have been supplemented in some cases by special prizes offered. In the bacon hog class, $325 has been contributed by the different pork packing companies in Ontario. The Geo. Matthews Company, of Peterborough, have donated $25.00 towards these special prizes.

Entries should be made to the secretary, Mr. A. P. Westervelt, Toronto, on or before November 21st. All entries received after that date will be charged double fee.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

Hurricane Hits Factory.

Cornwall, Sept. 26.—The Cornwall furniture factory was severely damaged by a hurricane on Sunday. One quarter of the roof was torn off and the west wall along the top floor laid flat for a distance of 70 feet. The sprinkler service for fire protection was snapped off like a pipe stem and the mill was flooded.

THE TRENT WATERWAY SEEN BY CHICAGO EYES.

What the Chicago Record Thinks its Influence Will be.

A recent issue of the Chicago Record says:—

"One of the most far-reaching moves yet made in the development of commerce between the Great Lakes and the ocean, is now practically completed across Canadian territory. Its effect on the rail and lake business of American carriers is very likely to be of even more importance than that brought about by the recent abolition of canal tolls through the Welland and other Canadian canal routes, although the depth of water that will be available by the route now nearing completion will be only eight feet. The new route cuts off all of Lakes Erie and Ontario, and gives direct communication between Lake Huron and the St. Lawrence river by way of Georgian Bay and canals connecting Lake Simcoe with rivers running into the St. Lawrence River. A full day's time will be cut off of the run from Sault Ste. Marie to Montreal, or two days saved on the round trip. The hydraulic lift lock near Peterborough, Ont., is now practically completed, and announcement of the opening of the new route will be made in a short time."

We in this town and district would be very well pleased if the last line of the Record's remarks were borne out by fact.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES MUST NOT DRINK.

Drinking Habits Cause for Dismissal.

Railways throughout the country are waging war against the use of intoxicating liquors and tobacco by employees engaged in operating trains. The flat has gone forth generally that employees who drink or who frequent places where liquors are sold, are not safe men to entrust with the lives of patrons nor with the valuable property transported by the railways. Total abstinence is essential to service in the operating department of every railroad entering in Chicago, and so far as known, of every important railroad in the United States.

The rules which have recently been inaugurated against the use of tobacco, are not so stringent as those against liquor, but generally they prescribe the use of tobacco while on duty, and when about stations, and on the property of the railroad companies. As for the cigarette, the order against it is always as severe as that against whiskey.

The revolution which is being effected in these respects is shown in the new rule books which many of the managements of the Chicago roads have just issued. Without a single exception these books contain the following rules which are similarly frame:

"The use of intoxicants by employees while on duty is prohibited. Their habitual use, or the frequenting of places where they are sold, is sufficient cause for dismissal."

"The use of tobacco by employees while on duty in and about passenger stations or on passenger cars, is prohibited."

While the rules are now practically the same on all railroads, some are more severe than others in their enforcement. Not all the railroads will assume to say whether an operating employee may drink when off duty, while henceforth not a few, the Rock Island, for example, will discharge men for frequenting saloons, whether on or off duty.

In the old days of railroading the engineer, fireman, or trainman, who could carouse the most and report for duty, was considered by his fellows as the best man on the line, and was not frowned upon by his superiors. As the traffic of the country grew amazingly, however, and public demand came for faster time and better service, the train crews which which were seen most frequently in saloons were credited with the greatest number of wrecks, and general managers began to do some thinking.

Intoxicants were at first prohibited by one or two roads with ill success, the men insisting that their morals had nothing to do with the railroad service, and the rule against liquor became a dead letter. By concerted action through the General Managers' Association of Chicago, the lines have been drawn tighter, until the old rule practically has become a new rule through its general and rigid observance.

As stated a county medical health officer's salary and expenses would be $1,800; with two inspectors it would bring the cost to the county to nearly $4,000. Coal Strike Threatened.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 28.—President Patrick Gilday, of District No. 2, United Mine Workers, is authority for the statement that a strike of 15,000 miners employed by the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Company, the newly formed soft coal combination in the central Pennsylvania field is threatened. He had given the officials until October 2 to agree carrying out the propositions on the Altoona scale. Failing to do so he will order a strike. The Pennsylvania Company operates more than 40 mines. Thomas Watkins, who was a member of the Anthracite Arbitration Commission, is a large stockholder. The trouble was started, it is said, by the company not paying yardage at its Amsbry mines.

Murder in Church.

LaCrosse Wis., Sept. 28.—An attempted murder and suicide occurred at the German Lutheran Church yesterday at the beginning of religious services when Herman Rossow shot his wife and himself in the presence of the worshipers. Mrs. Rossow will probably die. Rossow may recover. Rossow, who had been separated from his wife, followed her into the church, pulled his revolver and began firing.

Reserve Force.

MOROCCO PROTECTORATE.

England Pays Dearest Her Price For Acquiescence in the Occupation of Egypt—Political Rumors.

London, Sept. 28.—The most startling news yesterday was The Daily Mail's disclosure of the secret protectorate of Morocco and the readjustment of the interests of the Mediterranean powers in Northern Africa. There will probably be official denials from the various capitals, but there are inherent probabilities that the reconciliation of France and England is founded upon something more substantial than the exchange of amenities and compliments between the King and President Loubet. The withdrawal of the French claims to Egypt and the acceptance of British control over the Suez Canal would be cheaply obtained by the recognition of the French protectorate over Morocco, and there would be easily expedients for securing the acquiescence of Spain and Italy by timely concessions.

DEATHBED REPENTANCE.

Woman Clears Up Mysterious Tragedy That Occurred in 1885.

Jasper, Ind., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Nellie Andrews, formerly Miss Nellie Conrad, made a confession just before her death yesterday, which clears up a mysterious tragedy that in 1885 caused much excitement.

Stanford Freeman, a young farmer of this county, was called to his gate by two men and two women the night before he was to be married, and after a scuffle was found by his intended bride fatally wounded. His slayers escaped.

Mrs. Andrews said yesterday that she was one of the party which visited Freeman, that one of the men who was present is dead, and the other in the Tennessee State Prison. The woman who accompanied them, she said, and who disappeared several years ago, was murdered because of the fear lest she betray the murderers.

Mrs. Andrews said that she was in love with Freeman, and one of the men was in love with Freeman's intended wife, and when they went to the gate that night a demand was made that Freeman marry her at once. When he refused he was fatally stabbed and the four kept the secret so well that no suspicion was aroused.

Nationalists to Whip.

London, Sept. 28.—Addressing a demonstration at Newcastle, County Down, Sunday, John Redmond, the Irish leader, said that the Irish land bill, having been secured, the next session must be devoted to the laborers' question.

The political situation to-day was a strange one, he continued, and if Premier Balfour desired to retain office, the Irish party would hold the power of life or death in its hands, and would use that power without compunction to forward the interests of the Irish cause.

Strathcona's Views.

Liverpool, Sept. 28.—Lord Strathcona, the Canadian High Commissioner, in an interview here stated that he was in entire accord with the views of Joseph Chamberlain concerning the tariff. No Ragging on the Stage.

London, Sept. 28.—The War Office has had to seek the aid even of George Alexander Redford, examiner of plays, in its present plight. It seems that in May last Mr. Redford refused to license a play which it was proposed to produce in the provinces and which included a military ragging scene.

HE DID NOT KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

Fred Sisson Accidentally Shoots Walter Bothwell.

While playing with a revolver which it was thought was unloaded, Fred Sisson, a young man, last night accidentally shot Walter Bothwell, aged 20 years, an employee of the Cereal Company. The accident occurred at 251 George street, where Bothwell boards, and it is learned that the weapon was loaded in two chambers only, which led Sisson to think that it was unloaded. After snapping the hammer two or three times, the loaded chamber moved into position, and on pressing the trigger, went off, the bullet a .22 calibre, lodging in Bothwell's head, just above the right cheek bone, and behind the eye. Drs. Greer and Eastwood were sent for, and the bullet extracted. Bothwell this morning, was doing very well. His right eye is somewhat swollen, but it is not thought that he will lose the sight of that optic.

Scott, the president, and special music was rendered, a solo being sung by Miss Carolyn Hall, solists of Murray street Baptist church choir. The room was very prettily decorated with flowers, and a very pleasant and helpful service was held.

To-morrow night the formal opening of the rooms will be held when Miss Macdonald will again give an address, and a musical programme will be rendered and refreshments served.

PRESENTED PORTRAIT OF DAN SPENCE.

Never has there been a more successful Rally Day in George street Sunday School than that held yesterday. The lecture room of the church was filled and adjoining rooms had to be opened to accommodate those present. This is an annual event, and it is designed that on Rally Day all scholars, teachers and officers of the school shall be present. The service yesterday, however, was one of especial interest, because in addition to the Rally Day exercises, a portrait of Dan Spence was presented to the school, of which the dead soldier was a member. Wednesday, Sept. 23ed, was the third anniversary of Dan Spence's death, and yesterday's service was in reality a memorial service.

The assistant superintendent, Mr. G. W. Mulligan, was chairman of the meeting, for which special music was provided by Mr. Gliddon's orchestra, and on the platform with the chairman were Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the church, and Mr. T. W. Robinson, superintendent of the Sunday School. The first speaker was Mr. R.W. Kidd, who spoke of the characters in the lessons of the last quarter, dealing particularly with Saul and David, the first Kings of Israel. After Mr. Kidd's address Mr. G. B. Whiten was invited to the platform and in unveiling the splendid portrait of Dan Spence, which he was then presenting to the school, Mr. Whiten made a few remarks referring to the exemplarly life led by the one whom they were honouring, and as the National Anthem was being sung removed a large Union Jack from a very life-like picture of Dan Spence, dressed in the uniform in which he served his country. A male quartette, composed of Messrs. Cunningham, Maguire, Turner and Smedley, they sang very effectively "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mr. S. R. Armstrong, was called upon to speak with reference to the work of Dan Spence in the school. He said that the school felt pleased to receive the picture of their late comrade. Dan Spence's life had been spent in a manner which made him worthy of rememberance by the school. It was among young men that his influence was most deeply felt and that he was successful in his work was due to his love for the young men, for whom he laboured. It is a pleasing fact that his work did not end when he left town, but even yet, Mr. Armstrong said, the result of it could be seen. Another reason for his success was his habitual cheerful hopefulness. This was not only exemplified while he was here, but after joining the regiment and going to South Africa the same spirit was manifested. The third element in his success was his unbounded enthusiasm. Mr. Best, the Y.M.C.A. secretary who was with him in South Africa, paid a high tribute to his work among the men in his regiment, with whom his sterling character made him a favourite. He never lost his interest in the school as was evidenced by the last letter he wrote, in which he expressed his love for it, and his interest in its welfare. Mr. Armstrong closed his address by saying that he knew of no young man in the school for whom such a universal love was felt, as for Dan Spence.

The orchestra then gave a selection, "I need Thee Every Hour."

Mr. D. W. Dumble was the next speaker, and in opening said he was pleased to see such a large gathering. He had attended the George street Sunday school forty years ago, when it was held in a small building. It was the largest school in town then, and it was still the largest. Speaking in reference to Dan Spence, he said that they had met to do honour to a young man, the contemplation of whose life could not but be beneficial. It might be interesting to find out why it was that Dan Spence had exerted such an influence upon the young men in the town. His life here had been such that since his death his name had been almost a household word in town, and the reason was that while here he had been faithful, industrious, and had endeavoured to live the "higher Life," which meant living the best life he could under the circumstances. The Christian character displayed by him while here, was also noticed when, in answer to his country's call, he volunteered to go to South Africa, and while there h eremained true to his religion, and stood out among his comrades as an exemplary young man. He paid a high tribute to his generosity and solicitude for others. Many a time had he taken sentry duty for others who were fatigued. He died on the battle field, where a soldier should die. In life and in death, Dan Spence exemplified a Christian character, and stands to-day an honourable name in the land. Though dead he still speaks, and his life is still an inspiration to others to live the best life.

Mr. T. W. Robinson followed in a few words in reference to rally day, and Mr. Jeffries, seconded by Rev. J. P. Wilson, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Whiten for his gift to the school, which closed the exercises of the afternoon

Now is the Time.
Now is the time to join the Y. M. C. A. just as the season's work begins. The fees are within the reach of every young man who has any interest in himself. There was never a time when so many were talking of what the Y.M.C.A. has to offer young men. Many of those who are now members are working to secure others. Many more are asked to join in the present movement to boom the membership. Any member who secures five new ones before Nov. 1st will have his own membership extended for 12 months from the time it expires. Now is the time to bring in the new members.

DOES THE SINGER CO. WANT A LOCATION?

Negotiations Said to be Under way in two Different Towns.

It appears that Peterborough is not the only town in which the Singer Manufacturing Company has proposed to establish a factory. Friday night's Toronto News has a despatch from Cornwall stating that a representative of the company had been to that town looking at available sites, etc., and that the Industrial Committee would likely make a liberal proposal to the company, to induce it to locate there

A despatch from Sherbrooke also says:

"Mr. Coleman of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, of New York, was looking over available sites in this city with a view to the erection of another branch of the concern in Canada. They will employ 700 hands and will require about 30 acres of land. The Finance Committee has the matter of securing a site in hand."

As far as the Examiner has been able to learn all negotiations between this town and the Singer Manufacturing Company's representative, have been discontinued.

AUTUMN ASSIZES.

The Case of Kearns vs. Stratton-Ireland Settled Out of Court.

Kearns vs. Stratton and Ireland,—It is agreed between the plaintiff and defendants that this action is settled on the following terms: The defendants are to publish in the Examiner newspaper the following article: "This action has been amicably settled between the parties. During the last provincial campaign Mr. William Ireland wrote a letter to Mr. Stratton making certain accusations against Mr. W. J. Kearns' character and among them stated that he was convicted of selling goods on Sunday at Canoe Lake. On investigation Mr. Stratton finds that Mr. Ireland furnished him with incorrect information. Mr. Stratton and the Examiner regret the publication of any incorrect information reflecting on Mr. Kearns, as they have not, and never had, any desire to deal unjustly with anyone, no matter what his political persuasion may be."

Canada's Enterprise.

Commenting on the Trent Valley Canal and other inland waterways in Canada, the Buffalo News says:—"While a large portion of the citizenship of New York is engaged in opposing canal construction on the ground that it is not sufficiently modern, the citizens of Canada, wiser in their day, though not more experienced than those in this state, are pushing by all means in their power to gain control of the traffic of a continent by furnishing it barge ways through their territory. It means wealth all along the way. Canada is getting the business that her enterprise justly commands."

LATEST PRISON CELL JOTTINGS.

Military School Deserter Gives Himself up.

Mr. Alexander Sagster's Lost Pocket Book—Bicyclists Beware of the of the Police.

This morning Chief Roazel received a letter from Mr. Alex. Sagster, of Kirkfield, Ont., stating that on Thursday last he had lost his pocket book between the Snowden House and the G.T.R. station. It contained four five dollar bills, besides some papers with his name on. Should the purse have been found, the finder is asked to leave it at the police station, in order that it may be returned to its rightful owner.

A Catholic "reader" was picked up this morning, on the fly leaf of which is written "Joseph Moroney, Separate school, Toronto." It can be obtained on application at the police station.

Frank Tumblyn, a deserter from the Military School, Toronto, after having been dogged by the police for a year and a half, gave himself up last night to the local preservers of the peace. He is tall of stature, being nearly six feet in height, is dark, and aged about 22. He walked into the police station after church, which, however, does not mean that he attended divine service.

The Children's Shelter had several additions in the form of children of wayward fathers and mothers this morning.

Two rosaries and a lady's belt may be had on application at the police station.

The number of complaints received from persons regarding the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks, have of late been so many that the police are going to make summonses for this offense a speciality. The fines for those convicted will also be more burdensome than heretofore. A town official stated that bicycle riders preferred granolithic sidewalks to the more common wooden ones. This, he believed, to be the reason for so many petitions received by the council for the former kind of pavement.

Mr. Jas. Dewart, of the township of Dummer, on the 23rd inst., to his personal sorrow, discovered that a valuable bay mare of his had been stolen the night previous. This morning High Constable Cochrane was informed by the constable at Wooler that he had the horse in his possession, having obtained it from a farmer who had traded it with the thief, who, however, has not as yet been caught.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

After the offertory in St. John's church on Sunday evening, Mr. Gliddon, choir-master, gave a beautiful cornet solo, "A Dream of Paradise," played with exquisite purity and evenness of tone, and saturated with feeling, and the devotional spirit of the composition.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The congregations at All Saints' yesterday were large and the services helpful. Rev. W. L Armitage, the rector, preached at both services. In the morning his subject was, "Building for God," while in the evening Mr. Armitage spoke on "Walking, Fellowship and Cleansing." The anthem was "What shall I render?" in which solos were sung by Miss Rickey and Rev. W. L. Armitage.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The services yesterday were conducted by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, the pastor, and a special musical programme was rendered by the choir. In the morning the anthem was, "The Lord is my light," by Earle, with solos by Miss Belleghem, and Mr. A. L. Davis, both of which were sung in a very pleasing manner. At the offertory, Mr. A. Froude sang Dudley Buck's beautiful solo, "My Redeemer and My Lord." At the evening service the anthem was Holden's "Son of My Soul," with a solo taken by Miss Belleghem, who also sang "Liddle's "Abide with Me" very effectively.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The pastor preached at both services yesterday, and an especially enjoyable feature was the music rendered by the choir, and assisted by Miss Helen Davies. In the morning she sang by request "The Ninety and Nine," by Campion, and her rendition was very much appreciated. The choir sang "The Bird let Loose in Eastern Skies," by Marston, as an anthem, an alto solo being taken by Miss Irene Gray, in a very musicianly manner.

At the evening service Miss Davies again sang her selection being "Hear Me, O Israel," from the Elijah," and again she delighted those who heard her, with her well trained and sweet soprano voice. The anthem was "O Clap Your Hands Together."

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

The harvest festival services were continued yesterday, large congregations being present at all services. In the afternoon a children's service was held in the church, at which the rector addressed the children on "Missions." The choir repeated the Harvest Festival music. The vegetables, fruits, etc., which had been used for the decorations, were sent to the Protestant Home.

On Wednesday, October 8th an interesting service will be held at St. Luke's church, on the occasion of the departure of Miss Alice Scott to the Northwest as a representative of St. Luke's in the mission field. The friends and members of St. Luke's are requested to keep this date in mind.

The Mission Band will hold its annual sale of work and entertainment, on Friday evening in St. Luke's Sunday school. Useful articles will be for sale, the proceeds to be devoted to the missionary work of the Mission Band. The children have prepared a programme, which, it is expected, will be augmented by an orcheatra. Refreshments will be served at the close. Doors open at 7.30 p.m. m-fri

DID HIM GOOD AND NO MISTAKE.

What Simon V. Landry has to say of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He was Weak, Run Down and a Total Wreck—Three Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills put him to Work Again.

River Bourgeois, Richmond Co., Que., Oct. 28th.—Special.—Simon V. Landry, well known here, adds his testimony to the thousands of others all over Canada who owe their health, and even life itself, to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was bothered for over a year with Lame Back, Weak Back, Palpitation of the Heart and General Weakness," says Mr. Landry. "In fact I was a total wreck. I could not work as I got tired and weak so easily and I had a weakness in my stomach so that I could not bend down to do anything.

"I had tried different kinds of medicine without benefit till I gave Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. From the first time they did me good and I had only taken three boxes when I was able to start work again. They did me good and no mistake."

INSTRUCTIONS FROM CLERGUE

Consolidated Lake Superior Stockholders Will To-Day Move For Receivership as Surest Way to Protect Their Equity in the Property—Management and Board of Directors Offer No Objection.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 28.—Mr. Bicknell of the law firm of Laidlaw, Kappele & Bicknell, the representative of Speyer & Company, applied at noon on Saturday for possession of all the properties of the company. This was refused by Mr. Coyne, who informed all his subordinates that they were to resist any effort of Mr. Bicknell or any representatives of the bankers to take possession of any portion of the properties. The offices are kept locked, and the clerks have been furnished with latchkeys, without which no one can gain access to the office.

Stockholders Move.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 28.—The North American of Sunday, says: Consolidated Lake Superior stockholders will move formally to-morrow for a receivership as the surest way to protect their interest in the property.

This action has been determined upon in view of the uncertain attitude of Speyer & Company, and a conviction that the time has come when the step cannot be delayed longer without danger.

Application for the appointment of a receiver for the $117,000,000 corporation will be made in Connecticut.

Promptly after the expected granting of the petition for receivership, application will be made in New York for the appointment of an auxiliary receiver.

This will be accompanied by a petition for an injunction to restrain Speyer collaterals being disposed of.

The management and Board of Directors of the company, it is understood, have agreed to interpose no obstacles.

Irish Immigration.

London, Sept. 28.—(C.A.P.)—At a meeting of the committee of the Anti-Emigration Society, held at Dublin, leaflets giving the warning of the Catholic bishops against emigration were ordered to be distributed at places in Galway and other counties. A letter from an anonymous correspondent was read. It stated that almanacs showing pictures of Manitoba's free farms were being distributed in shops. The committee asked that, in view of the exposures by Father Dollard and others of the hardships and destitution which had been the lot of emigrants to those farms, sympathizers should be asked to look out for these almanacs and forward copies to the society, and also particulars of the persons circulating them.

Poker Raid in Dawson.

Dawson, Sept. 28.—Two of Dawson's biggest social clubs, whose members are business men, were raided Friday night. Several thousand dollars worth of gold was on the tables of the Aurora. Joseph Clark, Conservative candidate for Parliament in the last election, is president of the Aurora, and he is the man who a year ago made such a row about the prevalence of gambling. Judge MacAulay gave judgment against the house and the players were fined heavily.

The Evidence You Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendations than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

Standard Cure for Itching Piles.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

There is always some standard by which the merits of an article are measured. Among ointments the standard is Dr. Chase's. If a dealer tries to sell you any other kind he tries to clinch his argument by saying "This is as good as Dr. Chase's."

Don't be satisfied with substitutes or imitations, for Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles.

Rev. Wm. Thomas, Bowmanville, Ont., writes: "As a man of seventy years I am grateful to God and to Dr. Chase's Ointment for a cure of piles which had caused me endless annoyance and much misery. The itching and burning was almost beyond endurance, but Dr. Chase's Ointment brought quick relief, and as the trouble has not returned, I have reason to believe that the cure is lasting."

Mr. Duncan MacVicar, Caledonia Mines, N.S., writes: "For a number of years I have been troubled with bleeding and protruding piles. I tried several salves and ointments, which only afford me temporary relief. Sometimes I would be laid off from work for weeks. One day last winter one of your books came into my hands, and after reading the testimonials of Mr. Donald MacLean, of Talbot Vale, N.S., and Rev. S. A. Duprau, of Belleville, Ont., I decided to give Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using two boxes of this ointment I found myself completely cured. What I suffered from that awful disease would fill a big book. You are at liberty to publish this, as it may be the means of convincing some poor sufferer, such as I was, that there is a cure for piles. To all sufferers from piles in any form I would recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only cure."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box of his remedies. 12

An Involved Decision.

The magistrates of Freemantle, the principal port of Western Australia, have given a new and interesting decision in reference to stowaways, says The London Daily Chronicle. Five of these free trippers were brought to the bar and fined £3 each. Of course, they had not the wherewithal to pay, and the prosecuting lawyer asked for the alternative imposition of imprisonment. But the magistrates declined, unless the captain of the steamship would guarantee the cost of the maintenance of the men in jail. This he naturally refused to do, whereupon the stowaways were set free. The magistrates stated that stowaways are punished in the interests of shipping companies, and therefore these latter should bear the cost. They also expressed the opinion that vessels should be more diligently searched for stowaways before leaving port. The present practice of allowing crowds of friends of passengers to remain on board until almost the last minute facilitated the operations of stowaways.

Lifebuoy Soap—disinfectant—is strongly recommended by the medical profession as a safeguard against infectious diseases.

BOTH GETTING READY.

Turkish Troops Skilfully Disposed For Quick Blow.

London, Sept. 28.—While there is little fresh news to-day from the Balkans, it appears from the despatches received here that both Turkey and Bulgaria are actively preparing for the possibility of war. The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Monastir comments upon the skilful disposition of the Turkish troops delivering a quick blow against either Servia or Bulgaria. There are 10,000 soldiers in the vilayet of Kossova; 70,000 men with 300 guns at Adrianople vilayet; 50,000 in Monastir vilayet and 170,000 in Salonica, the last mentioned force forming a huge reserve.

Bulgarians Active.

Philippopolis, Bulgaria, Sept. 28.—A visit to the base camps of this division of the Bulgarian army at Tirnove and Selmen yesterday showed that the sappers and miners are rapidly preparing for war. Work on the bridges across the Maritz River and the roads and forts in the vicinity is in active progress.

New Oil Well.

Chatham, Sept. 28.—The Kipp Oil Company struck a fine flowing well Saturday morning on the Brown farm, adjoining the Ball farm, on which a well was struck a number of days ago. The new well is as good as the one on the Ball farm. The oil has not a particle of water in it, but plenty of gas, which at present forces the oil out in a stream without any pumping being required.

NINE MEN KILLED.

Train Jumped Trestle Seventy-Five Feet High While Rounding Curve at High Rate of Speed.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 28.—While running at a high rate of speed, the southbound fast mail on the Southern Railway, jumped from a trestle, 75 feet high, half a mile north of Danville, Va., Sunday. Nine of the crew were killed and seven injured.

The trestle where the accident occurred is 500 feet long, and is on a sharp curve. Engineer Brodie, a new man on the division, is said to have approached the curve at a high rate of speed.

The engine had gone about 50 feet on the trestle when it sprang from the track, carrying with it four mail cars and an express car. The trestle, a wooden structure, also gave way for a space of 50 feet. The derailed engine and cars were plunged into a shallow, rocky stream, and reduced to a mass of twisted iron and steel and splintered wood. The dead men were horribly mutilated.

It seemed miraculous that one should have escaped.

All the matter in the express car was practically destroyed excepting six crates of canary birds, none of which was hurt.

Killed a Policeman.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Policeman Dennis Fitzgerald was shot and fatally wounded early Saturday by one of two negroes whom he had stopped. While he was talking to the men, one of them struck him in the face with a pair of brass knuckles, beat him with his own club, and finally shot him with his own revolver.

Three Brothers to Die.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Preparations for the execution of the three Van Wormer brothers at Clinton prison, Dannemora, Oct. 1, are under way. It is probable that the first of the trio will be brought to the chair at 11.40, and it is believed that all three can be put to death in 10 or 15 minutes.

Next Year in Frisco.

Baltimore, Sept. 28.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge of Oddfellows adjourned sine die on Saturday to meet next year in San Francisco. O. L. Lewis of Chatham, Ont., was elected a member of a special committee to prepare a code of rules governing appeals.

Manitoba Fatalities.

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—Wm. Packard, an elderly man, was found in a dying condition at Carberry last evening, and expired shortly after reaching the hospital. According to his story he was seized with cramps on Wednesday evening, and crawled into a hayloft, where he emerged himself in the hay. He remained there all day Thursday, too weak to call anyone. Yesterday morning his cries attracted attention. His two sons, John and Sidney Packard, reside in Galt, Ontario.

Arthur Reid, a C. P. R. mechanic, was found dead on Logan avenue Thursday night. An inquest will be held.

Big Order For Cars.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Orders were placed Friday with the C.P.R. for $956,000 worth of rolling stock. This is the largest order ever given at one time by an American road. They will be built at the Hochelaga shops here. The order is for five diners, 15 sleepers, 25 first-class passenger coaches, 35 tourist cars and six suburban cars.

Trouble at Bluefields.

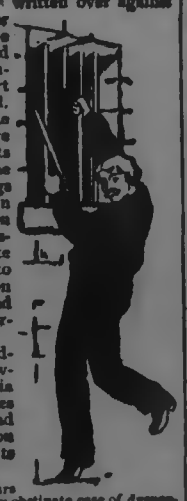
THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail is by no means free. He is under the ban of the law and punishment is written over against his name. Soon or late he will be caught again and bear added punishment for his short escape from his cell.



Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner. Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. R. Record, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep or follow my occupation (tinsmith). Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

The home-warming which introduces your friends to your new home will be one of genuine congratulation if the home-warming system you have installed has an at its heart, and Oxford Radiators dispensing healthful warmth throughout your home.

This boiler has been brought to such a high state of perfection that it utilizes all the heat generated, and the fire chamber is so built that no ashes can lodge around the grate, thus giving a most complete combustion and getting all the heating qualities out of the coal used.

This illustration is of one of the water sections and shows how water is circulated. The water post connecting the sections is cast solid on the section, thus absolutely preventing expansion cracks. Great care is also exercised in making efficient joints between the sections.

Long Fight Ended.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 26.—The long fight of the Brockville, Westport and Sault Ste. Marie Railroad has ended, and the title of the New York syndicate has been confirmed by an Act incorporating the Brockville, Westport and Northwestern Railway Company, to operate a road from the Thousand Islands to the Upper Lakes, with a bridge over the St. Lawrence River at Brockville. Construction and labor creditors of the old company, whose claims amount to about $200,000, will receive 25 per cent. of their original claims, when the unearned subsidy is re-voted and earned by the new company.

Advantage All Round.

London, Sept. 26.—(C.A.P.)—Robert Blatchford, one of the most influential of socialist writers, writing to The Clarion on the fiscal question, says: "Supposing that Canada can supply all the wheat we require, in that case we may tax American wheat, and then America must pay the amount of the tax to the advantage of our exchequer or lose our trade. If she gave up our trade it would mean that the wheat trade of Russia and America would pass to Canada. This would benefit Canada, would be an advantage, strategically, to us and would not make the least difference in the price of the English loaf."

Mr. Preston's Denial.

London, Sept. 26.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. W T. R. Preston is cabling Sir Wilfrid Laurier, denying any truth in the report cabled to Canada that he had been sued by an employment bureau for the expenses of the miners sent to take the place of strikers at the coal mines in British Columbia. Mr. Preston says that owing to the reports of labor troubles in British Columbia, he merely warned the miners against emigrating to that particular district.

Locked Sheriff in Cell.

Elmira, N.Y., Sept. 28.—Since last June the county jail has held a prisoner styled John Doe, arrested for burglary. Last night the sheriff went to look him up in his cell and failed to see the man, who stood back in a dark corner. To make sure that he was safe the sheriff entered the cell, when the prisoner suddenly slipped out, locked the sheriff in and made his escape.

WILD PIGEONS.

What Has Become of These Birds?—Once Were Plentiful Here.

For years I have read every article I have seen written on this subject, writes Dr. Harrington in Toronto Star, but there seems to be no one who can furnish any definite information on this subject. I have been very enthusiastic in my enquiries, and can only give you the theories that I have heard. I remember, as if it were yesterday, the last flight of pigeons. It began at dawn, and continued throughout the whole day, lessening as evening approached. In every direction flocks of varying sizes could be seen, all taking a northerly course. It was a glorious April day, and that photographic impression has never left me. Some flocks would alight for a short time, and then continue their northward flight. Some of these flocks were very large. Where these millions of birds went no one seems to have any idea, and no one regrets it more than I do, for I loved these beautiful creatures, and one of the saddest things I ever did was to kill one of these pigeons in 1889, as it was flying across a roadway near Burk's Falls. It was a female bird, and possibly the only one in that part of the country. The theories I have heard propounded are very unsatisfactory. Some say that they were driven out over the ocean by a terrific wind storm, and all drowned and their bodies eaten by the fishes. Others say that a plague completely exterminated them. This latter theory seems possible. Mr. George H. Orr tells me that he saw large numbers of them in Mexico a few years ago. However, they cannot be anything like the numbers that they used to be here, and besides, why do they not come back to visit us again? In 1890, I saw a number of them exposed for sale in London, Eng., and on enquiry ascertained that they had been imported from Russia. Probably the middle portion of Russia and Siberia harbors them, and gives them suitable environments.

Mr. Goss says that in 1891 the passenger pigeon was still to be found in numbers in the Indian Territory, and portions of the Southern States. In 1895 several were seen in Lincoln Park, Chicago. I would like to hear any other theories, and I believe some one will explain the mystery some time, and no one will be more interested than I will, for the gypsy or passenger pigeon was the one fond love of my boyhood days.

For years there were queries about where the antlers of deers go to when shed, as they are rarely found in the woods. Mr. Milford Wilcox of Toronto found a single antler in the woods near Lake Nipissing, which he had photographed and published in Recreation, showing the marks of mice teeth in the horn, some portions of which were entirely eaten away by these rodents, thus showing one reason why these antlers are seldom found.

Redmond and the Peers.

William Redmond's humorous and pointed interjections are becoming quite a feature of Parliamentary life. The House of Commons was favored recently with another laughable interruption from Mr. Redmond. Just before the House adjourned an Irish member managed to move the second reading of the "Town Tenants Bill."

Thereupon a member rose to speak upon the bill. The member succeeded in speaking for many minutes without saying anything, much to the disappointment of the Irish members, and started to conclude his remarks with the words, "For these reasons, Mr. Speaker—" when Mr. Redmond interrupted, amid a roar of laughter, with "They ought to send you to the House of Lords."

Sales to noon, 545,000.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co. have received the following:

We have experienced a very weak market this morning. There is danger of the market being oversold. It would not surprise me to see shorts badly twisted before the close.—W. B. Spaider, 12.00 noon.

The market seems to be steadying up a little. There has been very little selling all morning which lasted till noon. Several of the better class of railroad stocks as well as tractions and industrials have made new low records for the year. Should this pressure continue the market may become oversold and a stiff rally take place. To us it looks as though the whole list might be scraping on bottom for the time being at least. Taking this into consideration, we think the better class of securities may now be bought for a turn, to be sold again should the market turn stronger. Among the best we will recommend C.P.R. Erie, B.R.T.—Town Topics.

An extract from Henry Clewes & Co's weekly review of the financial situation says:

Wall Street is still in a pessimistic mood and much more sensitive to unfavourable than favourable developments. Bad news almost invariably brings out fresh selling movements, while good news fails to stimulate buying. Although these tendencies are a disappointment to those who believe recent declines have amply discounted all adverse conditions, the main sources of weakness are not surprising, being still confined to Wall street proper and not outside of it. The decline in steel securities, for instance, has been vastly more due to the necessities of certain holders than to any reaction, present or prospective, in the steel trade; popular opinion notwithstanding. A great deal of weakness has also been attributed to apprehensions concerning the harvest, the monetary situation and the probability of a business reaction, while there is a striking disposition to overlook the fact that some of these dangers are already practically over and that others have been thoroughly anticipated.

The prophets of evil are now actively engaged preaching business reaction. Such may, no doubt, be expected, in a reasonable degree, but it is well to bear in mind that no such excesses have occurred in the commercial world as were so disastrous to the financial community. While industry and trade must inevitably share the financial reaction, there is no reason for expecting the same degree of depression in the former as has been endured in the latter. Depression is always the after-effect of overdoing or overproduction, and when the industrial markets become as surfeited with goods as the financial markets were with securities then we may expect serious reaction in general business. As it is, the latter is suffering chiefly from sympathy with Wall street, and also from high costs of production. The first cause affects new enterprises, of which we were having rather too many, and the second is largely due to the labour movement. Every day it is becoming more and more aparent that industry is being checked by high-priced raw materials and labour; for consumers cannot afford present high prices, and some form of readjustment will have to take place before the equilibrium between supply and demand is restored to normal. This is not an immediate contingency, but it is one to be kept in sight; one to be anticipated not with fear but satisfaction as an aproach to a more normal and substantial basis than we have been working under for the last two or three years.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

SPRINTING.

The 100 yds. race between Belland and Knox to be run at the Turf Club track on Oct. 15th, Thanksgiving Day, promises to be the most interesting sporting event held in a long time. Knox is said to be very fast, but Belland should win out if he displays the speed which he is known to possess. Knox was beaten in Montreal a few days ago in 10 1-5 sec. for a 100 yds. dash.

• • • •

At the M.A.A.A. handicap races at Westmount, Montreal, Saturday, Mr. F. McGrath won three medals in three different events.

RUGBY.

A public meeting of the City League will be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours at eight o'clock this evening. All interested are asked to be present.

• • • •

All players are reminded of the practice at the rink to-night at 7.30.

• • • •

While the Rugby situation looked at from the Toronto standpoint, may not be very encouraging, there seems no reason to hold pessimistic opinions in regard to the local situation. There were never more Rugby clubs in town, and the enthusiasm being displayed by the players is a sure indication of the fact that the game is not dead by any means. The practices are being well attended, and the new rules are being assimilated by the players. The Britannias had a good practice on Saturday afternoon and the rink has been secured for practices by the senior team.

• • • •

Writing on the Rugby situation, the Toronto News of Saturday says: "A few weeks ago the prospects for one of the best seasons in the history of the Association were of the very brightest, but since that time matters have so developed that the football situation has not a very bright outlook, and it is now up to the Executive of the Union to see how the trouble is. Before the schedule was drawn up, it was thought that there would be eight senior teams, but this has dwindled down to four. The first to drop out was the champion Rough Riders of Ottawa. The cause given by them was that they were placed in a district with weak teams, while both the Toronto teams were placed in a different district. In losing the Rough Riders the O.R.F.U. have lost one of their best drawing cards, as the Ottawa team always attracted a large crowd at any of their games here. It is a regretful fact that the Ottawa team are not competing for the Ontario championship this season. The next team to drop out of the senior series was that of Peterborough, this club claiming that there was not enough local interest to support a senior team. This left Limestones alone in the Eastern District of the O.R.F.U. schedule, and it did not take long for them to follow the example set by the other two clubs and withdraw from the Union. Last night the fourth team, the Argonauts, made public a statement that they would also retire unless the Executive Committee of the O.R.F.U. reconsidered their decision in reinstating Green of Hamilton, and Morrison of Toronto. Manager Thompson, of the Argonauts, was seen today, and stated when asked if the club would stick to their decision, that they never made a statement, and went back on it. Manager Thompson said he objected strenuously to the reinstatement of Green, and that if Morrison was reinstated that in his opinion Peel, of London, should also be taken back, as both these players are under the ban for the same reason."

BASEBALL.

The Senior Separate School team defeated the Young Quakers at the Separate School grounds on Saturday afternoon by a score of 3—1. The batteries were Bellaghem and McFadden and Swanson and Guerin.

• • • •

The Eastern League season ended on Saturday with Jersey City leading by nearly 100 points; Buffalo finished second, having two points above Toronto. Both teams played a double header on Saturday, and both won. The Baltimore team, against which the Buffalos played on Saturday, practically gave the games away, which placed Buffalo in second place.

LACROSSE.

The final game for the intermediate C.L.A. championship is being played at Tottenham this afternoon between Fergus and Orillia. The Telegram sizes up the teams in the following terms:—"Fergus will close up the town on Monday and the population will accompany the Thistles to Tottenham in the fond hope of seeing them land the C.L.A. intermediate championship for a second time. And unless Orillia is a dark horse very much after the style of Claude, the Thistles should win. However, their defence wants to have a care in the first quarter. Orillia are a young team and can go the distance."

TURF.

As a live sporting organization the Peterborough Turf Club is hard to beat, and the part which the Club took in making the Peterborough Industrial Fair a success, was no inconsiderable one. The races, which proved the most attractive feature of the Fair, were run under Turf Club management, and the use of the grounds, which belong to the Club, were given to the Fair Association without charge. The officials of the Club express gratification at the success which attended the Fair this year, and look for even greater successes in coming years.

LATEST FASHION NOTES.

LONG COAT OF BLACK TAFFETA.

This long coat of black taffeta is lined to the waist with white taffeta, and unlined from the waist down. The three capes are unlined and are most effectively stitched with white Corticelli stitching silk. The front can be left fly open or closed, giving the garment a semi-tight appearance. A handsome finish is given to the fronts which are faced with four inch bands of taffeta covered with cream tinted lace. A cord and tassel tied in a knot finishes the neck, which has a standing collar which slopes down at the front.

Capes on long coats are very smart just now, double and often triple capes appearing just below the velvet collar. The coats are very carefully fitted about the shoulders although for the rest they seem somewhat shapeless. The capes are often faced with silk, sometimes white with black dots and sometimes a solid colour with white dots. These coats are often of white, or of tan, or of dark blue, and are very useful as well as smart.

Gallia Breaks Her Shaft.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 26.—The steamer Gallia of the Franco-American Line arrived here Sunday afternoon in tow of the oil steamer Nantasket. The Gallia had a shaft broken on Thursday in a moderate gale, 150 miles southeast of this port. Her low pressure cyclinder, was also damaged. The Gallia had 500 emigrants on board.

Town Under Martial Law—Riot Act Read and the Mob Advised to Disperse—Windows Broken and Other Destruction Wrought—Street Cars and Ferry Boats Tied Up—Fighting the Police.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 29.—The mob spirit of the bushmen is running riot in the Canadian Soo. Troops are out. Martial law has been proclaimed and the two elements are contending with violence for control of the city. Yesterday was replete with scenes of violence and a thousand disorderly characters were racing through the streets last night threatening to use dynamite and loot the place.

Two rioters shot down in the streets by the police, twenty persons injured more or less seriously by flying missiles, the magnificent administration building of the Clergue Works wrecked as completely as if swept by cyclonic force, and the ferry and street railway and pulp works forced to suspend through threats of violence, are some of the drastic events of the day.

More troops were expected from Sudbury last night and from Toronto to-day, as the militia are wholly inadequate in the meantime, for even the rioters laugh at the soldiers and defy them.

"Shoot to Kill" Orders.

A conservative estimase is one of dismal aspect. Municipal authorities hours ago ceased their lenient measures and on every side the rioters are confronted with "Shoot to kill" orders. Police and soldiers carry ball cartridge. During the forenoon the police fraternized with the rough characters and endeavored to handle them without force. They wanted the cars stopped and Mayor Plummer ordered the power off. The ringleaders insisted that the ferry should not operate and the connections between the two cities are cut off.

The men declared the International Hotel, Pulp Works and any other industries controlled by the Algoma Commercial Company and bringing in revenue should be closed. At the same time they made a bold attack on the Minnie M., with the avowed purpose of capturing the vessel. This was frustrated by the captain backing out into the stream with several of the rioters aboard. Then all restraint was cast off and a reign of terror followed. These violent scenes were the immediate consequences of the statement of the company that they could not pay the time cheques, as Manager Coyne had faithfully promised.

Cursing Bushmen.

The street scenes were rough before that, but the disorderly crowd reached riotous proportions instantly. The great administration building of the Consolidated Company was surrounded by a thousand hooting, cursing bushmen, when several dozen copies of the statement were handed out from Manager Coyne. Some were drunk, but the majority were sober. Instantly they became a seething mass of destructive animals, apparently determined to even break up the granite blocks composing the big buildings.

The big rough woodmen, with their hats off and matted hair, stringing out in the wind, raced around the buildings seeking missiles with which to hurl at the windows. The white faces of the clerks could be seen as they hurriedly gathered at different points on the inside, some held pistols in their trembling hands. A dozen police stood outside and witnessed the destructive efforts of the disappointed workmen and were hustled here and there as they stood in the way of the mad throng. They were armed, but they were too wise to resort to retaliatory measures.

The Saloons Closed.

From all parts the mob gathered recruits, those coming from remote sections being inflamed by exaggerated reports of the work of the police as they approached. A hasty telephone to the police station and Mayor Plummer began to prepare for emergencies. Specials were sworn in and the saloons closed. Part of the mob divided and rushed to the passing cars. Obstructions were piled on the track and the employes made no resistance. As if intoxicated with their new power, several hundred rushed to the ferry landing. The big boat shied off and tied up on the Michigan side.

Hundreds crossed in skiffs to witness the terrible scenes. With noon the men seemed to grow more desperate. Few had slept in beds for days, and many had eaten nothing since yesterday. Some stepped into stores and helped themselves. The people were too scared to resist. The report had gone abroad of the looting last night of Mayor Plummer's store of guns and revolvers and a huge supply of ammunition. These weapons were believed to be in the possession of the mob ready for use if provoked. Gradually the riotous proceedings increased in proportions. The attack in real earnest was being arranged on the administration building.

Mayor Read Riot Act.

The authorities decided to act. Magistrate Quibell appeared on the steps of the company paymaster's building. With him was Mayor Plummer, who tried to speak. The men cursed and hooted; the air was thick with flying things. Hastily the magistrate read the Riot Act, dodging sundry stones and bricks in the meantime. His agility amazed

TROOPS FOR THE SOO BY SPECIAL TRAIN.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 29.—At 11.40 a.m. a special train with 210 men and officers—70 from each of the three city regiments the Queen's Own, the Highlanders' and the Grenadiers, left for the "Soo," and are expected to reach there within 14 hours. Major Mercer, of the Q.O.R., as senior officer was in command and the other officers were,—Queen's Own, Capt. Barker, Lieut. Ogilvie; Royal Grenadier, Capt. Mackay, Capt. Shanley and Lieut. Porter. The special train which left at 4 a.m. took 60 men of the regular force, 33 dragoons with horses, Capt. Straubenzie in command, with Lieut. Bowen as second, and 27 infantrymen in command of Major Carpenter and Capt. Leduc, the whole under Col. Buchan.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 29th.—Everything is quiet at the Soo to-day. Woodsmen and miners throng the streets and are acting peaceably. Four hundred more men are coming in from the camps to-day, but no trouble is anticipated, as the town has plenty of protection. Alfred Dault, the Frenchman, who was shot by the police yesterday, died to-day.

PRESENTS MAY NOT GO TO ST. LOUIS.

Unwilling to Carry the Jubilee Presents.

American Railways not Eager to Handle Such Valuable Freight.

A peculiar state of affairs has arisen over the transportation of the Queen Victoria Jubilee presents to the St. Louis Fair, and it is just possible these very valuable articles may not be seen at St. Louis after all. The Colonial Office was desirous that the presents should be exhibited in other Canadian cities than Toronto, but His Majesty was anxious that the gifts should be on view at the opening of the St. Louis Fair, so it was decided that they should be packed up, and sent to St. Louis, and the question of their exhibition in other Canadian cities left over for decision until near the close of the Fair.

Since the close of the Toronto Exhibition, workmen have been busy packing the presents, and now all is ready for delivery to the railway for transportation to the metropolis of St. Louis. When, however, Mr. Christie, who is in charge of the presents opened negotiations with the American railways for the carriage of the presents he was met by a refusal of each road running into St. Louis to carry such a precious load, pending satisfactory arrangements for their protection. A consultation was held yesterday with the United States consul, Mr. E. N. Gunsaulus, with a view to arranging with United States troops protecting the treasures during transportation, but no conclusion was arrived at. The authorities of the St. Louis Fair were notified of the position of affairs, but up to a late hour last night they were unable to straighten out the tangle. In the meantime the armed guard keeps watch and ward over the presents, and unless Mr. Christie can have satisfactory arrangements made for their safe transportation the presents will either go back to Britain forthwith or be exhibited in other Canadian cities.

LITERARY SOCIETY OF ST. PETER'S T. A S.

Ladies' Literary Organization Elected Officers.

A meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., was held last evening for the purpose of appointing a committee, and organising the literary work of the coming season. Miss Casey presided during the evening, and after an excellent committee had been formed the meeting resulted in the election of the following officers:

President—Miss Aggie Oahill.
Secretary—Miss O'Connell.
Treasurer—Miss Lillie O'Brien.

The Society opens its new season with every indication of success, and a larger membership, if possible, than that of last year, is expected.

The first literary evening of the season, will be of special interest, as an address will be given by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. The date has been fixed for Friday, October 16th.

SUCCESS OF LINDSAY CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

Many Prizes Come to Peterborough County Exhibitors.

The Lindsay Post says that the Fair held in that town on Friday and Saturday was the greatest ever held, nearly 20,000 persons attended it during the two days, and the exhibits were of a very high order. It is pleasing to note that Peterborough exhibitors were very successful. Mr. Jas Bushell won second prize in a close contest in the single driver class.

In heavy draughts, teams in harness hitched to wagons, Mr. Geo. Ward, of North Monaghan, showed a fine pair of browns, four and five year old and sired by Erskine MacGregor, a noted stallion in Peterborough County. Mr. Thos. Crawford, of Balsover, competed in the same class with a well bred team of bays.

Mr. Geo. Ward, of Peterborough, was a winner of first in one year old heavy draughts.

Miss Hickson, of Renboro, and Mrs. James Bushell, of Peterborough, competed for the prize for the best lady drivers, single horse in harness. Mr. Sinclair, the judge, carefully sized up the various points in the actions of the two drivers as each drove and turned the figure eight. While Miss Hickson looked graceful and drove nicely she was slower in turning than Mrs. Bushell. The latter was awarded first prize and Miss Hickson second.

THE NEW ROAD A BENEFIT.

It is claimed the people of the Canadian Northwest long suffered from an insufficient railway service, the remedy for which now appears to be in sight. As long as there was a monopoly the one railway did not push the work of extension as rapidly as the people wished, but, with the advent of the Canadian Northern, an immediate improvement was seen, and extensions to the value of nine millions and a half dollars were made in one year. The Wall Street Journal attributes this largely increased expenditure to the fact that the Canadian Northern Railway was built, and on the same line of reasoning, the Grand Trunk Pacific will prove a benefit to the west, in the extension of existing railways, in addition to the benefit to the portion of country through which the railway will run. The Wall Street Journal has the following:

"The Canadian Pacific has spent more in improving that section of the line between the great lakes and the Rocky Mountains than it has spent on improvements on the remainder of the line. On the section mentioned the expense has been $1,669,612, while on the remainder of the line the total expenditure was $1,502,985.

The expenses distributed over the system in sections, were as follows:

Quebec to Bonfield...	$ 109,701
Bonfield to Port Arthur... ...	558,610
Montreal terminals...	375,380
Pacific Coast to Laggan	459,264
Total.....	$1,502,985
Port Arthur to Laggan... ...	1,669,612
Total.....	$3,172,597

From this table it appears that 55 per cent. of this expenditure was made on the divisions that cover the prairies. Practically none of it went into Ontario trunk lines. The ex-expenditure at Montreal was for the improvement of the facilities for handling the grain trade that comes from the Northwest. It becomes fairly evident that the granger business of the road is receiving the lion's share of the cash devoted to improvement of facilities.

The expenditures on this prairie division were devoted to improvements very radical in their nature and well calculated to raise the transportation standard of the road. The following details are interesting:

Additional sidings, stations and yards...	$479,870
Permanent bridges, improvement of line...	375,171
Winnipeg terminals	37,385
Wharves, docks, terminals ...	64,131
Coal plant, Fort William ...	162,805
Elevators, Fort William	678,166
Total...	$1,797,978

The expenditure on sidings in this division was called for by the farmers west of Winnipeg. They complained that the road did not afford proper opportunities for loading and that in consequence a great deal of grain was lost last season through the inability of the farmers to get it to the elevators. In that country the winters are too severe for the facilities of the farmers. On new farms the storage facilities themselves are far behind those of the farmers of the older districts. The farmers charged that Canadian Pacific had wasted revenue and entailed loss upon its constituents by this shortage of loading space. Hence the sidings.

There is no doubt that Canadian Northern has done a good deal toward inducing Canadian Pacific to listen to the demands of the Northwest. So long as Canadian Pacific held a monopoly of the transportation business of Manitoba and the northwest, as it did after Northern Pacific gave up its lines, there was much difficulty in getting things done. At present Canadian Northern is more than willing to do for the people whatever they want in reason. Hence Canadian Pacific has grown attentive to the needs of its constituents.

The same thing is true with regard to equipment. The road has supplied the northwest better than ever before with rolling stock. Greater profits have followed the expenditures in every case. The railroad will doubtless reap the reward of its attention to the public demand. There remains, however, plenty of food for reflection in the golden opportunities that the road neglected in the past.

MADE-IN-CANADA.

(Monetary Times.)

"Made-in-Canada," is a phrase which has come up very prominently of late in connection with several functions, and it is a pleasing sign of the times that this should be the case. The day has gone by when Canadians would only wear or make use of articles produced in their own country when there were none other, and better to be had. It is true that there are still people in this country who think it gives a fashionable or superior cast to their custom to ask for imported goods in preference; it is true also that sometimes these same people get, unknown to them, a really Canadian-made article which they give themselves the privilege of paying for at imported rates. Nevertheless, these people are growing rare, and "made-in-Canada" is being rewarded, in constantly increasing measure, with the patronage it increasingly deserves.

But there is another side to the story. Patriotic purchasing and loyalty to Canadian industries are all very well, but in order to wear well, they have to be backed up by quality; not only ordinary to fair, but by best quality. We are fully aware that Canadian manufacturers, many of them, have now brought their knowledge and their methods to such a pitch that they can well afford to invite comparison, in their best lines, with the productions of the best masters of their various arts in the world. But the cry must ever be "forward." There are keen competitors, and some of them have superior advantages. The United States for example has an immense home market which, owing to the cheapening of production caused by a proportionately large demand, makes it profitable to the manufacturer to add an absolutely perfect finish to his goods; in such a large population, too, the fountain of inventions and improved processes is perennial. We as a people have perhaps inherited the Britisher's fault of resting on our oars, of leaving well enough alone, forgetting that standing as we are is equivalent to falling back. "Made-in-Canada," therefore should be a phrase meaning the best—and cheapest that can be found; which, alas, is often far from being the actual fact.

We make these remarks in no disparaging spirit, but rather with a view to encourage still more strenuous efforts. None will admit more readily than ourselves the wonderfull progress which has been made in Canadian manufactures during recent years, and none can more heartily subscribe to the doctrine contained in those three words which rightly interpreted, mean so much to the future development of this Dominion. But because we are such believers in our own possibilities is precisely the reason that we speak of the room for improvement. A certain point of vantage reached, it is not well to waste too much time looking back and exclaiming "behold, see the distance we have come." Rather should we cast our eyes forward and husband our strength for the journey yet ahead. There should be a limit to the habit of clapping oneself on the back, even though this be pleasant. Mr. Preston recently called down a good deal of animadversion upon his head because, seeing that Canadian butter shipped to Britain was not so good as that of some other countries, he had the temerity to say so. But was not such an action more likely to lead to future perfection than if he had taken the easier course of leaving his fellow countrymen in a fool's paradise of self-complaisancy, which leads to nowhere except commercial extinction. Made-in-Canada should mean not a more passably good article, but equal to the very best that can be made.

MERIT MAKES IT FAMOUS.

The study of physicians, the experiments of chemists, the loudly advertised pretensions of quacks, have been for years expended in one direction; to find a pile cure that would cure.

The results have been a number of harmless and in most cases useless ointments, suppositories and even internal remedies, which the public have weighed in the balance of experience and found wanting; nearly all of them gave some relief, but nothing approaching a radical cure resulted from these preparations.

The remedy required is one which will immediately stop the pain so severe in many cases of piles, and then by contracting the small blood-vessels (capillaries) to their normal size, produces a radical cure by reducing and finally absorbing the tumors and healing the inflamed, raw mucous surfaces.

Until a few years ago, no such remedy had been produced, but at that time a suppository was placed upon the market, which has since proven itself to be the long-sought permanent cure for this common and distressing trouble; it has rapidly become famous throughout the United States and Canada, and is now sold by all druggists under the name of Pyramid Pile Cure.

It is now the best known, because its merit and safety have advertised it wherever used. It has been advertised by word of mouth, from one sufferer to another; people who have tried everything else, even submitting to painful and dangerous surgical operations without avail have finally found that piles can be cured without pain and without expense practically, as the pyramid Pile Cure is sold for the nominal price of 50 cents and $1.00 per package.

The Pyramid instantly stops all pain and at the same time contains no cocaine, morphine or narcotics; the acids and healing properties contained in the remedy speedily remove, cause a healthful, natural contraction and absorbtion of the tumors. It will cure any form of rectal trouble except cancer and advanced fistula, which, by the way nearly always results from neglecting proper and timely treatment for piles.

MONTREAL GETS THE BUSINESS

American newspapers in New York, Chicago, Boston, and other cities, are much worked up over the success of Montreal in capturing so large a share of the grain export trade. The "American Elevator and Grain Trade," frankly admits this, which some papers do not, and says why grain comes this way. The effect of the abolition of tolls on the Canadian canals on the export grain trade has been remarked ever since the opening of navigation, but especially since the first of August, when corn began to take the Montreal route in quantity. For the week ending August 22nd like shipments to Montreal aggregated no less than a million bushels. In fact the bulk of the export sale went out via Montreal and Quebec, and at rates that would not have been thought possible previous to this season; that is to say, 2 1-2 cents Chicago to Quebec, against 6 cents as the lowest lake and rail rate to New York or Boston. In consequence, up to Aug. 1st, Montreal handled 9,000,000 bushels of wheat and 4,500,000 bushels of corn for the season, as against 1,000,000 bushels of wheat and 4,000,000 bushels of corn via Boston.

There are now one American and two Canadian lines regularly engaged in the long hauls from Chicago and Duluth to the Canadian deep-water ports. The Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River Transportation Company, operating ten new steel Welland-canal-size steamers, is the American line, and the Montreal Transportation Company and Canadian Lakes and Ocean Navigation Company, operate the Canadian boats. The latter run between Fort William and Port Arthur and Montreal and Quebec.

The new route not only interferes with the calculations of the railroad combinations between Buffalo and other Lake Erie ports and the seaboard, but is also cutting heavily in the all-rail and lake-and-rail business to the seaboard, and bids fair to call for a new basis all round. The poor facilities offered by the Erie Canal and the high rates charged by the rail routes that compete with it, have diverted and immense quantity of business to the northern route. The latter has an additional advantage also in that it transfers grain from the lake vessel direct to the ocean liner. — Chronicle

A SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

Bruce Gordon Fourth Victim of Accident at Hay Bay.

Napanee, Sept. 29.—A fatal gunning occurred on Saturday morning last at Hay Bay, about twelve miles from Napanee, when Bruce Gordon, only son of George Gordon of Napanee, lost his life. The young man who was but 19 years of age was out for a day's duck hunting, and upon sighting a duck drew his shot gun by the barrel toward him. The trigger caught on the seat of the boat and the contents of the gun were discharged, entering the young man's body above the groin. He lingered until Sunday evening. The remains were brought to Napanee yesterday. This makes the fourth gun accident at this point within the last year, two were fatal and two caused the loss of arms.

TROUBLE BREWS FOR MR. WHITNEY

Complaint That Party Funds Have Been Squandered.

MANY THOUSANDS WASTED.

Younger Element Demand an Inquiry —Want to Know Where Money has Gone.

(London Advertiser.)

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Time and time again Mr. Whitney, the Opposition leader in Ontario, is urged to find out who squandered the funds collected to help the party into power. To all these requests he turns a deaf ear. It is well known that during Birmingham's illness in 1898,1899 and 1900, immense funds were squandered to no purpose, and, worse than all, no accounting has ever been given of these vast sums. Repeated warnings and mutterings have gone unheeded, but the united voice of the workers was heard, feebly, of course, in London recently, in the opinions expressed there by the western Conservatives, with reference to sawing off protests without any regard to the political situation in the ridings affected. Several thousands of dollars have been "devoted" to protestings seats without any of the desired results being obtained. As an instance of this, after the elections of 1902, a protest was entered against the return of A.G. MacKay, M.P.P., and $7,000 of "good Conservative money" was wasted to no purpose. When the case was called, the Opposition had no charge to press.

The only thing they had was that of a livery bill, the payment of which was technically illegal. On this Mr. MacKay resigned, and all the other charges were dismissed. For the outlay of $7,000, all the Conservative party got was an exaggerated and falsified report of a statement made by the junior judge of the county of Grey, when recounting the ballots cast in the north riding election contest. In the bye-election that followed, Mr. MacKay was returned by a very large majority, but still his opponents pursued him, and an action for libel was brought against him, because he dared to describe the conduct of some of his opponents. The result of the trial was the unanimous dismissal of the case by the jury.

When thousands upon thousands of dollars are thus expended to no purpose, it is no wonder that the Opposition are getting restless with reference to the funds.

The Dominion Conservatives have cut loose from Mr. Whitney's organization, and his forces will only be allowed to work when instructed to do so. They will, however, be on hand at the next provincial contest, but in the meantime those who have handled his organization in the ridings want to know how it was that men who did nothing of the heavy work were given the protest work and the handling of large sums.

In the fall of 1900, Mr. Whitney was forcibly reminded of this. The party organizers fought hard to capture the county of Welland in the bye-election, but they did not receive that "warm sympathy" which they expected. A rift in the lute was then made, and the Whitney organization got more and more out of tune, until at last it decided to take a rest until after the next Dominion election. Disappointed though they were over the Welland election, the central association officers promised Mr. Whitney to stand by him until after the provincial general elections. In fact they insisted on giving him their aid even though he thought he could get along without them. He was finally talked out of this notion, but failure followed, and again those who were waiting for protest funds were consulted, with the result that very many thousands of dollars were fruitlessly wasted.

Those who are desirous for the party's success are now demanding that Mr. Whitney should appoint someone to find out what sums were expended, to what purpose they were devoted, and who the persons are who profitted at the party's expense. If all this is shown up, bygones will be bygones, and the Ontario Conservatives will be united at the next provincial general election, as they never were before. If this is not done, however, there will be plain speaking, and a new and younger element will take hold and manage things differently to what has been the policy during the past six years.

A RIOT AT THE SOO.

the mob and they ceased cursing to laugh at the antics of the officer. As they hesitated, the fire department dashed around the avenue and a brave effort was made to connect with outside hydrants.

At the same time the big door of the paymaster's building was suddenly thrown open and nozzles of hose poured a volume of water on the struggling crowds. They were jammed in so close that many fell inside the building as the doors were dashed open. Instantly the spectacle of dozens of their members being hurled into the street by the company's improvised battering ram seemed to madden them beyond all previous bounds. The choicest collection of bricks, stones, bits of iron and lumber immediately filled the air, the entire assortment being directed toward the windows of the building in the rear.

Stuck in a Window.

The female stenographers were hastily rescued and rushed aboard a boat. A moment later their exit was discovered by the wild cheering crowd, because General Auditor C. P. Worthington, a man of mighty girth and of three hundred avoirdupois, got stuck while crawling thru a window. His yells brought down the bushmen, but he escaped into the steel works. The firemen were attacked with such vigor that the aid of the few police alone saved them from outright murder. All the hose were cut.

The workmen had long since passed the bounds where they recognised fine displays of courage, or the daring resistance of Fireman Dick Pringle would have appealed to their best instincts. Knocked down by a bolt as he turned the hose on the mob, Pringle sprang up to defend himself. He is a veteran of Hearts River, and his mettle was tested. A brawny sawyer struck the young fellow with a club. He sprang back into the building crying for a revolver.

Shot at Close Quarters.

"I won't stand this from any man, give me a revolver," was his reply to the warning not to be the first to shoot. Some one passed a little pistol into the frenzied man's hands, and regardless of the showers of stones Dick Pringle jumped out of the door, pressed the weapon against the body of the man who had struck him and repeatedly fired. The heavy coat of the workman saved him from serious harm, and dashing the useless revolver into the man's face Pringle swung at his head with a timber he jerked from a man nearby. Policeman John Groocott went to his rescue, but he was badly cut and beaten, being under the heels of a dozen of the screaming bushmen for several minutes.

In the meantime several clerks fled into the crowd, the officers and clerks took refuge in the cupola of the building and left the lower portion to the infuriated mob. Manager Coyne's white face could be seen peering anxiously from the top window, and was greeted with a shower of stones on every occasion. After an hour's attack the most turbulent characters in the crowd drifted aimlessly down into the city half a mile distant. There were enough left, however, to keep the prisoners in fear of their lives.

17-Year Old Boy Shot.

Then the whole city was introduced to the strenuous scenes that had mostly been confined to the big buildings. The police went to the Queen's Hotel to arrest several ringleaders, whom they had located. Here was enacted the most tragic affair of the day—the shooting of a seventeen-year-old boy fatally, and the serious wounding of an older member of the mob. It is a curious feature of the day's many battles that the young French-Canadians were pronounced to be the hardest fighters. So it proved with young Dault. The police were not after him, but at the hotel arrested, among others, Grenier, his chum, a man of 35.

It is a tradition of the bush that these rough characters never desert their chums, and Dault was true to the unwritten law of the lumber camp. Police Constables Wilson, Graham and Groocott were together in making the arrests. From the Queen's Hotel to the lockup is two blocks. A fierce fight started at the hotel door when the men were arrested and continued out into the street, and all the way to the station. Sometimes the officers were in the dirt buried under so many huge French-Canadians. The police could not be seen. Then they would emerge from the tangle of legs and arms only to be again swept from their feet by the deluge.

Apparently it occurred to all three of the officers about the same time that it was a fight for life for the big revolvers began to bark simultaneously. For a moment the fighting lumbermen were surprised, then they sprang forward again as they saw each officer dragging along one of their men as prisoners. Grocott held Grenier. Dault made for him with a stone and hurled it at his head, long since denuded of the helmet of his office. The missile missed, but crashed thru a window. These bushmen are terribly accustomed with donnicks and another and another followed from the young fellow.

Dault's Neck Pierced.

One struck the officer. He raised his revolver and fired into the youth's face. Dault dodged, and, nothing daunted, threw again and knocked down his man. At the same time Grocott fired point blank and the darting youngster threw his hand to his head and whirled round several times and sank dying on the sidewalk, blood flowing from two streams from his neck. Over on the sidewalk his chum was down with a bullet thru his leg. The officers shot at every figure in sight, and with reinforcements they carried man after man to jail until fifteen were locked up, the most desperate aggregation to be found in the street.

The two wounded men were taken hurriedly to the hospital. Dault is not yet dead, but his throat and neck are pierced completely. His companion in jail is covered with blood and grime, and his clothes are nearly torn off. For hours their companions surged around the jail, determined to tear it to pieces. They were encouraged from within by the cries of the men who climbed up to the windows and pressed their faces against the glass. Their appearance was hideous and their yells could be heard for blocks.

Militia Summoned.

This desperate battle in the centre of the city decided the authorities to demand protection of troops. As early at 1 o'clock Major Elliott had been warned that his forces might be called on. Forty members of Co. 1. 97th Regiment, were hastily summoned. Sergts. Faulken, Treurner and Johnston were in charge. Not all of the men were in uniform. They are volunteers and but mere boys. Some were even in knee pants, but their service rifles and their determined attitude in forcing back the hooting crowd indicated their mettle. With the frantic calls for troops to save the lives of Manager Coyne and his officials at the headquarters building, and the shooting in the street, the troops were rushed out.

They came down the avenue on the double quick, and half were left at Barnes' Hall, where many of the woodmen congregate. The balance were sent over to the paymaster's office. They got there just in time for the mob had broken inside the building and were tearing everything to pieces. The men in cupola were really in desperate straits, FOR THE MOB WAS BENT ON MURDER. There was no mistaking their passion by that time. A dozen stalwart sawyers were armed with terrible engines of destruction in the form of big rocks tied at the end of ropes four feet long. The rope had been cut from the dilapidated deadline the company thought they had drawn around the building. With these the men could stand off ten feet and burst a steel door. Thus were the front doors battered down. They worked in relays as if they were in camp. Their pants were rolled up to their knees, for the mud was everywhere, the rain falling fast.

Striking and Breaking.

Just as the white helmets of the guards appeared half a mile away, the doors gave way. In rushed the howling bunch striking and breaking as they went from room to room. They raced from end to end of the big building. Steel engravings of priceless value, rosewood desks and costly chandeliers was broken into bits, the interior resembling more a stable than a modern business office. One half drunken man rushed from the door as the cry of troops was heard with a big picture frame around his neck, from which he had torn a costly painting. This was the way vandals went thru the administration building of the big Clergue works.

Magistrate Quibbell stepped out again with the Riot Act in his hand. He delivered an address to the men before reading the act, in which he said the company could not pay the men, but had set aside the big white house for them to sleep in and would feed them at the International Hotel. This put the men in good spirits, and they gave three cheers for the King with right good grace. Still they did not give way when the troops made ready to fire. Their failure encouraged them and a big sawyer, coatless and hatless, and with the rope and rock with which he had been helping sack the building still in his hand, sprang up on a box and declared the men were hungry and had been treated like dogs and he for one would as soon be shot dead as starved to death. The men yelled approvingly.

Rushed to Powder Magazine.

He would not move, and the troops could shoot him, but they would have to drag his body away, for he would not. This energetic resistance put new spirit into the raging band, but few stones were thrown. No shots were fired, tho evidently the mob was ready to use firearms for several had them in their hands and others carried them exposed to view in their pockets. Major Elliott passed around taking names for prosecution, but they taunted him and threatened to burn the building under his nose. A detail of soldiers were rushed to THE POWDER MAGAZINE, WHICH THE RIOTERS THREATENED TO REACH AND BLOW UP THE TOWN. They appear determined to burn and loot the city.

This is the story of the wildest day in the history of the Canadian Soo.

The gleam of bayonets is everywhere and a password is necessary in approaching the hostelry in any direction. The lights are out and Manager Skinner admits the outlook is not cheerful.

PRESENTATION TO THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. E. Doidge Made Recipient of Handsome Present.

Special Meeting of George Street Epworth League Last Night—A Social Evening Spent.

The meeting of the George street Epworth League last night was held under the auspices of the Social Committee, and took the form of an informal social gathering. The meeting was attended by an unusually large number, and was thoroughly enjoyed. After about an hour had been spent in pleasant intercourse, the meeting was called to order, and a programme was given, the first number of which was a vocal duet given by the Misses Gray, "Star of the East," and proved to be one of the most appreciated selections of the evening's entertainment. This was followed by a debate on a humorous subject, in which the following gentlemen took part: Messrs. Galley, Henry, Robertson and Doidge. Miss White then gave a reading in a very pleasing elocutionary manner, followed by a piano solo, rendered by Miss Gumpricht, in a way which proclaimed her to be a true artist.

An interesting feature of the evening's entertainment was a presentation made to Mr. E. Doidge, who has very ably filled the office of President of the League during this year, but who, because of the fact that he is leaving for Toronto, has been obliged to resign from the office. Miss Miller was called upon to read an address, and Miss Edna Hill presented Mr. Doidge with a handsome ebony brush, mounted with silver monogram, on behalf of the League. The following is a copy of the address:

Mr. E. Doidge:

Dear Fellow Worker,—Life has for all of us more or less changes; times when old associations and acquaintances must be droped and new ones formed. This, we understand to be your position to-night. Your connection with us has been of the most pleasant and helpful character. As a fellow-worker in the Master's vineyard, we have found none more faithful and willing to do their part than you have been.

On this occasion, therefore, we wish to present you with this gift in token of our appreciation and respect.

In your preparation for the business relationships of life we trust that you may be prospered, that your life may thereby be that of increased usefulness and devotion in all things to the cause of the Master whom you now serve. Therefore to-night, as a body of young people, met together with you as one of us, probably for the last time we bid you farewell and God speed.

Signed on behalf of the League

GEO. ROBERTSON,
EDNA T. HILL.

Peterborough, Sept. 28th, 1903.

Mr. Doidge made a very feeling reply, thanking the members for the expression of their appreciation, and saying that he had considered it an honour to be associated with the George street League as an officer, and wished it continued success.

During Mr. Doidge's term of office the League has been very prosperous, and the number of members has been materially increased, as well as the meetings becoming more interesting and attractive. It was therefore with keen regret that his departure from town was learned. He leaves for Toronto this week. Mr. George Robertson has been elected president to fill the office during the remainder of Mr. Doidge's unexpired term.

The meeting last night was presided over by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson.

St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E.

A most enjoyable evening was that held last evening in the lecture room of St. Paul's church. It was the consecration meeting of the Young People's Society, but instead of the regular topic there was an address on Young Women's Christian Association work by Miss Lough, the local secretary of the Y.W.C.A. here. Miss Lough is a pleasing speaker, and her remarks were listened to with much attention. Miss S. Cameron sang, "The Cross is not Greater than His Grace.' The room was tastefully decorated for the occasion. Rev. J. A. Wilson presided.

OBITUARY.

Mr. E. A. Bennett Died in Buffalo Yesterday.

The death occurred in Buffalo yesterday of Mr. E. A. Bennett, after an illness extending over a period of about a year. Some seven weeks ago, Mr. Bennett, accompanied by Mrs. Bennett, went to Buffalo to consult a specialist in reference to his illness, and an operation was recommended. This was performed on him four or five weeks he was much improved in health. Since then however he gradually became worse, until yesterday, when the end came. The late Mr. Bennett was 43 years of age and had been a resident of Ashburnham for about five years during which time he made a great many friends. He was married but had no children, Mrs. Bennett being a sister of Mrs. John Denoon, from whose residence the funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon, at 2.30 to the Little Lake cemetery. Mr. Bennett has no other relatives in Canada. He has one sister living in England, his father having died about six months ago.

Was Hovering Between Life and Death

A few days trial of Lactated Food will convince any intelligent mother that it is the right form of nourishment for her weak and puny baby. No other food can give such prompt and happy results at a time when the little one is hovering between life and death. A Montreal lady last August wrote as follows: — "My baby was so weak and sickly a few weeks ago that we despaired of her life. We tried nourishment of every kind, but could not get anything to remain on its stomach. We heard of Lactated Food, and commenced its use. There was an improvement the very first week, and to-day our baby is well and strong. Lactated Food saved her life." Sold at all Drug stores.

A FINE ARRAY OF BICYCLE RIDERS

At the Police Court—A Hen Scratching Case.

At the police court this morning A. Lockington, B. Humber, Thomas Scott, and D. Burke, were fined to the tune of $2 for riding their respective wheels on the sidewalk. Mr. Dumble intimated that in future the penalty for this offense would be $2 and costs, and the costs would be harder to meet than the $2.

'I am out $7.43," complained Geo. Mitchell this morning. The cause of his deficit was the ravenous appetite of the hens belonging to his neighbours, John Murphy and M. Gagne.

The Magistrate, as it was late in the season, dismissed the case, stating however that the penalty would be severe should there be "henny" more complaints.

MANDOLIN CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED.

Mr. Sydney Roger's Proposed Scheme a Good One.

Mr. Sydney Rogers, the leader of All Saint's orchestra has a scheme under consideration which is deserving of the highest recommendation. It is proposed that a Mandolin Club be organized in connection with All Saint's church. The organization of such a club will not only be highly entertaining, but will afford a good opportunity for persons to get a knowledge, later to be perfected, of the manner in which the delightful instrument is played. For the house or for the concert hall mandolin music is a very pleasant feature and it is hoped that the scheme will receive its deserving attention.

Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. MEANING OF TREATY

The Main Point for the Alaska Commissioners.

MR. C. ROBINSON'S ARGUMENT

Canadian Counsel Advances Several Contentions of Interest—Members of the Tribunal Seemingly Much Impressed by Points He Made—Mr. Robinson Nearly Fainted and Commission Adjourned.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 29.—With the third week of the sitting of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal, which commenced yesterday morning, Mr. D. T. Watson, of Pittsburg, resumed his argument on behalf of the United States, in support of the contention that the treaty of 1825 contemplated mountains along the entire line or in default of mountains a ten-league line throughout. He held that the word "partout" in the alternative provision of Article 4 applies to the whole line, and not merely to parts of it, such as the horseshoe line of Great Britain requires. The Hudson Bay map exhibited before the House of Commons in 1857 showed a ten-league line throughout. Lord Salisbury in 1886 evidently contemplated that the mountains might fail entirely. Mr. Watson contended on behalf of the United States that there were no mountains suitable, and that, therefore, the mountain line must be discarded for the ten-league line, which should run round the heads of inlets and be everywhere ten leagues from the sea.

Mr. Aylesworth asked—Supposing no mountains existed, and the whole country was an extensive plain, did the United States consider that the ten marine league line should be applied?

Mr. Watson—Yes.

No Mountains in Reality.

The President—Do you contend that at no part of this line are there mountains corresponding to the treaty?

Mr. Watson—At no point. Continuing, he discussed the meaning of the word "ocean" in the said treaty. The Lynn Canal was a limit of the ocean, just as a man's leg was part of the man. To be logical, the British should say the ocean lay altogether outside the islands, yet they called Stephen's Passage, which was more narrow and intricate than the Lynn Canal, the ocean, and deny the application of the term to the latter inlet. Alluding to the argument based on Lieven's fear lest the mountains should descend to the water's edge, he cited the Allegheny Mountains, between Pittsburg and New York, which show an almost imperceptible declivity for more than 30 miles.

Mr. Watson, in conclusion, expressed his sense of the unfailing courtesy which he had received from the tribunal, and the President thanked him for his powerful argument, to which they had carefully listened.

Mr. Robinson Replies.

Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., of Toronto, who next addressed the Court for Great Britain, said that our case had been dealt with fully and exhaustively by Sir Robert Finlay, and he had been asked by one entitled to express Canadian public feeling and sentiment to say that it had been presented also most satisfactorily in every aspect from a Canadian point of view. This was also his opinion. It would not, therefore, be necessary for him to go minutely into the question of the negotiations and the details of the maps. The question, it seemed to him, was what does the treaty mean? What is the meaning of Articles 3 and 4, and any other articles which may assist in the construction of these? The negotiators made a treaty about a country of which they knew nothing, no more of mountains bordering the Alaska coast than of the mountains of the moon. Vancouver knew, too, only what he could see from ships in the foggiest coast country in the world. The mountains on his maps were purely conventional signs, and were understood as that. We must, therefore, assume that negotiators mean only such mountains as are ordinarily met with in a mountainous country.

Range v. Continuity.

Mr. Robinson argued that in any event the word range did not necessarily imply continuity. He instanced the military expression, "chain of posts," which did not mean posts connected with chains. He argued that inlets broke mountains no more than did rivers. Supposing a range beginning at Labrador and extending down to the Eastern States, would the fact of its crossing the St. Lawrence be held to destroy its character as a range? He referred to the terms "coast" and "ocean" in the treaty, which he contended were used interchangedly, and asked would any one seriously urge that the head of the Lynn Canal was in the ocean? He argued that Article 7 of the treaty of 1825, providing for reciprocal privileges in the waters of bays and inlets, must be held to refer to the littora, as Russia could not have recognized England's claim south of 54.40 over territories when she had acknowledged United States sovereignity over the same territory by treaty the year before.

Referring to the southern boundary, Mr. Robinson said there could be no question as to the point of commencement, nor what channel was the Portland Channel. He said that Vancouver's works were the only authority known to the negotiators and it was impossible they should not have referred to them. He argued generally against much weight being given to the negotiations. When we find the Russians standing out for certain things, and do not find them in the treaty the inference is plain that they did not get them.

A Comparison of Methods.

The legal fraternity has been afforded the past two weeks an opportunity to compare their forensic methods with the American methods. Attorney-General Finlay's style possessed culture and dignified incisiveness. Mr. Watson's style was vigorous, but lacked dignity, being rather of a free and easy style. He has a habit of pausing, as if waiting to see if the Commissioners had caught on to his point.

Nearly Fainted.

After luncheon Mr. Robinson became so fatigued that he nearly fainted and stimulants had to be administered to him, but the Canadian lawyer struggled on gallantly.

His failing voice and growing pallor, however, prompted Lord Alverstone to adjourn the session earlier than usual. Mr. Robinson, who is 75 years of age, pluckily insisted that he was able to continue; but Lord Alverstone pleaded that he had an engagement of his own as a reason for cutting the sitting short.

Stimulants again had to be administered to Mr. Robinson, and it is probable he will not continue to-day.

Many Helpless With Paralysis.

Who Could now be Well had They but Known of

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

We do not claim that every one who is paralysed can be cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for many are beyond the reach of any medical treatment and must finish their days in helplessness and suffering.

It is rather to those who are only partially paralyzed and to those who are slowly but surely developing the symptoms which indicate the approach of such ailments that we would suggest the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure for diseases of the nerves

When you find yourself lying awake nights, suffer from indigestion and headache, feel drowsy after meals and losing energy, ambition and courage, it is time to pay attention to the nerves. You may find yourself irritable at times, worried over little things, unable to concentrate the mind, forgetful and absentminded, disheartened and discouraged. Better give some attention to the nerves.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures and prevents paralysis and locomotor ataxia. It does not ease by inducing unconsciousness and unnatural sleep. It does not deaden the nerves as do opiates and narcotics. But, on the other hand, by assisting nature and supplying the elements from which are formed new blood and nerve force, effects thorough and lasting cure and is bound to benefit all who use it.

Seldom, if ever, has any medicine secured such hearty endorsement of physicians and people alike. The cures which it has brought about have often been most extraordinary, and anyone who regularly and persistently uses this great food cure is sure to find it of ipestimable value as a nerve restorative and blood builder.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove that new, firm flesh and muscular tissue are being added to the body. 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the family receipt book author, are on every box. 1

THE FIERY DRAGON.

Ancient and Mediæval Descriptions of the Monster.

Dragons were important animals in ancient and mediæval natural history. Until comparatively recent time no scientist ever thought of questioning the existence of this most formidable of beasts. The annals of Winchester for 1177 gravely state that "in this year dragons were seen of many in England." Gesner, professor of natural history at Zurich, gives a detailed description of the dragon, while Aldrevandus, in his "History of Serpents and Dragons," published in 1640, devotes fifty pages to the monster. A good specimen of a dragon would seem to have been a beast about the size of a sheep, incased in a coat of scales which shone like silver. Its back was serrated like a saw. It possessed a long tail, a pair of baltike wings, four heavily clawed feet and a wolvine head, the jaws of which were armed with very formidable teeth. The tongue was barbed with fire, and fury issued from the monster's mouth, and the head bore a crest. Dragons were the most wicked and vindictive of creatures. They seem always to have been in a towering rage and spent the greater portion of their time in rushing up and down the earth destroying everything that came in their path. The origin of dragons was a disputed point among mediæval naturalists. Some maintained that these animals were generated by the heat of India; others were of opinion that the volcanoes of Ethiopia used to belch forth the monsters. One scientist, John Leo by name, declared the dragon to be a hybrid, a cross between an eagle and a wolf.

Gamblers' Eyes . .

By HARRY C. CARR

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

When the smoke cleared away in the barroom there was another job for the young frontier parson. Charley McCartney had killed the tenderfoot.

Charley explained grimly that he needed killing; he cheated in poker. The rest of them took his word for it and turned the case over to the parson.

It was only when the parson went through the tenderfoot's pockets that he found anything different in this case from various others that had come under his notice.

He found a letter there. He found various other things. There were money and some pictures. The parson burned the pictures. They were not nice pictures. He figured it out that the tenderfoot came west because they could spare him from his home circle.

But the parson saved the letter; it was a pitiful thing.

Somebody's mother had written to the tenderfoot as he was leaving for the west. She wanted him to hunt for her boy.

"Tell him to come back to me," the letter said. "Tell him I've prayed to

HE WAS KICKING HIS HEELS AND WRIGGLING LIKE A LITTLE EEL.

God every day of my life to keep him"-- And here the writing grew illegible. The parson thought it looked like tear stains.

The parson read on to the end. That letter was the inside of a mother's heart. At the very end it told the name of her boy. The parson had heard of him by reputation—not the very best of reputations. The name of the man was Charley McCartney.

The parson was not squeamish. He got over being squeamish long ago. He was used to killings and sudden death. But there was something strange and awful in this coincidence.

When the tenderfoot was decently buried and the parson had said the "ashes to ashes" and the "dust to dust" for him he put on his hat and walked down the line of the saloons. He turned in at the biggest and toughest.

The big red faced man who seemed to be the presiding genius of the place looked up in surprise. He knew the parson. Everybody knew him.

"Going to take some chips and come into the game?" as asked facetiously. But he held out his hand, and the parson took it cordially. Each of these men respected the other in a way. The red faced man was a gambler, but the parson knew where the money came from that did many a little act of charity that no one else knew of.

"I—I think I've come to copper your ace," said the parson. Then he asked where Charley McCartney could be found. The gambler looked at him narrowly for a moment. Then he pointed across the room.

"That guy with the chips piled in front of him is Charley McCartney," he said briefly.

The parson walked slowly across the room to Charley McCartney. He never had seen him close to before. McCartney had a fine face. But the parson instinctively found himself hoping that his old mother back home hadn't seen many gamblers. McCartney was beginning to look like a gambler. He had the face, especially the eyes.

His eyes twitched at the corners, and they were getting puffy underneath. His face had begun to take on that inscrutable masklike look which is one of the hall marks of a professional gambler.

The parson watched him for a moment from across the table. Then he walked slowly around and rested his foot on a rung of the gambler's chair.

McCartney turned on him like a flash, with a curse on his lips. A foot on the rung of your chair sends your luck away to the owner of the foot, as every one knows. But when he saw who it was he sank back abashed, with a murmured apology on his lips.

"Mac," said the parson gently, "cash in. I want to see you."

McCartney looked back at the table, where a stiff stud poker game was going on, and then at the parson. There was a glint of suspicion in his eyes. But he cashed in and the two walked over to a distant corner of the room.

The parson handed him the letter without a word. McCartney looked up with quick distrust as he read the first lines. But as he read on his thin, sensitive lips quivered a little, and the parson saw that he had been cut to the quick. His voice was strained and dry as he said. "I—that's pretty rough, parson."

"I found that in the pocket of the tenderfoot you shot, Mac," said the parson slowly.

McCartney winced and looked pitifully at the parson.

"I—I didn't know," he said. "I—my God, parson, it seems like I'd shot my mother."

The parson tried to tell him it was all for good; told him to go back to his mother. But McCartney shook his head.

"I can't do it, parson," he said. "I guess I've wasted all my trumps. I don't know how to do anything but gamble."

The parson fumbled over a few ineffectual words. McCartney caught him suddenly by the arm and said almost savagely: "That isn't true; you know it isn't. Look me straight in the eyes. Parson, I look like a gambler, don't I? I've got gambler's eyes, haven't I?"

The parson said something about the change that would come with different surroundings.

McCartney grunted scornfully. "Different surroundings!" he said bitterly. "Where would I get different surroundings? Where is there a decent home open to me now? I've dropped out." He turned away with a gesture of utter despair.

The parson hooked his arm through the gambler's. "I know a place up here," he said.

They looked up from the faro tables in surprise to see Charley McCartney, the wildest plunger in town, walking out arm in arm with the parson. He never came back.

McCartney walked along with his hat pulled low over his eyes. The parson laboriously manufactured conversation, and McCartney didn't hear a word of it.

As the parson turned in at his own door he felt McCartney's arm relax in his own, but he dragged him along.

The Mrs. Parson met them. She was hardly more than a girl and she was in the sweet freshness of a summer gown. It was long since McCartney had met a good woman. On her arm was a baby—the parson's boy.

"I want to introduce my friend, Charley McCartney," said the parson heartily as they came up the steps.

The girl moved the baby over on the other arm and held out a slim, cool hand. Her fine blue eyes met McCartney's eyes frankly.

It went straight to his heart. "Ah, dear God," he thought to himself. "She doesn't know!" She didn't know they were gambler's eyes, and she was a good woman; it wasn't too late. The tears came into his eyes and blinded him and he could not speak. Only his heart was saying over and over to him: "She doesn't know. She doesn't know."

The baby squirmed around in his mother's sweet young arms and looked gravely at McCartney. All at once he gave a crow of delight and reached out his two chubby arms. He was kicking his heels and wriggling like a little eel. He wanted to go to McCartney.

"Mac, you own the house," said the parson solemnly. The parson's wife laughed joyously. But McCartney did not laugh. He hugged that baby close to his heart and the tears streamed down his cheeks. He did not care. He buried his face in that baby's dress and cried. The parson's wife drew the parson silently into the house and left the gambler with her baby.

McCartney stayed a week at the parson's house. Most of the time he played with the baby. He was very silent. At the end of a week he went away. The parson did not know where. McCartney said he would not go back to his mother just yet.

* * * * * * *

In the parson's desk there are two old faded telegrams. One is dated a year after McCartney left the parson's. It says simply that McCartney has struck it rich in the mines; that he has staked out a claim for the parson and is going home. It is dated at a place that the parson never heard of; he found out afterward it was in Alaska. The other telegram is from a little town in western New York. It says that he is home with his mother. "And," it says, "struck it rich again."

The crowning joy of womanhood is motherhood and the crowning joy of motherhood is to have healthy children. But there can be no joy in motherhood without health, and without health for the mother there can be no health for the child.

It is of vital importance for women to know that the health of mother and child is in general entirely within woman's control. The thousands of women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when expecting motherhood, have testified that it made them healthy and happy in the days of waiting, made the baby's advent practically painless, and gave them health to give their children.

Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm (Enosburg Center), Enosburg, Vt., writes: "During the past year I found myself expecting maternity, and in rapidly failing health. I suffered dreadfully from bloating and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker each day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. Took twelve bottles of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also followed your instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my own work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, and enjoyed it. I had a short, easy confinement and have a healthy baby boy."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, is given away. Send 31 one-cent stamps for expense of customs and mailing only, for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the volume bound in cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Wanted Mr. Henry.

At a political meeting the speakers and audience were very much disturbed by a man who constantly called out: "Mr. Henry, Henry, Henry! I call for Mr. Henry!"

After several interruptions of this kind at each speech a young man ascended the platform and was soon airing his eloquence in magniloquent style, striking out powerfully in his gestures, when the old cry was heard for Mr. Henry.

Putting his hand to his mouth like a speaking trumpet, the man was bawling at the top of his voice: "Mr. Henry, Henry, Henry, Henry! I call for Mr. Henry!"

The chairman now rose and remarked that it would oblige the audience if the gentleman would refrain from any further calling for Mr. Henry, as that gentleman was then speaking.

"Is that Mr. Henry?" said the disturber of the meeting. "Great dizzy! That can't be Mr. Henry! Why, that's the little chap that told me to holler!"—London Answers.

Made Himself Solid.

"John," said the wife, "you'll admit that you're a bright, brainy man and have leading qualities?"

"I certainly will," was the modest reply.

"Then why don't you run for president of these United States?"

And as he clasped her to his bosom he said:

"Molly, I can't bear to leave home!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Pandora Range

Hot-air Flues. Oven.

If the hot air flues in a range are not properly constructed, much of the heat from the fire-box will be wasted up the chimney, and the oven will not bake uniformly.

Flues in the "Pandora" range have been given special attention, and are so contructed that all the heat travels around the oven twice and passes directly under all the pot holes before escaping up the chimney.

Every feature in the Pandora has been given the same careful attention as the flues and all combine to make a perfect working and economical range.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

M. & M. wire,—"Selling yesterday was general but mostly by pool brokers. London was a heavy seller yesterday but later turned buyer. The support came from shorts, although there was good buying at times by brokers for banking interests. A strong effort was made to rally the market in the afternoon after the completion of liquidation in tractions, L.N. and Industrials, but renewed heavy selling of P.A. broke that stock nearly four points, demoralising the market and prices were running off quite sharply again when the gong rang. We may get a sharp rally again at any time and such a movement would be only natural but we doubt if it will be sustained."

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

Rugby Season Opens in Peterborough on Saturday.

Belland Enters Training To-day—Peterborough Horses Race at Kinmount —Sporting News of Interest.

RUGBY.

The first game in the City League will be played next Saturday, between the Rough Riders and Britannias'. This game will open the Rugby season in Peterborough and will no doubt be attended by a great many enthusiasts who will be anxious to see the new rules in operation.

• • • •

The Rough Riders are trying to arrange a game with Port Hope here on Thanksgiving Day morning. It is not decided definitely as yet, but it is probable that the game will be played.

• • • •

It is probable that the University of Toronto will enter a team in the Senior series of the O.R.F.U.

• • • •

A full practice of the Rough Riders is called for this evening at 7.30 sharp in the Brock street rink. All players are asked to turn out as a captain will be elected after the practice. The management wishes to announce that none but playing members of the Rough Riders will be admitted.

• • • •

At the meeting of the City League held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours last night, it was decided that the Rough Riders play the Britannias at three o'clock on Saturday afternoon on the Nicholls Oval, the Britannias being the "visitors."

• • • •

Mr. A. W. MacPherson will give a chalk talk at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 7.30 on the new Burnside rules. Captain Crowley asks all members of the team to be present, and any others interested will be made welcome. Mr. MacPherson is fully competent to deal with this subject, as he is one of the best informed men on Rugby in Ontario. It is hoped that a large number will turn out.

• • • •

A good work out was held at the new rink last night. A large number of players were out and a good practice was held. The men are rapidly coming to understand the new rules, and the majority of the players consider them an improvement. After the practice last night the players took a run.

• • • •

It looks as if the Argonauts will remain with their intention to retire from the O.R.F.U. The Toronto Star says:

"There is an O.R.F.U. championship match scheduled here for Saturday between Argonauts and Hamilton Tigers. Manager Thompson of the Argonauts stated to-day that the game would not be played, and the Argonauts would drop out of the Union if the case against Green, of Hamilton, reinstated last week, is not reconsidered by the executive. No meeting of the union this week has been called as yet."

LACROSSE.

Mr. J. J. Howden, president of the Athletic Lacrosse Club will tender an informal supper to the members of the above club with a few friends, at H. Long's, on Wednesday night.

Tottenham, Ont., Sept. 28. — The Orillia-Fergus game to-day was one of the finest on record. It was fast every moment of the match, and while at times the play was a little rough, Referee Waghorne, as usual, was strict and impartial. About a dozen men were penalized. Twenty-five hundred people were present, five hundred coming by the Fergus special and seven hundred followers were with the Orillia boys. Considerable money changed hands, mostly in even bets. Fergus were slight favourites in the betting. The champions lined up as follows: — Clarke, Graham, Clark, Bergin, Brownridge, Groves, Martin, Grassley, Curtis, Raymore.

The Fergus team won by 6—4, and thus captured the Intermediate championship, as the knowing ones predicted.

A report of a game played at Vancouver, B.C., against the New Westminster team, has been received, and in it two former Peterborough boys come in for considerable praise. They are Alex. Turnbull and Fred Lynch, both playing on the Westminster team which defeated the Vancouver team by a score of 10—1. Of Turnbull the Daily Ledger says:—"Head and shoulders over any other man of the twenty-four stood Alex. Turnbull. As he played on Saturday, he has no equal in the world. His speed was amazing from start to finish, and those who looked to see him slow up as the game progressed saw, to their surprise, that he seemed to grow faster and stronger as the game grew older. He was everywhere now helping out the defence and directing operations at that end of the field, but more often working with the home, where he was directly interested in the scoring of every goal. Cool-headed and clever at all times—it is to him that New Westminster can give the main credit for the great victory." While to Lynch this tribute is paid:—"The home may be taken collectively as a remarkably capable bunch. Lynch was perhaps the best man on it. The game was to his liking, clean and open, and at all times free from rough work. This was in his favour, and under its benign influences he flourished. With Turnbull he executed some wonderful work."

The same paper declares that a team of Turnbulls could defeat the world.

Lynch declares that after the game with the Shamrocks, he will hang up his stick as he does not intend to play the game any longer.

GOLF.

The ladies of the Port Hope Golf Club will visit Peterborough on Thursday, October 1st, to play their return match with the local team. The visitors will be entertained at ten at five o'clock, when all members of the home club are invited to be present. The match will begin at two o'clock.

SPRINTING.

"Dave" Belland commenced training this morning for his race with Knox, of Orillia, to be run Oct. 15th, Thanksgiving Day, at the Driving Park, the deposits having been made to Mr. J. M. Brooks. Belland's trainer is Mr. Charles Martin, who has been acting as trainer during the summer for the fast eastern sprinter. This race will be run under Turf Club auspices, and the officials declare that the public will be protected. It gives promise of being the most exciting race ever held on local grounds. Both men are fast, and at present it looks like an even choice. Knox's backers express their belief in his ability to win out, while Belland's supporters are also confident.

• • • •

At the M.A.A.A. games on Saturday at Montreal, Fred McGrath won the 100, 220 and 440 yard races, being well treated by the handicapper. His running, however, was a surprise to the officials.

• • • •

Alex. Grant, the Canadian amateur champion distance runner, made a new record of 9.27 for two miles at New York, on Saturday. The old record was 9.32 1-5, and had stood for 13 years. Grant ran the first mile in 4.43 3-5.

TURF.

Major Delmer, the King of Trotters, the horse that equalled Lou Dillon's record of 2.00 flat, for a mile, has been sold for $40,000.

• • • •

The annual autumn meet of the Ontario Jockey Club is now being held at the Woodbine track, Toronto, and from reports received, it is going to be the most successful in the history of the club.

• • • •

TUG-OF-WAR.

Mr. George Prentice, captain of the Quaker tug of war team, has issued a challenge to the "Force" team to pull for the Turf Club's trophy. The date of the contest is suggested as October 15th, Thanksgiving Day, but the Quakers are willing to pull on any day convenient.

HOCKEY.

Secretary Buchanan, of the O.H.A., has announced his intention of retiring from the position this year, because the demands of his business will not permit him to give the position the time it requires. This announcement will cause disappointment, as Mr. Buchanan made an efficient officer.

MISCELLANEOUS.

George C. Cannon on Saturday, broke two world's records for steam autos at Narragansett Park. He cut the mile record of 1.02 4-5 to 1.01 and after a half hour's rest he went after the five mile record of 6.04, and made a new mark of 5.56 3-5.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensable in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

POSSESSION OF THE WORKS.

Legal Battle Opens—Algoma Central Men Put Off on Monday, Marched in the 96 Miles, But the Presence of the Militia Deterred Them From Wrecking Vengeance—In a Quandary.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 30.—Cowed by troops and chased by hordes of special constables the mob of idle bushmen were given no opportunity yesterday to repeat the riotous scenes of Monday. Still the authorities have felt their weakness too keenly to attempt to restore more than a semblance of order. The streets are patrolled by soldiers with fixed bayonets, the cars and the ferry remain tied up, where threats of the disorderly element placed them Monday, and the saloons are still barred.

A display of force was made by the police and troops early in the day to overcome a large crowd of howling Italians and French-Canadians who were bearing down on the jail with the avowed purpose of battering down the doors and releasing their companions. An extra skirmish line was thrown around the bastile, and Magistrate Quibell began to supply revolvers and special badges to dozens of merchants and citizens to afford greater security.

Several Arrests Made.

Several other leaders were arrested yesterday. The first arrest was of Andrew Deans, a young French-Canadian fireman, who has been employed as a fireman at the company's works here. Deans was led before Magistrate Quibell and charged with firing a revolver at Richard Pringle during a riotous mob and refusing to disperse on hearing the Riot Act read. He was hurried into the cells with the two dozen companions whom he had been trying to liberate. Deans comes from Dundalk. The other recognized leaders who occupy cells are: Edward Jiasson, Frank Lavergne, Edward Lamine, Baptiste Larosso, Fred Winer, Charles Robinson.

Walked From Wilde.

What promised to be a repetition of the strenuous times of Monday was the sudden appearance here late in the afternoon of 300 Italians and French bushmen, who had walked all the way from Wilde, 26 miles, where they had been put off the Algoma Central Monday. They were in the most violent state, and raced down toward the main buildings with furious threats. Few had eaten since Monday noon. The newcomers did not know the town was under martial law. When they reached the dead line near the works and were confronted with two dozen service guns in the hands of the militia, their temper changed rapidly. They then scattered over the city. The excitement was so general that few workmen hired out yesterday.

Last night the situation was much improved, and if the mob does not break out to-day, when their shelter and food is withdrawn, there is no more trouble likely.

Dault May Recover.

Dault, the boy shot Monday, is improving some, and it is not believed now that he will die. Grenier will also recover.

The shantymen continue to declare that they have been shamefully treated by the company and when L. J. St. Dennis attempted to talk conciliation yesterday he was knocked down and roughly handled, though he is one of the worst sufferers at the company's hands.

Under the guns of the troops the officers of the company have been cleaning up and have had much of the debris removed and men set to work putting in new glass. Two thousand dollars' worth of glass was destroyed in the fight of Monday. Manager Coyne and his force of clerks arrived early, and the business of the institution seems to have resumed normal relation in spite of the smashed doors and holes in the walls.

It was midnight before Col. Buchan and his forty mounted men reached the city. They were heartily welcomed as many people feared to retire until the troops were reinforced.

The Speyer Mortgage.

James Bicknell, K.C., said last night the situation was unchanged as far as the relations of the Speyer mortgage is concerned. He expects the American receiver to-day, but he now realizes that the Canadian courts do not propose to recognize a receiver appointed from a foreign authority.

Solicitor A. C. Boyce of the firm of Kelso & Boyce, left yesterday for New York with sworn statements of all claims against the company held by local parties. The significance of this is said to be that a settlement is impending. Few of the men now here will accept work because each day they expect to get the money due them. The Blind River Lumber Company agent yesterday visited headquarters and offered $85 per month, board, free fares and a $5 bonus for two hundred men. But he did not get them.

In a Quandry.

Magistrate Quibell said last night: "We don't know exactly what to do with these men we are feeding. This thing cannot go on forever. We have been forced to pamper them through because of our utter helplessness, but I will have a conference to-morrow with the Mayor, and I think when enough troops arrive we will tell these men plainly they must go to ... like other men, and we can enforce the order with the bayonet, if necessary."

Col. Buchan is now in command of the city, he ranking above Col. Elliott.

Judge Grants Order.

Judge J. Johnston, senior judge of the District of Algoma, on the motion of Mr. Bicknell, asking for an order of the court compelling the Consolidated Lake Superior Company to give him possession of all properties here, as agent of the Speyer Company, granted an order instructing the company to appear before him within five days and reply to the motion. The hearing will take place at 10.30 Saturday morning at the Soo.

Protect Soo Creditors.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Premier Ross was waited on yesterday by a deputation representing a number of the creditors of the Lake Superior Consolidated Co., and requested that some action be taken by the Government to protect their interests.

When the facts wer made known to the Premier he expressed himself as satisfied that some action should be taken to protect the creditors, and in this connection the following statement was handed to the press:

"The Government are most desirous that wage earners and general creditors, including those of a subsidiary companies shall be protected, and reserve the right to use any powers the Government possess by way of forfeiture or otherwise, the exercise of which may revert to the creditors' advantages."

Postponed Till Oct. 8.

New York, Sept. 30.—P. F. Rothermel and S. V. Clement, jr., of Philadelphia and John R. Dospassos of New York representing the committee of Philadelphia stockholders in the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, had a conference with Messrs. Guthrie and Henderson, counsel for Speyer & Co., and arranged to have the sale of the property, which had been set for Oct. 1, postponed till Oct. 8. In the meantime negotiations will continue with the view of affecting a compromise.

Loss of 50 Lives.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 30.—Vessels returning from the Grand Banks report sighting the hull of a large vessel, apparently a French fishing barque, floating bottom up. It is believed the vessel was wrecked in the recent hurricane with all hands. She would carry a crew of nearly fifty men. Other disasters are feared, as several vessels are missing.

Buried Under Falling Wall.

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 30.—The collapse Monday of a wall of a foundry belonging to the Fairbairn, Lawson & Combe Company, Limited, during the re-building of the works, buried a number of workmen under the debris. Five men have been extricated dead and others are injured.

Impressed With the West.

Glacier, B.C., Sept. 30.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association excursion party will reach Vancouver at noon to-day. The trip has been a delightful one. At all points the visitors have received hearty welcomes, and they are all impressed with the west.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT ON THE GRAND TRUNK.

Three Men Were Killed—Did Not See An Approaching Train.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Stratford, Ont., Sept. 30.—An accident occurred near here this morning by which three men were killed. The scene was on the Goderich branch of the G.T.R. about a mile west of the station. A gang of about twenty section men, gathered from the district round about, riding on two hand cars on their way to put in a siding at Sebringville, met the train from Goderich, due here at 8.35 a.m., near the bridge, which crosses John street, and just where the line takes a curve. The occupants of the first car saw the train in time and jumped to safety. Some of those on the second were not so fortunate, and three of their number, Neil McIntyre, of Park Hill; Malcolm McLean and Harry Holmes, both of Ailsa Craig, were struck and killed. McIntyre lived a few minutes only, and the others were dead when picked up.

A GERMAN ENGINEER VISITS THE LIFT LOCK.

Canada's Only Lift Lock has a Wide Reputation.

Peterborough has come before the commercial world owing to, a great deal, the presence of the lift lock. It was for that reason that the municipal envelopes now, on the outside, bear a picture of the structure, which is apparently getting a world-wide parlance. This wide reputation has only again been proved in the presence of Mr. Ernst Wattenburg, of Essen, Germany, who is in Peterborough for the sole purpose of viewing the works. Mr. Wattenburg, is an engineer in Esaen, where, it is well known, is situated the great Krupp Gun Works. On being interviewed he stated that he had been in Canada for about a month and intended going through the network of Canals between Ottawa and Sault Ste. Marie He said that in the Fatherland there is a lift lock at Henrichenburg, which has a hydraulic lift of 48 feet. Its pontoons are 210 feet long and 8 feet deep.

The Prussian parliament, he said, had under consideration a bill for the construction of a great "Midland Canal" from the Rhine to the Elbe, which, if passed, would necessitate the construction of another lift lock.

The German lift lock has been in operation for four years, and during that time has proved to be a most satisfactory structure. It took, he believed, seven years to build it.

Mr. Wattenburg, after leaving Germany spent about two weeks in England before sailing for New York. Besides viewing the Canadian canals he will visit Niagara Falls.

Mr. Wattenburg this afternoon, in the company of Mr. Francis, the assistant engineer, visited the work, and expressed great surprise at its height.

RAIL VERSUS WATER.

(St. Thomas Journal.)

There has been a great deal heard of late about the relative merits of rail carriage and water carriage for grain. One objection raised to the government's railway policy is that it will never be possible to transport grain over it as cheaply as can be done by the all-water or lake-and-rail routes. A most valuable contribution to the discussion, and a final answer to the objections referred to is contained in some remarks made in the House of Commons by John Charlton, M. P.

The member for North Norfolk pointed out that the present rate from a prairie point like Brandon, for instance, to New York or Montreal is practically fourteen and a half cents a bushel. If, then, grain can be carried by the all-rail route for not more than that figure the boasted supremacy of the water route is shown to be fallacious. As a matter off act, the rate at which grain can be brought east over a road of the character which the new line is promised to be is very much less than that. Here is how Mr. Charlton figures it out, on the authority of an experienced railway manager:—

"I have data with regard to the cost of transportation furnished me by Mr. J. G. Scott, of the Great Northern of Canada. That gentleman states that thre is one division of that road where the grades are 6-10ths of one per cent. or 31.68-100th feet to the mile. With a Mogul engine weighing seventy-five tons, without the tender, they draw, on that division loads of 2,000 or 2,020 tons. That is equivalent to forty-five cars loaded with 1,000 bushels of wheat to the train. And the cost of performing that work on this road was eighty-nine cents per mile—that is for every mile travelled by the train. Let us place that at one dollar, instead of eighty-nine cents. And let us suppose that we have a road from Brandon to Quebec having similar grades. The distance is given us as 1,375 miles from Quebec to Winnipeg. That is in excess of what it actually is, but let us take these figures. The cost of hauling over the road on the basis of the figures I have given would be 3.58 cents per bushel. Add to this fifty per cent. profit and you have 5.37 cents per bushel as the cost of transporting grain from Brandon to uQebec, with a profit of fifty per cent. I put this against Hon. Mr. Tarte's statement that it can be sent by part rail and part water at 11.40 cents. He says that the all-rail route is not in it. Why, sir, the water route is not in it.

"Now that we are in a position to make calculations, we find surprising results. Let us see what this traffic can be done for on a 4-10 per cent. grade. On such a grade, of one per cent. grade. On such character I have stated can haul sixty cars loaded with 1,000 bushels to the car, or 60,000 bushels. That is a moderate load for these engines on a line with these grades, with heavy rails, massive bridges and the other modern equipment of railways. They could handle seventy cars just as well, but that the trains would be unwieldly. With a 4-10 grade from Brandon to Quebec the actual cost of hauling would be 2.68 cents per bushel. Add 1.34 cents—that is, add fifty per cent. for profit—and you will find that grain can be hailed at 4.02 cents from Brandon to Quebec with a road such as I have described and still allow a profit of fifty per cent. Some hon. gentleman tell us that this road cannot solve the transportation problem, that it will be a failure. Mr. Tarte tells us that the government scheme cannot be justified on transportation grounds. I say that the most magnificent and conclusive of all the demonstrations that can be afforded as to the wisdom of the government's project will be its results on just those grounds."

Cannot do Without it.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensable in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

OUR NORTHERN HERITAGE.

A publication has been issued by the Government in which the resources of the country through which the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is to pass, and the reports of those appointed to explore this great northern heritage are to be believed, the new railway will open up a country which for natural wealth is unexcelled.

An extract from the report of the commissioners in Northern Ontario is given forthwith:

"At the last session of the Legislature the sum of $40,000 was voted for a survey of that part of the province lying between the Canadian Pacific Railway and James Bay. The knowledge possessed of this country, its topography, and the character and extent of its resources in minerals, timber and agricultural land, was of a general nature and was limited indeed. It was believed from official and other information that there were in this country extensive forests of woods suitable for the making of pulp and paper, and great areas of tillable land. Early in the summer ten exploration parties were organized and sent out by the department, each being assigned a different and distinct section and while it was not anticipated or hoped that they would succeed in penetrating every corner of so extensive a region, yet it was expected that enough would be learned to show that in the region north of the Height of Land dividing the James Bay from the St. Lawrence River waters, there are great areas of fertile country, and immense forests of spruce and pulp woods.

ARABLE LAND.

"The result of the exploration is that a tract of arable land has been found north of the Height of Land, stretching from Quebec boundary west across the districts of Nipissing, Algoma and Thunder Bay, comprising an area of about 24,500 square miles, or 15,680,000 acres. The soil is a clay or a clay loam, nearly all suitable for farming purposes, and the region is watered by the Moose and its tributaries, the Abittibi, Mattagami and Missinaibi, and the Albany and its tributaries, the Kenogami and Ogoka. Along this latter stream alone, about which nothing was known, a tract of good land was found extending on both sides of the river for a distance of over 40 miles, and in the district of the Rainy River, between the surveyed townships around Dryden and Lac Seul, another extensive area of good land was found, about 600 square miles or 384,000 acres in extent.

CLIMATE.

The climate of this region is reported to have no features which would prevent the ripening of grain or the growing of root crops. It lies for the most part south of the 50th parallel of latitude which crosses the province of Manitoba, near Winnipeg, and its climate will not differ much from that of the latter province. Crops of grain, potatoes and other vegetables, and even small fruits, were found growing as far north as James Bay.

PULPWOOD FOREST.

A great pulpwood forest has been located north of the Height of Land, extending across the districts of Nipissing, Algoma and Thunder Bay, with a depth in some places of 150 miles. The timber embraces all the common pulpwoods, such as spruce, poplar, jackpine and balm of gilead, as well as tamarack and cedar, along the banks of the streams. It is generally of good quality, usually thick on the ground and ranges in size up to three feet in diameter. In the district of Nipissing, south of the Height of Land, an extensive pine forest was explored and estimated to contain about 3,000,000,000 feet, B.M.

On the whole the information brought in by these exploration parties has been extremely gratifying, and the benefit to the province of conducting the exploration of so extensive a country has been abundantly demonstrated.

SERMON IN A SENTENCE.

(Kingston Whig.)

Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, in Montreal, struck a clear note when he said that the people would have to wake up to the value of Christian socialism. "Now do not shy at the word" he remarked, "I do not mean anarchism, and all those theories begotten of robbed, crushed, bitter, soured minds, which is, of course, one kind of socialism; but the other kind, the socialism of love; of those who share, of those who believe in not dragging down that which is up, but rather lifting up that which is down. This last is Christian socialism. It is the socialism worth having. It is the golden rule."

Mr. Pearse was speaking about the social conditions of London. The city was rich, but it was also poor. It contained at least a million people who lived in great poverty and distress, who had difficulty in existing from day to day, whose only prospect was the workhouse. It was said that they drank.

"Why, good God, man!" he burst out, "we would do as so many of these poor slum people do, we would drink, drink, drink. Drink drives men to the slums, but the slums drive men to drink. What else is there for these men, but the public house? Why, one palace of pleasure in Piccadilly, I am told, cost one million of dollars. That's it. The runner of the public house makes his place attractive. Not so the runners of many saintly churches.

"What would you suggest? Just this. Make the church as attractive as the public house, and without the drink, and you will do big business. Don't be so anxious to tell these poor miserable people of the glory of the life to come, but make their life here on earth a little more bearable. That is Christian socialism."

This question he brought home to the Canadian people by observing that the record on the judgment day would be not what men and women had done for themselves, but what these had done for others. The question of the hour is not so much what does one believe in, but what comes out of his religion? There is a whole sermon in that one sentence, and it is a sermon the hearer ought to take to his heart.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and travelling grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself, for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines, and they maintain their their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicines as much as in selling barbwire.

AN OLD HOME WEEK.

The Canadian American of Chicago, advocates holding an "Old Home Week," in which Canadians from all parts of the United States could gather to their homes in Canada. The following article on the subject appeared in the columns of the above paper:—

: "During the last summer several of the larger Canadian cities held Old Home excursions or Old Boy reunions, and these drew many Canadians now resident in this country to visit the land of their birth. Besides the larger celebrations, such as were held in Toronto, Hamilton and London, smaller gatherings took place in dozens of other Canadian towns, to attend which no organized efforts were made on this side of the line. Yet, without a doubt, had a suitable opportunity and a cheap rate been given, thousands of other ex-Canadians would have gone, to the great satisfaction of the railways carrying them, and the old home towns receiving them. But the conditions during the past summer were satisfactory neither to the railways nor to the home-going excursionists. The rate and time limit were not what the latter desired, while with a number of comparatively small excursions at various odd times, entailing great cost and disturbance of existing conditions of summer excursion travel, the railways did not feel justified in granting better rates. To remedy this condition of affairs why should there not be one General Old Home Week in the summer, during which cheap rates and all the other advantages possible could be offered by the railways, and in which the home-goers could unite to travel home together? Not two or three cities alone would then have to furnish paying crowds for the excursion trains, but every city, town and hamlet in which Canada had a representative in Uncle Sam's domain, could draw to its own special home festival, the absent ones. An Old Home Week would be infinitely more satisfactory to all concerned than isolated individual efforts on the part of a few places. Now that this season is just past, and while there is plenty of time before another summer excursion season opens, why should not some such plan be arranged between the railways and the municipal organizations? Let some concerted action be taken, and we venture to say that if the scheme is carried out on any broad lines the result will be a hundredfold more satisfactory than the methods hitherto in vogue.

LAKEHURST.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Miss Annie Fawcett of Otonabee, and Miss Tedford of Dummer, are visiting friends in the Settlement.

Mr. John Clarkson went up to last Thursday to Lindsay to attend the fall shows. Mr. Clarkson will visit other points of interest before returning.

The Methodists will have charge of the dinner and tea to be served on show day, October 2nd, and judging from past experiences everyone may expect something sumptuous.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith went to Lindsay last Thursday to visit with friends.

Next Sunday will likely be Mr. Pickup's last service in the Presbyterian church here, for the present at least. Last Tuesday evening a congregational meeting was held.

The Lakefield News is to have a special correspondent on the grounds on Fair Day to report the interesting events that take place.

Something More Than a Purgative.

To purge is the only effect of many pills now on the market. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are more than a purgative. They strengthen the stomach where other pills weaken it. They cleanse the blood by regulating the liver and kidneys, and they stimulate where other pill compounds depress. Nothing of an injurious nature, used for merely purgative purposes, enters into their composition.

ROBINSON THANKED.

His Argument Impressed Alaska Commissioners.

EARLY CLAIMS OF CANADA.

Washington Records Confute the United States Contentions — Map-makers at Fault—Sparse Offensive Language of Mendenhall—Canada's Efforts to Settle—Mr. Taylor, For U.S., Begins Counter-Argument.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 30.—Before the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal yesterday morning Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., of Toronto, continued his observations on the meaning of the treaty. Discussing article seven, he said it meant reciprocal privileges in the litiere, which implied that Great Britain had jurisdiction over certain inland waters there. It could not apply below 54.40, for Russia had not the right to trade in the previous year from the United States south of that latitude, and it could not be supposed that she took the same privilege for the same coast from Great Britain. He compared articles one and seven, and argued that "ocean" in the former related only to the ocean proper, and that article seven was supplementary to article one, granted as regards the ocean, thus showing that the inlets were considered something different from the ocean.

Speaking of the barrier theory urged by the United States as incompatible with the claim that Great Britain possessed the heads of inlets, Mr. Robinson argued that all Russia stipulated for was a strip wide enough to keep the British from coming down and competing with their posts. It was a case of the shop over the way. He asked how the inlets broke the continuity of the litiere any more than the rivers, the use of which Russia expressly granted to Great Britain. He quoted Mr. Justice Story that a river is an arm of the sea. Anyway, if the negotiations show that the Russians wanted an absolutely unbroken litiere, the treaty shows that they did not get it, and it is the treaty, not the negotiations, that govern.

Map-Makers at Fault.

Referring to the subsequent alleged acts of admission by England of the United States' claim to the heads of the inlets, he ridiculed the testimony of the maps. Not only were the cartographers ignorant of the natural features they depicted but no one in the world had ever seen them. Was it the business of nations to notify cartographers all over the world of mistakes in their maps? In no case could maps bind nations. Unless explicit sanction were given, the maps of unsurveyed countries were valueless. When the United States first asked Great Britain for a map the latter, in sending it, distinctly disavowed its correctness.

Coming to the question of occupation, he said that the Russian occupation before 1867 was very slight, and only amounted to keeping the Indians in order, to which Great Britain had no objection. From 1867 to 1880 the United States acts were from the desks of their ships, for the Indians would not let them land. He ridiculed the claim that the United States had obtained the allegiance of the natives, and said: "With a bottle of whiskey and a blanket you can obtain the allegiance of any Indian."

As to Canada's responsibility prior to 1871, he said we had no concern with that country, and until the Canadian Pacific was built knew less of Alaska than of Egypt. He discussed the position of the Hudson Bay Company, and said they were merely licensed traders. It was absurd to suppose that they could vary the territorial limits of the Empire.

From Tupper to Bayard.

Discussing the repeated statements of the United States that they had no official knowledge of Great Britain's claims to the heads of the inlets until 1898, he showed that ten years before Sir Charles Tupper had handed Secretary Bayard maps and memos by Dr. George Dawson, distinctly showing it. Mr. Bayard sent them to the President, who sent them to Congress, which published them for public information, printing maps showing the conventional line proposed by Canada.

After luncheon Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., resumed his argument before the Alaska Tribunal. He referred to Col. Dennis' report on the boundary in 1874, which, he said, was made without sufficient knowledge of the facts, and is more than offset by the reports of Thorn and Mendenhall eighteen years after, which speak of this line being run parallel to the general trend of the coasts. He censured Mendenhall for his offensive allusions to British diplomacy and said that however willing Canada might be for reciprocity with the United States, she wants no exchange of language such as this.

Canada's Efforts to Settle.

He referred to the many efforts by Canada to settle this question, and concluded by again stating that Canada's case had received the attention of the Attorney-General and Solicitor-General, and that her representatives before the Tribunal fully appreciated that the interests of the Dominion had been most carefully safeguarded by the heads of the English Bar.

The President assured Mr. Robinson that the Tribunal were much impressed by his able presentation of the case, and the generous way in which he had spoken of his colleagues, who must have derived much assistance and profit from Mr. Robinson's experience before the Behring Sea Arbitration, where he had so distinguished himself.

Mr. Hannis Taylor then addressed the court on behalf of the United States. Referring to the duties and powers of the Tribunal, and the rules of evidence which should govern it, he said he proposed to deal with questions of international law, rather than of fact.

THINK HE WAS ELECTROCUTED.

Terrible Death of William Gill at Hamilton, Ontario.

Hamilton, Sept. 30.—William Gill, 214 East Wood street, an unmarried laborer, about 35 years of age, met a terrible death. His body was found lying near a fence in Sherman's Park yesterday morning. The doctors say that it had been there since about midnight. The back and legs were badly burned, and the doctors think he was electrocuted. Beside him was found a pair of steel shears, with which a live wire had been cut, evidently. Last year thieves had stolen 800 pounds of copper wire from the same place, and sold it for about $60. Yesterday morning the caretaker of the park thought he would get ahead of thieves, and turned off the current to cut the wires down himself. He was astonished to find that some one had been there before him, and upon investigation he discovered Gill's body. There are tracks in the park, indicating that a horse and rig had been there, but neither the driver, who most probably knows more about the tragedy than any one else, nor his outfit, can be found. Gill had no right to be in the park.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

Lord Milner Had Three Hours' Confidential Chat With Premier Balfour.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Balfour and Lord Milner had a three hours' conference yesterday at the former's residence in Downing street. Nothing has yet been divulged regarding the personnel of the new Cabinet. Five thousand tickets were mailed yesterday for Mr. Chamberlain's meeting at Glasgow, Oct. 6. Applications for upwards of 50,000 tickets were received.

It was authoritatively stated last night that an official announcement of the composition of the reconstructed Ministry need not be expected before the beginning of next week. Lord Milner is still considering the offer of the Colonial portfolio.

TWO KILLED ON THE TRACK.

Trains Out West Run Down Alfred Gault and Wm. Cartwright.

Keewatin, Sept. 30.—A sad accident occurred about half a mile west of here yesterday morning, when the east-bound train struck and killed Alfred Gault, who was sitting on the track, apparently asleep. He was run over and instantly killed. The train was brought to a stand still, and while standing a couple of men came rushing up the track, saying that another man had been killed a quarter of a mile further east by the Imperial Limited. This latter man was afterwards identified as Wm. Cartwright, who was employed by the Keewatin Lumber Company. He was unmarried and no relatives in town. Gault was also unmarried and lived with his parents here.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

VERY PRETTY WEDDING YESTERDAY EVENING.

Nuptials of Mr. Edward Davis and Miss Lucy Sabin. Both of Town.

At seven o'clock last evening, No. 46 Chamberlen street, was the scene of a very happy ceremony, it being the occasion of the wedding of Miss Lucy May Sabin, third daughter of the late Thos. Sabin, to Mr. Edward Lawrence Davis, also of town. The matrimonial knot was tied by Rev. W. L. Armitage of All Saints' church in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ada Sabin, sister of the bride, was dressed in a gown of silk aptinette trimmed with blue silk and white lace, while the bride wore a pretty dress of silk aptinette trimmed with white silk and lace applique.

The flower girl was Miss Rosy Williams, who wore a dress of white silk, while the groom was supported by Mr. Jas. Squire, a cousin of the bride, whose sister, Miss Agnes Sabin, played an appropriate wedding march.

At the conclusion of the ceremony those present sat down to a delightful wedding dejeuner, for which the tables were very prettily decorated.

The presents received were very handsome, and among them were gifts from the girls of the lamp department and the men of the armature department of the C.G.E., where the happy couple have been respectively employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sabin left on the 9.10 G.T.R. train for Toronto and points west for their honeymoon, and on their return will take up residence at 46 Chamberlen street.

SOCIAL EVENING HELD LAST NIGHT.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Extend Open Invitations.

The Programme—Very Large Attendances at Both Associations' Rooms.

Never since the new Y.M.C.A. building has been entered has there been so large and successful a fall opening social night as that of last evening. Such numbers and such enthusiasm as was manifested in the crowed rooms last night speaks well for the interest the young men have in the association and of bright prospects for a new season's work.

Under the influence of a strong Social Committee of which Mr. G. L. Galley is chairman, some changes have been made in the arrangement of the rooms. The large room on right of the entrance was formerly used as a public reading room but it has been set apart for a game room for the members, and the reading room is now a member's privilege, it having been decided that there is no need for a public reading room, when there is already one in town.

The room adjoining the parlour will in future be used as a coffee room.

The opening of the new game room is meeting with the hearty endorsation of the members, and last evening the games were in constant use.

A splendid programme was given in the parlour. Mr. Robert E. Harding presided in his usual happy style. Mr. Hughes' cornet solos were very heartily applauded, as were the piano solos of Mr. F. S. McCoy. Mr. Maguire, with his gramaphone selections, was a most popular entertainer, so much so that the audience were loathe to have him stop. Mr. P. H. Dobbin gave several humorous sketches, which were encored each time. Mr. W. D. Campbell, in good form, gave two well rendered selections from Drummond's Habitant, giving good expression to the broken English. Mr. Norman Jolliffe and Mr. Walter Stocker delighted the audience with their vocal solos.

At the conclusion of the programme the committee served refreshments consisting of coffee and cake, which were greatly enjoyed.

AT THE Y.W.C.A.

There were some 250 young ladies at the reception given in the Y.W.C.A. rooms last night, for which an open invitation had been extended. The room was prettily decorated, and everybody, it is felt, had a thoroughly delightful time. Refreshments were served, after which the following programme was carried out:

Address...Miss A. C. Macdonald,, the Dominion Secretary of the Association
Piano solo ... ... Miss Alice Rogers
Vocal solo, "My ain Countrie," Miss S. Cameron
Violin solo, "Traumerei," ...Miss Ruby Jolliffe
Instrumental solo...Miss Lough and Madam Alloe
Address by Miss Moody, the Physical Directress of the local branch of the Y. M. C. A.

The rest of the evening was spent in a social manner, games, etc., being played.

LIFT LOCK IS VERY NEARLY COMPLETED.

A Visit one of Great Interest—A Magnificent View.

Work on the lift lock, which will be of such value to Peterborough, is being pushed forward at a rapid pace, and it is said, that the great structure will be in operation sooner than is generally anticipated.

The main work of the hydraulic lock has been done, and in point of fact, what the workmen are engaged at now is "finishing" every portion of the building. One can now get to the top of the central pillar, between the two pontoons, a height above the ground of about 80 feet. A view from this is truly magnificent. A train puffing along the railway looks like a creeping worm, while persons below seem veritable midgets. The scenery can be viewed to perfection, and at this times when the leaves are blushing to a rosier hue, is perfectly charming. The works are visited each day by a number of persons while on Sunday afternoon it is quite a resort.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY'S FAIR AT PORT HOPE.

Number of Peterborough Persons Expected to be There.

Yesterday was the opening day of the Port Hope Fair, and it is expected that the grounds to-day will be visited by large numbers of persons. The exhibits are numerous and of a first class character. There is a splendid showing of grain, and the special exhibits of the merchants of the town, are very creditable.

Speaking of the Fair the Guide says:—

"In the large building down stairs the fruit show, although not quite as large as in previous years, is of a much better variety. Dairy produce is in abundance and the judges are having a difficult time in selecting the winners. Upstairs is the ladies' work, and it greatly excels any previous year. The display is extensive and very artistic, and no person should miss viewing this line of art. The cattle and poultry will arrive on Wednesday and according to letters received by Secretary McCallum, it will surpass any of the shows of former years."

A number of Peterborough people are expected to be present.

THE GRAND JURY'S PRESENTMENT.

The following is a copy of the presentment of the Grand Jury, resulting from their tour of inspection of the gaol, hospitals and other places:

To the Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson, presiding at the Fall Assizes held at Peterborough, 25th September, 1903.

May it please Your Lordship,—

Your Grand Jury present that they can congratulate the county on the comparative freedom from serious criminal offenses committed in the county, as indicated by the smallness of the number of prisoners in gaol, even in the face of a largely increased population.

We have disposed of all the charges laid before us for investigation, and have to thank Your Lordship for the very lucid explanation of the law applicable thereto, and have also to thank the Crown officer for his assistance.

We have visited the County Gaol and find a lunatic confined therein, who has been incarcerated for a period of over two years, and who seems to be quite violent at times, and we are of the opinion that it is high time he was removed to the asylum. In all other respects we found the gaol and gaol premises well kept, and the prisoners well provided for.

We have visited the two Hospitals, and the Protestant Home and House of Providence, all of which are under good management, and doing the work for which they were intended.

We wish to draw the attention of the municipal authorities to the condition of the hospitals in regard to infectious diseases, and to point out that the provisions made for the treatment of such cases is entirely insufficient, and as these institutions, although they have admitted many patients suffering from these ailments, were never intended to meet such demands, it is absolutely necessary that an Isolation Hospital be provided by the municipalities.

We have visited the Children's Shelter under the control of the Children's Aid Society, and while those in charge are doing all that can be expected of them with the means at their disposal, we would suggest that the Shelter be provided with a bathroom and sewer connection.

Dated this 29th day of September, 1903.

(Signed) WM. THOMPSON, Foreman, Grand Jury, Peterborough County.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron wast aking a stoll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

GILMOUR MEMORIAL HARVEST FESTIVAL.

Baptist Church Holds Successful Entertainment.

Of all the Harvest Home Festivals that have been held this autumn perhaps none have been more successful than that at Gilmour Memorial Baptist church on Monday night. The attendance was very large and the affair in every way was a complete success, and must have been very encouraging to the officials of the church and to those who had the arranging of the Festival. The entertainment took the form of a supper followed by a musical and literary programme, and it is but paying the ladies a well-earned tribute to say that the repast was one which everyone thoroughly enjoyed. It was also a success from a financial standpoint, as about $100 was raised. The supper was served in the basement of the church, while the programme which followed was rendered in the church auditorium, which was well filled and the programme presented was a most pleasing one, a fitting climax to an altogether attractive evening's entertainment. The ladies had shown excellent taste in the interior decorations of the church, which were in keeping with the occasion, that of Harvest Festival. A most pleasing array of flowers, fruit and grain was seen, and the whole arrangement was the result of a cultivated artistic taste. The words "Harvest Home" wrought in golden grain and suspended at the rear of the pulpit made a very effective background.

Rev. L. McKinnon, the pastor, occupied the chair, and the pleasure which he experienced in the success of the Festival was evident in his happy manner. He welcomed all present to the Harvest Home, and said it was a fitting thing that thanks should be rendered for the gifts of Divine bounty everywhere manifest.

The musical programme was very largely contributed to by members of the Murray street Baptist church choir from town. The first number was an anthem by the choir and following that came the following selections:—Recitation, "The Church Spider," Olive Robertson; duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd," Misses Sherwin; recitation, "The Garden Race," Master Roy Robertson; quartette, "Guard while I Sleep," Mrs Rehill, Miss Florence Hall and Messrs. Routley and Matthews. This quartette was very fine, and those rendering it had to respond to an encore demanded. Addresses were then delivered by Rev. Mr. Bunner, Methodist minister of Bridgenorth; Rev. A. H. Brace, of Park street church, town, and Rev. Mr. Quarrington, of Lakefield Baptist church, in all of which congratulations were offered on the success of the evening's success. Following the addresses other musical numbers were rendered. The Misses Sherwin sang a second duet, which, like the first was much appreciated. Murray street choir sang two anthems very creditably. Little Miss Lillian Scott delighted the audience with a recitation, and Miss Mildred Mann's recitation, "A Single Grain of Wheat," closed this part of the programme.

The pastor at the close of the programme took occasion to thank those who had taken part in the entertainment, and all separated, feeling that a highly satisfactory evening had been spent.

Turks Destroy Town of Razlog and Christian Population.

TURKISH TROOPS IN DISORDER

Commander-in-Chief of the Insurgents Makes the Announcement of a General Revolt—All Insurgent Bands in Eastern Macedonia Have Received Directions to Begin Operations.

Sofia, Sept. 28.—A later despatch from Rila reports continuous fighting all along the lines across the Turkish frontier.

It is stated that the town of Razlog has been destroyed by the Turks and the Christian population of 4,700 persons massacred. Fugitives are arriving in hundreds. All the wires have been cut. The Turkish troops are flying in disorder from Butchavo.

New a General Revolt.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 30.—A telegram received here from the camp of Gen. Zontcheff, the commander-in-chief of the Macedonian insurgents, at Razlog, 55 miles from Sofia, announced that a general rising was proclaimed Sept. 27, in the districts of Razlog, Nevrokop, Demirhissar, Melnik and Seres and that all the insurgent bands in eastern Macedonia had received directions to begin operations.

A despatch from Rilo Monastery says the town of Razlog has been in flames since Sunday night. The insurgents are attacking Butchevo, and severe fighting is reported with the Turks. Another fight is reported to have taken place near Okrhida, in which fifty Turks were killed and many injured.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Opposition Moved Amendments Which Were Voted Down—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Speech in Reply to Mr. Borden.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—The unfortunate state of affairs at the Soo was brought to the attention of the House yesterday morning by Colonel Sam Hughes. The Premier informed the House of the applications he had received for military aid; that he had replied that the Government was powerless, and pointed out the method prescribed by law for calling the military forces to the assistance of the civil power. Incidentally, he suggested that there was sometimes a tendency to panic on the part of the civil power.

The final stage of the Government's national transcontinental railway bill was entered upon, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the third reading. The leader of the Opposition, in a speech of nearly three hours' duration, presented the chief amendment of which notice had been given. The Premier made an exceedingly vigorous reply, which cheered the hearts of his supporters. He declared the proposition of the Opposition leader impracticable, and added that the Government supporters ought to be thankful to their opponents for having presented the scheme, mad as it was, inasmuch as it proved by contrast the superiority of the Government's proposition.

The House divided four times upon amendments offered by the Opposition, and the Government obtained majorities, commencing with 38 and increasing to 40. As half a dozen amendments yet remain to be disposed of, the debate was adjourned until this morning.

DID HIM GOOD AND NO MISTAKE.

What Simon V. Landry has to say of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He was Weak, Run Down and a Total Wreck Three Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills put him to Work Again.

River Bourgeois, Richmond Co., Que., Oct. 28th.—Special.—Simon V. Landry, well known here, adds his testimony to the thousands of others all over Canada who owe their health, and even life itself, to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was bothered for over a year with Lame Back, Weak Back, Palpitation of the Heart and General Weakness," says Mr. Landry. "In fact I was a total wreck. I could not work as I got tired and weak so easily and I had a weakness in my stomach so that I could not bend down to do anything.

"I had tried different kinds of medicine without benefit till I gave Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. From the first time they did me good and I had only taken three boxes when I was able to start work again. They did me good and no mistake."

Strathcona Admired.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Hon. W. S. Fielding's denial that there is any truth in Lord Strathcona's resigning the Canadian High Commissionership, has been received here with the greatest satisfaction.

Knew Dr. Chase in 1867.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe Co., Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

STRATHCONA'S VIEWS.

Opinions He Holds Concerning Mr. Chamberlain's Fiscal Scheme.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Strathcona, being interviewed on Canada's attitude toward Chamberlain's proposals, said: "Free trade within the Empire is not possible, as far as the colonies are concerned. A two shilling duty on wheat and the same on flour would not raise the price of bread here a farthing. Referring to the suggestion of Canadian manufacturers resenting a preference in foodstuffs only, Lord Strathcona said: "I am sure the traders and manufacturers will show themselves reasonable, rational and fair people. They will consider." Lord Strathcona had not the slightest doubt, "the interests of Canada as a whole." Some people think that profits will decrease with a preference. On the contrary, Lord Strathcona believes that profits will be increased with a greater volume of trade.

The Canadian 4 per cent. loan, guaranteed by the Imperial Government, for a million pounds sterling and unguaranteed loan for half a million pounds will be paid to-day in cash to the Bank of Montreal.

CANADA CAN MAKE ENGINES.

Montreal Locomotive Co. Wants to Tender for Transcaval Equipment.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—The Montreal Locomotive Company have asked to be allowed to tender for any contracts for engines which may be required by the Transvaal Railway. The hope is expressed here that the same company may have an opportunity of tendering for engines required by the India railways. Any difficulty of inspection might be solved by the assistance of the Canadian Government.

Hit By Train; Arm Off.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Salvatore Piccalo was run down by a G.T.R. train near Newcastle just before 6 o'clock last evening, but miraculously escaped being killed. He had his right hand and wrist badly crushed and was cut about the head by the rail. He was hurried to Toronto on the train and taken to St. Michael's Hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the arm just above the elbow. Piccalo is 21 years old, just out from Italy, and was employed by the railway on the road as a trackman.

4 Years For Manslaughter.

Guelph, Sept. 30.—At the Assizes yesterday morning Patrick Canfield, on trial under charge of manslaughter, was found guilty and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. On the 28rd of February last, while under the influence of liquor, Patsy shoved his father, Walter Canfield, out of the front door down some steps to the ground, causing such injuries that he died some two months later.

Man Escapes With Babe.

St. Thomas, Sept. 30.—The Protestant nun, Sister Madeline, who kidnapped a seven-months'-old boy, has been traced by the Ontario police to Melbourne, where she left Monday for Mount Brydges. She came here Saturday and stated she was going to Glencoe, but, instead, left the train at Iona.

Another Cure of Chronic Disease

Of the Kidneys and Bowels—Well-known Steamboat Man Honorses

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills

Statement Vouched for by Minister.

Mr. Jas. A. Buchner, St. Catharines, Ont., was for years a steamboat man and is favourably known in every port from Cleveland to Montreal. Until a few months ago he was for years a great sufferer from kidney disease, rheumatism and constipation. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have made him well and for the benefit of others he has made the statement below:

Mr. Buchner writes: "For many years I was the unhappy victim of kidney trouble, rheumatism, and constipation, which became so severe as to make life a burden. I was a constant sufferer, entirely unfit for work; appetite was fickle; I became emaciated; could not sleep, but arose in the morning tired and enfeebled. I lingered on in this condition, gradually growing worse, and became despondent and discouraged because I could obtain no relief from the many medicines used.

"Friends advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I now feel thankful that this medicine came to my hands when I was in such a miserable condition. The first box gave relief, and, filled with joy at the thought of again recovering health, I continued the use of these pills until I had used six or eight boxes and was again enjoying my former health and vigour. I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as an ideal medicine."

Rev. W. D. Masson, Methodist minister, Port Robinson, Ont., writes:—"Being personally acquainted with Mr. J. A. Buchner, who was cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I can say I believe he would not make a statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

It is by curing just such chronic and complicated cases as this that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have become so well known as a medicine of exceptional merit. Their direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels makes them successful where ordinary medicines fail. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 2

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Sir William Mulock's Bill Increasing the Salaries of Civil Servants Passed by the House.

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—After a protracted debate the resolution submitted by Sir Wm. Mulock, providing for an increase of salary to various classes of the civil service and re-establishing the third class, was reported yesterday in the House, and a bill to give effect thereto was introduced. The resolution sanctioning the practice of keeping above account on the Intercolonial and authorising a credit of $1,500,000 for the purpose was adopted, and the House for the first time in many weeks got into Committee of Supply. Satisfactory progress was made.

Upon the Item of $9,080 for salaries in the High Commissioner's office, London, Colonel Hughes asked whether there was any truth in the reports published in some newspapers that Lord Strathcona was to be retired and that a certain Minister was to succeed him.

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied in the negative, and added that when Lord Strathcona was in Ottawa recently he was about as lively and energetic a specimen of a High Commissioner as one could desire, and he hoped that gentleman would long be spared to continue to perform the duties of his office. With reference to the other portions of the question, Mr. Fielding suggested that none of the Ministers could be spared from Ottawa at present.

The House adjourned at 11.45.

SULTAN HAS AGREED

General Massacre of All Bulgarians With or Without Arms.

ORDERS SENT TO THE FRONT

Influence of Izzet Pasha in the Palace Committee—Was Largely Responsible For the Armenian Massacre—Only Recently Became a Member of the Committee—Armenians and Cossacks Clash.

London, Sept. 29.—The correspondent of The Times at Constantinople learns from a trustworthy source that the Palace Committee at the Yeldiz Kiosk, in charge of Macedonian affairs, has recommended that in the future all Bulgarians captured with or without arms should be shot. The committee consists of Tassin, Edhem and Izzet Pashas, the last being the Chamberlain, who is generally believed to have been largely responsible for the Armenian massacre, and who has only recently become a member of the committee. The Sultan, The Times is assured, has agreed to the recommendation, and the necessary orders have been sent to the front.

Cossacks and Armenians.

Tiflis, Russian Trans-Caucasia, Sept. 29.—The transfer of the property of the Armenian Church at Shusha to the Russian authorities, according to the Imperial decree issued June 25, has been attended by a conflict between Armenians and Cossacks. According to the official accounts two Cossacks and one rioter were killed, but the Armenians in the darkness carried off a number of wounded.

The Blow on the Jaw.

A man struck with any degree of force upon the mental area of the jaw, although he may be in perfect physical condition, instantly collapses and falls to the ground. The attitude assumed in recovery, which may be instantaneous or delayed some minutes, is most characteristic. He squirms about, raises his head and rolls his eyes in an attempt to locate himself. He tries to get on his side and elbow; he endeavors to rise upon his hands and knees. If he regains his feet he staggers like a drunken man, and should he proceed to reopen hostilities he is usually promptly "put out" by his adversary. The blow is practically never fatal; the heart's action is never unduly accelerated; the pulse and respiration are normal; the pupils are normal; there is no headache, no sweats, no cold extremities, no pallor—none of the ordinary signs of shock or concussion.

Jacob's Ladder.

Among long staircases the world over none, it is safe to say, is so long or difficult of ascent as "Jacob's ladder." This remarkable flight contains more than 700 steps, all rising with the same lift in the same direction. The steps rise at an angle of exactly forty-five degrees.

"Jacob's ladder" ascends a particularly steep hill at St. Helena. The steps are naturally the most direct route to the summit of the hill and despite their great length are traversed daily by hundreds of wayfarers. There are said to be many persons who from long practice are able to ascend the steep stairway at a rapid pace without once stopping for breath.

Washing a Sweater.

Sometimes a sweater that has been sent out to be laundered will come back distorted in shape. Often it is the sleeves, which will be abbreviated to nothing or stretched to almost twice their natural length. In the latter case, procure some thick boards, just the length that you would have the sleeves. Dip the sleeves into boiling water, push a board into each so as to stretch it transversely, then dry in the hot sun. When dry, dip again in boiling water, this time slightly salted, and dry again in the sun on the boards.

Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY Restores LOST FLESH AND STRENGTH

"I was a total wreck—could not sleep or eat," writes Mr. J. C. Beers, of Berryman, Crawford Co., Mo. "For two years I tried medicine from doctors but received very little benefit. I lost flesh and strength, was not able to do a good day's work. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and when I had taken one bottle I could sleep and my appetite was wonderfully improved. I have taken five bottles and am still improving."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore, accept no substitute for 'Golden Medical Discovery."

ARROWHEAD CENTURIES OLD.

The Dawson City News of June 26 states that a copper arrowhead was found in a paystreak on Claim No. 38 Gold Run, owned by A. G. Mosier. It was eighteen feet below the surface. The arrowhead is probably the product and former property of some Yukon or Alaskan Indian of many generations of the forgotten past.

The arrowhead evidently is made of native copper. It is three inches long, thin and tapering and gracefully finished. In the centre of the sides are slight nicks, either for fastening to the arrow or some other purpose. The rear end of the instrument is similar to the part of a file which runs into the wooden handle. The finish given the arrowhead shows that whoever made it was skillful and had splendid ideas of symmetry. A delicate embossed crease lies along the centre of either side, and plays to the thin edges.

In the vicinity where the arrowhead was found many bones of mastodons also have been recovered. J. J. Rutledge, the big Gold Run operator, owns a number of bones from the locality. Since the bones and the arrowhead have been found on the same level it appears somewhat reasonable they may have been left there in approximately the same time. It may be that some native hunter had fired the arrow at some object of wild game or an ancient enemy. Again it may be that the arrow was dropped on the surface of the earth and gradually wore its way down through the ground to the level among the golden deposits in which it was found deposited this week.

The origin of the metal only can be surmised. It is well-known that similar arrowheads are used by the Yukon and Alaskan Indians to-day, and are made from native copper from the head of the Tanana. Native copper is found in quantities at the headwaters of the Tanana. The Indians of that locality have beaten and made small trinkets and crude instruments from the metal just as they have picked it up on the surface of the earth.

The Longevity of Animals.

Statistics of the longevity of animals may not be very accurate, but they are interesting reading. Among the larger species of cattle there is some approach to uniformity. Thus, for the horse and donkey the extreme limit is about 35 years, and for horned cattle about 30. For the dog it is given as 25, while sheep, goats, pigs, and cats are grouped at 15. Among birds the disparities in length of life are very remarkable. While a goose may live to be 30 years of age, a sparrow 25, and a crow 100, ducks, hens, and turkeys die of old age at 12. The palm for longevity is divided between the elephant and the parrot, which both often pass the century. The swan and the eagle are very long-lived.

Bird Slaughter.

The total number of packages of osprey feathers sold in London last year was 1,608, and of birds of paradise 19,552. A package of osprey feather varies in amount from two or three to over 100 ounces, but a careful computation shows the average to be about 30 ounces to the package. This gives a total of 48,240 ounces, and on the received estimate that four birds are required to yield one ounce of plumes, we have a total of 192,960 birds killed in the breeding season to furnish one year's feather sales. Of the birds of paradise 18,992 were catalogued as females.

What He Missed.

"An old negro living in Carrollton," relates the Bosworth (Mo.) Star-Sentinel, "was taken ill and called in a physician of his race to prescribe for him. But the old man did not seem to be getting better, and finally a white physician was called. Soon after arriving Dr. S. felt the darky's pulse for a moment and then examined his tongue. 'Did your other doctor take your temperature?' he asked. 'I don't know, sah,' he answered feebly; 'I hain't missed anything but my watch as yit, boss.'"

The Shorter Way.

"I understand that you have been experimenting with a view to discovering the philosopher's stone?" said the boyhood friend.

"Yes," said the intellectual man. "If I discover it, I shall become rich."

"But what's the use of waiting so long? Why don't you get stone straight from the quarry and get rich on paving and building contracts the same as I did?"

Art Schools in Britain.

According to the Cornhill Magazine the youth of Britain who has a liking for art has a choice of 250 schools and 1,000 art classes conducted at the expense of the State. His next step is the Royal College of Art at South Kensington, which is also under the Board of Education. Art teachers are formed here, but other students can enter on payment of $65 a term if they pass the tests. There is the State school in London at University College. The Royal Academy schools have a five-year course. The last report of the examiners at the Victoria and Albert Museum (South Kensington) shows that 5,722 works were entered for competition out of 41,510 sent up to London for examination. Birmingham took seventy-four prizes, of which nineteen are for jewelry and metalwork. The report takes a shot at a modern fashion by the remark: "We regret to notice the pernicious influence in some of the designs of that modern phase of work which has been called L'Art Nouveau." The rebuke has struck very close home, for the Victoria and Albert Museum has been acquiring of late a good many specimens of the modern art to which the examiners attribute a "pernicious influence."

Phoenix Park, Dublin.

Phoenix Park at Dublin, in which the Vice-regal Lodge is situated and which in the old duelling days was the place where gallant Irish gentlemen were accustomed to settle their little differences, says the Marquise de Fontenoy, derives its name, not from Phoenix, the mythological hero, brother of Europa and companion of Achilles to the Trojan war, but from the old Irish word "Fionn-Uisge" (pronounced "Finuiske"), which may be translated as "a spring of running water," and many will doubtless be interested to know that it is from this same word in the combination "Uisgebeugh" that is derived the modern word of whiskey.

Phoenix Park, or the "Phaynix," as the natives call it, is the most extensive and beautiful in all Ireland, measuring some seven miles around its boundary. It formerly belonged to the Knights Hospitallers, who surrendered it to King Henry VIII., and it was enclosed as a royal deer park until the famous Lord Chesterfield, in the middle of the eighteenth century, while Viceroy of Ireland, opened it as a public park for the citizens of Dublin.

Turtles Tenacious of Life.

The way cats cling to their proverbial nine lives is well known, but the average turtle will make a tougher stand than nine ordinary cats. Perhaps boiling will kill a turtle at once, but any other method seems hopeless.

The severed head of a snapping turtle will bite for an hour after separation from the body. But more wonderful is the indifference of the green turtle of the West Indies to mutilation. A party of naturalists lately returned give an account of an experience which proves beyond doubt that the green turtle's indifference does not lie in its head.

A green turtle found on the beach turned and made for the water. One of the party severed its head with an ax and turned the body around. The headless turtle ran, then stopped and turned toward the water again.

Melba In a Temper.

When Mme. Melba first tested the sweets of fashionable life a Boston woman of fashion captured her for a dinner. The Boston woman loaded her guest with attentions, and after the dinner she said to Melba, "You will give us a little song tonight, dear Mme. Melba?" But the songstress refused. The Boston woman pleaded and said petulantly: "I am quite sure my guests will be disappointed. Really you are quite unkind." This infuriated the high spirited singer, and she answered: "My terms as a dinner entertainer are $2,000. You may see my manager if you want me to sing for your guests." Then Melba got her wraps and went away in a frenzy of anger.

HAIR GROWTH

Promoted by Shampoos of Cuticura Soap

And Dressings of Cuticura the Great Skin Cure

Purest, Sweetest, Most Effective Remedies for Skin, Scalp and Hair.

This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales and dandruff, destroys hair parasites, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, loosens the scalp skin, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of women now rely on Cuticura Soap assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet and nursery.

Cuticura remedies are the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the world. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, in the severer forms, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring skin, scalp and blood humours, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, Liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

Light and Heat and Eyes.

Looking into the fire is very injurious to the eye, particularly a coal fire. The stimulus of light and heat united soon destroys the eyes. Looking at molten iron will soon destroy the sight. Reading in the twilight is injurious to the eyes, as they are obliged to make great exertion. Reading or sewing with a side light injures the eyes, as both eyes should be exposed to an equal force of light. Those who wish to preserve their sight should preserve their general health by correct habits of living and give their eyes just work enough, with a due degree of light.

A Moving Sermon.

"I once had a parishioner who was a miser," said an English clergyman. "For this man's benefit I preached one Sunday a strong sermon on the necessity of charity, of philanthropy—a sermon on the duty and the joy of giving. The miser, at whom I gazed often, seemed impressed.

"Next day I met him on the street.

"'Well, John,' I said, 'what do you think of yesterday's sermon?'

"'It moved me deeply, sir,' he answered. 'It brought home to me so strongly the necessity of giving alms that honestly, sir, I've a great mind to turn beggar.'"

INSTALLATION OF NEW PRINCIPAL.

Principal Gordon Will be Installed at Queen's on Oct. 15th.

October 14th, 15th and 16th will be important days in the history of Queen's University, Kingston. On these dates the installation of the new principal, Dr. Gordon, will take place, together with the Jubilee of the Medical Faculty. On this occasion the Chancellor has issued a circular letter, from which the following is an extract:

"The University is passing through a critical stage. Last year the reins of government were dropped by the ablest man ever identified with the fortunes of Queen's, at a time when plans long cherished were only in course of being matured and executed. A magnificent new Arts building, the gift of the municipality of the city of Kingston, was being completed. The Government of Ontario was erecting on our grounds two new buildings to meet the expansion of the School of Mining. Plans were being prepared for the erection of a Convocation Hall in honour of Principal Grant, the funds for which were raised through the splendid efforts and contributions of the students. The Corporators of the University had already, with the approval of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, began the movement to bring the University more fully into conformity with the undenominational work it is doing.

"One of the strongest proofs of the wisdom of Principal Grant's administration, is that since his death these undertakings have gone steadily forward. The new Arts building has been in use during the past session. The Mining Building will be ready for occupation by October, 1903. The foundation stone of Grant Hall was laid last autumn, but owing to an urgent appeal for more ample accommodation, building operations will not be proceeded with till this fall, a seating capacity of 1,000 being now recognized to be too limited for even present needs. The Draft Bill, embodying the proposed constitutional changes, has been long and carefully considered, and is now assuming its final form. If nothing untoward happens, the University, with its historic site, its fine group of buildings, its valuable library, its traditions, and its record of self-sacrifice, will, upon the opening of another session, be freely dedicated by a church which has always fostered higher learning, to the nation at large."

The installation of the new Principal will take place on Thursday, Oct. 15th, at 2.30 p.m., and it is expected that a large number of graduates and friends of the University will visit Kingston for the event.

ANOTHER MISHAP ON GRAND TRUNK.

Train Runs Into Horse and Buggy Near Hamilton's Foundry.

Another must be added to the list of accidents that have occurred on the Grand Trunk at the crossing on Reid street, opposite the Wm. Hamilton Co's works. Last night as a way freight was pulling out about 8 o'clock, Mr. Fairbairn, of Lakefield, it is stated, was driving along Reid street, and the oncoming train being hid from his view by the curve in the track, he attempted to cross the rails, and in so doing narrowly escaped death. As it was his buggy was struck by the engine and almost completely wrecked. The harness was torn from the horse, but by a miraculous chain of circumstances neither Mr. Fairbairn nor the animal were injured beyond a shaking up. The harness was completely torn from the horse, but luckily beyond that and the smashing of the buggy no damage was done.

WYNN GOT FIVE YEARS.

Sentenced for Three Cases of Theft at the County Assizes.

At the County Assizes Wednesday afternoon Samuel Wynn, who has been in the prisoner's dock since Monday afternoon, was found guilty of three charges by Mr. Justice Ferguson. These charges are—of stealing a bay mare colt from Isaac Freeburn, Young's Point; of stealing a mare from Mr. Pollard, of Pontypool, and also of stealing a buggy and a sum of money from Jno. Henderson, of Lakefield.

The case has created considerable interest and the court room was fairly well filled all three days. The prisoner was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years.

TWO BURGLARIES WERE COMMITTED.

Brightman's Store and Larocque's Hotel Broken Into.

The Work of Amateurs Say the Police —They Were After Money and got Some $14.

Two burglaries, resulting in the theft of some $14.00, were committed early this morning, probably between the hours of two and three o'clock, when men, presumably amateurs, and local toughs at that, forced their entrance into T. Brightman's leather shop, No. 412 Aylmer street, and later into the Montreal House, a hotel situated at the corner of King and Aylmer streets, and owned by Mr. J. B. Larocque.

The burglars first began by procuring a rasp and a lever from Metheral's carriage shop, Aylmer street, and with these pried open the office window of the leather shop. The safe, situated at the corner of the office, which was unlocked, the bolts only having been turned, was opened and the contents scattered over the floor. The thieves, however, who were certainly after money and that alone, did not satisfy their desire, and left without taking anything, notwithstanding valuable skins were lying around. It is probable that these were left because the thieves thought that there would be some chance of detection as these things would be somewhat difficult to dispose of.

The men then proceeded to Larocque's hotel. With the aid of the tools, the marks of which can be plainly seen, they attempted to open two windows facing on King street. This, however, they could not do, but succeeded in raising and crawling through a window facing on Aylmer street, and entered the barroom. Here they went to the till and extracted about $14 in cash, but did not even try the safe, over which they had to crawl, after creeping through the window.

The bar-tender, Mr. George Sharpe, on coming down at 5.30 in the morning, at once noticed that something was wrong, as the screen shutter of the window through which the burglars had effected an entrance, was lying on the floor. Switching on the electric light, he went to the till and found it empty.

The police were at once informed and on their arrival found the tools under the planks of the sidewalk, just outside one of the windows facing on King street. The offenders as yet have not been discovered but it is reported that they were seen, which may lead to their arrest before long.

THE HON. PRESIDENT ENTERTAINED TEAM.

Athletics Guests at a Pleasant Supper Last Night.

Mr. J. J. Howden Shows his Appreciation of Team's Work—Some Brilliant Speeches Made.

Perhaps no gentleman in town has taken a deeper interest in the Athletic lacrosse team than Mr. J. J. Howden, the Hon. President, of the Club, and the assistance and encouragement that he has given the team has played no inconsiderable part in the very creditable season's record. Mr. Howden was, last night, the host at an informal banquet tendered the members of the team, with a few friends at H. Long's Palm Parlours, and the event was one very pleasing to the team that has during this season won an enviable reputation for playing clean, legitimate lacrosse.

Surrounding the festive board were:—Mr. J. J. Howden, Mr. R. M. Glover, who acted as toastmaster, and Messrs. W. J. Green, E. Dillon, E. Ford, B. Rickey, C. G. Graham, R. Mercer, H. Dunsford, Geo. Robertson, T. H. Glover, V. Hamilton, W. Cavanagh, H. R. H. Kenner, F. Clarke, G. Giroux, M. H. Halpin, W. Rudkins, J. Metheral, W. Henders, S. Mein, A. W. Macpherson, H. Morgan, W. Galley, E. Best, J. Bowes, E. Wasson and the press representatives.

After ample justice had been done to the dainties, with which the tables were loaded, a pleasant toast list was disposed of. The King's health was heartily honoured, after singing the National Anthem. Mr. Howden then made an address which, perhaps, has brought more pleasure to the members of the team than any one incident during the whole season. Mr. Howden's address was not a lengthy one, but it was given with a sincerity which could not be doubted. He said that he had watched the work of the team during the past season and it had been a great pleasure to him to see the quality of lacrosse played by them, as well as the gentlemanly conduct of the members. He was proud to be associated with the Athletics, and felt that their work this year had been the means of awakening a new interest in the game in Peterborough. He considered the record of the team a remarkable one when the difficulties under which they worked were considered. The lack of convenient grounds to practice on had been a great draw back, and he felt satisfied that had the team been better circumstanced in the matter of grounds, the championship would have been won by the Athletics.

Mr. Ed. Dillon, the captain, responded on behalf of the team, and thanked Mr. Howden for his words in reference to the team, as well as his encouragement and substantial support during the season, and the entertainment which he was then providing for them. He also thanked the members of the team for the consistent practice that they had given, and said he felt proud to be captain of such a team.

The next toast was that to sister sports, and was responded to by Mr. Rudkins, and Mr. C. G. Graham. Mr. Rudkins, as an old lacrosse player, said he was pleased to be asked to participate in the entertainment, the object in which was to do honour to the Athletic lacrosse team. He congratulated them on their showing this year. Speaking of sister sports he said that what was needed in Petertorough was a ground where all sports could be played. He had long looked for the time when such grounds could be secured, and hoped that it would soon be accomplished. He said that when suitable grounds had been secured Peterborough would have a team that could not be beaten. He also affirmed that in his opinion one lacrosse team should represent the town in the C.L.A., and all the energies centred to make it a winning team, which it would be

Mr. C. G. Graham also responded to this toast and speaking for the baseball section said they were pleased with the work of the Athletics and felt that the team was a credit to the town.

The next toast was the most popular one of the evening, and was proposed by Mr. H. B. H. Kenner, who asked the company to drink to the health of the "Host." He said that Mr. Howden was a sport in the truest sense of the word. He had taken an active part in lacrosse for many years, and his interest was still unabated, as was evidenced by his association with the Athletic team, and his support of it, the members of which had appreciated his practical interest in the game. He said he believed there was no town in Canada where cleaner sport was played than in Peterborough, and in the Host of the evening clean sport found one of its strongest champions and most enthusiastic supporters.

Mr. Howden, in replying to the toast, which had been drunk amid great enthusiasm, thanked the proposer for the remarks he had made in reference to him, and again assured them of his interest in the team.

At this juncture Mr. Glover read a letter from Dr. H. Wightman, expressing his regret at not being able to be present, and also his desire to see athletic grounds secured, where all games could be played, and offering material financial assistance to help purchase such grounds.

The toast to the "Press" was then proposed by Mr. E. Best in one of his characteristic humorous speeches. This was responded to by representatives present. After this a number of impromptu speeches were called for from members of the team and old players, Messrs. W. J. Green, E. Wasson, Giroux, Clark, Metheral and Halpin being called upon, and each responded.

The toast to the "Ladies" was the last honoured, it being proposed by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, and responded to by Messrs. E. Dillon, H. Dunsford and H. Best, each of whom showed his ability to speak upon the interesting subject.

After singing "Auld Lang Syne," and giving three hearty cheers and a tiger for Mr. Howden, the company dispersed, the evening having proven a most enjoyable one.

Charlotte Street Orchestra.

The orchestra in connection with the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school held the first of a series of weekly practices last evening, to be continued during the winter months. The organization, under the able leadership of Mr. Leon A. Halley, is already doing good work along musical lines. The orchestra was organized over five years ago by Mr. Ernest Hodgson, now of Yonkers, N.Y., and was conducted by him until his departure for that city a year ago. Mr. Halley has had charge of the orchestra since May last and has shown himself a capable leader and a thorough musician.

THE GUN ACCIDENT SEASON.

Peterorough County is widely known as being one where game is abundant. Perhaps local hunters will do well to peruse the following article, which appeared in Wednesday's Toronto Globe, before preparing their shooting kit going out to shoot.

"The lamentable record of deaths from drowning during the past season is being followed by an unusual number of shooting accidents. Cautions and warnings, though familiar, cannot be too often repeated. The man who "did not know it was loaded" we have always with us. The Provincial law making it an offence to point a gun, loaded or unloaded, toward any person has had a good effect. While the criminally careless person may not have the fear of the law before him, its existence serves as a reminder of the danger attending such folly. Everyone who prosecutes an offender or otherwise gives the law publicity is a public benefactor. Lifting a gun by the muzzle has resulted in one fatal accident already this season. The only safe rule in that regard is "don't." The danger has been lessened by the rebounding hammer, and is still less with a hammerless gun. Still it is always present, and the only safe rule is for a sportsman never to point a gun toward himself or anyone else, even for a moment. The danger from an old unsuspected charge will not pass till the last muzzle loader is relegated to the curio case. Last season a blacksmith was badly injured through putting an unsuspected gun barrel in his forge to start the screw of the breech lock. Some dangers have been removed by the introduction of the breech-loader, but a new one has arisen through the occasional sticking or binding of a carelessly loaded cartridge. Following a duck or a flock of plover down is a frequent cause of accident. When two or more men or boys are so foolish as to shoot from the same boat and toward one another. In partridge and woodcock shooting the novice and even the man of experience is a source of danger if he does not keep in mind the location of every member of his party or remain sufficiently far away for safety.

It is well to remember that a slight obstruction in the muzzle, a little sand or even loose snow scooped up accidentally may cause a shotgun to burst. It retains the air, which is compressed into a resisting cushion and prevents the escape of the explosive force. This is why a gun held against the body of a prostrate deer or bear is more apt to injure the man behind it than his quarry. In the deer hunting season the modern rifle, with long range, flat trajectory and great power of penetration, has become a new danger, greatly enhanced by the presence of a growing element whose eyes distort every moving irregular object into a bear or deer. The modern rifle should be confined to military use. It has less stopping power than the rifle of larger bore, and its long range is of little or no advantage, as it is seldom or never requisite. The dangerous nature of a gun cannot be too deeply impressed, for with every reasonable precaution the fates seem sometimes to manifest a pernicious ingenuity. A man in the Maine woods was standing with a gun on his shoulder close to his brother, who was choping a fallen tree. The first long chip flew from the axe and struck the hammers, discharging one barrel. The gun kicked out of the man's hands and fell to the ground, discharging the other barrel with fatal results. A better example could scarcely be cited to show the continuous danger of firearms.

WHY NOT WILFRID LAURIER?

After Joseph Chamberlain probably there is no other man in the British Empire so suitable for the position of Colonial Secretary as Wilfrid Laurier.

Seriously, why not?

Amid the mass of talk that for the past few years has involved the idea of Imperialism stands out two definite facts. One is Canada's preference to British goods, and the other is Chamberlain's resignation.

Laurier, in the British cabinet, would be a big step towards giving the colonies a definite regular place in the councils of the Empire. Laurier, as Colonial Secretary of the British Empire, would know perhaps even better than Chamberlain himself, the desires and spirit of the colonies. And Laurier, as a member of the British cabinet, would be a standing sign to all the world, that the Empire is one and indivisable.

And no available man in all the Empire, be he aristocrat or democrat, could fill the position with a greater dignity or usefulness than the man whose early life was passed a barefoot boy, speaking a tongue alien to English, in the village of St. Lin.

Of course, it will not happen. Such things seldom do.

But why not?

IT IS NOT THE BRAIN

But the Stomach That is Responsible for that Depressing Headache—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure it and Cure it Permanently.

"He hasn't enough brains to have a headache," is a term so often used that one might be led to believe that headaches were caused by the brain. But any physician will tell you that headaches—the dull, depressing kind that are worst of all—come from the stomach. Headaches are one of the symptoms of Indigestion, and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets drive them away once and for all.

This is not an idle statement but something that has been proved thousands of times. Here is one of the proofs. Julia Sandburg, of 221 John street, Hamilton, says:

"For over six years I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Headaches. Nothing I ate would agree with me and nothing I tried would cure me.

"Acting on the advice of others I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got relief almost at once and was very soon completely cured."

Reading of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets won't cure Dyspepsia or Headaches, but using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets has never failed to do it.

THE MARKET SITUATION.

Ten years ago in 1893, the stock market in New York experienced a period of disastrous depression much severer in character than the market is passing through at present. In addition to the depression in the stock market the business in the country was in a deplorable state. Trade was paralyzed, Manufactories of all kinds closed down, while the business of the railways greatly diminished. To-day, while the stock market is passing through a most trying period, the business of the country generally speaking, is of a most gratifying character. The farmers both in Canada and the United States are harvesting a splendid crop, and the farmers are really the backbone and true foundation of trade and commerce in these two countries. The earnings of railways, both steam and traction, are greater than at any previous time in their history, but in spite of all this the long continued depression has about destroyed public confidence in the merits of listed stocks—week after week goes by and the bottom does not appear to be reached. Locally the list holds steady with the exception of the internationally listed securities. These suffer because of their Wall street associations. There is no doubt that the better class of Canadian railroad and industrial stocks ought not to be sacrificed.—Financial News.

REACHING FOR THE GRAIN.

(Globe.)

A committee of the New Orleans Board of Trade has been visiting New York, looking into the methods of exporting grain from that city. New Orleans is one of the ports where the business of exporting grain has largely increased this year. It is not the only gulf port that has profitted from the recognition of geographical facts. It appears to be the first, however, which is taking action to insure the results of the advantages of its position.

If one examines a map of the North American continent he will find that a line drawn from New Orleans to Duluth will pass close to St. Louis, and that that city is equi-distant from the two points, namely, about 575 miles. St. Louis is over 900 miles from New York and about 260 miles from Chicago. Now York for various reasons gathered in a wonderfully large proportion of the export products of this whole range of territory, but it looks as if mileage was beginning to have its inevitable effect. There are some disadvantages in shipping from ports in the Gulf of Mexico, the torrid heat of a considerable part of the year being one of them. They are all overborne, however, by the fact that for an extensive territory such ports as New Orleans offer the minimum of rail carriage. There were circumstances about shipment to New York which cancelled a considerable part of this advantage, and the committee of the Board of Trade has put its finger on one of the chief of these when it recommends the board to establish in New Orleans a market in futures for grain. There can be no doubt that this feature of New York commerce has been a powerful instrument in maintaining its supremacy as a grain export centre. Indeed, advocates of the St. Lawrence route as the ideal channel for the export of northern grain have always been told that it can never be successfully employed until there is a market for futures in Montreal.

The way in which it operates is this: When a grain dealer in Winnipeg buys 20,000 bushels of wheat at current rates he immediately telegraphs his New York agent to sell 20,000 bushels of wheat for future delivery. He is thus secured in any decline in prices for a time, and ships his grain relieved of all speculative chances or mischances. A Winnipeg dealer shipping to Montreal, or a Topeka dealer shipping to New Orleans, would have to accept possibility of a fall in the market, making his operations more hazardous. This handicap would balance a difference in rates up to a certain point, but beyond that, as we are seeing, it fails to operate. Montreal and New Orleans are each getting an increased tonnage of grain in spite of the fact that there are no markets for futures there. It looks however, as if the latter is going to make an effort to supply even this want, and there will be considerable interest in seeing if it can be accomplished.

IMMIGRANTS, AMERICAN AND ENGLISH.

(Globe.)

A correspondent to the London Times contributes to its columns a letter on the American immigration into the Canadian Northwest. He acknowledges that he began his investigations in quite a sceptical mood, but he frankly says that on inquiry on the spot he finds the facts have not been exaggerated. He has been acquainted with conditions in Canada for a good many years, and he has resided in the States for years, so that he is more than commonly well-equipped for drawing sound conclusions. He says that for many long and weary years Northwestern Canada cried aloud for settlers and the response came but slowly and intermittently. "Every suitable country," he says, "in older Canada and Europe, was appealed to with persistent energy, but with a very moderate degree of success; but I do not think that till quite recently the United States was ever dreamed of by the most sanguine Canadian as a source of such supplies. On the contrary, as everybody knows, the boot was on the other leg, and the States for more than a generation or so, sucked Canada's lifeblood in a very disturbing fashion."

All this has changed, however, and he was himself a personal witness of the inpouring of the American host. He cannot speak too highly of their desirability as an addition to the population of Canada. Their capital, their experience, their adaptability, and their practical energy and capacity for doing the things themselves have evidently impressed him most favourably. He speaks of one of these settlers, worth some $40,000, with a well appointed house and good outbuildings, who was nevertheless engaged when he found him in hauling fence-posts. He was dressed in a flannel shirt and slouch hat. This leads the correspondent to remark that it is not merely the money which these settlers bring in, but the man behind the money.

He continues:—"Anything more widely different than these men from the ten or fifteen thousand dollar amateur from the old country could hardly be imagined. It is a painful reflection, though the story is a very old one; but if one in four of these young Englishmen have any substantial balance of their capital to show in half a dozen years it would surprise those who best know their type; and in too many cases it is their own fault. Drink, idleness, and restlessness are the most fertile while lack of experience, without sometimes the sense or modesty to recognize it and take advice, has been too often the bane of others who are steady and industrious. Let us hope that better results will accrue to the English middle-class emigrant in the future than in the past; but it is difficult for anyone with a quarter of a century's experience of these matters behind him to share the optimism of the moment as to this particular class."

The time-honoured advice, he says, to the European immigrant is to contrary, proclaim the amount they have to invest amongst a roomful of people. He has no fear that anybody will sell him what he does not want to buy, or overreach him in any way. The correspondent has but little fear that the American immigrants will not become good Canadian citizens. They are a law-abiding class and recognize with satisfaction the sureness and swiftness of Canadian justice. They cannot take up Government land without becoming citizens, and they seem to show no hesitation about doing so.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

A Brantford Girl of Eight Years is the Victim.

ARREST OF JOSEPH KENNEDY

Child Was Criminally Assaulted and Then Murdered—Father Found Her Dead, Mutilated Body at "The Willows" —Was Missing From Her Home From One O'clock—Public Feeling Runs High.

Brantford, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—A terrible tragedy resembling in many ways the murder of Glory Whalen near Collingwood some months ago, was perpetrated here to-day between the hours of 1 and 7 p.m. Irene, the 8-year-old daughter of Peter Cole, 120 Eagle-avenue, was foully murdered and no definite clue as to the person committing the deed was left.

The child had been unfortunate enough to break her arm some days ago and was not at school. She left home about 1 o'clock, but her absence was not noticed till after 6 o'clock, when her father started out to search for her. After searching in vain for some time he directed his attention to a swamp, known as "The Willows," thinking that, perhaps, she might have wandered in there and got lost, when to his horror he stumbled across her dead body, about 200 yards from the street.

The Coroner and police were immediately notified and were soon on the scene of the tragedy. The body was taken in charge by Coroner Fissette, who ordered its removal to J. W. Wood's undertaking establishment.

The body had one severe cut, also a blow on the head, as tho caused by a club. The head looked as if the child had been strangled. Her under-clothing was torn and saturated with blood.

The scene of the tragedy is a swamp, lying south of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo station. For years it had been utilized for the purpose of growing willows, but recently it has been occupied by the Massey-Harris Company, who use it for a lumber yard. It is very thickly wooded, a person being unable to see five yards ahead in it.

The father of the murdered girl is an expert machinist employed by the Massey-Harris Company, and had just returned yesterday from an extensive trip erecting machinery for that company. He was the first to find his child in the swamp, the result of which has driven him into an hysterical condition.

The child was about eight years old, had light hair and since her unfortunate accident had carried her arm in a sling.

Great excitement has prevailed all evening, throngs of excited people crowding the streets, while others visited the scene of the tragedy and partook in the search of The Willows for the party who is guilty of the foul crime.

The cause of the murder is only too plainly told. Everything points without doubt to criminal assault. It resembles that of Glory Whalen only that it is more horrible, as Irene was much younger than Glory.

Suspect Arrested.

Brantford, Oct. 1.—Between 1 and 2 this morning the police arrested Joseph Kennedy, a coachman, as being the perpetrator of the crime. The arrest followed information received from Jesse Willoughby, a resident, who upon hearing the man described notified the police of seeing Kennedy in the vicinity of the tragedy all the afternoon. Kennedy was arrested on the outskirts of the town. When he was examined the police discovered blood stains on his shirt. He will say nothing further than to stoutly deny having committed the crime.

Joseph Kennedy, who answers in every detail to the description of the man wanted, came to Brantford about eight weeks ago from his home in Belfast, Ireland. He has been employed as a coachman by several people in Brantford, but his unsteady habits and love of drink has resulted in his discharge from all his positions. The Brantford police are satisfied they have the right man, but until the doctor examines his clothing and the bloodstains, no definite assertion can be made. A man was also arrested in Welland.

THE BRITISH FIGHT.

Experts Will Lecture on Britain's Progress—Mr. Chamberlain's Manifesto.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 30.—Mr. Chamberlain's manifesto, to be issued in a few days, takes the form of a preface to a series of inspired articles to be written by the ex-Secretary on the imperial tariff. The preface extends over six pages, and Mr. Chamberlain explains the reasons which led him to advocate the alteration of the fiscal policy and further emphasizes the position he took up in his Birmingham speech.

A scheme for stimulating British trade has been initiated, by which lectures will be prepared by experts in various lines of manufacture, to show the progress made by Britain in the manufacture of all classes of machinery and goods. Copies of the lectures will be forwarded for reading before the Technical Trade Societies, the Chambers of Commerce, colleges and schools of the British colonies. The Board of Trade and other government departments are working with the agents-general of the colonies, with a view of arranging lectures before suitable institutions in the colonies.

Killed by a Train.

St. Thomas, Sept. 30.—William Algie, aged about 35, and supposed to be of unsound mind, was killed by being struck by a train in the Wabash yards here at 6 o'clock to-night. He was at one time a conductor on the Grand Trunk, but for the last two years has been confined in an asylum. He was in St. Thomas attending court. He leaves a wife and several children.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Four persons were killed and several injured to-night by being struck by an express train at Sharon Hill, a few miles from this city, on the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington Railroad.

TROOPS STILL ON GUARD.

The Presence of the Military Had a Quieting Effect on the Riotous and Riotously Inclined, and Danger Point Is Now Believed to Be Passed — Mr. Clergue and Others See Premier Ross.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Military discipline and rigorous police measures have jarred things into their normal conditions around the Soo. There is but slight prospect that the unpaid employes of the collapsed Lake Superior Consolidated will further disturb the public peace. Their disposition is still ugly, but the number of idle men is rapidly diminishing and the military force is entirely adequate to control the situation. Col. Buchan was disposed to return the Toronto corps to-day, so thoroly was the commanding officer impressed with the ability of the regulars to handle the men, but the frantic appeals of Manager Coyne backed by the advice of Canal Superintendent Boyd induced the officer to delay the return of all the militia for another day.

The element of danger anticipated in cutting off the food supply of the six hundred enforced guests of the city at the Tagona Inn was without foundation and the lumbermen accepted with apparent philosophy the refusal of the municipality to further provide for them after lunch to-day. Mayor Plummer thinks as many as 400 went out to-night in the employ of different lumber agencies in Ontario, while but 300 came in from the woods. A special train in charge of 20 soldiers went over the line for these and they gave respectful attention to the presence of the men with rifles. As the train approached the city each passenger was given three meal tickets on different cheap boarding houses, signed by the company, and told that the charity would not be extended beyond that donation.

The arrival of the second detachment was the signal for the opening of the bar-rooms, which have been closed since Monday, the starting of the street cars, the ferries and the resumption of business at the pulp mill and other buildings of the collapsed company.

Charles Marshall of Rainy River, Alex. Brunton of the Soo, both employes of the company, and Moise Dupont, were the three important prisoners gathered in by the police during the day. They were charged with rioting and inciting to riot. In addition, Brunton is charged with intimidation, he being identified by Landlord Skenner of the International Hotel as the man heading a gang of woodsmen who came into his place and warned him to get the women out and anything he desired to save, as they proposed to sack and burn the whole block. The landlord may be pardoned for exhibiting fear, as there was nothing to prevent the men from carrying out their threats Monday night, and several carried sticks of dynamite carelessly in their hands.

The decision of the city to cut off the supply of free food was announced just as soon as the last contingent of troops arrived. The 500 men received the remarks at their noon meal with silence. The Mayor and Police Magistrate decided that to longer continue to treat the men as charity subjects would only make matters worse, as none could tell when the checks would be paid and there were positions for all who would work. The bushmen who could not speak English pretended to understand, but most of the crowd left with their pitiful baggage supplies, stood around in the rain on the street corners, shaking their heads and appearing quite helpless. Yet they were requested to go to work. The foreign element finally rushed from the old inn as Major Mercer and his men came in. Most of them were crying in broken English, "wanta ma mun." They stood just beyond the dead line established by the troops, eyeing their recent abode with anxiety but not offering violence.

Mr. Clergue Sees the Premier.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Mr. Francis H. Clergue, the promoter of the Soo industries, arrived in the city yesterday from New York. Mr. Clergue proceeded directly to the Parliament buildings, where he was joined by Mr. James Conmee, M.P.P. The two had a consultation, and then Mr Clergue called on the Premier, with whom he spent an hour. Neither Hon. Mr. Ross nor Mr. Clergue would speak with regard to the subject of the interview, but it is understood that plans for the immediate payment of the employes and the nature of the assistance that the Government could give in preventing a sacrifice sale of the properties were discussed. All that Mr. Clergue would say after the interview was that things were assuming a more definite and satisfactory shape.

Other visitors to the Premier were Mr. C. N. Smith, Liberal candidate in the Soo, and Edward Barry, secretary of the Workingmen's Committee. Messrs. Smith and Barry were appointed by the workingmen of the Consolidated to interview the Government, and see what could be done to keep the works running this winter and stop the exodus from the Soo. "We got no assurance from the Premier that anything can be done," said Mr. Smith. "Some of our men have been able to negotiate their time cheques on the strength of the Government's assurance that the wages would be paid in full, but many of them are leaving every day, the skilled men in the iron and steel works going to Duluth and Pittsburg, where there is a demand for labor of that sort."

CAPT. BERNIER AND NORTH POLE.

Mr. Charlton Urges Building a Ship For Him to Find It.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—John Charlton placed before the House to-night the advisability of aiding Capt. Bernier's polar expedition. He paid a high tribute to the captain's persistency in the scheme of organising a Canadian expedition and his ability as a navigator. He mentioned that had been in command of 46 ships and had commanded a vessel at the age of 17 years, had been in command of 46 ships and had crossed the ocean 174 times. His plans had been approved of by such notable Arctic explorers as Nansen. The captain's plan was to enter the Arctic Sea by way of Behring Straits and to drift eastward to the polar region. As an evidence of the confidence which eminent men repose in the captain, he would mention that Lord Strathcona had subscribed $5000 towards the expedition. He had no doubt that if Capt. Bernier were placed in charge of the expedition he would give a good account of himself. His proposal was to have the government build him a vessel, which would be returned at the end of the voyage. Such a vessel would cost $80,000 and $120,000 for equipment, and of the latter sum $60,000 had been raised by private subscriptions. Mr. Charlton described in detail the construction, crew and outfit of the ship, which would be provisioned for six years, heated and lighted by electricity and have a wireless telegraph plant in addition to an automobile carriage for running on the ice. Capt. Bernier was of the opinion that the government might buy the ship Fram, which could be had cheap. Mr. Charlton altogether approved of the scheme and expressed the hope that the Minister of Marine would urge upon his colleagues the advisability of voting the necessary assistance to enable it to be carried forward.

A Minister's Argument.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries said the original plan was to have parliament vote Capt. Bernier $125,000 to help equip his Polar expedition, but recently a delegation, including many senators and members of parliament, had waited upon him and urged that the government build a boat suitable for the expedition and lend it to the captain for that purpose, and resume possession of it upon his return. Such a vessel would cost between $60,000 and $70,000. Capt. Bernier, with commendable energy and pluck, said Mr. Prefontaine, had succeeded in raising $40,000 by public subscription, and would have been able to get all the money required had he been in a position to say that parliament was ready to endorse his scheme. While there was a good deal of sentiment in this question, there were the possibilities of material advantages to be gained, for if anyone 15 years ago had proposed that the Yukon would be producing $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 of gold yearly he would not have been believed, yet such was now the fact, and he knew from personal investigation that the Yukon in a mining sense had not been scratched as yet. Capt. Bernier was regarded abroad as a serious, earnest man, whose plans were practicable, and, altho our needs were large in Canada, there was no reason why in this matter we should fold our hands and let our neighbors take advantage of us. We have immense territory in the direction of the North Pole, and if by risking $80,000 we could do something to exploit it, Mr. Prefontaine believed the country would approve of it. But, while personally holding favorable views, he must say, as Minister of Marine, that, owing to the multiplicity of important questions demanding their attention, the government had not been able to give this question consideration. If, however, the government should take a favorable view of Capt. Bernier's proposal, he personally was convinced that the people of Canada would be behind them in the matter.

Mr. Hackett of Prince Edward Island didn't believe Capt. Bernier would bring back enough of the North Pole to make a snuff box. Anyway, he thought the first duty of the government was to provide adequate steam communication between the Island and the mainland. With this the subject dropped, and the House went into Committee of Supply.

It is publicly announced now that Mr. Charles F. MacGill, the mechanical superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company of town, has resigned his position and accepted a similar one with the Westinghouse Electrical Company, at Pittsburg, Pa. The news has come at once as a surprise and a blow to all who know Mr. MacGill, and his loss will be especially keen to the employees of the Company, with whom he has been very popular. Mr. MacGill has occupied his late position for the past five years and when interviewed last night gave as his reason, that this move would be much to his advantage financially. However, Mr. MacGill, will not, although he goes to Pittsburg in the course of a few days, move his family for some months, and states that he will be back to Peterborough next summer for his vacation. His departure will be a great loss to the company, which, however, has secured the services of Mr. R. Dobie, the present mechanical superintendent of the Montreal General Electric Works, who is expected in town in the course of a week or so. Mr. MacGill, who is personally acquainted with Mr. Dobie, states that the latter is a very practical man, who will, he is assured, fill the position well and be popular among the employees of the company.

CAR WRECKED ON THE CEREAL CO'S SIDING.

No One was Injured or Killed—Some Grain Lost.

An open switch and a shunting C. P. R. train on the Cereal Co.'s siding resulted last evening in the wrecking of a car laden with grain, most of which was lost. It is learned that several cars were standing on one track of the siding when the train came along and took the track on which the cars stood. Before the locomotive could be stopped the collision occurred. However, beyond the end of the car being smashed in no damage was done, and luckily no one was either killed or injured. The car was at once unladen and now stands on the siding on the north side of Hunter street.

RECORD CROWD AT KEENE FAIR.

Otonabee's Annual Holiday Enjoyed Yesterday.

EXHIBITS BETTER THAN EVER

Nearly One Thousand People on the Grounds.

Stock of of Better Quality Than Ever Before—Inside Exhibits a Special Feature—Speeding Events Warmly Contested.

With fine weather, the largest attendance in the history of the Association, a large list of entries in all classes, and interesting speeding events, the annual exhibition of the Otonabee Agricultural Association held at Keene on Tuesday and Wednesday was the most successful ever held. Tuesday was occupied with placing the exhibits in the building used for the display of fruits, grains, art, domestic manufactures, ladies' work, vegetables and dairy and farm produce, the array of which far surpassed both in quantity and quality, that of previous years.

Wednesday all roads led to Keene, and early in the day, a throng of Otonabee's sturdy sons and fair daughters gathered in the model little town to participate in the great annual event. It is estimated that over 1,000 persons were on the grounds, the gate receipts amounting to $325, which is an increase of $50 over last year, and, taking the paid admissions, and those who went in on passes and membership tickets the attendance was well over the thousand mark. The steamer Water Lily and barge brought an excursion of over 300 persons from Rice Lake ports.

The exhibition of itself was one well worth seeing, and it was remarked that the stock shown compared very favourably with that exhibited at larger exhibitions, and in some cases even excelled in quality, that awarded prizes in some of the more pretentious fairs.

THE INSIDE EXHIBITS.

The building in which these were displayed was the skating rink, and the showing deserved special mention. That in the fruit section was particularly creditable, and apples were seen which it would indeed be hard to beat. The vegetables also were of good quality, an enormous squash weighing 168 lbs. being a representative example. A full variety of roots were seen, and among them were noticed some very fine sugar beets, showing that they can be successfully grown in this county.

In the art department, an exhibit of photographs by Mr. Easson, of the canal staff, was very fine, and would do credit to any city art studio. A very well executed oil landscape painting well deserved the first prize awarded it. In the department of ladies' work, the showing was also a representative one, and some very handsome specimens of needlework were on exhibition.

GRAFTON & CO'S EXHIBIT.

Occupying a prominent place in the inside exhibits was a very handsome display of clothing made by Grafton & Co., and those in charge were kept busy giving out the souvenirs and answering the many questions asked about the clothing in the exhibit. A full line of men's and boys' suits and overcoats was shown, and all the different styles were represented. As garments of seasonable interest a number of winter overcoats were given prominent positions. One line which might be mentioned particularly was a black beaver coat cut in the newest style and trimmed equal to custom made. The union label on all the firm's clothing is a guarantee of good workmanship. Those who were in charge of the exhibit were very courteous and it is safe to say Grafton & Co made many new friends in Keene yesterday. The goods on exhibition were tastefully arranged and the display was easily the most attractive on the grounds.

THE EXHIBITORS.

About 950 entries were made in the different classes, as compared with 868 last year. As has already been noted, the live stock was a feature of the fair that was especially attractive, and all classes were well represented. A list of exhibitors in the principal classes follow:—

HORSES.

SPEEDING IN THE RING.

The speeding events were well contested, and some close finishes were seen in some of the races. That in which the greatest interest was centred was the open trot, in which there were but two entries, those of Messrs. Arthur and Jas. Elmhurst and four heats were required to decide the winner. Following is a summary of the heats:

Little Diamond, owned by Arthur Elmhurst... ... ...1 2 1 1
Prince Hal, owned by Jas. Elmhurst... ... ...2 1 2 2

The third heat of this race was very exciting, Little Diamond winning by a head.

In the Green Trot there were three entries, Harold D. winning three straight heats. The third heat was very close, however, as Factory Boy was a good seconde and passed under the wire but a head behind the winner.

"Harold D," W. Elmhurst ...1 1 1
"Factory Boy," A. Elmhurst.2 2 2
"Little City," Robert Orde...3 3 3

"Bony Pat," J. Elmhurst... ...1 1
"Lizzie W," J. Duncan... ... .3 2
"Archie," Samual Armstrong.....2 3

The starter of the races was Mr. H. C. Winch of Peterborough, and he made an excellent official, getting the races off quickly, and to the complete satisfaction, both of spectators and the drivers. Those associated with Mr. Winch in the judging were Messrs. William Shearer, Peter Drummond and E. M. Elliott.

An interesting contest was that in the class for lady drivers, the prizes being awarded as follows:

1—Miss Edna Fitzgerald, Smith.
2—Mrs. Nicholls, Lakefield.
3—Mrs. Howson, Otonabee.

The judging in this class was extremely difficult, as all the contestants showed good skill and gracefulness in handling the reins, and it was only after considerable deliberation that the prizes were awarded.

That the Otonabee exhibition has created for itself a deep interest on the part of the residents, not only of the township, but also of the county, was made evident by the attendance, which included many from Peterborough, as well as other places in the county. Mr. Hughes-Charles was an interested visitor, and no doubt received some suggestions from the Keene Fair which will be incorporated into the management of the Peterborough Industrial. Mr. E. A. Peck accompanied Mr. Hughes-Charles and also manifested considerable interest in the exhibits. Mr. John Lang, M. P., Mr William Anderson, M.P.P., and Mr. Thomas Blezard, ex-M.P., were also on the grounds and evidently enjoyed the sights of the Fair.

By their success this year the Directors will no doubt be encouraged to attempt even greater things for next year.

NOTES OF THE FAIR.

A noticeable feature of the Fair was the absolute absence of any unbecoming conduct. Of all the hundreds present not one was noticed intoxicated, and the day passed off in the most pleasant manner.

Probably none enjoyed the day as fully as the Indians. They were there in full force and took in all the features. Chief Paudash and Professor Crowe were on the grounds as well as many others.

The oldest person on the grounds grounds was Mr. Robert Hope, 92 years of age, and it is his pride that he has attended almost every one, if not all of the fairs, held at Keene. He is still hale and hearty and enjoyed the day as thoroughly as any one present. Mr. Hope generously gave the newspaper men much interesting information relating to the history of the Keene Exhibition in the past.

Peterborough merchants were represented at the Fair. In the "Main Building" Grafton & Co. had an exhibit of clothing, and Messrs White & Gillespie were on hand with cream separators, for which they are agents. Turnbull's float was in evidence and was the centre of attraction. The housefurnishings displayed on it were an evidence that this department of J. C. Turnbull Co's store is an important one. Budd & Co. had a tent in which the goods sold by the firm were displayed. It seemed to be a popular place with the ladies. Cressman's and Gough Bros. also had representatives on the ground.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

AFTER LONG SERVICE.

H. P. Dwight Retires and Isaac McMichael of Minneapolis Succeeds.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—After a continuous service of 56 years, H. P. Dwight yesterday retired from the office of general manager of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co., though still remaining president of the company and continuing to take an active part in its management. He is succeeded as manager by Isaac McMichael, at present superintendent of the Minneapolis branch of the Western Union Telegraph Co. Mr. McMichael is a Canadian, having been born at Brantford some fifty years ago. He learned operating with the G.N.W., and while yet a young man became superintendent of the St. Louis branch of the Western Union service and was later advanced to the position he holds in Minneapolis, his connection with the company having extended over 25 years.

Another Cure of Chronic Disease

Of the Kidneys and Bowels—Well-known Steamboat Man Endorses

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills

Statement Vouched for by Minister.

Mr. Jas. A. Buchner, St. Catharines, Ont., was for years a steamboat man and is favourably known in every port from Cleveland to Montreal. Until a few months ago he was for years a great sufferer from kidney disease, rheumatism and constipation. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have made him well and for the benefit of others he has made the statement below:

Mr. Buchner writes: "For many years I was the unhappy victim of kidney trouble, rheumatism, and constipation, which became so severe as to make life a burden. I was a constant sufferer, entirely unfit for work; appetite was fickle; I became emaciated; could not sleep, but arose in the morning tired and enfeebled. I lingered on in this condition, gradually growing worse, and became despondent and discouraged because I could obtain no relief from the many medicines used.

"Friends advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I now feel thankful that this medicine came to my hands when I was in such a miserable condition. The first box gave relief, and, filled with joy at the thought of again recovering health, I continued the use of these pills until I had used six or eight boxes and was again enjoying my former health and vigour. I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as an ideal medicine."

Rev. W. D. Musson, Methodist minister, Port Robinson, Ont., writes:—"Being personally acquainted with Mr. J. A. Buchner, who was cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I can say I believe he would not make a statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

It is by curing just such chronic and complicated cases as this that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have become so well known as a medicine of exceptional merit. Their direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels makes them successful where ordinary medicines fail. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 2

Sir Michael Herbert Claimed by Dreaded Consumption.

BRILLIANT CAREER IS ENDED

British Ambassador at Washington Died Suddenly at Davos-Platz, Switzerland, After a Long and Plucky Fight Against Consumption—Death Due to Overstrain—Tributes of Respect to the Diplomat.

London, Oct. 1.—Sir Michael Herbert, the British Ambassador to the United States, died suddenly yesterday at 1.30 p. m., at Davos-Platz, Switzerland, after a long and plucky fight against consumption. The first announcement was made at the afternoon session of the Alaskan Boundary Commission.

Sir Michael had been at Davos-Platz about five weeks. When he returned to London from America he confessed he felt far from well, but his physicians still held out hopes of his conquering the consumption. The Ambassador expected to leave Davos-Platz a week or so ago in order to meet the Alaskan Commissioners here, but he contracted bronchitis. Of this he wrote, only a few days ago, quite slightingly, saying it was only annoying because on account of it the doctor insisted on his not going to London to see his American friends.

President Roosevelt's Tribute.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Official Washington has learned with profound regret of the death of Right Hon. Sir Michael H. Herbert, C.B., G.C.M.G., British Ambassador to the United States. The following statement, by authority of President Roosevelt, was issued at the White House yesterday: "The President is deeply shocked and grieved at the death of Sir Michael Herbert, both because of his personal affection for Sir Michael and because of his high appreciation of him as an official."

Due to Overstrain.

Davos-Platz, Switzerland, Oct. 1.—The over-strain of Sir Michael's duties at Washington, especially in connection with the negotiations of the Venezuelan dispute, reacted seriously on his lung weakness and was largely responsible for his end. The climate here appeared to cause a distinct improvement in his condition, but 10 days ago he was attacked with pulmonary hemorrhage, which resulted in a general weakening of the system and he afterward declined rapidly. With him at the time of his death were his wife, his brother, the Earl of Pembroke, the Countess of Pembroke, and his sister, Countess de Gray. The interment will take place at Wilton, England.

Tribunal's Tribute of Respect.

London, Oct. 1.—(C.A.P.)—Before the Alaskan Commission yesterday afternoon President Lord Alverstone announced the death of Sir Michael Herbert, Ambassador at Washington, and spoke most feelingly of his great ability and devoted services to his country.

Mr. Dickinson, on behalf of the United States, testified to the general regret with which Americans received the sad news, and moved that as a tribute of respect the tribunal should adjourn.

Sir E. Carson briefly expressed his concurrence, and adverted to the special manner in which the grievous loss had been brought home to the tribunal created under a treaty which Sir Michael Herbert had negotiated, and by which Great Britain and Canada expected to reach a satisfactory solution of questions pending before it.

Born in 1857.

SirMichael Herbert was a brother of the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery. He was born in 1857 and entered the diplomatic service when 20 years of age. He was promoted to be a second secretary in 1883, and secretary in 1892, and during his career has twice acted as charge d'affaires in Washington—first from Oct. 31, 1888, to February 16, 1889, and secondly in 1892. He was transferred to The Hague in September, 1893, where he acted as charge d'affaires from Dec. 25, 1893, to Jan. 8, 1894, and was promoted to be secretary of embassy at Constantinople in August, 1894. There he acted as charge d'affaires from Oct. 29 to Nov. 23, 1895, and from May 19, to Sept. 8, 1896. In 1897 he was transferred to Rome, and in the following year was appointed to the Paris embassy, where he was appointed minister plenipotentiary. He was made a Companion of the Bath (civil division) six years ago. In 1902 he succeeded Lord Pauncefote as British ambassador at Washington, and it was largely due to his efforts following out the policy of his predecessor that the Alaskan dispute was submitted to the tribunal, by whom it is now being considered. The late minister, when secretary of the embassy, was a very intimate friend of President Roosevelt.

Preferred Death to St. Thomas.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—Rachel Buck, a pretty 19-year-old vegetable cook, who has been employed at the new American Hotel, died yesterday from the effects of a dose of Paris green she took two weeks ago Friday. The reason she gave at the time was that she would rather die than face the prospects of leaving Hamilton to live in St. Thomas.

"I wrote to Doctor Pierce, who sent me a very kind letter and advised me."

Thousands of weak and sick women can trace the beginning of a new life of perfect health to that letter written to Dr. Pierce.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures weak and aching backs, headaches, nervousness and other womanly ailments by curing the womanly diseases which cause them.

"In the spring of 1900 I became very ill," writes Mrs. Alvina Scholtz, of Lake Washington, Lesueur Co., Minn., "my back was very weak and ached so that I could do no work at all, so I was obliged to take to my bed. I felt a constant desire to urinate and the pains in abdomen were almost unbearable. I wrote to Dr. Pierce, who sent me a very kind letter, and advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took six bottles of each and am a well woman now. I cannot say enough in favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

THE ALASKAN TRIBUNAL.

British Counsel Replies to the Argument of Hannis Taylor—Characterized His Statement as "Rather Strong."

London, Sept. 30. — (C.A.P.)—Hannis Taylor, for the United States, at the Alaskan Commission, said that common law rules did not apply to the interpretation of treaties. He declared that no affirmative evidence had been produced to show that the negotiators of the treaty of 1825 had Vancouver's narrative before them, but he was willing to assume that they had quoted Vancouver as to the styling of Portland Channel an "arm of the sea," and Observatory Inlet "a branch." He argued, therefore, that Vancouver considered the whole estuary as Portland Canal.

He said there were two sorts of coast line, one the natural physical coast line, where salt water touches the land; the other the political coast line, which is a creation of international law, to provide a bulwark against the nation's enemies. In Alaska, the political coast line is the outside rim of islands. At the physical coast line the limit is salt water. The British case confuses the two, and their argument is, consequently, an unintelligible jargon.

British Counsel Replies.

Solicitor-General Sir E. Carson then addressed the court for Great Britain. He began by assuming that the whole United States case was before the court. In case any new matter was presented later, he claimed the right to reply to it.

He said that the first question was undisputed, but agreement thereon involved the admission on the part of the United States that for the purpose of starting the parallel must be discarded, and that the latitude was named for identification merely. He proved from the negotiations that the negotiators must have had Vancouver's narrative before them, and, in view of practically an admission to that effect, he characterized Mr. Taylor's statement that the narrative supported the United States contention as "rather strong." He showed from Vancouver's writings that he applied the name Portland Canal to the channel claimed by Great Britain, and that he called the channel claimed by the United States by another name.

TALK OF CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS.

Heavy Loser Makes Strong Plea For Justice—Some 900 Claimants.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Yesterday the long-looked-for statement of creditors and their claims in the winding-up proceedings of the Atlas Loan Company was submitted to the Master-in-Ordinary at Osgoode Hall and during the course of the proceedings a sensation was made by Frank Hunt, a retired farmer living in St. Thomas, a loser to the extent of $20,000, who in a long peroration stated the management of the Atlas Loan Co. in strong and decisive language, saying that he was ready if the Master brought matters into such a tangible shape, to swear information in a criminal charge against those who had caused such widespread suffering and sorrow through their false dealings and roguery. He stated that Manager Wallace had represented to him in February that $246,000 had been placed in the reserve fund, of which he claimed at the time not a cent was used for speculating in margins, and yet the company was insolvent at that very time. He closed by asking the Master, in view of the unfortunate people being situated in St. Thomas and all the books, papers and securities being there, that the sittings should be held in St. Thomas. This was agreed to by the Master, who assured Mr. Hunt that he was much impressed with his statement, and that he would do his utmost to place the responsibility on the company and its officers and if anything could be definitely shown to be criminal he would place it before the proper officers and proceedings would be instituted.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron was taking a stroll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive Sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

RUGBY.

The departure from town of Mr. A. W. MacPherson, will be a decided loss to the Rugby teams in town, as the players have been very materially helped in their efforts to compass the new rules by Mr. MacPherson's coaching. He expresses the opinion that in two or three years a Rugby team will be gotten together here which will trim anything in Ontario. The material is here and it only requires practice to bring this about. The players themselves are very enthusiastic in the new game and it is felt that the season will be a successful one in Rugby circles in Peterborough. With the many junior teams in the game some excellent material will be on hand with which to form a senior team next year.

Montreal, Sept 30.—(Special) — An emergency meeting of the Quebec Rugby Football Union was held here to-night to consider the application of the Rough Riders of Ottawa for admission into the union, to take the place of Brockville, resigned. The decision was unanimous in favour of their admittance, and the union now consists of the Britannias, Montreal, Ottawa College and the Rough Riders. The last named have agreed to accept the dates fixed with the Brockville Club and all the other conditions in connection therewith.—Globe.

"The Argonauts have come to the conclusion that the Ontario Rugby Union is no place for them, and the club will not be represented in the senior scories this year," stated Assistant Manager Joe Wright, last night. "We feel that we have not been treated fairly by the union. No action was taken by the Executive on the protest made by the club against the reinstatement of Green, and there was nothing left for us but to hand in our resignation. The union may have been justified in restoring the Hamilton man to good standing, but it is the general opinion of the Argonaut Club members that the move was an unwise one. He was expelled for good and sufficient reasons, and should not have been allowed back in the fold. The principle of the thing was all wrong."

Mr. Fred Thompson was the only member of the Argonaut Rugby Committee not in attendance at yesterday's meeting, when it was decided to send in the club's resignation from the O.R.F.U. President Robert McKay was in the chair. The decision was unanimously agreed upon. It is not the intention to disband the team. Exhibition matches will be played, and the Argonauts expect to have a busy season. Games will be arranged with Varsity, McGill, Hamilton, Ottawa and perhaps Ottawa College. Joe Wright says that the Argos will play "any team at any old style of Rugby."—Globe.

The final match for the junior C. L. A. championship, which was scheduled to be played this week between Durham and Elora, will not be played until sometime later. Yesterday Secretary W. H. A Chair Found.

This morning the police found a chair hanging on an iron step of a telephone pole at the corner of Reid and Charlotte streets. The chair may have dropped off a load, and found by some passer-by who put it where it was found in order that the owner might see it; on the other hand it may have been placed outside some house and some roughs coming along may have taken it and hung it on the pole for what is termed a "lark." The chair was left on the pole.

A BRITISH DELEGATE WILL SPEAK IN PETERBOROUGH.

A Well Known Clergyman to Address a Meeting in St. Paul's Church.

The attention of the citizens of Peterborough is called to the rare privilege to be enjoyed by hearing such a man as Rev. G. H. Bondfield, one of the British delegates now visiting Canada in the interests of the Centenary of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The other members of the delegation are Ven. Archdeacon Madden, of Liverpool, and Sir Algernon Coote, Bart., who will address meetings in other towns that night. The Rev. Mr. Bondfield has been most devoted to the Society's interests in Shanghai, China, and is on his way there now. He is a clear and forcible speaker and narrates many interesting incidents from experiences in Manchuria and Eastern Russia.

Remember the meeting. Free to everybody. In St. Paul's church, Tuesday, Oct. 6th, at 8 p.m.

THE NORTH PROSPEROUS.

Rev. J. P. Wilson Returns From Trip to Apsley,

Rev. J. P. Wilson returned last night from an official visit to Chemong and Apsley, where, as chairman of the district he has been on a visit enquiring into the financial condition of the churches there. He found that the churches were all in a flourishing condition, two new places of worship having been built during the year, one of which is entirely paid for and the debt on the second is fully provided for. The people in the north, he says, are satisfied with the harvest this year, and are prospering; the churches, enjoying a proportionate measure of prosperity.

MR. C. F. MacGILL WAS HONOURED.

Tendered a Banquet at the Snowden House.

REGRET AT HIS DEPARTURE.

High Tributes by Canadian General Electric Co. Officials to His Ability —Happy Relations Between Men and Company.

The dining hall of the Snowden House was last night the scene of a banquet tendered to Mr. C. F. MacGill, who has but recently resigned from the position of mechanical superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company's Works here, to go to Pittsburg, where he has accepted a similar position with the Westinghouse Company, at a largely increased salary. The hosts of the pleasing affair last night were the members of the clerical staff with the heads of the departments, representing the entire staff of the Works.

That Mr. MacGill is extremely popular with the men with whom he was associated was made evident by the many expressions of good wishes which were given utterance to last night, the feeling being unanimous, that the men of the Works were losing a good friend.

The dinner was an elaborate one and was served in Snowden style; the appetizing viands were of a quality calculated to make one feel in a satisfied mood, which result was readily attained.

Mr. Layfield acted as chairman, and on his right was seated Mr. MacGill, while Mr. E. G. Patterson was at the chairman's left. Mr. Geo. Tovey filled the vice-chair.

Mr. R. E. Layfield, after the excellent supper had been disposed of, proposed the toast to the King, which was honoured in the usual way. The toastmaster then asked Mr. Geo. Tovey, who occupied the position of vice-chairman, to propose the toast to "Our Guest," which he did in a very pleasant little speech. This toast was received with "He's a jolly, good fellow" being sung heartily. Mr. MacGill, upon rising to reply was greeted with applause, and he made a very much appreciated speech. He reviewed briefly the associations which he had had with the men, and said that he was glad of the opportunity of meeting all the men together, probably for the last time. He was particularly pleased that during the time he had been in the town, the Mutual Benefit Society had been organized. He would always look back upon his stay here with great pleasure, because he had made many friends, with whom it seemed hard to part.

The next toast was that to "The Canadian General Electric Company," which was proposed by Mr. W. S. Robinson, who spoke of the pleasant relations between the Company and the men, all of whom were proud of the progress which had characterized the company.

Mr. E. G. Patterson, the general superintendent of the Company, responded for the Company, and said, that from the General Manager down all the officials of the Company felt a deep regret that Mr. MacGill was severing his connection with the Company. He paid a tribute to the industry of the employees of the Company to which the success of the latter was largely due. He wished Mr. MacGill continued prosperity in his new position. He had displayed unusual ability during the time he had spent in the employ of the Company here, and he felt sure he would continue to display the sterling qualities which had characterized his work here.

Mr. F. Skitch then favoured the company with a well rendered vocal solo.

Mr. Brundrette proposed the toast to the ladies in a short but eloquent speech.

Mr. F. Bradburn responded to this interesting toast, and said that the ladies would feel the general regret experienced in Mr. McGill's departure.

Mr. Cluxton also spoke to the toast and made a characteristically gallant speech, in which he paid a high tribute to the ladies of Peterborough. He took occasion in the progress of his speech to recite one of Drummond's "Habitant" poems on the Canadian girl. Mr. Cluxton was also called upon for a solo and graciously responded.

At this point Mr. Layfield took occasion to speak a few words with reference to the departure of Mr. McGill. He said that he felt he was voicing the sentiments of all the men when he said that they all felt that they were losing a real friend in Mr. McGill's departure. He congratulated him, however, on the excellent position which had been offered him and which he had accepted.

Mr. Lloyd followed with a much appreciated vocal solo.

Mr. T. W. Wilson then proposed the toast to the official staff. He said in proposing this toast that he felt the men considered themselves as constituting a happy family. The relations between the officials and the men were of the most pleasant kind.

Mr. McGee responded, expressing his regret at the fact that Mr. McGill was leaving the works.

Mr. Burnett, superintendent of the Lamp Department, also spoke to this toast, and following the remarks of the preceding speakers, paid a high tribute to the good qualities of Mr. McGill, and expressed his personal regret at losing him from the works.

Mr. C. E. Brown, assistant to Mr. McGee, also spoke a few words, referring to Mr. MacGill's good qualities, and wishing him success in his new sphere. Mr. Brundette also spoke along the same line.

Mr. Carson, foreman of the labour section of the works, was called upon to which he responded in a satisfactory manner.

The toast to the Press, was then proposed by Mr. Layfield, and responded to by the representatives present.

Mr. MacGill asked to be allowed to speak briefly with respect to Mr. Doble, his successor. He knew that he was fully competent, and would, he felt sure, receive the generous support which had been accorded him. He also suggested that it would be a benefit to the works if a foremen's association were formed. He paid a tribute to the high class of apprentices in the Canadian General Electric Works here.

The toast to the General Superintendent was proposed, and Mr. E. G. Patterson in responding, said that he was pleased to be associated with the men surrounding the festive board. Speaking of the progress of the company he said that eleven years ago there were 350 men employed, while to-day in the works at Peterborough, Montreal and Toronto, and in the sales offices, the staff numbered 2,000. This was an astonishing record, and it had been achieved by the co-operation of the company and the employees. He predicted even greater progress in the future, and said that this would mean advancement for the men and prosperity for the town.

"Our Absent Friends" was honoured in the usual manner, and was spoken to by Mr. C. Robinson. Mr. Robert Harding made a short speech in which he spoke of the good feeling existing between Mr McGill and the entire staff of employees.

This ended the speech-making and the gathering dispersed after singing "Auld Lang Syne," and each member of the company expressed his wish for Mr. MacGill's future success.

Ontario Government Makes Arrangement With Certain Banks to Pay the Time Checks of Workmen on Saturday.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—"The Government has made an arrangement with certain banks whereby the over-due wages of the employes of the 'Soo' companies will be paid at once," said the Attorney-General yesterday afternoon.

This decision is the outcome of the conferences which have been held between the members of the Ontario Cabinet, Mr. C. N. Smith and Mr. Edward Barry, whom the people of Sault Ste. Marie sent to Toronto to intercede in their interests. It means that all of the claims of workingmen who represent themselves will be settled within the next two days.

The pay checks will be accepted by three banks—the Traders, Imperial and the Canadian Bank of Commerce—and the Government has given an undertaking that the checks will be a first claim on the properties, no matter who the purchaser may be. The checks will rank as preferential claims against the assets of the companies, and the purchaser of these assets will become liable for them.

The Glad Tidings.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 2.—The news of the arrangement by which the men would be paid on Saturday was received with joy here, and hopes ran high that it might mean the rehabilitation of all the Soo industries. The message conveying the news was posted all over the city in a very short time in the shape of a hand bill.

THE CRY OF BLUE RUIN.

(Hamilton Times)

Under the heading "Protection by Bayonet, not by Tariff," the Mail and Empire says of the Sault Ste. Marie troubles:—

"There remains the small question of the incidence of blame. Who is responsible for bringing to a standstill works in which $30,000,000 is invested? Whose fault is it that four thousand men are locked out, they and their families stranded, without wages, in a New Ontario town? Who is to answer for the tumult which made it necessary to summon the militia? It is easy to find scapegoats. There are the organisers of the companies, who may be accused of over-capitalization. There are the directors and officials, to whom may be imputed bad management. There are the shareholders, who may be censured for lack of confidence, and for failure either to submit to assessment of to subscribe to a bond issue for providing the money urgently needed. There are the men, who may be charged with lawlessness. You may take your choice. Upon some or all of these the ruling politicians are willing to have the blame placed. • • Executive capitalization can have nothing to do with the inability to earn a surplus. Its effects touch only the individual shareholders. Bad management of the allied companies' affairs cannot be held responsible for the flooding of the market with German rails produced by labour on half pay. Bad national policy is the root of the whole trouble. The Sault crash is the work of the Ottawa Government. Had that Government afforded seasonable protection in the form of Customs duties, it would not now have to provide protection with bayonets."

Beside the writer of such rubbish the common horse-thief or burglar is a man of principle and honour. The partisan editor who prostitutes his position to such a base purpose deserves the contempt of every true Canadian.

The situation is thoroughly understood. The errors of bad financing and founding a great industry on insufficient capital (for of its $117,000,000 nominal share capital only $26,000,000 was money, the rest being "water") was not to be met by more taxes on the Canadian people. Such were unnecessary. Its managers say it was paying handsomely—netting $150,000 a month, although only 3-10 of the plant was running. It is a falsehood, as the Mail writer knew, to say that it suffered by the flooding of the market with German steel rails. It received Government contracts at a price $7 above what German rails could be bought at, but could not fill the orders, because it hadn't the iron, and the mill was not ready. Other very favourable contracts, Clergue says, were in hand. The unreadiness was due to the capitalization and organization troubles, which have led to the stoppage of the works. When these troubles are settled work will proceed again.

The Mail knew that. But it sought to warp the misfortune and the blunders of the Philadelphia speculators to party account. For the effect of its deliberate falsehood upon the business of the country, it cares not a fig. Its exhibition of turpitude is disgusting.

SPYING OUT THE LAND.

(The Globe.)

When the members of the Canadian Press Association visited the Temiskaming district last week they were not on a holiday trip. Their first object was to see for themselves and for the readers of their journals whether the land is indeed the goodly land of which the Government has told. They had heard the speeches on the building of the Temiskaming Railway and had read the Government reports. The purpose of their visit was to check those seemingly exaggerated statements by their own first-hand observations.

And the verdict of the more outspoken was that the half had not been told. The facts had, indeed, been reported, but most people are slow of heart to believe what their eyes have not seen. They found a magnificent stretch of country at the head of Lake Temiskaming, comprising more than a score of townships, well watered, well wooded, easily cleared, adapted to the purposes of farming, and giving all the evidences of unusual fertility.

The opening up of this district is opportune, and the Government is doing no more than its duty in disregarding the misguided attempts of petty politicians to disparage the district in the eyes of the Province. The expenditure of large amounts of money on the construction of good main through roads, opening up the back townships, and allowing settlers to reach their locations, is already being approved by intelligent and independent testimony as well as by the experience of the settlers themselves. The settlement of Temiskaming is proceeding as rapidly as the construction of the roads will allow, and the building of the trunk roads by the Government is leading to the construction of the side roads and concession lines by the settlers.

Temiskaming is not the richest, choicest, most-favoured spot in all Canada. Its soil will not answer the merest tickling of its surface with an immediate and abundant harvest. Indolence and incapacity will find no golden opportunity there. But there is no reason why intelligence, sobriety, and industry such as won success in York and Oxford and Elgin and Huron a generation or two ago should not be equally successful in less time and with greater comfort in Temiskaming.

THE WOOLEN INDUSTRY.

As an explanation of the situation in the woollen industry, the Montreal Herald published the following letter on Wednesday:—"Sir,—In regard to the wail of the woollen manufacturers of Canada, presented by the manager of the Excelsior Woollen Mill, through The Gazette this morning it is astounding, to say the least, that on the walls of this very mill there has been for some months, and still is to-day, a sign posted asking for weavers. As a man who has for many years handled woollens, both English and domestic, for one of the largest houses in Canada, let me say that what the Canadian makers want is, not more protection, but more energy and education in adopting up-to-date methods and labour-saving devices in their manufacturing and sales system. (Signed) Woollens."

A representative of the Herald called at the Excelsior Mills to-day and saw the sign-board referred to in the above letter. Mr. Moore, the manager, declined to be interviewed, but sent word by a clerk that he was not responsible for the statement in The Gazette.

TIMES ARE GOOD.

The Hamilton Times has the following pertinent paragraph. The conditions noted will apply equally well to Peterborough:—

"This has been one of the best, if not the best, summers the workingmen of Hamilton have ever experienced in the last thirty years or more. Work has been abundant, wages have been good, better than ever they were, and the weather has been such that there has been very little broken time during the season. In fact, times have been good ever since the Liberal party went into power at Ottawa, and although all the good things are not to be contributed to that circumstance, still good Government does much to produce and maintain good times. As election time approaches there will be the old cry that it is time for a change, which could only be for the worse. Times were bad, and had been bad up to the time Sir Wilfrid Laurier took office, but after he assumed the reins of power the change was almost magical. There will be no change."

IT IS NOT THE BRAIN

But the Stomach That is Responsible for that Depressing Headache—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure it and Cure it Permanently.

"He hasn't enough brains to have a headache" is a term so often used that one might be led to believe that headaches were caused by the brain. But any physician will tell you that headaches—the dull, depressing kind that are worst of all—come from the stomach. Headaches are one of the symptoms of indigestion, and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets drive them away once and for all.

This is not an idle statement but something that has been proved thousands of times. Here is one of the proofs. Julia Sandburg, of 221 John street, Hamilton, says:

"For over six years I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Headaches. Nothing I ate would agree with me and nothing I tried would cure me.

"Acting on the advice of others I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got relief almost at once and was very soon completely cured."

Reading of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets won't cure Dyspepsia or Headaches, but using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets has never failed to do it.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and travelling grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself, for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines, and they maintain their their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicines as much as in selling barbwire.

AN OPPORTUNE TIME.

(Montreal Herald.)

The decision of the Dominion Parliament to assist in the construction of a transcontinental railway synchronises very opportunely in point of time with what may be the beginning of an era of industrial and commercial depression throughout the American continent. There are signs that may hardly be mistaken that the tide of prosperity in the United States has reached its flood and is already receding. The depreciation in the price of the stock of the United States Steel Corporation is not to be attributed altogether to the vagaries of the financial market or to the manipulation of the speculators. There has been a decided falling off in the orders, and as a consequence foundries and shops and mills have had to be closed. Where, eight months ago, orders for immediate delivery were not accepted, keen competition for them now exists, and, consequently, much lower prices prevail. If it be true now, as in the past, that the iron trade is the best index to the conditions that may be expected to prevail in other industries, we may look for a period of decreasing demand and lessening output. It may be that industrial paralysis is yet afar off but there is certainly room for apprehension that the time of buoyancy and confidence in the United States is closing to its end.

While any commercial depression in the Republic will find its sympathetic counterpart in the Dominion, the rapid opening of the Northwest to settlement will undoubtedly tend to diminish the evil effects. If, in addition to this preventing cause, we have the large expenditure of money necessitated by the building of three thousand miles of railway, its equipment and operation, the business men of the Dominion will feel any world wide depression but lightly, the wage earners will not suffer as their fellows elsewhere, and the great producing classes will find a home outlet for the product of the farms, fisheries and forests.

The construction of the new line has been decided on for reasons altogether foreign to this question of the maintenance of the prevailing conditions, but it is a fortunate thing for the Dominion that the inception of the new national highway should coincide with what appears likely to be the beginning of a period of international business stagnation.

A DIABOLICAL DEED

(Hamilton Times.)

It is hard for anyone with the natural feelings of a parent to maintain judicial calmness in the face of such a horrid crime as that reported from Brantford. It is on occasions like these that we are less censorious of the mobs which wreak summary and awful vengeance on fiends guilty of like offences. Words fail to express the feelings which are aroused by such inhuman crimes, they severely test the teachings of our higher civilization, and awaken a lust for vengeance in which the primitive man speaks through all the philosophy of the ages.

But noble as are the sentiments that guard the family and protect its females, it is well that we should be able to control resentment at their violation, so as to submit to the orderly process of the laws made for the general good of society. Let Justice claim her due, but let it be done by and in accordance with the outraged law. That much we owe to civilization and enlightenment. That the wretch guilty of little Irene Cole's death deserves the severest penalty society in its most unrelenting mood prescribes and inflicts, none will deny. Let no effort be spared to bring him to speedy trial and punishment. But decency and order prevail, that no error be made, and that a wholesome fear of the consequences of such crimes may be impressed upon the criminal classes.

Suppose little Irene Cole had been your daughter or sister!

NEW PATENT LAW.

The bill presented by the Honourable Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, and which received its first reading on May 29th, 1903, became law on August 13th last. The new law makes the term of Canadian patents heretofore granted, or to be granted, entirely independant of corresponding foreign patents, (Sections 2 and 16); it allows the placing of patents under the compulsory license system in lieu of the actual manufacture of the patented article, (Sections 7 and 10); and it permits the revival of certain patents which were not worked or manufactured as required by the old law. The condition of Canadian inventors is much improved by the new law, and it is expected that the number of patents applied for will greatly increase in the near future.

SUPPLEMENTARIES.

Ten and a Half Millions Submitted to Parliament—The Total Year's Expenditure is $57,709,827.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—The supplementary estimates for 1903-4, presented to the House yesterday by Hon. W. S. Fielding, call for a total vote of $10,590,862, of which $5,861,885 is chargeable to consolidated fund, and $4,728,978 to capital account. The main estimates for 1903-4 amounted to $47,109,970 or a total for the year adding the supplementaries, of $57,700,837, compared with $59,061,984 for the year 1902-3. Yesterday's estimates contain many items of interest, both from the standpoint of internal development and of international relationship. For instance, there is $146,000 as Canada's contribution to the Queen Victoria memorial, and $140,000 the amount required to pay expenses connected with the Alaska Boundary Commission, on the one hand, and $250,000 additional for schools, clerical assistance, printing, etc., to be granted the Government of the Northwest Territories. A large number of old claims against the Government on small matters are also provided for.

Some Special Votes.

The sum of $100,000 is asked to cover cost of the extension of the coast service and surveys on the northern coast of Canada, while $180,000 is required for construction of aids to navigation, including the purchase and equipment of boats for sweeping channels between Platon and Montreal, and Montreal and Kingston, and the substitution of compressed gas for oil as illuminant for lighthouses, increasing the power of the lights below Montreal, and the establishment of a buoy depot for the upper lakes. A vote of $40,000 is asked to pay salaries and expenses in connection with the Railway Commission of Canada, in addition to the statutory provision, and $25,000 to provide for expenditure in connection with the transportation commission. The sum of $194,666 is set apart for a steam service between Canada and Australia. Another interesting item is an increase of 25 cents per day in the wages of lockmen, lockmasters, bridgemen, and ferrymen of the various canals, amounting in all to $37,000.

Public works chargeable to income form the largest part of the expenditures, amounting to $8,178,781, with railways and canals, chargeable to capital, coming second, with $2,954,359.

Nine and a Half Millions Voted.

Supply to the amount of nine and a half million dollars having been voted during the day, the House adjourned at 10.30 last evening.

LONDON'S NEW LORD MAYOR.

the ordinary course as an alderman who has not yet "passed the chair." He has been an active member of the City Corporation and is head of the firm of W. Ritchie & Sons, in which his brother, the Right Hon. Charles Thomson Ritchie, who has just resigned the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, as he is opposed to any alteration in the free trade policy of the country, was at one time a member. The new Lord Mayor is the elder of the two brothers by three years, having been born in 1838. He is a native of Dundee, where his father was engaged in the jute trade.

Christian Endeavor.

Stratford, Oct. 2.—The convention of the Ontario Christian Endeavor Union was brought to a close last night. The third days' session opened with a Bible study by Rev. Elmore Harris of Toronto on "The Gospel of the Son of God." (John). An important business session followed. Toronto was chosen as the place of meeting for 1904. The chief officers elected are: President, Rev. A. Esler, Toronto; secretary, Dr. V. H. Lyon, Ottawa; treasurer, Thos. S. Clendinnen, Ottawa.

Allan Liner Aground.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—The Allan Line steamship Hibernian, which left here for Liverpool at 5.40, ran aground about three miles down the river opposite Hochelaga. Two tugs have been sent to pull her off. It is thought she will not be badly injured as the bottom there is soft. This is the second Allan Line ship to go ashore in the harbor this season.

Cannot do Without it.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensable in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

IRENE COLE MURDER

Evidence is Strong Against Kennedy, the Man Suspected.

PRISONER, HOWEVER, IS COOL.

People and the Authorities Believe the Latter Have the Right Man in Custody—Was Seen in the Vicinity of the Crime, and His Clothing Had Blood-Stains Upon It—The Inquest.

Brantford, Oct. 2.—The murder of little Irene Cole, probably the most revolting deed in the annals of Canadian crime surpassing in utter brutality even the Scadish killing of Glory Whalen at Collingwood a few months ago, has aroused intense indignation in the community.

day morning in the loft of Hunt & Colter's boarding stable in rear of the Kerby House, has not confessed the crime. He bears himself like a stoic, but if he had confessed the evidence could hardly be stronger against him.

Joseph Kennedy, the accused, left Belfast, Ireland, on July 18 of this year, coming out on the steamer Lake Manitoba. Kennedy served in South Africa with the Irish Horse, a volunteer regiment recruited in the capital of the North of Ireland. He was there a year. In Belfast Kennedy was chiefly employed as a "coach," and obtained splendid references from his employers, which he had in his possession when arrested.

Circumstantial evidence of the most complete nature calculated to drive guilt home is in possession of the police. Tell-tale blood stains on the prisoner's clothes, the identification of Kennedy as the man who was seen in the vicinity of the outrage, and his demeanor after his arrest and incarceration are only a few of the circumstances that lead to the almost universal conclusion that Kennedy is the murderer.

Irene was the youngest of a family of eight children of Peter Cole, an expert machinist in the Massey-Harris works. She was little more than eight years old, pretty, bright and attractive.

Irene's long absence from home caused her mother considerable anxiety, and when Mr. Cole returned from his employment about 4 o'clock he at once instituted a search, which resulted in his coming on the prone body of his darling. She was lying on her face, and a glance was sufficient to reveal the horrible nature of the crime. Poor little Irene was frightfully mutilated. Her left temple bore a bruise as if cut with a blunt instrument, her throat had an abrasion a couple of inches long, and there were bruises on the breast and shoulders, as well as elsewhere, showing that crime more atrocious than murder had been committed.

When the Coroner viewed the remains they were removed to J. W. Wood's undertaking establishment. Dr. Ashton performed the post mortem examination, and a Coroner's Jury viewed the remains. The inquest will be begun this evening.

Kennedy was seen by a number of people in the vicinity of the crime.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning Sergt. Wallace and Constable Donnelly received instructions from the police to search the Hunt & Colter stables for Kennedy. They found him apparently asleep on the hay in the loft of the building in the rear of the main stable. They touched him on the shoulder and he opened his eyes.

"Joseph Kennedy," was the brief response.

"Well, you're the man we're looking for," said the officer.

And Kennedy accompanied the officers to the police station. Not a word of inquiry came from him as to the meaning of the early morning arrest. At the station he was made to strip. What was considered indubitable evidence that he was the man wanted was soon forthcoming. His trousers were spotted with blood stains, and the same tell-tale marks were plainly visible on his shirts. Kennedy had apparently attempted to remove the stains with water, but two or three spots were overlooked. The shirt ends had recently been washed, but the stains were there. On the coat there were also blood clots.

But the most convincing proof was obtained by the examination of the man's body. A portion of the body was quite clean, but his general exterior showed that he had been a stranger to a bath for probably a couple of months. Kennedy had no doubt attempted to remove traces of the crime by washing, and neglected to make a complete job of it. There were no abrasions of the skin to account for the blood on his underclothing and his drawers, if he ever wore any, were missing. A minute search will be instituted in the river bed for this article of attire.

He was kept at police headquarters all night and removed to the county jail at 11 o'clock.

Kennedy was formally arraigned before Police Magistrate Woodyatt yesterday morning. The charge of murder was read to him, and in clear tones he pleaded "not guilty." The magistrate remanded him for a week.

A COMMONER'S DEATH.

Henry Cargill, M.P., For East Bruce, Made a Speech in the House and Passed Away Shortly Afterwards.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—Shortly after the delivery of his animated speech on the Intercolonial Railway in the Commons yesterday afternoon, Henry Cargill, M.P. for East Bruce, left the chamber to take the air at the entrance to the Parliament Building; he was feeling somewhat unwell. No sooner had he reached the steps, however, than he was seized with a fainting fit.

A lounge was procured, and Mr. Cargill was made comfortable in the open air for a time, while three of his colleagues of the House—Dr. Sproule, Dr. McMillan and Dr. Kendall—attended to him.

The utmost solicitude for Mr. Cargill's condition was evinced by all the members of the House with whom he was a great favorite. Gradually Mr. Cargill grew worse. The pains in the region of his stomach become more frequent. His heart action weakened, and at 10.30, shortly after the House adjourned, the kindly member for East Bruce passed away.

At the death-bed were Mrs. Cargill and her daughter, Mrs. Wilson M. Southam, who had been summoned when Mr. Cargill's illness was first recognized as serious. He was conscious to within ten minutes of his death, which was due to syncope. The funeral will be from the House of Commons at 10.30 this morning to the C.P.R. station. Interment will be made at Cargill, Ont. The late member was in his 65th year.

Henry Cargill was a lumber manufacturer, farmer and stock raiser in Bruce County, where he has resided for many years. His parents came from the County Antrim, Ireland, and gave him a good education, sending him through the Queen's University. In 1864 he married Miss Margaret Davidson, and soon after he was elected a member of the Greenock Township Municipal Council, in which capacity he served for many years. He was elected to the House of Commons in 1887, and was defeated at the general election of 1891. He soon was restored to his seat by a bye-election in 1892, and was re-elected in 1896 and 1901. He has been a director of the Dominion Canadian Mutual Mining and Developing Co., a vice-president of the Ontario Trotting and Pacing Horse Breeders' Association, and president of the Saugeen Valley Railway Co.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, William, and two daughters to mourn his untimely death. One daughter is Mrs. Southam of Ottawa. The other is single, living at home.

MERIT MAKES IT FAMOUS.

The study of physicians, the experiments of chemists, the loudly advertised pretensions of quacks, have been for years expended in one direction; to find a pile cure that would cure.

The results have been a number of harmless and in most cases useless ointments, suppositories and even internal remedies, which the public have weighed in the balance of experience and found wanting; nearly all of them gave some relief, but nothing approaching a radical cure resulted from those preparations.

The remedy required is one which will immediately stop the pain so severe in many cases of piles, and then by contracting the small blood-vessels (capillaries) to their normal size, produces a radical cure by reducing and finally absorbing the tumors and healing the inflamed, raw mucous surfaces.

Until a few years ago, no such remedy had been produced, but at that time a suppository was placed upon the market, which has since proven itself to be the long-sought permanent cure for this common and distressing trouble; it has rapidly become famous throughout the United States and Canada, and is now sold by all druggists under the name of Pyramid Pile Cure.

It is now the best known, because its merit and safety have advertised it wherever used. It has been advertised by word of mouth, from one sufferer to another; people who have tried everything else, even submitting to painful and dangerous surgical operations without avail have finally found that piles can be cured without pain and without expense practically, as the pyramid Pile Cure is sold for the nominal price of 50 cents and $1.00 per package.

The Pyramid instantly stops all pain and at the same time contains no cocaine, morphine or narcotics; the acids and healing properties contained in the remedy speedily remove, cause a healthful, natural contraction and absorbtion of the tumors. It will cure any form of rectal trouble except cancer and advanced fistula, which, by the way nearly always results from neglecting proper and timely treatment for piles.

Sir Michael Died Peacefully.

London, Oct 2.—The Earl of Pembroke, brother of the Ambassador to the United States, Sir Michael Herbert, telegraphs as follows from Platz, Switzerland:

Sir Michael was getting better of hemorrhage of the lungs when he had a sudden collapse from weakness, upon which he could not rally. He died peacefully at 10.30 p.m. yesterday. His wife, myself and Lady Pembroke were present. The funeral will be at Wilton, probably Oct 6."

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease. 3c

There was rain on only 4 days in measurable quantities. The warmest day was the 15th, viz., 85 degrees in the shade; the lowest temperature was on the morning of the 29th, viz., 30 degrees. The first white frost was noticed on the 18th.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Wm. Whitcroft Dead After a Year's Illness.

After an illness extending over a period of about a year, Mrs. Wm. Whitcroft died last evening at the family residence, 302 Aylmer street. Mrs. Whitcroft had been suffering for some time from heart trouble, but the immediate cause of her death was Bright's disease. A few days ago she rallied somewhat, but yesterday became unconscious and passed away about 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Whitcroft's death is very keenly felt by the remaining members of the family, as she was a mother who took a deep interest in her children, and they, in turn, were very strongly attached to her.

Besides her husband, Mr. William Whitcroft, the deceased left two sons and four daughters, all of whom live in town. The eldest son is married, and one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Rogers, the remaining children, Lizzie, Lottie, Hazel and Fred, living at home. The family, the members of which are all highly esteemed, have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 3 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

JUDGE A. E. SUTHERLAND IS RETURNING HOME

Expects to go to Rochester on Sunday.

His Honour Judge A. E. Sutherland, of Rochester, N.Y., who has been confined to the Nicholls Hospital for the past month, suffering from injuries received on Sept. 5th, through the accidental discharge of a gun while out duck shooting at Pigeon Lake, expectes to return home on Sunday per the 11.45 train. Mrs. Sutherland arrived in town from Rochester on Tuesday and will return with him. Although the injured man is returning, his hand has not as yet quite recovered from the wound, which at first, it will be remembered, was thought would necessitate the amputation of the forearm. However, the patient can move his fingers with ease. He was attended by Dr. Halliday.

WEDDING BELLS.

A pretty house wedding took place on Wednesday evening, September 23rd, at "The Maples," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Wright of Otonabee, when their daughter, Miss Edith, was married to Mr. Herb McKay, son of Mr. John McKay, of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed at five o'clock, the Rev. D. D. McDonald, of Keene, officiating. About forty guests were present. The bride was attired in gray cashmere, with lace trimmings, a tulle veil, with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet. Miss Bella Sharp, of Westwood, who was also very neatly attired, assisted the bride, while Mr. Will Wright, a brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man. The bride received from the groom a handsome gold watch and chain, while the bridesmaid also received a very pretty gold brooch. After the ceremony a dainty repast was served, followed by a pleasant social time. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her numerous friends.—Norwood Register.

MR. A. W. MacPHERSON BANQUETTED LAST NIGHT.

A Delightful Event at Long's Palm Parlours.

In Leaving to Study Medicine in Toronto Forty Were Present With Capt. Walker in the Chair.

Perhaps never before has the chorus, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," been given a more feeling and enthusiastic rendition than at the farewell banquet tendered Mr. A. W. MacPherson at Long's palm parlours last night, when it was voiced by some forty of that gentleman's most intimate friends, who had grasped their last opportunity to wish him "God speed and success." Captain Duncan Walker occupied the chair. Captain MacPherson was seated at the post of honour at the right hand of the chairman, and Mr. D. H. Moore at his left. Those present were Messrs. C. Seymour, Capt. Cluxton G. Stevenson, W. Bunton, W. Crowley, R. Denne, H. Armstrong, D. Hall, J. Comstock, J. Oles, J. Gibson, F. Roy, J. Lawrence, H. Reynolds, J. Perks, H. Thompson, H. H. Edmison, E. S. Clarry, Fred Clarke, H. R. H. Kenner, R. M. Glover, C. Graham, E. Wasson, W. Cavanah, J. Stinson, J. J. Howden, Ed. Dillon, B. Wilson, V. Hamilton, R Watt, M. Comstock, R. Waddell, W. Ackerman, J. Nugent, R. N. Jolliffe, of the Review, and an Examiner representative.

The "materials" having been disposed of to the unbounded satisfaction of the "inner man, glasses were filled, and the toast of "The King," proposed by Capt. Walker, was heartily drunk to the strains of the "National Anthem."

The next toast, "Our Guest," was proposed by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, who paid a high and just tribute to Mr. MacPherson's past success in football, hockey, baseball, lacrosse, Sunday school and Y.M.C.A. work, remarking that the very enviable record of the Rugby team was largely due to his efforts as captain. In the same manner with other sports, whether hockey, lacrosse, baseball, or lawn tennis—all had benefitted by the active part Mr. MacPherson had always taken in them. Mr. Kenner then called upon Mr. R. M. Glover to make the guest a presentation, which was his first year medicine books after which his health was heartily drunk.

Mr. MacPherson, in responding, said: "I am sure it would be a great pleasure to anybody to receive such a reception as you are giving me, and to have the honour done to him that you are doing to me to-night. I do not deserve this reception. It is true that I have been associated with a number of sporting organizations in town. If I have helped to make them successful, I am glad. I may say it is very hard for me to give up all my friends, which I would not do if it were not for the best. This is my home, and I will always look upon the town as such. I hope the interest I have had in sports will not cease. Although I will not have such an opportunity up in Toronto as down here, yet I will do all in my power to help on sport in my sphere. In going away I will not be able to play with the Rugby boys; it is a rule that no member of Toronto University can play with an outside team without waiving all claims to play for his own college. I highly appreciate the present which you have given me and will endeavour to study diligently. It is with regret that I have to say good bye to the boys as well as to the girls. However, I must, and in doing so, I thank you for your kindness not only on this, but on all other occasions and hope you will have the prosperity which you deserve."

The next toast "Kindred Sports" was proposed by Capt. Walker, who said that he was assured Mr. MacPherson's presence had raised the moral standard of these sports.

Mr. D. H. Moore representing the Y.M.C.A., Mr. R. M. Glover as captain of the hockey team, Mr. E S Clarry, as president of the Rugby Club, Mr. F. Clarke, as manager of the lacrosse team, all responded in suitable terms, showing how their guest had taken a part in each of the above sports.

In reply to a request from the chairman, Mr. Laurence sang "In Collar Cool," and as an encore gave "My Mary," both of which were rapturously applauded.

Capt. Walker next called upon Messrs. J. J. Howden and W. Nugent to speak. Both gentlemen on conclusion were heartily applauded.

"Our Volunteers" was proposed by Capt. Walker, who spoke in very high praise of Mr. MacPherson as an officer, hoping that although he would be in Toronto the 57th would not lose him altogether. The toast was responded to by Lieut. Ackerman for the Artillery, and Lieuts. Watt, Clarke and Glover, for the 57th Regiment.

The toast of "The Ladies" was proby Mr. D. H. Moore was responded to humorous speech. Messrs. Edmison, Thompson, Beaton, Stevenson and Crowley replied on behalf of the weaker sex.

The toast of "The Press" proposed by Mr. F. D. Moore was responded to by the representatives present.

Capt. Cluxton replied to a request to sing and gave "Off to Philadelphia in the Morning."

The last toast was that of the "Chairman" to which Capt. Walker suitably replied, stating that Mr. MacPherson would be a great loss to the town generally. He had known Mr. MacPherson for the past four years and found him to be an invaluable man whether in the field or the school room.

Mr. MacPherson again spoke a few words of gratitude at the way in which he had been received, after which "Auld Lang Syne" was sung and the party dispersed.

THE INDUCTION OF REV. J. M. WHITELAW.

Interesting Service at Omemee Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Mr. Abraham of Port Hope—Conducted the Service A Forcible Sermon was Preached.

Yesterday afternoon the Presbyterian church at Omemee, was crowded to its utmost capacity, with a most interested congregation. The occasion was the induction of the Rev. J. M. Whitelaw, M.A., B.D., into the pastoral charge of Omemee, Lakevale and Mount Pleasant.

Divine service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Abraham, of the First Church, Port Hope, who preached an able and forcible discourse from II Timothy, 1, 10, "And hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel."

After the sermon, the Rev. J. G. Potter, acting-Moderator, put the usual questions to the preacher-elect, the Rev. Dr. Torrance offered prayer, and the Rev. Mr. Whitelaw was solemnly and impressively inducted into the pastoral office, and welcomed by members of the Presbytery.

Then followed an admirable, practical and pointed address to the Minister, by Rev. G. A. McLennan, B.A., of Norwood, and a most thoughtful, clear and earnest exhortation to the people by Rev. Geo. Yule, of Springville.

After the service tea was served by the ladies and the tables were well-laden with good things.

At seven o'clock a public reception was tendered to the newly-inducted minister. After devotional exercises the choir rendered most effectively, "Now to the Lord." The chairman then called for five minute speeches, and the following responded in words of greeting and congratulation:—Revs. Dr. Torrance, Bennet, Abraham, Atkinson, MacLennan and Mr. R. Harrison.

A very pleasing feature of the evening was the address from the Y. P.S.C.E., read by Mr. Sandy, promising their loyalty, and help, and also from the children of the Sunday school. The address was accompanied by handsome bouquets, procured in Peterborough, and presented by little Miss Bertie Lamb, to Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw.

The choir then sang, "Seek Ye the Lord." Mr. Gordon Wright took the tenor solo in excellent voice. The work of the choir was most praiseworthy, revealing, so much earnestness and sincerity in appeal.

The Rev. Mr. Teeny, Rector of Christ's church, presented greetings on behalf of the Church of England. His words were greatly appreciated.

The Rev. Mr. Whitelaw was then called upon to respond, and he did so in a spirit and candour that speaks volumes for the coming days of ministerial work. He also reciprocated the kindly greetings of Mr. Teeny.

The Rev. Mr. Potter then asked Mr. Whitelaw to assume his duties as chairman, and in so doing expressed his delight in the service he had been permitted to render the congregation during the vacancy. He spoke in the highest terms of the ability and enthusiasm of Mr. Whitelaw, referring to the fact that in a ministry of thirteen years in his last charge he had been instrumental in leading 500 to identify themselves with the church of Christ.

Mr. Alex. Evans of Oakhill, sang in a very effective manner "My Ain Countrie."

The meeting was then delighted to have words of welcome expressed to Mr. Whitelaw, from members of the congregation. Mr. Isaiah Thornton, Mr. Jardine, Dr. Keith and Mr. T. D. Young, of Lakevale, responded to the call. Mr. Jardine read excuses from Rev. Messrs. Locke and Brown, the Methodist ministers, who had sent forward their warmest good wishes.

The entire congregation joined enthusiastically in singing "Work for the Night is Coming," and the benediction was pronounced by the new pastor.

The following will represent the Britannias in their City League match with the Rough Riders tomorrow afternoon:—

Back, C Harmer; halves, A Hodgson, B Macfarlane, A Boucher; quarter, A Mathern; snap, H Walkey, (Capt.); forwards, N Miller, G Ferguson, A Quinlan, W Fitzpatrick, H Sawers, E Belleghem, H Staunton.

* * * *

The Rugby season opens in Peterborough to-morrow afternoon, when the Rough Riders meet the Britannias in a game in the City League series. The game will no doubt be witnessed by a large number of spectators, as it will not only by the first game of the season, but it will be the first time that a game has been played under the new Burnside rules in Peterborough..

Both these teams have become fairly well acquainted with the rules, and the prospects for a good game are bright.

Mr. Hal. Burnham will referee the game to-morrow, which promises to be a good exhibition. This game will be played at the Nicholls oval although it is possible that future games may be held at the Driving Park.

* * * *

There seems to be trouble in store for the O.R.F.U., for while the season some weeks ago promised to be a successful one, the situation has changed considerably. Clubs have been withdrawing from the senior and intermediate series until only three remain in each, necessitating a special meeting of the union to arrange a new schedule. Two Hamilton teams and the Torontos only remain in the senior series, the three originally in the eastern section having withdrawn, along with London and the Argonauts in the western. In the intermediate, two Toronto teams and Peterborough are still left, and will doubtless finish the season. A special meeting of the O.R.F.U. Executive is called for Monday night to draw up the new schedule, which will be after the pattern of the senior schedule, each team having two home games. Peterborough will not, however, be dependent upon the O.R.F.U. team for Rugby games. A strong city league has been formed, and some good games will be seen in it. The first game for this season will be played tomorrow at the Oval, between the Rough Riders and the Brittanias, both of them strong aggregations, and an interesting game will result.

* * * *

The Rough Riders had a good practice last night at the rink in preparation for their game to-morrow.

* * * *

There will be a rugby practice in the rink this evening at 7.30 o'clock at which every member of the senior team is requested, to be present. Captain Crowley has also called a practice for 2 p.m. to-morrow at the Nicholls Oval. As the playing season is near at hand the boys are particularly requested to be present.

* * * *

Only three of the seven clubs originally entered in the senior O.R.F.U. series, are still doing business, and the prospects for a good try out of the new rules are not any too roseate. A meeting to consider the situation will be held by the O.R.F.U. executive next Monday night at the Rossin House. The senior schedule will probably be revised. To-morrow the Torontos play the West End Pleasure Club in Hamilton, and this game and the one played between the Tigers and the West Ends will count as championship matches. The new slate will give each club four games, two abroad and two at home. The clubs left are Torontos, Hamilton Tigers, and West End Pleasure Club, Hamilton.

In the Intermediate Series the Wellesleys, Victorias, and Peterboroughs will play a double schedule. Brockville has applied for admission to the Junior O.R.F.U. series, and and will probably be placed in the Eastern group, with Gananoque, Limestones and R.M.C.—Globe.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the curling club will be held on Monday evening, October 5th, at 8 p.m. in the Charlotte street rink. A large attendance is requested.

LACROSSE.

Turnbull, the great ex-Peterborough lacrosse player, now on the New Westminster, B.C., team, has again been heard from. In the game with the Shamrocks, he was the mainstay of the home team. The Montreal Star said of him: "Turnbull, the New Westminster centre gave Currie, however, all he could do to defend himself, and repeatedly got the ball away from him."

* * * *

A meeting of the Judicial Committee of the Canadian Lacrosse Association will be held next Tuesday night at eight o'clock, at the Palmer House The business to come before the meeting includes the protest of Wallaceburg against Durham, and complaints of defaulted games and expenses asked by Oshawa against St. Catharines, Fergus against Brampton, Bradford against Tecumseh, Brantford against Tecumsehs, and Peterborough T.A.S. against Oshawa.—Globe.

* * * *

Shamrocks had to use block tactics to beat New Westminster 4 to 3 a second time. However, they won. And any team that wins a lacrosse match is entitled to it. Lacrosse nowadays is a game of generalship, and if Shamrocks won with the weaker men the more credit to them.—Telegram.

HOCKEY.

The great Canadian winter game is beginning to claim the attention of sports now, and already speculations are astir with reference to the prospective strength of the various teams. The Belleville Intelligencer sizes up the situation in that town as follows:—

"Hockey lovers in this city will be interested in knowing that the prospects for a fast team next winter are very bright. Several swift players have been secured to take the place of those gone away, and the prospects are that the best team which ever represented Belleville will chase the puck in this city next winter. Rumor says that it is the intention of the management to enter a team in the senior O.H.A. The move, if carried out, would be a good one, and it is questionable if last year's intermediate hockey was not fully as fast as that played in the senior series."

MOUNT IRWIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Sept. 28th, 1903.

On Tuesday afternoon, the 22nd inst., Mrs. Maurice Sullivan passed peacefully away at her home here, at the age of seventy-nine years. Although the deceased lady had not been in the best of health for some time past, the end came most unexpectedly. Mrs. Sullivan was one of the oldest residents of Galway. Her noble qualities gained for her the respect of all who knew her. Deceased survived her husband nineteen years and leaves three sons, Patrick, of this place; Daniel, of Minden; and John, of Washington State, and four daughters, Hannah, of this place; Mary (Mrs. Dennis) of Peterborough; Kate (Mrs. Cook), Fenelon Falls, and Maggie (Mrs. McCoy) Ottawa. They have the entire sympathy of the community in their bereavement. The funeral took place to the R. C. Cemetery here on Thursday morning, 24th Sept., at 8 o'clock and was largely attended, which shows the esteem in which the deceased was held. The pall bearers were Messrs. Michael O'Brien, Jas. Dalton, John McGann, Edw. Smith, Thos. Henderson and Jno. Cain.

A branch of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association was organized here recently. The meeting was attended by Mr. J. J. Beehan, Grand Secretary of the C.M.B.A., Kingston, who delivered a very eloquent address on the C.M.B.A., its benefits, history, etc. Messrs. Edw Smith and Jas. Gilliogly entertained the audience with some choice songs.

We are pleased to hear that Master John Collins' hand has almost entirely healed after the severe cut which he received.

Mrs. Jas. Allen Sr., visited friends in Peterborough recently.

Hunting Season.

The Grand Trunk Railway has issued a very handsome illustrated pamphlet, entitled "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting deer, moose, reindeer, caribou etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. PLAN IS REPRISALS.

Balfour Would Reverse Fundamental Fiscal Tradition.

HIS TARIFF REFORM SPEECH

Pleads That Tariff Attacks by Foreign Nations Upon England Can Only Be Met by Tariff Retaliation—Colonies' Position—England Passive While a Wall Was Being Built Against Her.

Sheffield, Eng., Oct. 2.—The thirty-eight annual conference of the Conservative Association opened here yesterday with an unprecedental attendance, attracted by the unusually interesting political situation. Nearly 2,000 delegates were present.

After resolutions had been adopted calling for the regulation of alien immigration, the redistribution of Parliamentary seats, etc., an official resolution on the subject of the fiscal controversy was moved by Sir John E. Dorington, M.P. The resolution deals solely with Premier Balfour's proposals, not touching on Chamberlain.

Henry Chaplin, M.P., in supporting the official resolutions, moved the addition of a "rider," thanking Mr. Chamberlain for his patriotic efforts and expressing approval of any practical scheme to promote a closer political and commercial union of the Empire.

Mr. Balfour Arrives.

The artillery drill hall, in which Premier Balfour made his tariff reform speech last evening, was packed by an expectant audience long before 8 o'clock, the hour of which Mr. Balfour was announced to begin speaking. An overflow meeting in Albert Hall was also crowded, while thousands unable to obtain seats joined those inside the halls in patriotic songs and cheering.

Mr. Balfour arrived shortly before 8, and was given an enthusiastic reception. He rose to speak at 8.05 p. m., and announced at the outset that he intended to confine his speech to tariff reform, which, he said, had come prominently to the front, owing to the growing uneasiness among men of varied opinions. Mr. Chamberlain's speech in May, he added, would not have produced the effect it did if it had not fallen on ground already prepared, and the threats against Canada for granting preference to Great Britain brought home the helplessness of this country to deal with such a situation. Tariff attacks could only be met by tariff reprisals.

The statement of the Premier was greeted with prolonged cheers.

Wall of Hostile Tariffs.

Continuing, Mr. Balfour said that for fifty years England had watched in silence the building of a wall of hostile tariffs against her. Even her colonies were building up a system of protection, which, when it reached its natural conclusion, would make it as hard for the United Kingdom to export goods to the colonies as to export goods to the United States and other protected countries. For the present state of affairs, Mr. Balfour remarked, he did not know of a cure. The evil had gone too far; but he knew of a palliation. A nation depriving itself of the power of bargaining, Mr. Balfour pointed out, could never make a good bargain.

Mr. Balfour did not think the country was ripe for the taxation of food; but the evils of food taxation had been exaggerated beyond what reason and logic justified. He advised the Unionist party that to tax food would be against public opinion and not within the limits of practical politics. He had given the topic his best thoughts and he was firmly convinced that his policy harmonized with the best traditions of the party, and, as leader of the party, he meant to lead it. Mr. Balfour closed his speech at 9.36 p.m.

DEDICATED MEDICAL BUILDING.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Yesterday afternoon the new medical building in connection with Toronto University was opened with appropriate ceremonies.

Abbott (University of Pennsylvania), McMurrich (Michigan), Barker (Chicago), Roswell Park (Buffalo), and Senator Sullivan of Kingston.

Dr. Osler, professor of medicine, Johns Hopkins University, gave the address of the opening lecture of the session in the evening. He spoke for about an hour, and his lecture was a scholarly address of advice to the students of the Medical School.

The Dean of the Medical Faculty spoke a few words, and Dr. Temple of Trinity University was glad that the federation of the medical schools had taken place and predicted a great future for the new federation.

Gain in All Departments.

London, Oct. 2.—(C. A. P.)—The Grand Trunk Railway's half-yearly report states that the passenger earnings show a gain of £80,000; mails and express, £18,000; freight and live stock, £307,000. The increase in the number of passengers carried was 885,000, and there was an addition of a farthing on the average fare received, and a like gain on the average rate per ton. The quantity of freight and live stock showed an increase of 1,070,000 tons. The working expenses showed an increase of £389,000, the additional expenditure being due to augmented fuel. The new issue of G. T. R. guaranteed stocks, I am informed, has been considerably over subscribed.

READ A THIRD TIME.

Long and Strenuous Debate on the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill in the House of Commons Ended.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—With the third reading of the Transcontinental Railway bill yesterday, after almost two solid months of debate, the greatest project of the longest session of the Canadian Parliament becomes a reality. The measure was thoroughly discussed, if not strenuously resisted, at every step, and the fact that it at last passed into law, lacking only the confirmation of the Senate, is a matter of congratulation and of relief to both parties. Liberals and Conservatives alike may honestly claim to have done their duty, and the public have not lacked for the fullest information on both sides of the question. The last stage of the struggle, the debate on the third reading, occupied the greater part of two days, during which fourteen amendments, many of them identical with those proposed in committee, were moved, and rejected by the House. It is an interesting fact that neither Mr. Blair nor Mr. Tarte was in the House during the voting on any of these amendments. Other events in yesterday's proceedings were references to the situation at Sault Ste. Marie, in the course of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier denied that the companies' new plan for raising money had been laid before him, and a proposal by Mr. John Charlton that the Government should liberally assist Capt. Barnier's polar expedition. On this point Mr. Prefontaine expressed personal sympathy with the project, but said the Government had been prevented from giving its attention by pressure of more important business. The prospects seem more bright now for an early prorogation.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

A Case of Eczema No Pen Describes.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Many of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment, are so much like miracles that people can scarcely believe them. When Baby Miller became a victim of Eczema her parents did everything that could be done to get her cured. Three doctors tried all the means in their power, but without success, and then all sorts of remedies were used, with the vain hope that something would bring relief from the disease that seemed to be burning up the living flesh.

It was not until Dr. Chase's Ointment was used that relief and cure came. This case is certified to by a prominent Sunday school superintendent of St. Catharines.

Mrs. Wm. Miller, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that ever came to my notice, and she suffered what no pen can ever describe. I had her treated by three different doctors, but all to no purpose whatever, and all sorts of balms, soaps and lotions were tried with no beneficial results.

"Finally I decided to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she began to improve immediately, and after regular treatment for a time the disease of so long standing completely disappeared. As that was four years ago, and not a symptom of the disease has ever shown itself since, the cure must certainly be a permanent one. At the time of this cure we were living in Cornwall, Ont., and the doctors there feared that if she was not cured of eczema she would go into a decline."

Mr. S. Richardson, jun., Superintendent of Christ Church Sunday school, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "I am acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, and believe that they would not make any statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box of his remedies.

A Land Above the Clouds in the Pacific Province—Some Attempts Made to See It by Mountain Climbers.

There is a land above the clouds in this province, says The Vancouver, B.C., Ledger, which as yet has been penetrated by but few of the most venturesome climbers, and which contains peaks which thus far have defied all who attempts to reach their summits. The title of Alps of America has been transferred to British Columbia, for there are ranges of the Rockies which, in wilderness and grandeur, are admitted to be fully equal to the most picturesque mountains of Switzerland.

For hundreds of miles the country is almost an unbroken wilderness. One can stand in a plateau or valley in some localities and see a score of snow-capped mountains rising against the sky-line, each of which is well worthy of attack by the mountaineer, for many extend far above the line of perpetual snows, and not infrequently their summits may be half a mile or a mile above the clouds.

The Matterhorn of the range is Mt. Assiniboine, which the most experienced guides, as well as British and continental mountain climbers admit, is one of the most difficult ascents on the globe. It has been estimated to be 12,000 feet high, and out of a hundred attempts made to scale the most elevated portions during the last decade few parties have gone nearer than 2,000 feet to the top.

Probably the most notable performance in the ascent of Assiniboine was that of the Wailing brothers of Washington, D.C., in 1900, when they climbed to an altitude of 10,000 feet. At this point they reached a field of ice lying against the mountain side at such an angle that a foothold for every step upward had to be cut with their axes. When but a part of the way across this field the guides refused to go farther on account of the danger, and the attempt was given up.

The brothers started from Banff, and were several days in reaching the foot of the mountain, as they had to break through the wilderness.

Nowhere in the world can be found more varied and picturesque scenery than on the mountainside and in the valley. There is not only a land, but a water visita, while mountain rivers formed by the melting of snow and the glaciers are frequently encountered. Some of these rivers are 200 to 300 feet in width, in places tumbling over cliffs 100 feet in height.

Thus far comparatively few accidents have occurred, although several persons have lost their lives by falling over precipices, losing their grip on the mountainside. One or two parties have also been overwhelmed by avalanches of snow and ice, with disastrous results. But the experience of pioneers in this region has taught those who have followed them to equip themselves, not only for a difficult, but for a dangerous journey, and alpenstocks and ropes are absolutely necessary even in attempting to scale the lowest peaks.

Some of the "stiffest" ascents, aside from Mount Assiniboine, are those of Mount Temple, the Three Sisters, Mount Peechee and Mount Victoria, as well as Mount Sir Donald. Peechee is located in the Canadian National Park, and is one of the most picturesque of its range. The Three Sisters, while not among the highest peaks, are very abrupt, and to reach their summit requires all the skill of a veteran climber.

Finder of Kicking Horse Pass.

Sir James Hector, distinguished as a geologist and scientist, who in 1857 was attached to the Canadian Rocky Mountain expedition during 1857-1860 as surgeon, and who whilst exploring the Rockies found the pass by which the Canadian Pacific Railway now crosses the mountains, is revisiting British Columbia after an absence of 43 years. Whilst examining the pass Sir James met with an accident which afterwards led to the naming of the pass and river the "Kicking Horse." A horse carrying his instruments broke away and crossed the river. Sir James swam over, caught the horse and brought it back. Whilst engaged in tying it up another horse kicked the explorer, breaking three of his ribs and rendering him unconscious. His Indian guides, after trying in vain to resuscitate him, concluded he was dead, and dug a grave, but just as they were about to bury him he recovered consciousness. Now, he facetiously remarks, he is about to visit his own grave during the proposed trip in the Rocky Mountains. Sir James has been in New Zealand since 1861, having gone there after completing his exploration work in the Rockies. For several years, until recently, he held the position of Director-General of the Geological Survey of New Zealand. At present he is Chancellor of the New Zealand University, Director of the Colonial Museum and Observatory and of the New Zealand Institute. He proposes returning to New Zealand, leaving Vancouver on September 18th.

Canada as Naboth's Vineyard.

Hon. Maude Pauncefote, daughter of the late British Ambassador at Washington, makes an eloquent and earnest plea in The Empire Review for Canada as the home of Englishmen of moderate means; also for English sportsmen, and a field for English investments. She watches with anxiety the entrance of so many Americans into Canada, and says: "With ready-made families transferring themselves in unlimited numbers over the border, bringing with them much-needed capital, the mines and ranches of Canada will become, bit by bit, merged into the States. The American native is never idle or overcomplacent; never asleep. Canada is, to his quick intelligence, Naboth's vineyard, and he longs to possess it. If it passes from its present ownership it will be by that absorption, or by that possession which, as Britain has so often known to her cost, is nine-tenths of the law."

TRIBUTE TO COLONIAL TROOPS.

Royal Commission Says They Were Akin to Boers in Resourcefulness.

The report of the British Royal Commission on war, of which Lord Strathcona was a member, was recently published. The Commission pays a high tribute to the Canadian and Australian contingents. It says there has been received much evidence indicative of the high qualities and value of the over-sea colonial troops, especially the first contingents, and adds that they were picked bodies of men, chosen from among a large number of applicants, chiefly of a kind well suited to the conditions of war in South Africa. If, as an important witness said, they were not so useful as British troops for a serious attack which had to be driven home, they, on the whole, were more akin to the Boer than to the regular individual in resourcefulness and ability to look after themselves. These troops, with their instinct for country life, and their intelligence in scouting, despatch running, and so forth, if properly trained and disciplined, readily become as fine a body of mounted infantry as any general would desire to command. They are, in fact, half soldiers by their upbringing. The Commission regrets the want of method on the part of military authorities in the treatment of irregulars, and the propensity to belittle over-sea colonials, though it confesses most of the 60,000 colonial troops raised in South Africa itself were hardly worth the money they cost the Imperial treasury, namely $40,000,000, or thrice the sum paid to the over-sea contingents. It pays a tribute to the Royal Military College at Kingston as an efficient and most useful institution, which has turned out some distinguished men, though the number trained there are necessarily small. The Commissioners bluntly confess no proper preparation has been made for the next emergency. They say: "If war teaches anything, it is that throughout the Empire there is a reserve military strength which for many reasons we cannot and do not wish to convert into a vast standing army, but to which we may be glad to turn again in an hour of need, as in 1899. In that year there was no preparation whatever for utilizing these great resources, nothing being thought of as to pay, organization, or conditions of service, or even arms. We regret to say we are not satisfied that enough has been done to place matters on a better footing in the event of another emergency now. Nothing has been done to collect systematically the valuable experience of the officers who worked on the organization in South Africa. Certainly nothing has been done to formulate that experience or embody it in handbooks or to create a framework which would be ready for prompt and effective action. Doubts and difficulties surround us when we attempt to imagine the British Empire as a great military power in the sense of our continental neighbors, but our inquiry inspires us with much confidence in the strength and unanimity of loyalty of the Empire and the value of that loyalty if properly used within the limitations which circumstances impose."

Mr. Pitt's Canadian Nobility.

A contemporary recalls the fact that the framers of the Canada Bill of 1791 thought seriously of establishing an hereditary aristocracy here. Thirty years later, Mr. Gourlay wrote:

"As to establishing hereditary nobility in Canada, it is a thousand pities that Mr. Pitt's notion had not been carried into effect. Nothing could have so well exposed the absurdity as actual trial and consequent ridicule. By this day we should have witnessed many a pleasant farce. We should have seen perhaps, the Duke of Ontario leading in a cart of hay, my Lord Erie pitching, and Sir Peter Superior making the rick; or perhaps His Grace might now have been figuring as a petty-fogging lawyer, His Lordship as a peddler, and Sir Knight as a poor parson, starving on 5,000 acres of clergy reserves."

The report of the debate in the British House of Commons upon the Canada Bill, shows that on March 4th, 1791, Mr. Chancellor Pitt explained that he should propose a Council and House of Assembly for each Province, the Assembly to be constituted in the usual manner, and the members of the Council to be members for life, reserving power to His Majesty to annex to certain honors an hereditary right of sitting in the Council. Mr. Fox opposed the measure, and as it would appear successfully.

"BOBS" 71 YEARS OF AGE.

Lord Minto Has a Happy Thought and Cables It.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—(Special.) — The Governor-General sent the following message to Lord Roberts at the War Office: "May I offer you my warmest congratulations on your birthday, in which I am joined by Sir Ian Hamilton, Sir Frederick Borden and 42 British and Canadian officers, most of whom served under you in South Africa, and who are dining with me tonight, to meet Sir Ian.

"(Signed) Minto."

At the dinner to Gen. Hamilton this evening at Government House, about 50 guests were present, including Sir F. Borden, Lord Aylmer and Col. Sam Hughes. The toast of Gen. Hamilton's health was enthusiastically received.

Lord Roberts was born in Cawapore, India, Sept. 30, 1832, and is therefore 71 years of age.

Knew Dr. Chase in 1867.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe Co., Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

Quality Will Get Price.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Covent Garden fruit dealers say that if the 15,000 barrels of apples expected next week from Canada prove to be of the quality reported, good prices will be realized.

Temperature and Atmosphere.

That a body can acquire during the night a different temperature from that of the surrounding atmosphere has been demonstrated by an English physicist. If a thermometer is taken from the window, wrapped in cotton and placed on the ground its mercury will descend seven or eight degrees. Vegetables similarly situated, and being bad conductors, may freeze at a time when the thermometer does not mark the freezing point—proof that the cold experienced by the plant may be entirely different from the temperature of the surrounding air. This low temperature of plants, however, only occurs when the night is clear, since at this time the plant sheds its heat throughout space and becomes chilled, whereas if the night is cloudy the phenomenon does not occur. This gives rise to the popular superstition that plants and buds are frozen by moonlight.

Curious Case of Mind Reading.

A very curious case is related in the Annales Psychiques. A child of seven years, in good health, lively and robust, belonging to equally healthy parents, showed a strange facility in learning all that his mother taught him. He recited the whole multiplication table at the first trial, solved instantly complicated problems and made not a single mistake in his first spelling lesson. It was soon realised that the child did not calculate by himself and did not spell of his own accord. He was reading his mother's mind, and he did this even when his eyes were shut and his back turned, provided only that she were near him. One day she had the idea of interposing a screen between her and the child, and there was no more calculation, no more spelling. The screen was sufficient to prevent the child from reading the mother's thoughts.

In that year there was no preparation whatever for utilizing these great resources, nothing being thought of as to pay, organization, or conditions of service, or even arms. We regret to say we are not satisfied that enough has been done to place matters on a better footing in the event of another emergency now. Nothing has been done to collect systematically the valuable experience of the officers who worked on the organization in South Africa. Certainly nothing has been done to formulate that experience or embody it in handbooks or to create a framework which would be ready for prompt and effective action. Doubts and difficulties surround us when we attempt to imagine the British Empire as a great military power in the sense of our continental neighbors, but our inquiry inspires us with much confidence in the strength and unanimity of loyalty of the Empire and the value of that loyalty if properly used within the limitations which circumstances impose."

Mr. Pitt's Canadian Nobility.

A contemporary recalls the fact that the framers of the Canada Bill of 1791 thought seriously of establishing an hereditary aristocracy here. Thirty years later, Mr. Gourlay wrote:

"As to establishing hereditary nobility in Canada, it is a thousand pities that Mr. Pitt's notion had not been carried into effect. Nothing could have so well exposed the absurdity as actual trial and consequent ridicule. By this day we should have witnessed many a pleasant farce. We should have seen perhaps, the Duke of Ontario leading in a cart of hay, my Lord Erie pitching, and Sir Peter Superior making the rick; or perhaps His Grace might now have been figuring as a petty-fogging lawyer, His Lordship as a peddler, and Sir Knight as a poor parson, starving on 5,000 acres of clergy reserves."

The report of the debate in the British House of Commons upon the Canada Bill, shows that on March 4th, 1791, Mr. Chancellor Pitt explained that he should propose a Council and House of Assembly for each Province, the Assembly to be constituted in the usual manner, and the members of the Council to be members for life, reserving power to His Majesty to annex to certain honors an hereditary right of sitting in the Council. Mr. Fox opposed the measure, and as it would appear successfully.

"BOBS" 71 YEARS OF AGE.

Lord Minto Has a Happy Thought and Cables It.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—(Special.) — The Governor-General sent the following message to Lord Roberts at the War Office: "May I offer you my warmest congratulations on your birthday, in which I am joined by Sir Ian Hamilton, Sir Frederick Borden and 42 British and Canadian officers, most of whom served under you in South Africa, and who are dining with me tonight, to meet Sir Ian.

"(Signed) Minto."

At the dinner to Gen. Hamilton this evening at Government House, about 50 guests were present, including Sir F. Borden, Lord Aylmer and Col. Sam Hughes. The toast of Gen. Hamilton's health was enthusiastically received.

Lord Roberts was born in Cawnpore, India, Sept. 30, 1832, and is therefore 71 years of age.

May Lose His Hand.

Belleville, Oct. 1.—William Lynch, an employe of the canning factory, Tuesday night had his right hand and arm caught in a corn shelling machine. His hand was crushed and his arm fractured in three places. Amputation may be necessary.

Died Aged 103.

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—William McMillan, a man who has attained the remarkable age of 103 years, and who was born and has lived in this country all his life, died at his residence, St. James, yesterday morning.

Knew Dr. Chase in 1867.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe Co., Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

Quality Will Get Price.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Covent Garden fruit dealers say that if the 15,000 barrels of apples expected next week from Canada prove to be of the quality reported, good prices will be realized.

Temperature and Atmosphere.

That a body can acquire during the night a different temperature from that of the surrounding atmosphere has been demonstrated by an English physicist. If a thermometer is taken from the window, wrapped in cotton and placed on the ground its mercury will descend seven or eight degrees. Vegetables similarly situated, and being bad conductors, may freeze at a time when the thermometer does not mark the freezing point—proof that the cold experienced by the plant may be entirely different from the temperature of the surrounding air. This low temperature of plants, however, only occurs when the night is clear, since at this time the plant sheds its heat throughout space and becomes chilled, whereas if the night is cloudy the phenomenon does not occur. This gives rise to the popular superstition that plants and buds are frosen by moonlight.

Curious Case of Mind Reading.

A very curious case is related in the Annales Psychiques. A child of seven years, in good health, lively and robust, belonging to equally healthy parents, showed a strange facility in learning all that his mother taught him. He recited the whole multiplication table at the first trial, solved instantly complicated problems and made not a single mistake in his first spelling lesson. It was soon realized that the child did not calculate by himself and did not spell of his own accord. He was reading his mother's mind, and he did this even when his eyes were shut and his back turned, provided only that she were near him. One day she had the idea of interposing a screen between her and the child, and there was no more calculation, no more spelling. The screen was sufficient to prevent the child from reading the mother's thoughts.

McIntyre and Marshall say: "While the market has a better tone, it is still feverish, but the situation shows considerable improvement and we think purchases on declines from this level will prove safest and most profitable policy to pursue for a time at least. Any immediate resumption of Bull speculation cannot, however, be expected as it will be sometime before confidence can be restored from recent demoralization.

United States Steel corporation guarantees full value of preferred stock owned by its employees. At Boston yesterday coal closed at 70 bid and steel 10 bid offered at 10 1-2. Bank of England rate unchanged. Big demand for stocks in loan crowd, with NYC, St.P., A.T and U.P. specially scarce.

Erie annual report will be issued late this week. Mexican national August increase, $263,080. Since last Friday New York banks have gained $8,116,000 from sub-treasury. A broker who does a large part of the Standard Oil business said there were supporting orders in market although he did not think there was any intention at 26 Broadway to bid up prices. A careful canvass of commission houses showed a more cheerful sentiment, but very limited public interest in the market. There was a fair amount of investment buying but out of all proportion to very heavy professional operations.

There has been revival of speculation regarding dividend to be declared by steel directors when they meet next Tuesday and the fact that Rockfeller interest advertised a reduction at the time of the last declaration is now being dwelt upon and the suggestion that a two per cent. basis may be agreed upon is being discussed, but the general expectation is that the regular dividend will be declared.—Millar.

Wheat dull, unchanged to 1-4 d higher; corn dull 1-8 d higher in Liverpool.

The Waldorf says: "Believers in an improving market expresst much confidence in general outlook. It is noteworthy that this feeling is reflected by prominent professional traders, who have been bearish for some time. One of the shrewdest of this element says for several days stocks have been grounding on the bottom and unless some big institution is going to fail and we are to have a repetition of the Grant and Ward affair of 1864 which I do not believe, there is no danger now in being long. The market may back and fail for a while but it is in my belief, that the man who buys stocks and and holds them will make money. The market has to again contend with financial distress in certain quarters and the announcement that J. T. Williams & Son, of Richmond, and J. W. Middendorf & Co., of Baltimore, are embarrassed and compelled to ask their creditors for an extension will be followed by rumors of impending trouble in other quarters and this will encourage bears to contest advance and there is reason to believe that after some support at opening, market will have a considerable reaction. Sentiment last night was more bullish but there will be an absence of confidence in any sustained advance and attempts to realize profits to-day will encourage a renewal of the selling movement.

THE BOUNDARY CASE

Conclusion May Be Reached by Thursday Next.

HAD HIS MAP UPSIDE DOWN.

United States Counsel Got Tangled Up Through Unknowingly Using It in That Fashion—Power of the Commission Is Limited So That It Cannot Define Meanings of Certain Treaty Terms.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Oct. 2.—The argument before the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal will, it is expected, be ended by next Thursday.

When the Tribunal resumed yesterday morning, the President read a telegram from the Earl of Pembroke, thanking the Tribunal for its kind reference to the death of his brother, Sir Michael Herbert.

Solicitor-General Carson continuing his argument as to the southern boundary, could not see why the United States insisted on 54.40, seeing that the admitted point of commencement was not on that parallel, and that that line did not enter any inlet, but struck the continent. Why get on in the open ocean only to get off as the line approached an objective point? He said there could be no question as to Portland Channel. No other body of water was so known then or since.

As to Mr. Watson's remarks that the British line from the head of the Portland Canal went southwards in seeking the mountains on the 56th parallel, he said the statement was explained by the fact that Mr. Watson had his map upside down.

The President—"I noticed the confusion at the time."

As to question 5, Sir Edward strongly disputed Mr. Watson's interpretation that this question simply amounted to this: Should the line go round the heads of the inlets? He said it meant, must the line necessarily go round the heads of all inlets, for, supposing the existence of a dominant range of mountains running up to the side of a deep inlet and continuing on the other side, surely the line should not leave the mountains merely to go round the head of the inlet, which might be a plain.

He analyzed questions 5, 6 and 7, and asked what was meant by "coast," "mainland coast," "ocean," "mountains," and "what is an inlet?" He said the Tribunal had no power to define these expressions, or determine the extent of their own jurisdiction. He criticized Mr. Taylor's definition of a coast, and said that his statement that there was no political coast on the mainland rested on the erroneous assumption that Russia was in possession of the mainland when the treaty was made. He argued that the basis of the treaty was that before the treaty was made. He argued that the basis of the treaty was that before the treaty Russia did not own the territory on the continent, and proceeded to prove this from many sources, including a positive statement of their prominent statesmen.

Sir Edward Carson, analyzing Mr. Watson's argument, disputed the latter's statement that Russia stipulated for a barrier in the sense indicated by Mr. Watson, and further joined issue with the United States that such a barrier must not include water. He criticized the position of the United States that it was necessary to find mountains in the ground corresponding to the negotiators' maps or else the mountain line must be altogether discarded for the 100 leagues line. He said the negotiators well known that the mountains on maps were conventional signs, and that it was infinitely improbable they would be found to exist in nature exactly as depicted. No man knew this better than Mr. Canning. The treaty called for mountains, not a symmetrical range. Further, it was not the mountains, but a line along the summit of the mountains that was to be chosen, thus disproving the necessity for continuity between the boundary. He emphasized his contention that it is the treaty that is under discussion, and protested against the attempt to incorporate anybody's maps into it as an outrage.

LATEST FASHION NOTES.

CHARMING NEGLIGE OF PEAU DE SOIE.

Every woman appreciates a pretty neglige and nothing could be more charming than this creation of peau de soie, trimmed with heavy gompure lace in the new champagne tint. The front is mousseline de soie, shirred over heavy cords at intervals. The neck is round, not very low. The fronts of the neglige are loose and fall away from the sides where they are tacked at the under arm seams. The plait in the back falls from the neck and is embellished with an elaborate design of lace. The sleeves are finished with a cape-like face at the top and a full mousseline de soie undersleeve ending in a deep cuff of peau de soie. The model is carried out in any of the champagne tints, white, or ciel or pale rose. The best material to use for such a garment is crepe de chine or peau de soie which combined with the use of Corticelli sewing silk will invariably result in a dainty little neglige.

Red is still a favourite colour for hats, red tulle hats trimmed with poppies being quite the thing. A black tulle hat, worn well back on the head has for its principal trimming two very large spread white wings. A hat of fancy straw for young girls may be bound with velvet and have a large white pompon on one side. The turban is very popular, the brim often being covered with flowers and sometimes being left plain, or with a stiff wing on the side.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron was aking a stoll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

BECKONED SOMEONE

Prisoner Kennedy's Actions Near the Cole Residence.

HIS BLOOD-STAINED CLOTHES

To Be Sent to Prof. Ellis of Toronto For Analysis of the Stains Upon Them—Many Witnesses Saw Kennedy Loitering About the Willows—The Funeral of Little Irene Cole.

Brantford, Oct. 3.—Joseph Kennedy sat in the prisoner's dock last night and glared at the witnesses who were connecting him with the horrible crime of murdering little Irene Cole in the dismal swamp on Wednesday afternoon. Half a dozen people positively swore that they had seen Kennedy in or about the place where the atrocity was committed, and he by no word or action betrayed himself or gave a clue that would be of any assistance to a jury in arriving at a just conclusion.

Blood-Stained Clothes.

Yesterday Chief Vaughan sent to Prof. Ellis, the provincial analyist, portions of the coat, trousers and shirt worn by Kennedy when he was arrested in the hay loft of Hunt & Colter's stables. These portions bear red stains, and the police and physicians who have examined the stains are convinced that the report of the analyist will establish beyond doubt the fact that the stains are of blood. The report of Prof. Ellis is expected on Monday. Another damaging piece of evidence discovered by the police in their search of the prisoner is an envelope which has finger prints made in what is thought to be blood. The letter will also form a part of the evidence on which expert opinion will be had.

Irene Cole's Funeral.

The funeral of the victim of the murder took place yesterday. Service was conducted at the home on Eagle avenue and interment took place in Mount Hope Cemetery. Many friends and sympathizers showed their respect by being present.

The inquest begun last night will be continued on Monday night. The report of the analyist will be put in then.

The Inquest Begun.

The inquest was opened at eight o'clock before Coroner Dr. Fissette. County Crown Attorney A. J. Wilkes, K.C., looked after the case for the people. After the evidence of Peter Cole and Dr. Palmer was given the accused was brought into court. He was cool.

Peter Cole, father of the murdered girl, was the first witness, and related the story of the finding of the body in the swamp at 7.30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Dr. Palmer, who performed the post-mortem examination on the body, read a statement to the jury. He said death was apparently caused by strangulation, there being distinct marks of a pinch of the fingers on the throat. There were also positive evidences that the girl had been outraged.

Beckoned Someone.

Gordon Potter told the jury he was 14 years of age. He said that after he had his dinner on Thursday he was playing with his sister in the yard of his home, which runs down to the dyke. While there he saw a man on the dyke. He wore a check suit and a black christy hat. The man was standing looking into the Cole yard. He positively identified the prisoner as the man.

Fifteen minutes after, Gordon saw Kennedy standing on the dyke in rear of Peter Cole's residence. Kennedy was motioning to someone in Mr. Cole's yard. The prisoner beckoned twice and thought the witness looked to see if anyone answered the beck. He saw no one. Witness remembered seeing Kennedy the Saturday before Labor Day. Kennedy was then on the dyke. About four o'clock on the day of the atrocity Gordon mentioned to Mr. Cole about having seen the prisoner on the dyke.

Little Alberta Potter, sister of the last witness gave similar testimony.

Elmer Burtch, a corporation laborer, was hauling gravel from "The Willows" on Wednesday, when he saw Kennedy from "The Willows." This was at four o'clock.

Bruce Durward, a boy of 14, pointed to the man in the dock and said he saw "that gentleman" near the scene of the atrocity on Wednesday afternoon about four o'clock.

W. H. McIntyre swore that he saw "this gentleman there" (the prisoner) going into "The Willows" shortly ater 12 o'clock Wednesday, though Kennedy was under the influence of liquor.

William G. Phillips also identified Kennedy as the man he saw in the vicinity on the day of the murder.

MONEY TALKS.

Idle Citizens in Fine Spirits—Every Idle Man Employed For Bush Work as Soon as He Is Paid.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 3.—The whole city yesterday felt the influence of the largely increased circulation of money due to the certainty of all wages arrears being settled today by allied companies. This circumstance with the departure in the morning of the last evidence of armed military occupation of the city has put the citizens in fine spirits. Nearly every idle man from the bush has been employed to leave the city for his new lumber camp just as soon as the cash due him is paid to-day. The shaving of the time checks continues, but at a very moderate discount, many saloons and hotels being satisfied to accept them at par for the custom they bring. Thursday night and yesterday the saloons did a tremendous business.

The works were quiet last night, and only the regulation police guard are to be seen. Storm windows have been substituted for those demolished during Monday's rioting, and little remains to suggest the turbulent scenes of Monday.

Reorganization.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—The receiver of the Consolidated Lake Superior Co. was officially notified by the Imperial Bank of Canada yesterday that the payment of the wages of the companies' workmen at the "Soo" will be begun to-day.

The plan of reorganization of the company was formally announced last night. This includes the raising of $8,000,000 by means of an underwriting open to all stockholders. This sum will repay the Speyer loan, the floating indebtedness of the company, all expenses of reorganization and leave about $1,000,000 for working capital; the underwriters to organize a new corporation with $40,000,000 capital, which corporation will take over all the property of the company under proper legal proceedings.

The new corporation will issue $10,000,000 first mortgage bonds, of which the underwriters will receive $7,143,000, and which bonds it is proposed shall be issued by the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railroad Company to be secured also by deposit of the stocks and bonds of all the subsidiary companies, the unused $2,857,000 of such bonds to remain in the treasury for the future use of the company.

The bonds taken by underwriters are to be offered to all the stockholders at 70, with a stock bonus of 30 per cent.

Toronto Militia Home.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—The Toronto volunteers arrived from the "Soo" at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, tired and unhappy. They had been on the train since Thursday noon, and few of them had any sleep. The trouble was there were not enough cars on the train to accommodate the men with any degree of comfort. Their rations, however, were excellent.

BROKEN IS THE REVOLT.

Turkish Troops Are Driving Back the Insurgent Macedonians.

Sofia, Oct. 3.—According to advices received here yesterday afternoon the backbone of the revolution in Macedonia is broken, the Turkish troops are gaining the upper hand everywhere, several insurgent chiefs have been killed or wounded, others are abandoning the struggle and fleeing to the frontier, the revolutionary bands are sustaining heavy losses, and are seeking refuge in large numbers, and the Turks occupy every important point along the routes of retreat to the frontier.

Many Turks Killed.

Five engagements are reported to have taken place in the vicinity of Kratova, where 5,000 Turks were attacked by revolutionary bands and though many Turks were killed, the insurgents were completely routed.

Advices from the insurgent headquarters assert that 6,000 Turks were routed by 2,000 insurgents in the Pirin Mountains after four days' fighting. The Turkish losses in this affair are said to have been the heaviest during the whole outbreak. They included three colonels and many officers of lower rank. Three batteries of artillery left Sofia early yesterday morning for Haskovo, near the frontier.

Only Ten Men Escape.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 3.—The Macedonian revolutionary headquarters assert that they have positive information that the whole Christian population of the town of Mehomia was massacred Sept. 28, with the exception of ten men.

Why Rachael Took Poison.

Hamilton, Oct. 3.—"I would not let my people find out the kind of life I had been living and that's why I took the poison." Those were among the last words of Rachael Buck, the 19-year-old cook at the New American Hotel, who died last Wednesday from the effects of a dose of paris green, according to the evidence of her sister, Mrs. Ida Cutts at the coroner's inquest last evening. This was the verdict: "That Rachael Buck came to her death from poison administered by her own hand."

Evangelical Conference.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The Evangelical Conference continued its labors here yesterday. The report of the Board of Bishops was presented this morning, and read in English and German. Special mention was made of $24,000 raised by the Canadian conference for building churches in the Northwest.

Arrived in Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—Lieut.-Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton arrived here yesterday afternoon. He was met at Union Station by Col. Buchan, C.M.G., acting D.O.C., and other local militia officers. The visiting general has one of the best fighting records in the British Army.

Big Fire in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 3.—The whole quarter surrounding the Place de la Liberte at Halence d'Agnais, comprising a distillery, three cafes and a number of shops, covering two thousand square yards, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

15 Silver Chalices Lost.

Rome, Oct. 3.—Fifteen silver chalices have mysteriously disappeared from the Sacristy of St. Peter's. The authorities are much concerned, especially as this last loss follows the theft of seven gold candlesticks.

May Portend War.

Paris, Oct. 3.—According to reliable information received here, Japan has decided to send two regiments of infantry to Corea. This is regarded in authoritative quarters as being a most important step, as affecting Russo-Japanese relations, and as likely to accentuate the possibilities of a war crisis.

THE PETERBOROUGH GAOL STATISTICS.

Some Particulars Regarding the County Gaol—Majority of the Offences Were Minor.

The statistics of Peterborough Gaol for the year ending September 30th, 1903, have been compiled and show that during the year ending as above, 128 male prisoners and 21 female prisoners were committed, making a total of 149. Of these 12 were under 16 years of age, all of them being boys. Of the 149 committed 107 were in for the first time; 26 on the second offence; 8 for the third offence and the same number for more than the third time. There were sentenced to gaol and afterwards removed to the central prison, 4 persons, while 7 were sent direct by the above judge; 3 were sent to the Andrew Mercer Reformatory for females; 3 were sent to the penitentiary; 5 were sentenced to the reformatory for boys and 33 were sentenced to gaol and there retained till the expiration of sentence.

Of the total number of prisoners the maintenance of 23 was defrayed by the government, while the municipalities maintained the remainder. 136 Government prisoners were in custody for a period of 642 days, and municipal prisoners 3092 days. The nationalities of the prisoners was as follows: —Canadian, 91; English, 16; Irish, 19; Scotch, 5; United States, 10; other countries, 8. The religious denominations were represented by: 45 Roman Catholics, 45 Church of England; 19 Presbyterians, 32 Methodists and 8 of other denominations; 59 persons were married; the remainder, 90, being single. 26 could neither read nor write; 90 were reported temperate and 59 intemperate. The expenditures for the gaol maintenance for the year amounted to $1,963.83, divided as follows: Officers' salaries, $1350.00; food, clothing, fuel and all other items except salaries and repairs, $613.83. The two offences for which the majority of prisoners were committed were,—larceny 42, and vagrancy 41. 14 other offences were designated, while 11 were committed for offences not enumerated. The 57 who were sentenced were classified as follows: 2 for assault; 2 for contempt of court; 6 for being drunk and disorderly; 2 for fraud, 3 for stealing horses, cattle and sheep; 2 for indecent assault; 1 for keeping a house of ill fame; 9 for larceny; 1 for shooting with intent; 26 for vagrancy and 2 for offences not enumerated. It is a significant fact that 75 of the 149 committed were without a trade, and designated as labourers, largely accounted for by the fact that their number is proportionately greater than that of the skilled classes. 10 were boys with no occupation.

POLICE COURT

Stephen Percy Fined $38.25 for Selling Cigarettes to Minors.

Samuel Dancy was summoned for not having paid his carter's license fee. After the summons had been served he paid his license and 85c. costs.

Stephen K. Percy was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble on three charges of selling cigarettes to minors, that is to say boys under 18 years of age. Their names were Frank Burdette, jr., Chas. Romano and Chas. Dummit. Percy was fined $10 and $2.75 costs for each offence, all of which amounted to $38.25, which he paid.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Mr. Wm. Millar has a Very Narrow Escape.

On Friday last, Mr. Wm. Millar, of Douro, met with as serious and a very painful accident, by which he barely escaped loosing the sight of both of his eyes. It appears that Mr. Millar went out with his shot gun to kill a hawk which had been taking his chickens, but when he arrived on the scene the bird had flown away. He threw open the breach of the gun to extract the cartridge, which exploded as he did so, throwing the whole charge of powder into his face, burning and puncturing it in a shocking manner. Medical aid was immediately sent for, and his wounds carefully dressed, and it is hoped that Mr. Millar will retain the use of both of his eyes.—Lakefield News.

CAPT. R. W. CARSON WAS GIVEN A GOLD WATCH

On Severing His Connection With the C. G. E. Co., After 12 Year's Service.

A pleasant affair took place at 12 o'clock to-day at the gate house of the Canadian General Electric works when Capt. R. W. Carson, the labour foreman, was presented with a handsome watch, the gift of his fellow-employees. Capt. Carson to-day severed his connection with the company, having accepted a position with the C.P.R.

As the men came pouring out of the buildings, the news that a presentation of a watch would take place at the gate house, spread rapidly, and consequently a large number of persons were present at the event.

The following address was read by Mr. J. G. Wilson:

"To Capt. R. W. Carson, Labour Foreman, C.G.E. Co., Peterborough, Ont.:

"Dear Sir and Friend, — Learning with deep regret that you are severing your connection with the Canadian General Electric Company, and that you will be no longer in our midst as a co-labourer, after 12 years of service with the company, yet we are pleased to know that you are bettering yourself, and that we are not losing you as a fellow townsman, and we will yet have the opportunity of giving you the glad hand of fellowship.

"As a slight token of our regard and esteem, we ask you to accept this watch, and may it always be a memento of those you leave behind, and we bid you God-speed in your vocation. Signed on behalf of the subscribers: A. W. Patterson, chairman; J. G. Wilson, A. E. Metheral, C. B. Robertson, W. S. Hodgson, Committee of Presentation."

In reply "Cap" Carson thanked them for their presentation and address. Although he was leaving he expressed his pleasure at being able to see his former fellow-employees frequently as he would not be leaving town. In conclusion he again thanked all for remembering him on this occasion of his severing his connection with the company.

The crowd gave three very hearty cheers and then dispersed.

A Tip to the Ladies.

Among the latest fashion devices from Paris and New York is one that short basque waists are now the correct thing. The long skirt is no longer fashionable. This will be good news for the ladies, because of the quantity of material required for the long skirt; but drygoods merchants will naturally be disappointed at the change.

You won't harden or shrink woolens with Sunlight Soap. The purity of the oils and fats and the absence of free alkali prevent that. 27

THE SITUATION AT THE "SOO"

Toronto Saturday Night has the following sane remarks concerning the difficulty at the "Soo.":—

"The situation at the Soo is not one that Canadians can congratulate themselves upon. Still, it is a situation which may inaugurate great enterprises. The franchises owned by the Clergue Works at the Soo are worth incalculable millions. Clergue himself may have been overcalculating what he was getting, but no sane man with regard to the future of the country is liable to underestimate the magnificent franchises of which Mr. Clergue became possessed. I have no love for the "knocker" who has nothing but evil to speak of the man who has become confused in his commercial enterprises. The "knocker" is a destructive element; he tells us of evil things after it has been demonstrated that there are no good things. I think Mr. Clergue was quite right in his effort to establish a great industry at the Soo. Those who are trying to hamper his industry and to lessen the advantages he possesses must be reckoned as "knockers." The world cannot be run by pusillanimous Kickers who are always at the heels of those who undertake great enterprises.

That so great a loss has been incurred at the Soo simply means in a commercial sense that a supremely great enterprise was undertaken. That the workingmen have fallen foul of that great enterprise establishes the fact that workingmen cannot be relied on to protect anything that is to their advantage. I am as sorry as anybody can be that they remained unpaid, though there was never a doubt amongst those in the know that the time for their payment could not be long postponed. That they benefitted themselves by rioting no sane man can conceive. The Ontario Government, it now appears, has arranged with the banks for funds to meet all the overdue pay-rolls. It would have been a good thing if such an arrangement could have been come to earlier, before any rioting and destruction of property, but these things can not always be put through in a hurry, and the Government, which was in no sense responsible for their misfortunes, must be given full credit for doing the decent and proper thing under most unusual and trying circumstances. The attempt to make capital against Premier Ross and his colleagues out of a situation that has not the remotest connection with Government policy, was a sickening spectacle. There is no doubt in my mind that there was the wish, if not the effort, on the part of a reckless element, apart from the unpaid employees, to stir up riot and anarchy in order that the situation, politically and financially, might become as difficult to cope with as possible. The hopes of these irresponsible demagogues were gratified in a measure in the disturbances of Monday, but mob-rule is a flower which does not flourish in the air of Canada. It was good news to the whole country that troops were being rushed to the scene with so little delay, and that if the bushmen again got gay with other people's property there would be both cold steel and cold lead in ample measure to meet the situation.

According to the same announcement as that of the Government's arrangement with the banks to pay the men, there is another rift in the clouds in the postponement of Speyer & Co's sale, advertised to occur on Thursday. That the whole thing will readjust itself if public opinion remains steady I am absolutely sure. I have been speaking of stocks bumping hard all through the summer, and bumping extra hard in the Fall. The facts have demonstrated the absolute correctness of my forecast. Stocks have bumped in a way that was undesirable to everybody. The result has been unfortunate. I am not sorry to see commercials come down to their ordinary value, but I must confess that I am distressed to see good values going below par."

SUSTAIN BUSINESS CONFIDENCE

British commercial and financial newspapers are now giving considerable space to Canadian opportunities for the investment of capital. Canada looms large in the public eye in Britain, especially in business circles, and the most roseate predictions as to our future are not exaggerated or overdrawn. The world will demand wheat to the full productive power of our grain-growing area, and beef to the full capacity of our great cattle ranges. The food-producing population that is to fill our still vacant areas will sustain an industrial and commercial life adequate to its needs. Rural industries cannot be extended without the development of manufacturing and commercial centres. All lines of useful effort must maintain a commercial balance of power, and none can extend without proportionately stimulating others. In our agricultural and grazing land there is an assurance of permanent success. Our timber wealth may also be regarded as a permanent asset, for the need of reforesting has been realized while the exhaustion of the present supply is still beyond the measurable future. All mineral wealth must ultimately be exhausted, but our rich heritage will sustain its own industrial development for generations. The future of the Dominion is fully assured, and that is an excellent reason for extreme care with regard to encouraging unwise investments.

A few years ago Australia held a foremost place with British investors. The many opportunities afforded by that colony for the successful employment of capital were discussed in a eulogistic strain in the British press, and promoters had little difficulty in securing capital for their numerous enterprises. Business men are not exempt from the power of example, nor from the tendency to move with the crowd. The current set strongly toward Australia and a large amount of capital was sent there from the surplus wealth of Britain. Under such circumstances it was natural that the activity of promoters should exceed in some cases their commercial wisdom. Enterprises were promoted with little or no prospects of success, and the result was disappointment to some of the over-hopeful ones. A large number of the schemes floated were eminently successful, and are still yielding fair returns to the investors, but the proportion of failures was sufficiently large to impress the continuous need of careful investigation before embarking in new enterprises.

Now, that the tide is setting towards Canada, we can profit by the experience of a sister colony. There are plenty of good openings for the safe investment of capital in Canada, and our position is not over stated by British financial journals. The abundance of such opportunities would make it all the more unpardonable for reckless promoters to take advantage of the present wave of confidence to float enterprises of an uncertain character. Although Canada is rapidly expanding and is certain of a future infinitely greater than the achievements of the present day, good business judgment and sound financial methods are as essential here as elsewhere. There is an opportunity for commercial and industrial enterprises, as well as for men to grow up with the country, but both require the elements of strength and stability. It would be unpardonable to discourage any enterprise based on the reasonable hopes of future development or to magnify the risks necessarily incident to all investments. But a word of caution to over sanguine promoters is generally in season at the flood tide of confidence and enterprise. We must do nothing to shake the well-founded faith of foreign investors in Canadian possibilities and prospects.—Globe.

Talking to Pussy About DIAMOND DYES.

"Mamma and I have just dyed two faded dresses and a jacket with Diamond Dyes, and they look as good as new. Mamma says the Diamond Dyes are always reliable and true."

CANADIAN COAL.

As a consequence of the American coal strike and the resultant high range of prices, considerable attention has been drawn to the coal measures of Canada, and especially to those of Nova Scotia. This has been especially the case with the Canadian railway companies, which have hitherto been in the habit of drawing the bulk of their supplies from the States, and have for that reason seen expenses so enhanced that very handsome gross increases in earnings have been largely—in the case of the Grand Trunk Railway entirely—wiped out, much to the discomfiture of stockholders, who had not dreamed of such a contingency. There is no good reason why Canadian railways should not consume Canadian coal almost exclusively. It is of good quality, and compares favourably in price with the American sorts. Probably the simple explanation is that they have been in the habit of using American fuel and have not worried to make a change, despite the growing sentiment which suggests that Canadian commodities are good enough for Canadian citizens. Still it has to be allowed that the demand for Canadian fuel is increasing not only in the Dominion, but in the towns of the more Northerly Atlantic seaboard of the United States. The country is very well off for coal measures; the drawback is that capital for their proper development has not been forthcoming so freely as in in the case of the American measures. The coal area of Canada is estimated at 97,200 miles, not including the areas in the far North which are known to exist, but are not yet developed. There are four main regions—the coalfields of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick; those of the Northwest Territories; those of the Rocky Mountains; and those of British Columbia. The coal area of Nova Scotia cover about 635 square miles. They are divided into the Cape Breton, the Pictou and the Cumberland Basins. New Brunswick contains, so far as is known, no seams of sufficient magnitude to be worked successfully in competition with the Cumberland mines. The workable thickness of the coal is very great—in Cape Breton a total of 25 feet to 60 feet; in Pictou at least 70 feet; and in Cumberland at least 30 feet. If the workable area is reduced one-quarter—say from 407,400 acres to 300,000 acres—and the average thickness of the workable area put at 25 feet; on the basis of 1,000 tons of coal, an acre for every foot of coal, the amount of coal in the measures of Nova Scotia is 7,000,000,000 tons. The present production of coal in the country is now about 6,000,000 tons of 2,000 pounds, as compared with 5,300,000 tons in 1900, and 4,172,000 tons in 1898. Of the present total nearly 4,000,000 tons are supplied by Nova Scotia.

The enormous annual output already attained by the soft coal fields of the United States—mining operations now being carried on in thirty States and Territories, the annual production of which amounts to something like 250,600,000 tons—indicates the ultimate and perhaps speedy exhaustion of these fields. Each year the Canadian fields will be increasingly drawn upon by American fuel users, and the Canadian industry will increase in importance very rapidly. Aside from constantly increasing exports to the United States, Canadian coal fields will soon supply Ontario and other parts of Canada, supplanting American coal; and the future demand for the product of Canadian fields and the development already attained gives some idea of the great prosperity in store for the bituminous coal industry of Canada.—Canadian Manufacturer.

COST OF BINDER TWINE.

(Hamilton Times.)

The price of binder twine as affected by the removal of duties has been a subject of discussion dear to the Tory papers. They have delighted in pointing out that binder twine was higher in price of late years than it was before the removal of the duty, and when the Canadian farmer was at the mercy of the combine. The presentation of a half truth has been thus depended on to do the work of a very able-bodied falsehood.

In the House one day not long ago the matter came up for discussion, and it was stated that the average price paid for Manila fibre used at the Kingston Penitentiary factory in 1894 was $4.38. That was before the war in the Philippines. That war led to a shortage in the supply, and since that time the price of fibre has been much higher. In the present year it has been $8.75. Is it surprising that the price of twine should be higher when the price of the raw material doubles? But as a matter of fact the price of twine has been but slightly higher, and now the Government has decided to grant a subsidy to offset the disadvantage at which our twine-makers have been placed by the United States controlling the Philippines supply of fibre. Binder twine, cost of fibre considered, never was so cheap in Canada.

CANADA'S FISCAL INDEPENDENCE.

There appears to be some surprise in England, growing out of the Laurier-Bopp correspondence, that Canadians, in the face of the Chamberlain policy, think of maintaining their fiscal independence. If any ill-informed friends of Mr. Chamberlain ever imagined that Canada would surrender her fiscal independence to the Home Government as a part of a preferential tariff bargain, it is an excellent thing that they have thus been early disabused of that idea. Canada has no notion of taking a step backward at this time. But Canada has not imagined that Chamberlainism asked any such sacrifice at her hands.

If a system of mutually preferring tariffs grows out of the present movement in Britain, it will be reached in one of two ways—either (1) a treaty between the Canadian and British Governments, or (2) concurrent legislation. Of these, the latter would be by far the more preferable. That would leave to both parties the utmost freedom of action, and rid the scheme of even the shadow of a sacrifice of the principle of entire fiscal independence. Certainly under such circumstances, Canada could hardly be the first to propose an abolition of the preference. We have already given Britain such treatment without asking anything in return; and it is unquestioned that a preference for our grain in the British market would be a splendid advantage to us as a people.

But, even if a treaty is decided upon, a nation does not abandon its fiscal independence in signing a treaty. If this were so, there would not be a fiscally independent nation in the civilized world. All that a treaty requires is that the nations signing it shall agree not to exercise their freedom along certain lines for a limited term of years. But, until the treaty is signed, they are free to make such arrangements as they choose, and when it becomes irksome, they are free to give notice of its denunciation.

Canada will go into any preferential arangement with the Motherland as a fiscally free nation. That freedom will be carefully guarded in the framing of any treaty or the agreeing upon a policy of concurrent legislation. No powers now possessed at Ottawa will be more than held in abeyance; and we must remain entirely the sole judges of the extent to which this should now be done, pending such an arrangement. The effort of the majority of our people and of certain men in Britain to bring about a closer union between the different parts of the Empire could in no other way be dealt so deadly a blow as by creating the impression in Canada that the Chamberlain party looked for a partial return to the old overlordship of Downing Street.—The Toronto News.

FUNCTION OF A UNIVERSITY.

The discovery of men is the chief purpose of a university. There are all about, in mute and inglorious obscurity, men of uncommon natural talent, even of that priceless possession called genius, whose contribution to the world's knowledge or the world's service has been insignificant because they have never been found out, either by themselves or by the world. The capacity for great and excellent service is the distinguishing endowment with which some rare souls are furnished in Nature's mysterious laboratory, but the discovery and proper development of that capacity would seem to depend largely on the accident of early training in home and college. To discover men to themselves and to fit them for the service of others in the supreme function of a university.

Doctrine such as this was taught by Professor Sherrington of Liverpool in his address at the opening of the new medical building of the University of Toronto, Thursday afternoon. It is true doctrine, and its distinct statement and heavy emphasis are not unneeded in these days. The extension and enlargement of the Provincial University whether by normal growth or by federation, is matter for congratulation, but it has its perils and its increased responsibilities. Mere bigness matters nothing except as a clog to progress. There must be an increase and an enrichment of life and a betterment of public service or enlargement will make for decay. Unless it fulfills its function as the discoverer of men, the crowding of its class-rooms and the multiplication of its alumni will not avail.

The Provincial University has reached an interesting and critical stage in its history. The federations which have brought so many independent colleges within its pale, the awakening of enthusiasm among its graduates, and the assurance of the Government that there shall be but one State-aided university in Ontario, conspire to make this stage interesting. The possibility of missing the true mark of a university as the discover of men, makes it critical.

And only men can discover men. Laboratories and libraries and all the machinery of modern university equipment are useful, but the one thing needed is a vitalized professoriate. And the perpetual danger in a State university is the possibility of aggressive influential mediocrity finding its way into the places of power. The appointment of men of less than excellent quality, and their retention after their incapacity, or indolence, or intellectual staleness has been made manifest, is one of the perils of a state-controlled university. The University of Toronto will never come to its own until professorial ideals are adopted, severer tests of merit made before permanent appointment, and something of courage and fidelity to trust displayed by the authorities, whether academic or governmental, in the removal of inefficient, uninspiring, or unprogressive teachers. This much must be done if the university is to fulfil its function in the discovery of men.—The Globe.

SIGNATURES FORGED

Mr. Marcil of Bagot Presents Proofs to the House.

THEY NEVER SAW PETITIONS

How Sentiment Was Worked Up Against the National Railway—Finance Minister Defends the Late Conservative Government — Several Government Bills Advanced—The Supplementaries.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Touching tributes were paid by the Premier and leader of the Opposition, when the House met yesterday morning, to the late Mr. Cargill, whose quiet, unostentatious demeanor and genial disposition made him extremely popular with both side of the House.

Signatures Were Forged.

Mr. Marcil (Bagot) threw a bombshell into the camp of the Opposition when he read affidavits from a number of his constituents, whose names appeared upon petitions against the national transcontinental railway bill. The affidavits set forth that they had never seen the petitions which they were supposed to have signed, and that, instead of being opposed, they were entirely in sympathy with the policy of the Government in the matter. The Government supporters cheered Mr. Marcil as he presented the convincing proof in support of their contention that the petitions were not representative of the sentiments of the Dominion upon the matter.

Railway Moneys.

In the afternoon the House took up the bill to amend the act respecting the Department of Railways and Canals. It empowers the Government to advance to the Minister of Railways from time to time the increasing funds to purchase and manufacture the necessary stores for the Government railways and reorganizes the system of store accounts.

In the course of the discussion, the matter of the printing done for the Intercolonial in outside offices came up, and the Opposition denounced the action of the Government in changing the law whenever the Auditor-General attempted to live up to the act, as he understood it, and refused to pass printing accounts on the certificates of the King's Printer. It was closing the Auditor's mouth because he clashed with the Government.

Outside Printing.

Mr. Fielding thought it curious that ever since the act of 1892 was passed, and up to a short time ago, the Auditor-General should accept the certificate of the King's Printer, that prices were fair, and then suddenly change his mind and declare the practice of years was illegal. Mr. Fielding regarded it as a piece with the Auditor's recent action in regard to superannuation. For many years the practice was, in counting the period of service, to reckon time over six months as one year, and to strike out any time under six months. Suddenly the Auditor declared this was not the law, and so the Government regarding the practice which was instituted by the Conservatives as right and just, had an act passed legalizing it.

Mr. Fielding's Memoir.

Mr. Clancy and Mr. Blain would not uphold it, no matter what had been the attitude of a former Government.

"I am going to defend the late Government; I am not going to allow them to be maligned," replied Mr. Fielding, amid laughter.

The bill was reported at 5.10, read a third time and passed.

The bill to amend the Shipping Casualties Act, which the Minister of Marine explained was designed to meet representations of the British Board of Trade was laid over, after debate, till the correspondence with the Imperial authorities has been brought down.

Committee of Supply.

The House went into Committee of Supply on the supplementary estimates, and the first item taken up was one of $7,000 for additional accommodations to the Parliament Building, which, after a short discussion, passed.

The vote of $75,000 for additional dredging at Port Arthur and Fort William, and of $46,096 to Connolly & Co., in connection with the Kingston graving dock, passed, and the House adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

DID HIM GOOD AND NO MISTAKE.

What Simon V. Landry has to say of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He was Weak, Run Down and a Total Wreck—Three Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills put him to Work Again.

River Bourgeois, Richmond Co., Que., Oct. 28th.—Special.—Simon V. Landry, well known here, adds his testimony to the thousands of others all over Canada who owe their health, and even life itself, to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was bothered for over a year with Lame Back, Weak Back, Palpitation of the Heart and General Weakness," says Mr. Landry. "In fact I was a total wreck. I could not work as I got tired and weak so easily and I had a weakness in my stomach so that I could not bend down to do anything.

"I had tried different kinds of medicine without benefit till I gave Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. From the first time they did me good and I had only taken three boxes when I was able to start work again. They did me good and no mistake."

SALE A SECRET.

London, Oct. 3.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Edward Carson before the Alaskan Boundary Commission yesterday said that the sale of Alaska had been kept a profound secret from the world and especially from England. At that time Canada did not exist as a Dominion, and England had no political organization in those inaccessible regions, but the United States knew perfectly well that there was no acquiescence.

After detailing the various assertions to England's claim, Sir Edward said they absolutely destroyed the argument based on the subsequent acts of occupation by the United States. These acts, however, amounted to little in themselves. He quoted Mr. Watson that the census of 1900 showed 20,000 of population in Southern Alaska. Mr. Watson afterwards reduced this to 11,000. On analysis the census showed less than 4,000 in the disputed territory, which number is decreasing every year. Dyea has declined to 100, Skagway to 1,000, the total population of all ages, sexes and nationalities. These facts are very different from Mr. Watson's original statement, which was made with a view of influencing the tribunal against disturbing the allegiance of so many people. Sir Edward, concluding, said: "We are approaching the end of a long, arduous investigation, but the labor time and cost would be well spent if the results should succeed in removing the sole ground of contention between the two great nations interested."

The President, congratulating the Solicitor-General, remarked that, having conquered Ireland and annexed England, he has proceeded to appropriate our greatest colony, where his fine argument will be much appreciated. When unfortunately Mr. Blake's health compelled his retirement it was felt that Canada had sustained a great loss, which Sir Edward had done much to repair.

Hon. Mr. Dickenson began by the observation that it was a satisfaction that his remarks would bring this long debate to a close. He referred to the comprehensive speeches of the Attorney-General and the fascinating, elegant argument of Mr. Robinson, which was the admiration and despair of all who heard him. He prefaced his remarks by stating that this treaty should be interpreted on broad lines, that words should be read in their general sense and not microscopically examined in a search for subtle distinctions that never entered into the minds of the negotiators. He took up the questions seriatim.

Grammar in Dispute.

During yesterday's session of the Alaskan Boundary Commission a heated discussion developed over the meaning of the French word "crete" (crest). Sir Edward Carson, the British Solicitor-General, contended it meant "summits," and quoted French authority in support of his argument. Senator Lodge quoted Litre as showing that the word meant the singular number.

A hot argument in regard to the authorities followed. Finally Lord Chief Justice Alverstone interrupted and said:

"Never mind. This case will not be decided by rules of grammar."

The discussion led to the first display of irritation since the sessions of the tribunal began.

WEAK AND NERVOUS.

Thousands of Lives Made Miserable by a Trouble Easily Overcome.

Thousands of people throughout this country suffer continually from nervousness—their blood is poor and watery, their nerves unstrung and jaded. They are pale, weak, often troubled with headaches and dizziness, are exhausted with the slightest exertion, and often feel as though life were a burden. There is only one absolutely certain way to get new health and strength, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills make new, rich, red blood, strengthen the nerves, and bring health, strength and happiness to those who use them. Mr. D. W. Daley, Crystal City, Manitoba, proves the truth of this. He says:—"I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with wonderful results. Before using them I was weak and nervous; my blood was poor; I was pale and suffered from pains in the region of the heart. Now after the use of eight boxes of the pills my nerves are strong; my blood is pure and rich; I have a good colour and my heart action is regular. I think there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for these troubles."

This is the verdict of all people who have given the pills a fair trial, and those who are sick can obtain new health and strength through the use of this medicine. Do not waste money and further endanger your health by taking any substitute. See that the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is printed on the wrapper around every box. If you cannot get the pills from your dealer they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Cave-in at Hamilton.

His comrades set to work and released him in a few minutes. His right eye, arm and leg were cut, but he will be around again in a short time.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe Co., Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

A STRONG, VIGOROUS MAN

Is Liable to Break Down—Pe-ru-na is Sure to Restore.

Hon. Frank Dunn, Alderman Twenty-Fourth District, writes from 232 East Fifty-Eighth Street, New York City:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen: "There is no remedy for a broken-down system that I know of which will so effectually restore health as Peruna.

"Whenever I am overworked or suffer from the consequences of a cold a few doses of Peruna builds me up again more quickly than anything I ever tried. I find it especially valuable for catarrh. Three bottles cured me three years ago of catarrh of the stomach and I have never had the least symptoms of it since."

Very truly,

FRANK DUNN, Alderman 24th Dist., N. Y. City.

A TONIC is a medicine that gives tone to some part of the system. There are different kinds of tonics, but the tonic most needed in this country, where catarrh is so prevalent, is a tonic that operates on the mucous membranes.

Peruna is a tonic to the mucous membranes of the whole body. It gives tone to the capillary circulation which constitutes these delicate membranes.

Peruna is a specific in its operation upon the mucous membrane. It is a tonic that strikes at the root of all catarrhal affections. It gives tone to the minute blood vessels and the terminal nerve fibres. Catarrh cannot exist long where Peruna is used intelligently. Peruna seeks out catarrh in all the hidden parts of the body.

Paul Landrum writing from Atlanta, Ga., says:

"In January last I began the use of your Peruna and Manalin for what was termed organic heart trouble. At that time I could scarcely walk to my place of business without stopping to rest and on arrival felt completely exhausted. Had severe pains in my heart and general dizziness. After using the first bottle of Peruna I began to improve and today I feel that I am a sound man and I work fourteen hours a day without any bad feeling."—Paul Landrum.

A. M. Ikerd, an employee of the C. B. & Q. R. R., West Burlington, Ia., writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief. Finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me, that I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was something awful. I could hardly stand it, it was so offensive. I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I got one of your books, and concluded I would try Peruna, and thank God, I found a relief and a cure for that dreadful disease. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle in my house all the time."—A. M. Ikerd.

If you do not desire prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

DYNAMITE WITHOUT REASON.

Part of a Residence at Rock Lake Blown Up—Investigation Asked.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 3.—Report of a dynamite outrage that occurred on Monday last at Rock Lake, by which part of the house of George Mathewson was blown up, was brought to the "Soo" yesterday morning by Mr. W. J. Smythe, M.P.P. The authorities here are asked to make an investigation. Rock Lake is fourteen miles from Bruce Station on the "Soo" line of the Canadian Pacific and about 55 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie. Last week a gang of rough characters was noticed hanging around the house of Geo. Mathewson, who keeps a general store, and they were seen again on Monday. During the afternoon while Mr. Mathewson and his son were out on the lake Mrs. Mathewson and her sister noticed a strange man running away from the house and immediately after there was a loud explosion, which completely shattered one end of the house. No one was injured. It was found afterwards that a stick of dynamite had been placed under the house and exploded. No reason can be given for the outrage.

LACROSSE.

Vancouver, Oct. 1.—(Special.)—The Vanvouver lacrosse twelve, British Columbia champions, to-day defeated the Montreal Shamrocks five to three at Queen's Park, Westminster. At the outset the easterners played carelessly, thinking to have as easy a task adjusting the score as when they played New Westminster two days ago. When they found three goals against them in a few minutes' play they get busy, and 'the kids' covered that they were unequal to more than hold their opponents on equal terms. The last two quarters, without a score on either side, witnessed the hardest, fastest and at times the fiercest lacrosse ever seen in the west, five players of each team simultaneously decorating the fence on one occasion. It is the Shamrock judgment that Westminster at its best was never in the class with the Provincial champions of to-day. — Globe.

* * * *

The lacrosse terms that have gone into the semi-final games fully endorse the remarks of the Toronto Telegram on the matter dealt with: "Teams that have been in training since before May 24th, get a little tired along towards this season, and want things finished up as soon as possible. It gets dark too early to practice in the evenings, and the players have to get away from their work in the afternoon to get into shape. Both players and employers get tired of this sort of thing. It is time the C.L.A. awoke to the fact that they are making the winning of championships so expensive and tedious that clubs are apt to reason that there is more profits and fun in getting knocked out early in the season."

MISCELLANEOUS.

The following members of the Ketchecum club have gone up for a week's fishing and partridge shooting at Ketchecum Lake: Messrs. W. H. Bradburn, J. M. Brooks, B. B. McKee, A H. Stratton, H. LeBrun, Alex. Elliott, R. Winch and D. J. Lundy. About a dozen more will follow on Monday.

Y. M. C. A. EVENING CLASSES.

The following are the courses: — Mechanical drawing, Algebra and Trigonometry, Shop Arithmetic and Geometry, Book-keeping and penmanship, Arithmetic and Spelling.

Full particulars can be had at the building or through the booklet. All who intend to enter should enrol at once at the office of the Y.M.C.A.

ANNUAL SALE OF WORK.

St. Luke's Mission Band Holds an Entertainment—A Pleasing Programme Rendered—Successful Sale of Fancy Articles.

The Mission Band of St.Luke's Church is an organization, which, by the results attained, gives a good reason for its existence. Last night the annual sale of work was held in the school room and was of a very successful nature, the room being well filled, and the financial outcome was entirely satisfactory. A large quantity of fancy work which had been made by the girls of the Band was on sale, and most of it was disposed of at good prices. The work was a credit to the girls who had made it and comprised almost every imaginable article of wearing apparel and adornment.

The booth devoted to fancy work was in charge of Mrs. Sawyer, who had as her assistants Miss Ruby Quartermaine, Miss Jennie Gillespie and Miss May McCubbin, all these ladies being very courteous in their attention to the buyers. Mrs. Kidd presided over the candy booth, where some delicious home made candy was sold, and the young ladies associated with Mrs. Kidd were, Miss Mabel Sawyer and Miss Hazel Craig. A "Jack-in-the-box" was conducted by Miss Florence Howden and Miss Lillian Rogers. A very enjoyable hour was spent in social intercourse after which an excellent programme was given, contributed to very largely by the members of the Mission Band. A piano duet was first given by Misses Clara Adams and Janet Quartermaine. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, in announcing the programme, said he was pleased to see so many present. It was a great encouragement to the members of the Band to see that their efforts were appreciated. The attendance last night was the largest in the history of the Band. It was also a source of great satisfaction to him to know that a member of the Mission Band had decided to devote her life to missionary work. Miss Alice Scott, who had for some time taken a very active part in the work of missions as undertaken by the Band, and to whom considerable credit for the success of the latter must be given, will leave next week for Alberta Territory where she will devote her life to missionary work among the Blackfoot Indians in a mission school conducted by the church. It was a great pleasure to Mr. Langfeldt, he said, that St. Luke's would be so well represented in the mission field. Following this came a piano solo rendered by little Miss Katie Leary in a very pleasing manner. A vocal quartette was also given by Misses Burnham and Phillips and Messrs. Turner and Kelley, with Mrs. J. J. Turner, Jr., as accompanist. Miss Reta Gaskins followed with a recitation. The next part of the programme was a very interesting one. Mrs. McGregor was called upon to read an address to Miss Alice Scott and Mrs. Langfeldt presented her with a handsome silver watch and pendant, the watch being beautifully engraved, on the inside case, stating that the watch was presented to Miss Scott by the friends of St. Luke's church and on the outside case with her monogram. In making the presentation the following address was read:

To Miss Alice Scott:

Dear Co-worker in the Cause of Missions,—The members of the Senior and Junior Branches of St. Luke's Women's Auxiliary feel they cannot permit you to retire from their midst to enter upon the important duties to which God has called you in His field of labour at the Blackfoot Hospital in Gleichen, N. W. T., without expressing to you in some slight manner their appreciation of your services as a worker in the different fields of labour in connection with St. Luke's Church.

We, therefore, on behalf of the members of both branches, ask you to accept this watch as a slight token of their esteem for you and trust that during the hours spent by you in waiting upon and ministering to the sick and afflicted your thoughts will revert back to St. Luke's and the very many friends and well wishers you leave behind, who will prayerfully remember you and wish you every success in your new field of labour.

K. E. LANGFELDT,
President of St. Luke's Mission Band.
S. McGREGOR,
Corresponding Secretary of St. Luke's Women's Auxiliary.

Ashburnham, October 2nd, 1903.

Miss Scott was taken completely by surprise, but in acknowledging the handsome gift, gave expression in well selected words to her appreciation of the kindness and interest of her friends thus manifested. She assured them that she would always cherish in her far-off home pleasant memories of her associations with St. Luke's and asked for the prayers of the church for the success of her work in the Northwest. She said that the presentation of the gift was a complete surprise to her, as indeed it was, and was but another evidence of the kindness of the members of St. Luke's.

Miss Courtney then gave a vocal solo which was much appreciated, Mrs. Rehill acting as accompanist. This was followed by a dialogue, "A Trip to Mauro," in which Miss Ethel Sawyer and Masters Percy Crane and George Butcher took part. This was a humorous number and the audience apparently enjoyed it. A second quartette brought the programme to a close. Refreshments, consisting of cake and coffee, were served by the ladies, which closed the evening's entertainment.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to nearly $50.00, which was a most satisfactory result.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

Perrin, also of South Monaghan, took place at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Drew.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, the ceremony being performed under an arch of the same. The members of the Methodist church, Bensfort, presented the bride with a Westminster clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrin left for Detroit on their honeymoon, and on their return will reside at their new home, "Cherry Farm," South Monaghan.

EAST DURHAM AND CAVAN EXHIBITION

Held Yesterday at Millbrook was a Success.

Largest List of Entries in History of the Fair—Attendance Over 3,000—Interesting Speeding Events.

East Durham and Cavan Agricultural Societies' Fair, of 1903, held at Millbrook, on Friday, will go down into history as the most successful in every way of any previous exhibition held in the village. The weather of the preceding evening was most unpromising, and the directors were, as a consequence, feeling rather doubtful as to the outcome, but Providence was good to them, and yesterday morning dawned fair and warm, and the excellent weather with which Millbrook Fair has been invariably favoured, brought out the largest attendance in its history. Fully 3,500 persons passed through the turnstiles admitting them to the grounds. The gate receipts were in the neighbourhood of $800, which is a considerable increase over that of that last year. Not only is it in attendance that the Fair surpasses all former years, but the number of entries exceeded those of last year by fully 400. About 2,000 separate entries were made this year, and Secretary Vance was a highly pleased man when asked as to the Fair this year as compared with former exhibitions. "You may say it is better and bigger than ever," he said, and a subsequent inspection of the exhibits found inside the building, and those placed in the stables and on the grounds, would seem to corroborate the secretary's enthusiastic statement.

The association, which is in a good condition financially, has spent several hundred dollars this year in improving the grounds and buildings, an especially appreciated improvement being an additional judging ring, which facilitated the work of the judges in the live stock sections very materially; in fact with the larger number of entries, and the increased quantity of live stock, principally in the horse and cattle sections, it would have been almost impossible to complete the judging without the additional ring provided this year. New buildings have also been erected; one for the poultry, which this year was very fully represented, and a number of new pens for sheep and swine, in each of which an exceptionally large entry list was shown. The latter was a particularly attractive feature, exhibitors being there from the townships of Clarke and Darlington, as well as from Seymour township. The hog that captured the sweepstake at the Dominion Industrial Fair held at Toronto this year, was among the exhibits at Millbrook. The Tamworth breed was in the majority, and some very fine animals were shown in this class. The other breeds, however, Yorkshire and Berkshire, were well represented. Of the exhibitors of swine, from a distance, pens belonging to Messrs. Colvill Bros., of Newcastle; S Snowden, of Bowmanville, and Wm. Stewart & Son, of Seymour Township were noticed. It was, however, in the horses that the distinctive success of Millbrook Fair was scored. An enthusiastic director made the assertion that in this class, the Fair excelled any between Toronto and Ottawa, and to one looking over the field and into the stables and seeing the great number, of well bred horses both in the carriage and heavy draught classes, this statement would seem to be made not without warrant. In every class, a very large number of entries were made, and the quality of the animals was frequently remarked upon. Cavan farmers apparently take a pride in producing good horses, and, yesterday the large list of local horses was augmented by numbers from other townships, combining to make one of the best exhibitions of horses in Ontario. In the carriage and saddle class, Dr. King, was an exhibitor, while in the roadster class Mr. R. H. Leary was a prominent figure. A noticeable feature was the large number of colts shown, an indication that the stock of well bred horses is by no means becoming depleted, and a guarantee that future Fairs will see an equally large number of horses entered.

The cattle, like the other classes of live stock, made a very creditable showing; on fact that form is not sufficiently expressed of the really excellent class of animals shown. The fancy grades, Jerseys, Holsteins and Polled Angus, were not largely represented, those exhibited, however, were of good quality, but the competition in the Durhams and Grade cattle was very keen because of the large number of animals entered.

The exhibits in the building were in keeping with the general high standard of quality; the quantity also being large. An especially good showing of vegetables was made, while in the ladies' work and art sections numbers of exhibits were well worthy of special mention. In hand painting, Miss Ethel Morris, of Bowmanville, was probably the most extensive exhibitor, and her work was of an especially high order of merit.

A number of Peterborough business houses were represented by exhibits on the grounds. Grafton & Company had a tent erected, and a complete assortment of men's and boys' clothing was shown in it. Judging by the man who visited this exhibit, and inspected the goods, the firm must have found it a profitable venture. This display was in charge of Mr. H. L. Conway.

Gough Bros. had a unique display, also under canvas. A quantity of clothing was very tastefully arranged on tables, in charge of Mr. James Lang, who evidently has many friends among those who attended the Fair. Budd and Company had their exhibit of tea and coffee, in a large tent, in a conspicuous portion of the grounds. Great interest was centred around the large tent in which Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. had a fine display of wall paper, and at any time of the day a crowd might be seen surrounding the tent. A gramaphone manipulated by Mr. W. Henders, who had charge of the exhibit, served as the drawing card, and that a visit was satisfying was evidenced by the fact that many visited the tent two and three times. Messrs. White & Gillespie were on

GENERALLY SPEAKING

A CORRESPONDENT writes the Examiner something in regard to the public milk supply, which deserves the attention of the health authorities. He says that he saw on a dusty day recently, with the wind whirling the microbe-laden dust of the streets in every direction, an open milk wagon with open milk cans generously receiving a generous dose of pulverized street filth. This is something that should not be allowed in a civilized community. Milk next to a woman's reputation is the most sensitive to impure influences, and with all the care that can be exercised there is still enough lurking danger of milk becoming contaminated. Before the lacteal glands of the cow, begin the manufacture of milk, the contamination may begin in the form of impure drinking water or noxious food. At milking time slovenly and filthy habits on the part of the milker combine with the odour of stables to contribute its contamination. We may very well believe that the milk-man who will carry milk in open cans in an open wagon when foul street dirt is being poured into them, will not be scrupulously clean in the milking process. Some time since we had an agitation for the establishment of a city dairy company by whose operation milk would be supplied under conditions guaranteeing the maximum of purity and freedom from pollution by malignant bacilli. The milkman who by carelessness favours the introduction of the bacillus — little club — into his milk should be introduced to a big club, in a legal sense of course.

* * *

WE LOOK TO OUR health authorities to protect the public health or rather we should look to them. However, there does not seem to be much help in that quarter. They don't seem to be very much alive to their duty or their opportunities. Recently we had a gathering of Medical Health Officers in Peterborough, when many subjects of the most vital importance in relation to the public health were discussed. One would have thought that the members of the local Board of Health, would have sat, with open mouths, at the feet of the special speakers on sanitary subjects, drinking in knowledge that would give them a deeper insight into the conditions that affect their duty, and a deeper sense of their responsibility. But how many of them attended the sessions? Nobody but the Medical Health Officer, excepting one member of the Board cautiously poked his head into the doors for a few minutes and another was present for a time at the public meeting in the Y.M.C.A. hall. The Board of Health may go to sleep at their posts, but the death-dealing microbe neither slumbers nor sleeps. There is no use scolding the Board of Health if they won't do their full duty, the public will have to suffer the consequences.

* * *

THE GRAND JURY at the recent Assizes, pointed out the absolute necessity of an isolation hospital in connection with our local hospitals. This is a matter of urgent moment. One of the most important papers read at the meeting of the Association of Medical Health Officers here was that of Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, on isolation hospitals, and the great influence these institutions had had in limiting the spread of and, consequently, the mortality from, contagious diseases. Such hospitals may be erected in connection with general hospitals, under certain specified regulations, and the municipality may assist. Government aid, on the pro rata principle, and as is now extended to general hospitals, may be made. The matter of controlling contagious or infectious diseases, is one that vitally concerns the public, and the municipal council and the Board of Health should take an active and earnest interest in the establishment of isolation hospitals in Peterborough. The season is coming on when the diseases mentioned, under ordinary conditions, attain the greatest prevalence. Forewarned is fore-armed, and fore-armed is to provide the means to save many a heath from the desolation that death brings to the home. The science of health has shown that all microbic diseases are preventable, and as suppression and prevention of these is the function of an isolation hospital, such an institution is an indispensably necessary part of public health machinery. It is time for the local authorities to act. Isolation hospitals provided in connection with our general hospitals, will doubtless save life, and if life is lost through their absence, the reflections of those responsible will not be of the most pleasant character.

$38.25 REPRESENTS the profit on the sale of 2,517 cigarettes, supposing, as is probably the case, a profit of one and a half cents on each package. That is a problem that was brought home to the tobacconist who paid $38.25 into the police coffers this morning to even up the offense of selling cigarettes to boys under eighteen years of age. He may have considered the ofense a minor one, but the penalty very practically undeceived him. Cigarette smoking is a most vicious habit, both on account of its actual and pernicious effect, but also from the danger of the practice leading lads on to the use of tobacco

COLOR OF THE OCEAN

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD ON THE EPITHET THAT IT IS BLUE.

Hue Is Largely Dependent Upon the Quality of Salt Contained in the Water—Poets and Painters, However, Are the Legitimate Godfathers of the Great Element and Not the Scientists.

The purest spring is not more limpid than the water of the ocean; it absorbs, says Mrs. Somerville in "Nature Notes," all the prismatic colors, except that of ultramarine, which, being reflected in every direction, imparts a hue approaching the azure of the sky. The depth of the blue depends upon the quantity of salt contained in the water. In saltworks the brine assumes a deeper blue the longer the evaporation is continued; that is the reason of the deep azure of the Mediterranean, the Gulf Stream, and the sea in the region of the trade winds.

The reflection of a boat on the shady side is often of the clearest blue, while the surface of the water exposed to the sun is bright as burnished gold. The waters of the ocean also derive their color from animalculae of the infusorial kind, vegetable substances, and minute particles of matter.

A discussion as old as language, as old almost as the element itself which is its topic, has been lately revived in a scientific contemporary. "What is the color of the sea?" Such is the question asked in "Nature Notes," where it is answered in a more or less exhaustive manner from the pen of Mrs. Somerville. The color epithet chosen by this lady as the safest general hue which can be attributed to the ocean is blue. It seems remarkable that this should be in the first place the one oceanic tint nowhere set down upon our charts and atlases. In the North of Russia we have the White Sea, which, closed for half the year with floes and icefields, takes its name naturally enough from the wintry aspect of the silent waves outside Archangel. On the southern limit of the Continent of Europe the Euxine spreads its gloomy expanse under the title of Black Sea, a cognomen which none will think undeserved who have sailed in December by Sinope and Trebizond. The Sea of Marmora, the Sea of Aral, and the Caspian bear their own special names, as well as the Baltic on the north and the Midland or Mediterranean on the South. The Pacific, not by any means always deserving so gentle an appellation, brings us to the Yellow Sea, washing the shores of China and Japan; and most people know the long and hot strip of salt water between Egypt and Arabia as the Red Sea, although it was not so christened, as some think, from the occasional reddening of the surface waters, but from the classic or Asiatic word for the race inhabiting its coasts. Along the southern shores of Oman and Beluchistan part of the Persian Gulf has always been styled by Arab geographers the Green Sea, and at the southern extremity of South America there rolls a patch of cold and stormy billows known as the Vermilion Sea. Nobody seems to have given to any portion of the watery waste—though they might well do so—the designation of gray or purple, of saffron or brown, of rose or orange, of silver or golden.

Blue has always been the epithet employed to denote the prevalent color of the sea. Lord Byron apostrophizes the ocean as "darkly, deeply, beautifully blue," and every navigator knows the element best when he sails out of sight of land "as the blue water." Mrs. Somerville rightly states that this well-known aspect of the waves is largely dependent upon the quantity of salt contained, and quotes the familiar example of supersaturated brine, which reflects a deeper azure the more it is evaporated. But it depends still more on the depth and volume of the water, as would be seen if there existed anywhere a gulf or inlet of perfectly fresh water. That which flows up and down in the English Channel, especially at its mouth, is little or not at all inferior in saline contents to the mid-Atlantic itself; yet nobody has ever seen the surface between Plymouth and Ushant colored so deeply as the indigo-dyed black-blue of the "Roaring Forties." The Channel rollers are almost always emerald green, and where they run into shallows, or over sands and rocks, the dark green lightens into the tint of an unripe apple, with patches of soft purple, or puce, or lilac, if it passes over beds of seaweed.

Much the same may be seen in the pale Baltic waters, which are far less deeply tinted than the German Ocean, or the spaces of the Arctic Circle, and this, again, largely depends upon the earthly deposit and minute detritus washed from the coasts and river mouths. Blue, as Tyndall proved by many experiments, is the special color of purity. The deep sea takes that shade greatly on account of its limpidity, and the heavenly azure of the high sky is due to the fact that it contains air free from all except the very smallest impurities. If we traveled in a balloon or otherwise outside the forty-mile radius from the earth, far beyond what has been called the "skin of the sky," and into the region of the inter-planetary void, the forget-me-not azure of the atmosphere would change, first into sapphire or deep turquois, next into cornflower blue, and finally into a purple blue, more midnight hued than that of the Central Pacific, ending at last in utter blackness when there was nothing left to reflect light except the other.

Leaving, however, geographers and chartmakers aside the proper persons to consult on the question of the sea's color are the poets and the painters. These are the legitimate godfathers of the great element; and and the fact that they have given so many different names to the ocean, and painted its calms and storms in so many various tints, proves what a large and difficult topic we have here. Homer in the "Iliad" and the "Odyssey" has both described and painted in splendid and quick-sighted language the changeful and variegated deep. He was hampered by the poverty of words to represent colors—a poverty which still prevails, since human speech has never been able to match itself with nature's wonderful palette; yet the few epithets which the immortal poet employs are marvellously true and striking, giving as only genius can a whole world in one work. The word which he prefers to all others when portraying the ocean is the "wine-colored." This indeed, pictures only a single aspect of the deep, but does it nobly and accurately.

Twice in the day when the sky is blue and the waves are quiet, you will see what the blind singer saw before the light of the sun was taken from him. The ocean, rippled with that which Aschylus terms its "countless smile," takes upon the illuminated side of each wavelet the gold of the rising glory or the crimson of its setting orb; while the shadowy half of each long watery furrow has its deep indigo glazed by reflection of the azure sky. Then when you gaze transversely the whole surface looks like a sea of wine—rosy and golden, like foaming champagne, or blood-red with purple and silver shadows, like a sea of sparkling burgundy. It is this purple and crimson water especially which the chief of all singers had most observed and best depicted in that one appellative. Few painters have dared to give to their canvas the glowing tints which Homer would have used, and which his "oinopa ponton" justifies. This is only one of a hundred hues which the mighty ocean can assume.

Under bright weather, while its face is gold and white with the large light lying upon it, you will see under the side of a ship, or even of a small boat, a patch of shadow color so delicately blue, or so divinely green, that sapphire and chrysoprase are but foolish terms whereby to indicate them. Nor can you ever decide, if you love the sea, which combination is more exquisite to the eye, the dark blue of the deep water, laced with the broken silver of the foam, or the leaf-green lovaliness of an inland gulf or channel when the glitter of each lifting emerald ripple is backed and outlined by violet and gray. Who again can decide which fills the eye with more of beauty and glory, the huge resistless billows of a stormy sea, rolling like moving mountains of sombre ebon and white before the blast of the storm wind, or when it lies in some tropic latitude under a pale vault, a waste of weltering gold where the least movement of living creatures is an event sending a milky circle around. For the sea is never really at rest. Many a time, from the deck of my own yacht, or on voyages, I have tried to discover some moment of absolute tranquility, some small tract of really sleeping sea, but have never found it.

There is always, under the calmest sky and in the stillest water, a tremulous, ever-shifting, subtle, silent network of ripples, which play upon the surface and every now and again blend suddenly into the larger, but yet very soft and silent breathings of air and sea, which make what sailors call "cat's-paws." I have also seen the sea all white as far as eye could reach, with flocks of countless seabirds, and all black and gray as far as the evening horizon, with herds of Alaska seals, and again, in the Indian Ocean, a sheet of shimmering gold and blue, from which the flying fish darted and dived like ingots of silver, when a floating turtle became an incident, central and serious, like a passing ship. For the sake of convention and convenience we may therefore agree to call the sea blue, but in point of fact every color of the rainbow and every hue of the flowers of the field belong to that wonderful world of waters.—London Telegraph.

MODESTY OF THE GREAT.

Gladstone and Darwin Felt Themselves "Ordinary Persons."

In "Studies In Contemporary Biography," by James Bryce, there occur two stories which caused some of the critics to express astonishment at the "modesty of the great." The stories are these:

"Meeting Mr. Gladstone in the lobby and seeing his face saddened by the troubles in Ireland, Mr. Bryce tried to divert his thoughts by mentioning a recent discovery—to wit, that Dante had been saved from want in his last years by a lectureship at Ravenna. Mr. Gladstone's face lit up at once, and he said, 'How strange it is to think that these great souls, whose works are a beacon light to all the generations that have come after them, should have had cares and anxieties to vex them in their daily life just like the rest of us common mortals!'

"The words reminded me," adds the author, "that a few days before I had heard Mr. Darwin, in dwelling upon the pleasure a visit paid by Mr. Gladstone had given him, say, 'And he talked just as if he had been an ordinary person like one of ourselves.' The two men were alike unconscious of their greatness."

It is only the little who think themselves great. They are like those who do not know much and therefore imagine that there is not much to know. The great do not think themselves so, just as the learned are overwhelmed by their ignorance.

Snake In a Street Car.

The snakes with which I have generally associated have mostly been the little chaps, such as the lively two foot garter snake that I had in a Kansas City street car one day. I had picked him up in the suburbs of the city, and before taking the car back to the business section of the town I buttoned him in the inside pocket of my coat. Now, anybody who has ridden over the streets of Kansas City knows that in places it seems as though the cars were climbing up the roof of a barn. When I got on the car it was full, and so I had to grab a strap in order to stand up. Presently a seat became vacant beside me and I sat down. As I did so I glanced up and there was my poor little snake hanging to the strap I had just left. Various other people noticed him at the same time, and the ensuing exhibition would have enabled any person in the car to secure a job as a circus acrobat at a handsome salary. After they had escaped I put the snake back in my pocket. The conductor was a hero and stuck to his post, but he put me off the car and kept my nickel.—W. S. Dunbar in Outing.

Nursed the Sick, Ruined Her Health.

For Months Mrs. Myles Lay a Helpless Sufferer From Nervous Prostration and was Cured by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. John Myles, sr., of South Woodslee, Essex Co., Ont., is well known throughout the surrounding country because of her work among the sick and suffering, and it was on account of overexertion in this regard that her health broke down and she lay weak and helpless, a victim of nervous prostration. Doctors could not help her and she resolved to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a result she has been thoroughly restored and by recommending this treatment to others has been the means of bringing back health and happiness to many a weakened and discouraged sufferer from diseases of the nerves.

Mrs. Myles writes:—"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was nervous prostration. My stomach was very weak and I could not sleep at all for any length of time. Nervous chills and trembling would come over me and at times I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker all the time. There were also pains on top of my head which caused me much suffering and anxiety.

"After using half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I began to gain in weight and feel stronger. Since then I have been gradually restored to health and in looking back can say that the improvement has been something wonderful. I used in all forty boxes of this preparation and feel it a duty as well as a privilege to recommend it to all who are suffering from nervous disorders. Several persons to whom I have described my case have used it and been cured and I am sure that I owe my present good health, if not life itself, to Dr Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 4

The "Grain of Truth."

"Pa, what's a grain of truth?"

"It is generally the thing that keeps all the women in the neighborhood saying: 'Well, I declare!' 'I never would have thought it!' 'You don't say!' 'I never did believe she was as innocent as she tried to make out!' and 'I feel so sorry for her children!'"

COLLAR AND CRAVAT.

Ways In Which They Affect the Appearance of the Wearer.

Men who do not want to look any fatter in the face than they can help have an easy means of accomplishing their purpose. Not all of them are aware of the effect that may be created by the form of a collar or cravat.

"The stout man who wants to look as thin as he can," said a haberdasher's clerk, "ought to wear a tie of the kind known as a four-in-hand. Preferably it should be dark in color and drawn tight. That carries down the line of the face and lengthens it to a degree that tends to make the face look thinner.

"Another aid to making a man look thin is in the height of his collars. Stout men who want to look thin should wear high collars and closed ones. Any collar that opens in front makes one look stouter under nearly every circumstance. Such collars are becoming to the thin men.

"The fat man should avoid the kind of tie that has a horizontal effect. This will add pounds to his appearance—in his face, at least.

"On the contrary, this cross effect will make the thin man look stout. The broad scarfs have little effect on a man's looks one way or the other. When he wears them it is the collar that makes the difference.

"He should therefore see that he wears a high one that does not open if he wants to look as thin as possible, whereas if he wants to seem stouter an open collar will produce that effect for him."

IT IS NOT THE BRAIN

But the Stomach That is Responsible for that Depressing Headache—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure it and Cure it Permanently.

"He hasn't enough brains to have a headache," is a term so often used that one might be led to believe that headaches were caused by the brain. But any physician will tell you that headaches—the dull, depressing kind that are worst of all—come from the stomach. Headaches are one of the symptoms of Indigestion, and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets drive them away once and for all.

This is not an idle statement but something that has been proved thousands of times. Here is one of the proofs. Julia Sandburg, of 221 John street, Hamilton, says:

"For over six years I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Headaches. Nothing I ate would agree with me and nothing I tried would cure me.

"Acting on the advice of others I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got relief almost at once and was very soon completely cured."

Reading of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets won't cure Dyspepsia or Headaches, but using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets has never failed to do it.

Inconsiderate Fellow.

"He said he'd die if I didn't marry him."

"And still you refused?"

"Yes. I wished to find out before promising whether he really loved me as much as that or not. Oh, Harriet, I'm p-p-perfectly miserable! He seems to be wretchedly healthy, and I do love him so much!"

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease. 36

A NATIONAL CHURCH

THE "LITTLE FATHER" OF ALL THE RUSSIAS IS ITS HEAD.

Its Richness, Its Many Adherents, and Its Pilgrimages—Moscow Is Jerusalem—In What Respects It Differs From the Church of Rome, Whence It Emanated—Canonization of the Hermit Prakhoff Moshnin.

The pilgrimage of the Czar and his court to the distant Province of Tamboff to assist in the canonization of the hermit Prakhoff Moshnin has gone almost unnoted by the outside world, whose eyes have been focused on Rome and the new Pope, but as the manifestation of the spirit of a great church it is scarcely less remarkable than the coronation of Pius X. The Czar is the Pope of the Greek Catholic Church, which nearly 200 years ago broke away from the Church of Rome and established itself in Constantinople.

While Popes have continued to reign in Rome, Constantinople has passed into the hands of the Mohammedans and the capital of the Greek Church has been removed to the far north, where only savages and wild beasts existed in the days of the church's foundation.

But though the Greek Church has not the history of the Church of Rome, the Czar through his synod directs the spiritual affairs of 87,000,000 persons.

Moscow, the Jerusalem of Russia, has more pilgrims than Mecca, more shrines than Rome and more worshipers than the holy cities of India. Its church buildings are among the most magnificent in the world. The Church of Our Saviour in Moscow cost $10,000,000. Its great dome, gilded with real gold, alone cost more than a million dollars, and in its interior are marbles, precious stones and paintings worth nearly three millions.

While the Czar governs his spiritual kingdom as well as his religious kingdom from St. Petersburg, Moscow is really the spiritual capital of Russia. In the very heart of the city, surrounded by a wall a little over a mile in length, lies the Kremlin, the Russian holy of holies. In it are old palaces and churches filled with the most precious possessions. In one of them is a picture of the Virgin arrayed in a robe covered with diamonds, called the Iberian Mother, which is carried through the streets in a golden chariot at the times of great religious celebrations and which has been the source of vast revenue to the church. Many other shrines of especial holiness have Madonnas which are the objects of particular veneration to the hundreds of thousands of pilgrims who yearly throng to Moscow with their offerings.

The pilgrims are largely peasants who travel in gangs of three or four, their baggage upon their backs and their shoes tied about their necks. You may see them at almost any time walking through the streets, crossing themselves before every church and occasionally stopping to mutter their prayers. At the shrines they are admitted one at a time to look upon the Madonna, which has a policeman on each side, after which they drop their money into the contribution box and pass quietly out into the open air.

There are other famous shrines in the country at which the pilgrims worship. At Kiev there are hundreds of thousands of visitors a year. The recent pilgrimage to the monastery of Saroff was one of the greatest of late years. Besides the Czar's entourage there were 6,000 bishops and lesser clergy at the canonization ceremonies, to say nothing of the horde of peasants. Saroff is forty miles from the nearest railway station.

The chief differences between the Greek and the Roman Catholic Churches are that the Greek Church denies the supremacy of the Pope, that it allows all its members to read and study the Scriptures in their native tongue and that it permits its priests to marry. If a Greek priest's wife dies, however, he cannot marry again, but is expected to complete his life in a monastery. There are two classes of clergy, the blacks and the whites. The blacks are monks and the whites priests. The bishops are always chosen from the monks, who enjoy a greater social prestige than the whites. The monks in monasteries spend their lives in fasting and prayer. The priesthood is recruited from sons of priests, and they usually marry priests' daughters.

The present head of the holy synod, to which the Czar leaves practically everything pertaining to church government, is M. Pobodonotseff, who has been for fifty years one of the leaders of religious and intellectual life in Russia. He is a man of great ability, the son of a professor of Russian literature in the University of Moscow. He claims to be liberal and to allow liberty of conscience throughout Russia, but this is frequently denied, and His Holiness is charged with fanaticism.

FERROL

(THE IRON-OIL FOOD.)

It is the best of the concentrated foods.

It is rapidly and easily assimilated.

It is palatable and does not nauseate.

It is most nourishing and yet increases the appetite.

Children like it. Even nursing infants take it readily and digest it without difficulty.

It does not constipate. (In this respect it is unlike many other preparations containing iron.)

In a word, FERROL is an all-round concentrated medicinal food. It is food for the tissue, food for the blood, food for the brain and nerve. It increases the weight, enriches the blood and builds up the system.

THE PALACE POSTMASTER.

Never Absent From His Post in a Quarter of a Century.

Mr. Pike, the postmaster of the Palace of Westminster, who will retire shortly under the age limit, after holding that responsible position for more than a quarter of a century, has never been absent for a single hour from his duties on account of sickness, according to The Chronicle, and this in spite of the fact that for many years he was always at his post, at 11 o'clock in the morning and did not leave it until an hour or so after the adjournment of the Commons. He has served during nine Administrations, and under ten Postmaster-Generals, and during that length of time has been on the best of terms with members as well as his own staff. During the quarter of a century which Mr. Pike has been watching over the correspondence of members he has seen many changes. Letters and telegrams, he thinks, have increased quite fourfold since he took charge, and, though a great deal of this increase may be set down to the greater activity of the press, it is accounted for in no small degree by the change in the habits of members of the House of Commons, who now transact the bulk of their correspondence at the House, instead of doing it at home. There was only one postoffice within the precincts of the Palace in 1876, now there are four fully equipped in various parts of the building, besides numerous postal boxes and four telephone installations. There are occasions of great pressure in the telegraph department, generally on budget nights, when members are anxious to let their constituents know what taxes have been put on or taken off. These may be foreseen, but a certain night in 1880 when the dissolution of Parliament was suddenly announced without warning still lives in Mr. Pike's memory as the liveliest experience which the Parliamentary postoffice has ever had.

ENGAGED.

Marriage is very largely an accident. In few cases do men or women set up a standard of manly or womanly excellence and choose by it. In most cases people become engaged as the result of propinquity rather than because of any deep rooted preference.

And so it often happens that the wife enters upon the obligations of maternity just as thoughtlessly as she entered on the marriage relation, because no one has warned her of the dangers she faces.

Thousands of women become invalids for lack of knowledge of themselves. It is to this large body of women that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes as a priceless boon, because it cures womanly ills.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"After my first child was born," writes Mrs. Jordan Stout, of Fawcettgap, Frederick Co., Va., "my health was very poor for a long time, and last winter I was so bad with pain down in back I could hardly move without great suffering. My husband got me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and a vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' which I used as directed. In four days I was greatly relieved, and now after using the medicine three months, I seem to be entirely well. I can't see why it is that there are so many suffering women when there is such an easy way to be cured. I know your medicines are the best in the world."

Debts In China.

In China one can always borrow money on the strength of having a son, but nobody would advance him a cent if he had a dozen daughters. The former is responsible for the debts of his father for three generations. The latter is only responsible for the debts of her own husband.

SIR JOHN SOANE'S WHIM.

The Practical Joke a Celebrated Man Played on Posterity.

One of the most famous of postmortem jokes was that perpetrated by the donor of the celebrated Soane museum of pictures and other valuable objets d'art to England, the late Sir John Soane, who died in 1837. In his will Sir John made provision for the opening of three sealed cupboards on certain specified dates in the presence of the trustees. In 1868, that is to say almost thirty years after the death of the testator, the first of the mysterious receptacles was with much ceremony and breaking of seals opened in the presence of a committee of men, with the then president of the Royal academy, Sir F. Grant, at their head. Instead of a priceless treasure or some evidence that would throw an entirely new light upon some doubtful incident in political history the contents of the cupboard proved to be worthless accounts, letters and stationery.

Twenty years passed by, and the interest that had smoldered after the disappointment of 1868 was again fanned into flame at the prospect of breaking the seals of the second cupboard, at which rite there were present among others Dr. Alfred Waterhouse, R. A., and Sir (then Dr.) B. W. Richardson. Like the cupboard mentioned in the well known nursery rhyme, Sir John's second cabinet proved "bare" of any sensation, the contents being chiefly composed of letters relating to certain long forgotten family quarrels that had not even the merit of being interesting. If some of those authorised to be present at the opening of the third and last receptacle of mystery were dubious about the profit that would accrue by letting the light of day fall upon the contents thereof after sixty years' darkness one at least, Sir B. W. Richardson, looked forward with unabated interest to that day in 1896 when the last seal would be broken and the mystery solved, but he, alas, died just two days before the ceremony was performed, and the fact that Sir John had played a practical joke upon posterity was duly confirmed by the presence of a collection of perfectly worthless letters and papers.

MERRY, HAPPY BABIES.

There is no greater treasure on earth, than a healthy, happy, merry baby. Anything therefore that will keep the little one in this condition is a priceless boon to mothers. Mrs. William Bull, Maple Creek, N. W. T., tells how she accomplished this end: She says, "I am happy to state that Baby's Own Tablets have done my baby girl a world of good. She was badly troubled with constipation and very cross and peevish, but since using the Tablets she is all right. I give her the Tablets once or twice a week, and she is now such a merry, happy little thing that there can be no doubt Baby's Own Tablets are just the thing for the little ones."

Here is a lesson for other mothers who want a safe and certain medicine for the ailments from which their little ones suffer from time to time. These Tablets are sold under a guarantee to contain no opiate or harmful drug, and they are good for all children from the new born babe to the well-grown child. Sold at 25 cents a box or sent by mail by writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Continental Immigration Supply.

A special report by Mr. Smart to the Minister of the Interior, upon continental immigration contains the conditions of an agreement made with the North Atlantic Trading Company of Amsterdam, Holland, in return for a bonus of £1 for each agricultural immigrant and for domestic servants over 18 years from Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Russia, Germany, Austria, Hungary, northern Italy, Luxembourg, Roumania, Bulgaria, Servia, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden and Finland. The company consent to undertake a systematic and persistent propaganda in the countries named and expend annually not less than $15,000 in carrying on the work. In respect of settlers from Galicia, Roumania, Servia and Russia, excepting Germany, each married man and wife is to be possessed of not less than $100 and $25 for each child, the maximum amount for a family being fixed at $200. Each unmarried man or woman is to be possessed of at least $25 over and above the cost of transportation. Mr. Smart does not consider the prospects of emigration from France very bright, but, although he advises the continuance of Mr. Fabre and his Paris office so long as any advantage is to be desired therefrom, he would not recommend a very large expenditure until more justification in it can be seen.

MERRY MEALTIMES.

The Table No Place For Fault Finding, Nagging and Strife.

Has it ever been your lot to sit at a table with a group of young folks who ate the meal in silence or, with a few constrained remarks, looked askance at the head of the family before venturing on any remark? I have seen such a sight on more than one occasion. Doctors have told us over and over again of the beneficial results arising from a meal eaten with a contented frame of mind and with cheerful surroundings; but, sad to say, there are many households where each meal is a constant scene of bickering, nagging and fault finding.

This is not only the case where there are young children, who require a reprimand occasionally for carelessness, but I am speaking of those homes where the girls and boys are well into their teens. Wrong is that parent, either father or mother, who chooses the hour when all are assembled round the table to mention some half forgotten grievance or to find some fault.

If any trivial thing has been done wrong or any duty omitted wait until dinner or tea is over before you scold, blame or reprimand. Let the food which God gives us for the purpose of nourishing and sustaining our bodies have the opportunity of accomplishing that end, which cannot be the case if every mouthful is swallowed with either a sarcastic word or an uncomplimentary remark. More indigestion, nervousness and other derangements are caused by the too common fault of uncomfortable mealtimes than many people would suppose, and it is our positive duty, which we should all try to remember, to make those hours of the day cheerful and agreeable to the children and to set them an example which you would be the first to notice and approve in others.

So Nice and Sympathetic.

A gentleman whose one glass eye has served him for years had the misfortune to drop it. It smashed to atoms. This happened when he was far away in the country. He inquired of a friend where was the nearest place for him to go and get refitted.

"Why don't you call upon the girl you were flirting with all last night?" his friend inquired. "She has a first class reputation for making eyes."—Punch.

Prayer of the Convert.

A south sea islander at the close of a religious meeting offered the following prayer: "O God, we are about to go to our respective homes. Let not the words we have heard be like the fine clothes we wear—soon to be taken off and folded up in a box till another Sabbath comes around. Rather, let thy truth be like the tattoo on our bodies—ineffaceable till death."

The Temperature.

"Why do you watch the thermometer on the wall so closely?" queried the invalid.

"Because," replied the untrained nurse, "the doctor said if the temperature got any higher I was to give you another dose of quinine."

Bewildered.

"John Henry, I'll thrash you soundly if I ever catch you telling another story that isn't true."

"And yet, ma, I heard you say to the minister that I had great imagination."

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora" and it burns a ton, or only half a ton of coal more in a year, what do your gain? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co. have received the following:

New York, October 2, 7.00 p. m.—Wall street stocks advanced steadily to-day under what looked like bull manipulation. There was a battle royal for a time between the big buyers and the shorts but the latter were vanquished and forced to cover. Many bullish stories were afloat. One was that the short in market approximated 1,000,000 shares. Another was that a strong pool had been formed to take the place of the late Southern Pacific pool, and was in sympathy with Union Pacific interests. Suspensions in Richmond and Baltimore affected seaboard stocks on the curb, but it was said that the firms that had asked for an extension showed assets largely in excess of liabilities and would come out all right. Anyhow the market was not much affected by the announcement. There was a little flurry in call money in the last hour and this with a decline a point in St. P. somewhat unsettled the market for a time but call loans were offered at the close at 3 per cent, and the closing prices were firm at slight recessions from the top. A good bank statement is expected Saturday. The banks have apparently gained $1,500,000 net this week. The London market for sterling exchange on the increased offerings of cotton bills gave rise to the hope that gold would soon be engaged for import.

The stock markets seem to be gradually working toward more promising conditions. There was a fair advance in consols to-day. London stocks advanced smartly and Wall street was strong most of the day and closed with net gains ranging up to three points. On this market there was also a more cheerful feeling and the list showed good advances. There does not seem to be much pressure to sell, and with any increase in the demand for stocks prices would doubtless respond with some advance. Holders will have to exercise a little patience and in a short time they may be rewarded with better markets. Dominion Coal was a trifle easier early selling at the opening at 70 1-2 and 70 5-8, and at the close at 71 for a small lot, and closing a trifle better than yesterday at 71 1-8 bid and 71 1-4 asked. Dominion Steel was firmer, selling a point higher at 10 1-4 to 11 1-4.

Jas. J. Hill says the agricultural situation in Northwest is very satisfactory The corn crop is very good, in fact, from a monetary standpoint it will be much better than if we had an overwhelming crop, for the reason that the price will be maintained.

Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. say:—Close observers reported a great deal of bull manipulation in the market today and thought that they detected the influence of the interest that controlled the policy of the U. S. Steel Co. Tone was strong and prices advanced but the market did not seem quite as broad as yesterday's. Commission business was light and seemed to incline more on the selling side. The advance was checked in last hour by stiffer rate for call money. There seemed to be good buying throughout the day and we would not be surprised to see still further advances Saturday. At same time we recommend that profits be taken on the advance with a view to buying back cheaper.

H. L. Horton & Co.: Closing strong. Powerful bull combination at work. Think further recovery. Good bank statement expected.

Laidlaw & Co.: It looks as though there was a bull combination at work and that prices will sell some higher before we have another reaction.

Chas. Head & Co.: We are rather conservative yet and would rather take profits and watch the market for a slump. On any respectable reaction good stocks are a buy for a turn.

St. Paul August gross earnings show an increase of $206,000; net decrease, $206,000 and the total net decreases, $60,000 compared with the same month a year ago. U.P. net decrease, $134,813. Wisconsin Central fourth week of September, decrease $1,330. From known movements of money it is indicated that the banks gained $1,500,000 this week.

The weather map shows general light showers in Manitoba and very light, scattered showers in Dakota and Minn; showers in Mo., Ills., Neb., Oklohoma and Ohio valley. Temperatures mild for the season. Conditions favourable for corn.

THE SPEEDING CONTEST.

Millbrook Fair has a reputation for its horse races, and that reputation was fully sustained yesterday. Three excellent contests were witnessed, in which the competition was keen, and in some heats the finish very exciting. In the 2.40 trot six heats were required to decide the winner. Three horses entered in the open trot, which was won by "Sphinx B." in three straight heats. The fight for second place was a pretty one, "Rob Roy" winning out. A summary of heats follows:

"Sphinx B," G. Powell, Peterborough 1 1 1
"Rob Roy," W. Simpson, Lindsay... ... ...2 3 2
"Black Mack," H. Elmhurst, Keene... ... ...3 2 3
Time, 2.28 1-4, 2.30, 2.32.

The 2.40 trot had five starters, but in the first heat "Fred Keswick" was injured and was unable to finish the race. The following summary tells the story of the race:

"Red Pat," Geo. Powell Peterborough 3 3 2 1 1 1
"Little Diamond," A. Elmhurst, Keene 1 2 1 2 2 2
"Keepabell," Dr. Johnson, Peterborough... ... ...2 1 3 3 3 3
"Billy C," R. A. Nattrass, Lindsay... ... ...5 4 4 4 4 4
Time, 2.41, 2.39 1-2, 2.39 1-2, 2.41, 2.43, 2.42.

"Red Pat," made a remarkable able showing in this race. In the first two heats he got away well, but on the first turn broke so badly that he lost his lead. In the three last heats however he held his fast and made a good race. In the fourth heat "Little Diamond" put up a strong finish; on the first round he was in fourth place, but by a beautiful exhibition of speed came up and finished second.

The Running Race was perhaps the most exciting of all. Three horses entered, two of them being from Hamilton. The heats were won as follows:

"Tholan," Murray, Hamilton.....1 1
"Sarawack," Wilson, Hamilton.3 2
"Gen. Buller," O'Neil, Cobourg.2 3

In the first heat the race for second place was a good one, "General Buller" winning by half a head. "Tholan" had an easy thing of it for first money.

The officials were: Starter, E. B. Ambrose, of Port Hope; while Chas. Winslow and J. M. Brooks were the Judges. Mr. R. J. Munro was timer.

The officials of the two Agricultural Societies, under whose joint management the exhibition was held are:

East Durham Agricultural Society — President, J. A. Tait, South Monaghan; 1st Vice-President, J. W. Martin, Canton; 2nd Vice-President, W. Hannah, Bethany; Sec.-Treasurer, W. Vance, Millbrook.

Cavan Agricultural Society — President, C. McNeil, Cavan; 1st Vice President, W. H. Lough, Ida; 2nd Vice-President, Col. D. Sutton; Secretary-Treasurer, W. Vance, Millbrook.

ECZEMA

The World's Greatest Skin Torture

Many Infants are Born with Eczema

THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE IS CUTICURA

It is in the treatment of this most distressing of torturing and disfiguring skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, that the Cuticura remedies have achieved their greatest success. Original in composition, scientifically compounded, absolutely pure, unchangeable in any climate, always ready, and agreeable to the most delicate, they present to those suffering from Eczema the most successful curative of modern times. We know that this will be considered strong language by those acquainted with the character and obstinacy of the disease under consideration, but it is justified by innumerable successes where all the remedies and methods in vogue have failed to cure, and, in many cases, to relieve, even.

The first step in the treatment of the chronic forms is to remove the scales and crusts and soften the skin, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. The scalp, ears, elbows, hands, ankles and feet will require frequently a thorough soaking in order to penetrate the thickened skin and crusts with which these parts are often covered. Dry carefully, and apply Cuticura Ointment, lightly at first, and where advisable spread it on pieces of soft cloth and bind in place. Take the Resolvent, pills or liquid, in medium doses. Do not use cold water in bathing, and avoid cold, raw winds.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, U.S.A., 133 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron was taking a stroll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

B. C. Election Leaves the Parties Almost Balanced.

JOE MARTIN WAS DEFEATED.

In the Chaos of Pacific Coast Party Politics the Socialists Won Two Seats—Vancouver is Tory and Victoria is Liberal—Two Seats Still in Doubt—Another Election Soon.

Conservatives	19
Liberals	19
Socialists	2
Still in doubt	2
Total	42

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 5.—The latest returns last evening leave the result of British Columbia's first party contest still in doubt. If Cariboo, in which the Liberals are leading by fifty-four and twenty-seven respectively, be conceded there are nineteen Liberals, nineteen Conservatives and two Socialists elected to the new House, with two seats still in doubt. Hon. Joseph Martin and his four associates on the Liberal ticket in Vancouver have gone down to defeat. To counterbalance this is the Liberal victory in all four seats in this city by substantial majorities. Mr. McBride gets back, but two of his Ministers—Hon. E. A. McPhillips, Victoria; Hon. A. E. Goodeve, Rossland, have been unhorsed.

Another Election Soon.

The next House will probably consist of about twenty-one Liberals, nineteen Conservatives and two Socialists. The situation is unfortunate, as neither side will have a working majority without the assistance of the Socialists, a contingency very much dreaded. Some regard another election as inevitable, while other say that McBride will have to seat two new Ministers, and that they can be defeated. The majority of Liberals are content to wait and see if a solution of the difficulty does not come. The Liberals returned are composed of a majority of s[illegible]ndid men who will crowd McBride closely. The defeat of Mr. Martin and most of the Liberals who were regarded as his partisans has settled what would doubtless have continued to be a source of irritation had Mr. Martin been returned. The result in Victoria City was a crushing blow to the Tories, who counted on at least two seats. The defeat of Mr. Eberts in Saanich by a comparatively unknown farmer afforded deep satisfaction to Liberals throughout the Province, who regarded him as the surviving representative of the Turner party. The returns:

The Liberals elected are: W. W. B. McInnes, Alberni; Dr. J. H. King, Cranbrook; C. W. Munro Chilliwack; W. G. Wells, Columbia (acclamation); John Oliver, Delta; J. R. Brown, Greenwood; T. W. Patterson, Island; J. A. McDonald, Rossland; H. Tanner, Saanich; W. Davidson, Slocan (Labor); Victoria City, (4), R. L. Drury, W. G. Cameron, J. D. McNiven and Richard Hall, and Vale, S. Henderson; Cariboo, J. Murphy and H. Jones; Cowichan, J. N. Evans; Similkameen, W. A. McLean.—19.

The Conservatives elected are: Dr. Young, Atlin; Hon. R. McBride, Premier, Dewdney; C. E. Pooley, Esquimalt; George A. Fraser, Grand Forks; W. R. Ross, Fernie; F. J. Fulton, Kamloops; Hon. R. F. Green, Kasho; A. McDonald, Lillooet (acclamation); John Houston, Nelson; T. Clifford, New Westminster; Price Nelson, Okanogan; T. Taylor; Revelstoke; F. C. Cotton, Richmond; Vancouver City (5), Hon. R. F. Tatlow, Minister of Finance; J. F. Garden, Hon. Charles Wilson, president of the council; J. Bowser and A. H. B. McGowan; Ymir, Harry Wright—19.

In Doubt—Skeena, no report. Comox, Young (Lib.) leading.

HE GOES IT ALONE.

Mr. Chamberlain, in His Manifesto, Decides With Ridicule the "Little Englanders"—Treat Colonies Better.

London, Oct. 5.—Former Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has written a manifesto forcibly enunciating the cardinal features of his fiscal policy. As the document will not be published in the United Kingdom until today the effect can only be estimated. It is certain, however, that the aggressive attitude of Mr. Chamberlain will add bitterness to the controversy. Mr. Chamberlain now not only reiterates his belief that the federation of the Empire depends upon fiscal retaliation, with its consequent taxes upon England's food, but openly classes the out-and-out Cobdenites with the "little Englanders" whom he derides with all the force of ridicule and argument of which he is such a master.

Of Premier Balfour's middle road policy, which asks only the power to retaliate without taxing food he makes no mention; but the whole manifesto and pamphlet team with evidence of his final conviction that nothing short of what he advocated can keep the Empire together, and restore its trade prestige to the United Kingdom. Only one slight reference is made to his former colleagues in the Cabinet.

"I have already said," he writes, "that the little Englander free traders care nothing for the colonies; but I am bound to believe the Imperialist free traders when they declare that the interests and union of the Empire are as dear to them as to us. But if this be so what answer are they going to return when our colonies ask that we shall treat them in commercial matters a little better than the foreigner, and when they promise reciprocal advantages in return."

This quite refutes the rumors that Mr. Chamberlain contemplated a compromise in order to bring his program more into line with that of the Premier.

PLANS FOR NEW OUTRAGES.

Authorities Informed of This and Precautions Taken—Twenty Villages Burned Including Village of Biniske.

Salonica, Oct. 5.—The Bulgarian notables here went to the Governor's palace yesterday and informed the authorities that a series of fresh outrages in Salonica is being planned. All the guards have, consequently been doubled. It is reported that 20 Turkish villages in the Razlog districts have been burned. The large village of Biniske is said to have been destroyed, and its 2,000 Turkish inhabitants killed.

To Relieve Suffering.

Sofia, Oct. 5.—Measures are being taken here to relieve the worst cases of suffering among the fugitives from the frontier districts. From insurgent sources it is reported that the Bulgarian villages of Obiditt and Kremen have been pillaged and burned. Many of their inhabitants were slaughtered. The Bulgarian quarter of Belitza is in flames. Seven hundred refugees from Belitza are reported to have been killed in a Turkish ambuscade near Samakoff, Province of Kirk Kilesse.

Sovereigns Take Action.

Vienna, Oct. 5.—The Czar and Emperor Francis Joseph have united in sending a telegram to their Ambassadors in Constantinople, asking them to see that the program of pacification of Macedonia is adhered to.

WRECK OF STR. J. H. HACKLEY.

Sank With Eleven Souls—Seven Persons Rescued After Clinging to Floating Wreckage All Night.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 5.—During a squall Saturday night on Lake Michigan, the steamer J. H. Hackley capsized, and eleven persons were drowned. The Goderich Line steamer Sheboygan rescued the other seven persons on board the Hackley after they had drifted all night in Green Bay, clinging to bits of wreckage, and brought them to Fish Creek yesterday.

The Hackley was struck by a squall when off Green Island. The upper work of the vessel was blown away. The boat then turned over and went down in deep water.

The drowned: George Leclair, jr., Jacksonport, Wis.; Joseph V. Orus, captain of the Hackley; Edna Barringer, Lawrence Barringer, Freeman Thorp, Henry Rabitoy, Carl Kelly, all of Fish Creek, Wis.; Miss Frank Vincent and Miss Vincent's sister, of Egg Harbor, Wis.; Nelson Nelson, Sturgeon Bay; Frank Fitzgibbons, Jacksonport.

As the Hackley went to the bottom, those who could seized floating wreckage. The waves were rolling high, and several of those who at first saved themselves from immediate death lost strength and sank. It was not until 7 o'clock yesterday morning that the steamer Sheboygan sighted the seven helpless survivors and rescued them.

The officers of the Sheboygan feel sure that they took aboard every person afloat, but some of the persons who were rescued say that it is possible that one or more of the eleven persons missing may have escaped death.

Seaforth's Mayor Dead.

Seaforth, Oct. 5.—It was with sorrow that Seaforth learned yesterday morning of the death of John H. Broadfoot, Mayor of Seaforth. Mr. Broadfoot had been troubled for some time with kidney affection. A week ago, in company with his son, he went to Chicago and underwent an operation. The shock was too severe. He gradually sank until about 9 o'clock Saturday night, when he breathed his last. The remains are expected here this morning. He was born in Huron County. He was 62 years of age.

Denounced Parnell.

London, Oct. 5.—The candidature of John Howard Parnell, brother of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, at the Parliamentary election for South Meath, which is deeply resented by the Redmondites, led to a riot Saturday when John Redmond and other Nationalists were to speak in support of their candidate, David Sheehy. The rival factions came to blows at Dunshaughlin. Many persons were injured. John Redmond in his speech denounced J. H. Parnell as a traitor to Irish unity.

Dropped Dead on Street.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—The man who dropped dead in front of the Red Star Restaurant Saturday night has been identified. He is W. R. Cumming of Trout Creek, Parry Sound District. He is a man of about fifty years of age, and for some time has been troubled with his heart. For years he has been a school teacher in Trout Creek. He is a married man and has several children. A married daughter, Mrs. Wm. Cassidy, lives in Toronto and another married daughter resides in Oakwood, Ont.

Canada's Part.

London, Oct. 5.—(C.A.P.)—Refering to Mr. Balfour's remark regarding the denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties.

The Spectator says: "The result of Canada's attempt to give us preferential treatment has made us realize our helplessness. This was the keynote of the whole speech."

The Saturday Review says: "Mr. Balfour made it clear that the threat against Canada had forced on reform."

Increase in Import Duties Into Canada Hurts Germany.

PRESS URGES ARRANGEMENT

Prof. Ashley, Formerly of Toronto University, Argues That Arrangement Should Be Made Between Mother Country and the Colonies—Latter Are the Brightest Jewels in the Crown of Empire.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Oct. 5.—Alfred Baldwin, M.P., speaking at the West Worcester Conservative Association, said that if we refuse the proposals of colonial premiers for retaliatory and preferential tariffs, we shall lose the colonies, who might adopt preferential treaties with foreign countries.

Hon. Thomas Brassey, M.P., speaking in Liverpool, on his arrival from Winnipeg, where he went to view Canada's wheat growing resources, said: "I am convinced that the Northwest Territory is capable of producing all the wheat the Empire needs for generations to come. Mr. Chamberlain has taken the right course by resigning."

Prof. Ashley, formerly of Toronto University, has come out with a book presenting a strong case for preferential tariffs within the Empire. He does not believe in the gratitude of the colonies to the Mother Country, but as he is eager to develop commercial chances he says that if they do not enter into some scheme with Great Britain they will ultimately range themselves against her.

Canadian Flour.

Canadian Government Commercial Agent Ball, at Birmingham, informed me that one of the largest flour dealers in Great Britain, which lately gave a trial order of 500 bags of flour to the Kent Milling Company of Chatham, Ont., says: "We beg to say that this is the finest Canadian patent we ever saw. It makes a splendid loaf, in both bloom and texture. We are trying to buy a line for shipment, and we feel bound to say that if your Canadian millers can ship us flour of this kind and keep shipping up to this quality they will have very little trouble in displacing the fine winter patents on our market that we are now getting from the United States."

Colonies Can Supply.

The Times says that the colonies are capable of supplying nearly all our requirements and they are also capable of keeping our factories in full and steady work. Our system of unrestricted imports was the policy of the little Englander who regarded the colonies as encumbrances. We have come to regard them as the brightest jewels in the crown of the Empire and we plainly owe it to them as well as to ourselves to mark and accentuate a relationship which both sides may well be proud to claim. The Standard says so far as appearances go the colonists are quite as anxious, nor should we blame them for it, to develop their industries as our foreign rivals.

Tariff Hurts Germany.

The German press continues to urge all manner of objections to the adoption of a protectionist tariff by England. The Chamber of Commerce at Chennitz, Germany, reports that the increase in import duties into Canada has hit Saxon textile industry very hard, especially cotton woven gloves and stockings, which were largely exported from Saxony to Canada, the additional increases of 33 1-3 per cent. will completely prevent the continuation of the Saxon export to Canada. The toy industry is also seriously affected, and the whole of this export trade to Canada will be lost if the increase of 33⅓ per cent. duty becomes permanent. The German Chamber of Commerce urges a friendly arrangement with Canada on the basis of mutual concessions. It points out the serious consequences of a customs war with Canada, as it would endanger German commercial relation with England, and German industries could not stand the consequence of a customs war with Canada.

Curious Disclosures.

The Financial News, referring to the probable investigation by the Canadian Attorney-General of the Dominion Oil Company, says such an investigation would probably lead to some very curious disclosures.

Met a Horrible Death.

Hamilton, Oct. 5.—The remains of Ezra Elson, a 17-year-old son of Alfred Elson, a former resident of Ancaster, were laid away at Bartonville yesterday. He met a terrible death. While feeding a straw-cutting machine, his hand got caught in the machinery and was drawn in until the whole arm was cut in pieces and drawn out at the shoulder. Even then he could not get free and his jugular vein was cut. He died almost instantly.

Nat Picker Falls 35 Feet.

Settling Venezuela's Debts.

Caracao, Venezuela, Oct. 5.—The Venezuelan-German mixed tribunal has officially closed seventy-three claims presented against the Government involving a total of $1,317,817. Two claims, amounting to $11,250, were withdrawn and one of $558,000 for the closing of navigation of the River Catatumbo, the Colombian boundary, and the causing thereby of losses to German traders, was disallowed. The rest of the claims, which aggregate $646,800, were discussed, and the claimants were awarded $389,095.

Died in Three Minutes.

Coldwater, Ont., Oct. 5.—James Raymond of Waubaushene Saturday proved another victim of the "didn't-know-it-was-loaded" lunatic. With some others he was examining a gun, when one of them grabbed it and pointed it at Raymond said: "Look out, I am going to shoot." He pulled the trigger and the charge entered Raymond's abdomen. He died in three minutes. An inquest will be held.

St. Regis Indians Refuse.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Oct. 5.—The St. Regis Indians have just held a big pow-wow and refused the request of the Dominion Government's representative to lease Lone Squaw, Green, Adams and two other islands in the north channel of the St. Lawrence, between here and Galoop Rapids. The islands are wanted in connection with the erection of a dam from Adams to Galoop Island.

TOO MUCH POLITICS.

Party politics may be a necessary curse, as somebody has said; the probability being that at the present time any alternative would be worse. Surely, however, this is no excuse for the obtrusion of the politician's partisan spirit into matters which cannot be described as political under any proper system of names in existence. Yet that is what is being done in this country, and it is jeopardizing its best interests. Things and influences are judged, not from the standard of what they are, but from that of their relation to one or the other of the two political parties.

Two instances come to our notice at the moment. One is regarding the quality of Canadian butter. Now, on the first blush, it would appear that butter and politics were as wide asunder as the poles. Not so, however. Among the several people who, in the hope of spurring the shippers to better efforts, have pointed out that Canadian butter was often not so good as that from other countries, there happened to be Mr. Preston. This was enough for persons of the opposite political party: Canadian butter had been pronounced bad by an official of the Dominion Government; therefore, Canadian butter must be the best in the world. All this would be laughable, were it not for the fact that the real issue becomes obscured, to the possible serious detriment of a great industry.

Another illustration of what we mean comes to hand in the comments heard "on the street," as to the disastrous state of things at the Soo. According to these, Mr. Ross' Government is directly responsible for what has occurred, and it was sadly remiss in its duty in not taking upon itself to pay the men. Be this as it may, an independent observer is forced to the conclusion that the fault-finders' remarks in the vast majority of cases are prompted, not by a regard for the facts, nor by a desire to suggest a practicable way out of difficulties, but by a temptation to make political capital out of an unfortunate contretemps. Both the above illustrations are drawn from the same political side; but we doubt not that, were the other party in power, similar remarks would apply. It is the fault of the partisan which is allowed to enter into all questions however far removed they should be from politics. And meanwhile, it is the truth which suffers!—Monetary Times.

EVERLASTINGLY TOO LATE.

(Hamilton Times.)

Buffalo is becoming alarmed at the loss of her grain trade, and the fact that Canada is getting it does not tend to reconcile her to the loss. Buffalo was built up by the grain trade, a few years ago about 250,000,000 bushels a year being unloaded at her wharves. Those days are gone forever. For some years that trade has been declining. The exactions of scoopers' unions and the sharp competition of the railways have done much to kill Buffalo's water-carried grain traffic. Moreover, the fact must be faced that the United States farmers are reaching their limit in grain exporting, and more of their product is being turned into flour before it comes east.

And Canada is a factor to be reckoned with. Her expenditure on her waterways is beginning to tell, and her railway facilities, for which she has paid so dearly are now proving their utility. Her own Great West is coming into productiveness, and the great stream of wheat export will increase with the years, but Buffalo will not profit by it, it will go over her own railways and through her own canals, to be shipped from her own ports. The C. P. R. and Grand Trunk and the new Trans-continental line, the Grand Trunk Pacific, will carry the grain, and Canadians will handle it.

The Buffalo Times says: "Every bushel of grain that goes through the canals of Canada means a loss to Buffalo in more ways than one, but the chief loss is that it takes away employment from Buffalo workingmen." That loss will be greater in the future. Canada has no antipathy to Buffalo. At one time Buffalo was a great live stock and barley market for Canadian farmers, but the Americans, rather than have us share the profits of such a trade, cut it off by a tariff wall, built avowedly for the purpose. Canada for years refused to believe that her neighbour had deliberately adopted a policy of non-intercourse, but it was at last driven upon her by sneers, insults and jeers—by threats of destroying her nationality — that the door was shut upon her trade. Then Canada began to plan a trade and traffic without regard to Buffalo. It cost money, but she had it. Now she is beginning to see the results, but only the beginning. In the years to come Canada's grain traffic and live stock traffic will grow, as Buffalo's decline. The Americans sang a jolly, if somewhat insulting, song for many years as they pointed the finger of scorn at Canada's efforts. They never missed the grain till the elevators began to run empty, and then they opened their eyes in wonder as they gazed at the loaded trains and fleets of vessels carrying the product through Canada to the seaboard. They awoke too late; the harm is done. In the abandoned and sunken canal boats at Black Rock they have Canada's answer to the insulting words with which for many years they repelled Canadian efforts to secure fair trade arrangements.

CANADIANS IN THE TROPICS.

Talking with a gentleman who has just returned from Cuba, he told us we would be surprised at the remarkable number of Canadians now to be found sprinkled over the nascent Republic of Cuba. This is not so strange, however. The originator of the railroad scheme which will probably help the island to develop into the richest country for its size in the world, is a Canadian, or almost one; the converters of the old-time tramway of Havana into an electric system hail from Canada. Canadians are to be found, too, in Mexico, where they are engineering the biggest electrical power in the country; while Brizilians ride in electric cars introduced by Canadians, and so do fellow-Britishers in Trinidad.

We hear some people complain; Canadians, they say, should develop their own country first, and there is plenty of scope for this. True, but we have now reached to national proportions, and the sooner we realize it the better. In a population as large and as strenuous as ours now is, there will always be a certain percentage whose blood calls aloud for something outside usual experience; something which appeals to the everlasting cry for new fields to conquer; people, too, who have the instinct for climates not found above the 45th parallel. It is the penalty we pay for adolescence. Mistakes will be made, but the nation will be the gainer in the end—in added knowledge, in a freer outlet on the world's affairs, in that intangible effect of culture which means gradual death to the barren spirit of provincialism. Therefore, let us not spurn the rising spirit which has carried the Anglo-Saxon race to the world position it occupies to-day.—Monetary Times.

TOO MUCH COAL.

People who paid $8 to $10 a ton for coal last year, because of the big strike, and who are now paying a pretty stiff figure, will be interested in the news that owing to the excess of coal, the coal operators are cutting down the hours of labour and shutting down some mines to limit production.

There's something that should set people thinking. The coal is there in plenty; the labour is eager to get at it; winter is at hand. Cheaper coal would mean more comfort in many homes, more manufacturing, and cheaper goods. But we are to have dear coal, which means to many a scant supply, and the works are to lie idle and eat up the high wages earned since the big strike. But the operators will not feel the pinch very keenly.

The consumer is the man always under the harrow. The miners gained a temporary advantage by the arbitration following the long strike, but a short period of idleness will put them back as far as ever. And an idle winter spells misery for them.

Isn't there room for some readjustment? Did the Creator place that coal there for the special benefit of a few men, or was his bounty for mankind?—Ex.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual Thanksgiving service and tea in connection with Christ Church, of this place, were held on Sunday and Tuesday evenings of last week. A new pipe organ manufactured and put in by Edward Lye & Sons, of Toronto, was used for the first time and added greatly to the effect produced by the usual good singing of the choir. The services on Sunday were conducted by the Rev. Archdeacon Allen, assisted by Revs. W. C. Allen and Spencer. The collection amounted to $10ls, which was used for the organ fund, the proceeds of the tea being used for the building fund of the church.

On Tuesday evening the chair was occupied by Rev. W. C. Allen, in his usual hearty and efficient manner. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, of Peterborough, gave an address which was well received and much appreciated. Those who took part in the programme were from Winnipeg, Peterborough, Cobourg, Port Hope, Millbrook and Baillieboro. The programme was as follows:—

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and travelling grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself, for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines, and they maintain their their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicines as much as in selling barbwire.

CANADIAN PORK PACKING—UNPROFITABLE OPERATIONS

Under the Co-operation System of Manufacture.

(Cincinnati Price Current.)

Pork packing operations in Canada of late do not appear to have been attended with uniformity of remunerative results for investments. This appears to have been the case with the co-operative concerns which have come into existence in recent years. The idea that farmers could profitably join in manufacturing operations in competition with concerns pursuing business on regular lines, has not been well supported. The Farmers' Co-operative Packing Co., of Brantford, Ont., in its two years of experience ending with the close of 1902, made a loss of $97,500, of which deficit $51,000 is attributed to the operations of the year 1902. As a result the house was closed, and offered for sale, but it is understood that it has not been disposed of. A circular appealing to the farmer stock-holders of this company to take more stock says: "This packing company has not been operated along truly co-operative lines, the same as similar ones in the little Kingdom of Denmark, for the reason that you, as farmer shareholders, would not have it so, but invariably put your pigs up, as it were, at auction, and sold them in your various localities to the highest bidders, irrespective of what we could afford to pay, being guided by the bacon market of the world. In the Kingdom of Denmark the farmer delivers his hogs to his own factory, receiving about 70 per cent. of their value, and allowing the balance for working expenses. At the end of six months he receives pro rata per head whatever profits may have been realized." "During the existence of this and one or two other co-operative packing companies, the Canadian farmers generally have received for their hogs in the neighbourhood of 7 cents per pound, while for five years previously the average was about 4.30 to 5 cents." "Myriads of stuffed hogs were sent in, and also delivered to us by team, with tremendous shrinkage, sometimes going as high as 20 lbs. per pig; many of our own shareholders even in this local district drew their hogs past the factory and sold them to our opponents, who simply baited them with five and ten cents per 100 pounds more than we were paying."

This circular urges upon the farmer shareholder that he has been receiving much higher prices for his hogs than had not this company been in existence, and that the regular packers who have been conducting operations on a losing basis to destroy this farmers' concern "would have made a larger volume of profit than for any two years in the last twenty."

Another interesting proposition in this appeal to take more stock is this: "Here is the point I want to impress upon you and have you realize, that it is virtually a gambling game, and that if you expect to win you must put up and accept the larger consideration for your hogs in lieu of a dividend until things assume a more normal condition."

There are one or two smaller co-operative houses which have gone out of existence. The Brantford house is understood to be strictly modern in construction and equipment, and if not sold it is believed that further effort at reorganisation and operation will be made.

A house at Palmerston, Ont., has been closed for several months, having suffered a loss of $42,700 in 19 months. This house is expected to be re-opened soon, under re-organization. The small house at Stouffville has been closed and dismantled. The small house at Bow Park, near Brantford, has been closed. The House at Harriston has been closed for some time, but is being operated again. The house at Paisley is said to be in financial difficulties.

Previous to the erection of some half dozen new houses within the past three years in Canada there was a working capacity among existing plants much in excess of the available supplies of hogs, and as the natural competition in the business implies payment for stock on a basis fully in line with the market conditions for the product it is not reasonable to expect that the hog producer has been benefitted by the conditions which have resulted from the co-operative undertakings. Canada appears to be amply provided with facilities for handling the hogs that may be offered for years to come. There are in Ontario houses at Toronto, Hamilton, Ingersoll, London, Ottawa, Collingwood, Peterborough, etc., besides quite a number of minor importance.

Until recent years the Canadian packers with much uniformity furnished the Cincinnati Price Current yearly returns of their operations, such investigations, beginning with 1875-76. It was not until 1894-95 that the total packing reached half a million hogs in a year, but subsequently there was an expansion for the following five years, until a total of 1,490,000 was reached for twelve months ending March 1st, 1900. Since then the number has been considerably lessened; in the light of available information, the total for the year ending March 1st, 1903, being approximately 1,000,000.

VERMONT ANARCHISTS.

Barre, Vt., Oct. 5.—One man dying, another suffering from a serious but not necessarily fatal bullet wound, and a third under arrest charged with firing the shots, is the outcome of the latest clash between the Anarchists and Socialists of this city. Conflict between the parties have been of almost daily occurrence for months.

Saturday night a number of Anarchists attempted to break up a Socialist meeting. In the fight, resulting, Alexander Garreto, it is said, fired three shots, wounding Corti and Emilo Vochini. Corti will die. Garrato is a Socialist, and Corti was leader of the Anarchists bands, which visited the meeting and announced it could not be held. Garreto is under arrest.

Cannot do Without It.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensable in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take.

ST. CHARLES, MINN., RUINED.

A Number of People Killed and Others Injured—Hardly a Business Place on the Main Street of St. Charles Left Standing—Two Killed at Plainfield, Wis.—Fall of Three Inches of Snow.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 5.—A tornado struck St. Charles, Minn., Saturday afternoon and ruined the town. Seven persons are reported killed and 38 injured. Two elevators, the principal furniture store in town, and the big flour mill was wrecked, while the telegraph office and a saw mill were partially destroyed.

The entire main street was literally wiped out. Hardly a business place was left standing. Forty-two residences were destroyed and the hotel property damage is estimated at $100,000.

ELECTROCUTED AT MONTREAL.

Two Workmen Lose Lives in Trying to Rescue Another.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—Death came in a most tragic manner Saturday at noon to two workmen at the corner of Richardson and Richmond streets, Point St. Charles. The terrible taking off was all the more accentuated by the fact that the two men were in the act of saving from death a fellow workman who is still living. The killed are: A. Parent, a young man with a wife and family living on Marquette street, and John Curtis, living at 122 Centre street.

The cause of the accident was a misplaced derrick which became entangled with a trolley wire. Quick as a flash willing hands went to the rescue, and while the helpers were at work the wire electrocuted them. Prevost was pulled out of the debris and the ambulance was quickly called. Prevost was removed to the hospital.

STRUCK THE ROOT OF HIS TROUBLE.

Campbellford, Ont., Oct. 5.—(Special).—That Urinary Troubles and Lumbago are the result of disordered Kidneys has been proved by James Atwell of this place. He had Lumbago and pains in the bladder, and in passing his urine would hurt him so as to almost cause tears to come to his eyes.

Speaking of his case, Mr. Atwell says:

"I think Dodd's Kidney Pills made a permanent cure in my case, but I will never be without them in the house. I had Lumbago and Bladder Trouble for years. I tried other medicines and a bandage prescribed by the doctor, but I could get no relief till I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

Explosion Killed Seven.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 5.—With a terrific crash a section of Corning's distillery was blown to pieces Saturday and seven men lost their lives as a result. Five others were seriously hurt. A copper cylinder, or cooker, gave way and burst through the building.

First of the Kind.

London, Oct. 5.—The Allan Line has ordered at Belfast a 12,000 ton turbine steamer, the first of this kind to be used on the Atlantic. The new steamer is destined for the mail service between Liverpool and Canada. She will have a speed of 17 knots.

Knew Dr. Chase in 1867.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe Co., Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

LATEST FASHION NOTES.

A PRETTY TAFFETA WAIST

Separate waists are always in demand and this pretty bodice is handsomely trimmed with point de Venise lace, and black velvet ribbon. The yoke is of lace, and extending down the entire front is a broad lace band, which runs around the waist just under the arms and also just above the waist line. These bands of lace are very effectively finished with narrow black velvet ribbon, three rows of which also appear on the cuffs. The sleeves may be made elbow length with the deep cuff used, same as cut. Corticelli sewing silk is generally used on a waist of this kind, which is made over an unboned lining of thin lisse silk, and is hooked under the arm.

Black is always a safe colour for an elderly woman to select. Also some shades in gun-metal and deep purple are very becoming to women with grey hair. These may be trimmed with white facings, the jackets often showing a jabot in front, which gives a soft full effect. Crepe de Chine is also much used and is deservedly popular. A crepe de Chine trimmed with white or black trimmings, is most charming for an elderly woman, the white softening the severity of the dead black.

Roman Baths in Derbyshire.

Every day fresh discoveries add to the interest that is been taken in the unearthing of the Roman fortifications at Brough, near Bradwell, and all full considerable numbers of people have visited the spot, many from Sheffield and Manchester making a pilgrimage thither. The very greatest importance is attached to the discovery of the Roman baths, almost in the centre of the fortifications, and it is now clear that the Roman road goes directly from this bath to the park at Buxton, ten miles away. For some miles right through Bradwell the road is in splendid condition. Saturday, Sept. 5, a number of men were at work emptying the bath, but operations were impeded by the water, which comes in at the west end first, as it did 2,000 years ago. It is oblong in shape, of splendid worked stone, and the descent is by a flight of steps. A big inscribed stone of the second century, a very fine Roman altar, and a stone column were among the valuable discoveries, as well as a quantity of bones, and a ram's head with horns. These will be examined by Prof. Boyd-Dawkins. Although the bath has been emptied to a depth of nine feet, there is yet no indication of the bottom.

No Need to Rise.

In one of Glasgow's finely-laid-out cemeteries a rich citizen, who was notorious as a skeptic, had erected a massive mausoleum on what he termed "his ancestral plot."

One day he met a worthy elder of the kirk coming away from the vicinity of the imposing mass of masonry, so he said to him:

"Weel, Dauvit, ye've been up seein' that gran' erection o' mine?"

"Deed, hiv' I, sir?"

"Gey strong place that, isn't it? It'll tak' a man a' his time tae rise oot o' yon at the day o' judgment."

"Hoots, ma mon," said David, "ye can gie yersel little fash aboot risin' gin that day comes. They'll tak the bottom oot o't tae let ye fa' doon."

MR. EDWARD CHAMBERS NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH

His Leg was Broken—Other Injuries were Sustained—Is a Married Man with Three Children.

Mr. Edward Chambers, an employee of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, at present employed on some iron work at the Cereal Company's new dam, met with a serious accident about 8 o'clock this morning, resulting in his receiving a broken ankle besides other injuries, however, of not so serious a nature. A derrick was moving some slack from the power house building to a spot to the south. Chambers caught the hook and was swung out with the derrick. The long arm of this machine moved round and when above the place where the slack was to be deposited Chambers gave the signal to the engineer to lower. The engineer, who probably did not see the signal left Chambers hanging with his hands onto a hook some 45 feet in the air. The man clung on until his strength failed, when he unloosed his grip and fell, crashing down on some stones on the ground beneath, in his fall narrowly missing the concrete wall of the power house. Chambers' left ankle was broken and his right leg badly scraped, otherwise his injuries were of an unimportant nature. Dr. Scott was summoned and the injured man was taken in the ambulance to his home, 45 Patterson street. He is aged 27 years, is married and has three children. It will probably be three months before he is able to be about again.

Wilson, Secretary; Revs. J. C. Davidson, W. J. Jolliffe, J. Bastow, Dr. Torrance, W. L. Armitage, J. G. Potter, W. Bennet, A. H. Brace, J. G. Lowis,

Rev. Mr. Potter presented the report of the Programme Committee as follows:—

October meeting—Rev. J. G. Potter.
November—Round Table Conference on "Relation of Church to the Labour Question," Rev. W. J. Jolliffe leading.
December—Rev. Dr. Torrance.
January—Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.
February—Rev. J. C. Davidson.
March—Rev. J. G. Lowis.
April—Rev. A. H. Brace.

Considerable discussion took place regarding the ticket-selling nuisance and other kindred abuses perpetrated by church people particularly upon the merchants of the town, and the following resolution was passed:—

"Resolved: That this Association deprecates the indiscriminate sale of tickets, or other canvassing for financial support of particular congregations, or enterprises connected with them, among professional men or merchants not connected with the congregations named."

Mr. Robert Harrison, secretary of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance was heard with regard to that work, and it was arranged to have contributions for this work taken up in our churches on some Sunday in November.

Rev. Mr Bennet presented his report regarding visitation of Hospital and Protestant Home, and Rev. W. L. Armitage presented the report regarding arrangements for school visitation.

Owing to the amount of business on hand, Rev. Mr. Potter's paper on "The Day's Work of a City Minister" had to be deferred.

A LITTLE GIRL SEVERELY BURNED.

Accident Occurred this Morning—Mother's Courageous Action Saves Child's Life.

A distressing accident occurred this morning about 10 o'clock, by which Isabell Rea, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. Geo. L. Armour, of 81 London street, who is employed as a lineman with the Peterborough Light and Power Company, was very badly burned. The little girl was in the rear of the house with her mother, who sent the little one upstairs on an errand. In about five minutes Isabell came running to her mother with her clothes enveloped in flames. Mrs. Armour immediately wrapped the little one in her own clothing and thereby probably saved her daughter's life at the risk of her own. As it was, she had her skirt badly burned, and, but for the timely assistance of Mrs. Martin, who happened to be near and threw a pail of water over both mother and child, it is probable that the results would have been much more serious. The little girl when questioned by her mother as to how she had been burned, explained in her innocent way that she had light a match that she had found upstairs, and added, "And mamma, you told me not to touch matches, didn't you?"

Dr. Brown, who was passing, was called in, and he was joined by Doctors Young, Carmichael and Morgan, who relieved the sufferings of the child as best they could. They found her badly burned about the head and face, her hair being partially burned off. Her hands and body were also very seriously burned and her condition is extremely dangerous. The little one is suffering great pain, but is bearing it well, and is conscious.

ROUGH RIDERS TOOK FIRST RUGBY GAME.

Defeated Britannias by Score of 8-2.

Both Teams Play Good Game—New Burnside Rules First Trial—Mr. Hal Burnham Referred.

The first game of rugby for 1903 was played on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval between the Rough Riders and Britannias in the first scheduled game in the City League. The game was witnessed by about 250 persons, and was lent additional interest because of the fact that the new Burnside rules were used for the first time in Peterborough. It was an interesting contest, and a good exhibition of Rugby was given, notwithstanding the fact that the teams have but recently been organized, and but few practices have been held, but by the showing of the teams in Saturday's game, it was made evident that there is first-class material here for more than one good rugby team, and as the season progresses some good games are sure to be seen, if the form displayed in the first game is maintained and improved upon, as it certainly will be. The Rough Riders were victorious by a score of 8—2, but this score is not what might have been expected judging by the playing of the teams. During the first half the Rough Riders did all their scoring, and played the better game, but in the second period they had none the best of the argument, and the Britannias scored 2.

Some good individual playing was indulged in, but the team-work on the whole was not as clean as it will be later in the season. Pascall on the Rough Riders played a star game, as did also Ross Craig, on the wing, while on the Britannias Belleghem played a game that at once proclaimed him a man to be recokened with. He made some very pretty rushes, and during one of these received rather a severe cut over the eye. Macfarlane and Boucher also gave good accounts of themselves, and will develop into strong players. Miller proved himself the most effective tackler on either team, and, in spite of his light weight is a player who should be a help to any team.

Mr. Hal. Burnham refereed the game to the entire satisfaction of both teams. He has a thorough knowledge of the Burnside Rules. Mr. W. Crowley acted as umpire.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Britannias.	Rough Riders.
Back.
Harmer	Rosmond
Right Half.
Hodgson	H. Wood
Centre Half.
MacFarlane	Kennedy
Left Half.
Boucher	Dormer
Quarter.
Mulhern	Pascall
Centre.
Walkie	O'Brien
Wings.
Miller	F. Craig
Sawers	R. Craig
Belleghem	A. Wood
Fitzpatrick	Perks
Ferguson	Lang
Quinlan	Giroux

The Rough Riders scored all their points during the early part of the game, 6 of the 8 points being credited to Pascall, one a safety and the second a touch, counting 2 and 4 respectively.

Next Saturday a game will be played between the All Saint's team and either the Rough Riders or Britannias.

Warsaw, October 5th. — For some time past the bears have been frequenting the orchard of Mr C. E. Gow, lot 14, 4th concession of Dummer, destroying trees and fruit to a great extent. ANNIVERSARY OF MARK STREET CHURCH.

Services Held Yesterday at Ashburnham Methodist Church.

Mrs. Campbell Spoke at Evening Service—Her Subject "Our Influence Upon Others.

Anniversary services were held in Mark street church yesterday morning and evening, when special offerings were taken to reduce the church debt. In the morning service, the pastor, Rev. J. G. Lewis, preached, and special music was rendered by the choir, under the leadership of Mr. Miller. Both services were very successful, a material reduction to the church debt having been the result. The speaker at the evening service was Mrs. Campbell, who took for her text the words in Romans 14; 7: "For none of us liveth unto himself, and no man dieth to himself." Human society, she said, is so constituted, that one cannot live without influencing others, and in turn being influenced by others; in all places of life we touch others, and our lives are either a boon or a blessing to those with whom we associate, actions which seem to be trivial are freighted with influences, which are either for good or ill. The thought evolved in the brain of some stalwart thinker, is given expression to, and goes out to influence and perhaps revolutionise the world. Sir Isaac Newton and Watt, by the results of seemingly insignificant incidents changed the scientific thought of the world, Luther was the cause of the reformation, and John Wesley, as the result of an incident in his life started a revival in England which permeated and spread until it touched every phase of society in every civilized country, and, the speaker asserted, had been the most potent force to make England the God-fearing nation she is to-day. If the Anglo-Saxon race stands for goodness and purity, it is because our fathers fought, and some even died, to procure religious and civil liberty and we can only be worthy descendants by striving to maintain that which was so dearly purchased.

As there have been men whose influence has been such as to uplift men, so have there been those who have degraded humanity by their influence. "Is life worth living," is a question which many are asking themselves, and judging by events that are transpiring, many are answering the question in the negative. The Bible, however, teaches us that it is both a solemn and a blessed thing to live. Solemn, because we are here on probation, and our future happiness or otherwise depends upon the use to which this life is put. It is solemn also, because we are influencing others, which fact gives an added importance to life, and should make all more careful as to the kind of life they are living.

It is also a blessed thing to live. This blessedness, however, is not the result of earthly surroundings, because joy can only come when there is the conscious possession of the infinite love of God. The highest joy is not experienced when the life lived is a selfish one, but comes when the motive is to help others. There is a great power in a good life, and this power is increased when the life is spent in service for others. Service for God and for our fellowmen is the key that will unlock the gate to the better Land. Mrs. Campbell closed her eloquent address with an appeal to her hearers to strive to live the life in which the controlling motive is a desire to help others.

The musical portion of the service was a feature much enjoyed. The choir sang for the anthem "Comfort ye my people," assisted by Mr. Miller with a cornet. At the offertory Miss Courtney and Mr. Miller sang a very effective duet, "One Sweetly solemn Thought."

The pastor announced that the offering at the morning service had been liberal, and that the entire amount asked for would probably be realized.

A PRIZE LIST ERROR.

An error occurred in the awarding of the prizes for clover and granulated honey at the Peterborough Industrial. The first prize for both were taken by Mr. Jas. Baptie, of Springville, though the book from which the published prize list was taken shows the first prize in one class awarded to another person, the mistake having been rectified subsequent to the publication of the prize list.

A Good Singer.

In a report of a social evening of the Ladies' Aid Society, at the home of Mrs. Wm. King, Oshawa, the Ontario Reformer says:—Miss Ross delighted everybody by her splendid reading, and Mr. G. K. Martin, of Peterborough, who sang "The Light of the World" in a rich baritone voice, was pronounced a singer of no mean order. A number, by members of the choir, concluded the programme. The proceeds netted a substantial sum.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF PETERBORO'.

In the semi-finals for this championship Mr. Ray and Mr. Laurence had a hard fight on Saturday afternoon. The first round was keenly contested and finished with Mr. Laurence one hole up. In the second round Mr. Laurence pulled steadily ahead, eventually winning the match with the comfortable margin of 4 up and 3 to go.

In the championship there are only two players now left: Mr H. Burnham and Mr. J. Laurence. The final is to be decided on Wednesday in a match of 36 holes. As both players are well on their games, a hard tussle is expected. The second 18 holes to decide who is to be champion for the year, will be played at two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

EDMISON TROPHY.

The team match for the beautiful piece of plate presented to the golf club by Mr. George Edmison, will be played off next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock sharp. The match will consist of two teams of six men each, drawn from the best twelve cards in the box on last Saturday. The teams are captained by the two players putting in the best cards, who are Mr. H. Burnham, with a score of 77; and Mr. Miles Hamilton, with a score of 78. The names of winning team will be engraved on the trophy. The following are the teams with the best card put in by each;

77	H. Burnham captain	M. Hamilton captain	78

"There is no reason now why London, Peterborough, Kingston and two or three other towns should not be represented in the senior series next year. There is the difficulty still remaining, however, and that is the general loss of interest in the game outside of the larger cities, which while it may be accounted for in a large measure by the terribly slow and uninteresting play—at least to the spectators—under the old scrimmage rule that held sway, and which kept the ball entirely out of sight of the people in the lines for whole halves at a time, still there is that loss of interest, and it must be revived again."—Telegram.

From present indications it would seem probable that Peterborough is to have an easy time winning the Intermediate Championship. The Globe this morning says:—

"It is probable that the Wellesleys and Victorias will retire from the O.R.F.U. and Peterborough will become intermediate champions by reason of having no one to play against."

This is not a very pleasing prospect for lovers of the game here, they had been looking forward to seeing some good championship games this season. They may not be disappointed, however, as if this report should prove to be true it is probable that Peterborough may enter a team in the senior series, as they do not relish winning a championship by default.

NEW PATENT LAW.

The bill presented by the Honourable Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, and which received its first reading on May 28th, 1903, became law on August 13th last. The new law makes the term of Canadian patents heretofore granted, or to be granted, entirely independant of corresponding foreign patents, (Sections 2 and 16); it allows the placing of patents under the compulsory license system in lieu of the actual manufacture of the patented article, (Sections 7 and 10); and it permits the revival of certain patents which were not worked or manufactured as required by the old law. The condition of Canadian inventors is much improved by the new law, and it is expected that the number of patents applied for will greatly increase in the near future.

GREAT INCREASE IN RAILWAY BUSINESS.

This Year the Best in History of Town.

Express Companies Also Report Trade Growing—Fruit Business an Important Factor.

Inquiry at the Canadian Pacific Railway station gives the information that the summer season just ended has been by far the best in the history of the railway here. The increase, both in passenger and freight business, has been remarkable, and the season has been a most successful one. The largest increase in freight business has been that of the American Cereal Company, but all business houses have been doing a larger volume of shipping than ever before. Not only has the freight and passenger traffic showed increase, but the express handled by the Dominion Express Company this year is considerably above that of last year, and the local manager of the company states that both the outgoing and incoming business is increasing at a satisfactory rate. Fruit shipments, for which the company has made a reputation for itself, has assumed large proportions, the bulk of it coming from the Niagara district, although the district, of which Leamington is the centre, has furnished a large amount. Taking it altogether, the express business of the company has been fully up to expectations.

In speaking with the Grand Trunk officials, the pleasing information was gained that with this railway, also, the year year had been the best in its history here. They also attributed the increase of business to the American Cereal Company, and the other industries, all of which have done more shipping than ever before. The passenger end of the business, too, is of such a nature that gratification is felt at the large increase experienced. A number of very heavy excursions have been run out of town this season by this line, the largest business being done on Civic Holiday, when 2,000 persons left town by the Grand Trunk trains. The regular traffic outside of the excursion business has shown a large increase, and it is but justice to the road here to say that, considering the volume of business, the traffic was handled in a creditable manner. The express over this line has also been heavier than ever before, and the Canadian Express Company reports that the year's business generally has been very satisfactory. In Mr. Davis' absence no definite information could be obtained, beyond the fact that in every line of express handled, the trade had been of a character which was pleasing to the management.

HARVEST HOME OF PARK STREET CHURCH.

Rev. A. H. Brace Conducts the Services—A Record Offertory.

The harvest home and anniversary of the Park street Baptist church, was held yesterday, when offerings were presented for the building fund of the new church, demanded by the increasing congregations and the rapidly-growing neighbourhood. The amount collected at the two services was $150.00, of which $80 was taken at the morning service. Never before, perhaps, has the church been so crowded; never, certainly, before was there such a magnificent offering. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Brace, the pastor, who in the morning, preached from Psalms 144, verse 15, "Happy is that people that is in such a case; yea, happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

The preacher said it was well for us to occasionally stand still and take our bearings. We here are face to face with God's graciousness, and in return for this bountiful harvest we should look to Him. He pointed out the distinctive features to a people's happiness, and outlined the duties of a happy people to their God.

In the evening the pastor preached from Galatians chapter 6, verse 7, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

The choir gave a selection "Sing to the Lord," while the Misses Sarah and Nellie Pilling sang "Count Your Blessings."

The congregation is certainly to be congratulated upon the truly magnificent offering.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

At St. John's church last night instead of the anthem Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot sang a solo "Abide with Me," by Ambrose. Mrs. Wilmot has a mezzo-soprano voice of good range and apparently no breaks. Her future selections will, it is felt assured, be looked forward to with considerable interest.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Miss Sophie Cameron, who has been in Scotland for some years, sang the beautiful song, "Unanswered," at St. Paul's church yesterday morning. Miss Cameron has often been heard in this selection, and yesterday it was chosen by special request.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was dispensed at the morning service, a large congregation being present. Rev. Dr. Torrance officiated, and preached a most able sermon on brotherly love, his text being Romans 12, 9 and 10.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

During the offertory in All Saints last evening Mr. Laurence sang the solo, "Almost persuaded," with excellent sweetness and expression.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held to-morrow at three o'clock.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The services yesterday were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson. His sermon in the evening was especially to young people, his subject being "Friendships." The choir rendered special music for both services. The anthem in the morning being "I will pray the Father," by G. W. Torrance. During the offertory Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang the solo in "When the mists have rolled in splendor," the choir taking the chorus. At the evening service the anthem was, "As Christ upon the Cross." A male quartette, composed of Messrs. Thornton, McGuire, B. Turner and Smedley, sang the chorus of "The Wayside Cross," Mr. Mulligan taking the solo.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The pastor preached at both services yesterday, and the following music was rendered by the choir:

Morning.

Anthem, "My Shepherd" ..... Meyer
Solo, "I Cling to Thee, My Saviour" ... Croger
Miss Bellegham.

Evening.

Anthem, "Jubilate Deo" in B flat ..... Budds
Duet, "Jesus Lover," ..... Miss Bellegham and Mr. J. Browne.

The solo by Miss Bellegham and the duet by Miss Bellegham and Mr. Browne were worthy of special mention; they were rendered in a truly artistic manner and were highly enjoyed

SHAKESPEARE ON THE HORSE.

Plays of Great Poet Teem With Pointers About Racers.

A few extracts from the plays of William Shakespeare reveal the great poet in the novel light of an accomplished horse reporter. One of his characters indulges in the following panegyric:

"I will not change my horse with any that treads but on four pasterns. Ca ha! he bounds from the earth as if his entrails were hairs; le chevel volant, the Pegasus, chez les narines de feu! When I bestride him, I soar, I am a hawk; he trots the air; the earth sings when he touches it; the basest horn of his hoof is more musical than the pipe of Hermes.

"He's of the color of nutmeg—and of the heat of ginger. It is a beast for Perseus; he is pure air and fire; and the dull elements of earth and water never appear in him: he is, indeed, a horse; and all other jades you may call beasts. Indeed, my lord, it is a most absolute and excellent horse.

"It is the prince of palfreys; his neigh is like the bidding of a monarch, and his countenance enforces homage. No more, cousin! Nay, the man hath no wit that cannot from the rising of the lark to the lodging of the lamb vary deserved praise on my palfrey; it is a theme fluent as the sea; turn the sands into eloquent tongues, and my horse is argument for them all; 'tis a subject for a sovereign to reason on and for a sovereign to ride on; and for the world familiar to us and unknown to lay apart their particular functions and wonder at him. I once writ a sonnet in his praise, and begun thus: 'Wonder of nature,'" etc.

The lines above quoted are uttered by the Dauphin and Orleans in the third act of "King Henry V." (first part).

In the course of the word fencing between Benedick and Beatrice in "Measure for Measure," the former observes:

"I would my horse had the speed of your tongue and so good a continuer."

In the same play Dogberry sagely notes: "And two men ride a horse, one must ride behind."

"Love's Labor Lost": "The hobby horse is forgot. Callest thou my love a hobby horse? No, master, the hobby horse is but a colt, and your love perhaps a hackney. Fetch hither the swain, he must carry me a letter. A message well sympathized; a horse to be ambassador for an ass. Marry, sir, you must send me the ass upon the horse, for he is very slow-gaited."

"Taming of the Shrew": "As many diseases as two and fifty horses."

"Henry VIII.": "Anger is like a full, hot horse."

"King Richard III.": "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse!"

"Hamlet": "Six Barbary horses against six French swords."

"King Lear": "In pure kindness to his horse, buttered his hay."

Hundreds of similar allusions to horses may be traced with the aid of Shakespearian concordances, and perhaps will afford the amateur cryptogramist plenty of material to prove that Shakespeare was a hostler. Evidently it was not for nothing that the poet, as a youth, held horses at the theatre door.

Eliza Cook, Victorian Poetess.

In the progress of popular literature, a feature of the early Victorian days, as writer of poetry seized the fancy of the masses more strongly than Eliza Cook.

Eliza Cook, born in 1812, was the daughter of a tradesman in the London road, Southwark. Prosperity enabled the family to give her a superior education, and it drew forth considerable literary ability. As in the case of L.E.L., William Jordan, editor of The Literary Gazette, encouraged the authoress in her work, which in a few years attained remarkable popularity.

Eliza Cook's muse touched the hearts of the people. She possessed a genuine lyrical faculty, witnessed in a number of songs like "The Englishman," "I'm Afloat" (composed by the late Henry Russell), "The Old Arm Chair," "Star of Glengarry," and "The Ploughshare of Old England." Among the writer's higher efforts are "The Mourners," "'Tis a Wild Night at Sea," and "Love On," an eloquent answer to the Hon. Mrs. Norton's melancholy "Love Not," owing its success to John Blockley's fine air. It was Eliza Cook's effusion, "Poor Hood," that created public sympathy to erect a monument over his remains in Kensal-green cemetery.

The poetess died in 1889.

A RUPTURE AVERTED

British Conservatives End Their Meeting.

THE RIDER WAS WITHDRAWN

Premier Balfour Announces That Lord Milner Has Declined to Accept the Colonial Secretaryship—Sir John Dorington's Resolution Passed—Government Urged to Preserve Army's Efficiency.

Sheffield, Eng., Oct. 3.—The attendance yesterday at the Conference of the Conservative Associations was much smaller than Thursday, the opening day. The irreconcilable differences in the party on the fiscal question were again emphasized in the debate, and ultimately, in the interest of unity, Henry Chaplin, M. P., former President of the Board of Agriculture, and a life-long protectionist, withdrew his "rider," moved Thursday, and thereupon Sir John E. Dorington's official resolution, which deals solely with Premier Balfour's proposals, was carried unanimously, Sir John Gorst saying in behalf of the free-fooders that they did not desire any more amendments.

Withdrew the "Rider."

In withdrawing the "rider," which promised to further disrupt the ranks of the Unionists, Mr. Chaplin explained that he was convinced, after hearing Mr. Balfour's speech of Thursday night, that it would be mischievous to press the matter, as it was directly hostile to the Premier, and nothing was further from his views.

Lord Hugh Cecil M. P., and Winston Churchill, M. P., subsequently announced that they had neither voted for nor against the Dorington resolution.

After the passage of the resolution urging the Government to take steps to ensure the efficiency of the army, the conference terminated.

Premier Balfour addressed the delegates after lunch this afternoon. In the course of his speech he announced that Lord Milner did not feel himself able to accept the Colonial Secretaryship.

Joe as a Missionary.

London, Oct. 3.—(C.A.P.)—The Daily Mail, in an interview with Premier Balfour says: "Chamberlain agrees with me that I am right in believing that the country is not now prepared to discuss the taxation of food, but Chamberlain tells me that he is bound with the colonies and will therefore act as a missionary in regard to the food question."

Conferred Honorary Degrees.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—Hon. Chas. Moss, Chief Justice of Ontario, in the presence of a large and distinguished assembly in the new medical building of the University, conferred honorary degrees on the following: As doctor of laws, Wm. Williams Kean, M. A., M.D., of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Wm. Henry Welch, M. A., M. D., Professor of Pathology, Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Osler, of Johns Hopkins University; R. H. Chittenden, Professor of Physiological Chemistry in Yale University; Charles H. Sherrington, Professor of Physiology in the University of Liverpool, and Henry Pickering Bowditch, Professor of Physiology in Harvard University. An informal dinner was tendered the visiting professors in old university residence last night.

Stern Goes Back to U.S.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—Judge Winchester gave his decision yesterday afternoon in the extradition case of Leopold J. Stern. The judgment was very lengthy, covering fifteen foolscap pages of typewriting. The concluding paragraph says:

"I am, therefore, of the opinion that the evidence of the crime charged against Leopold J. Stern by the Government of the United States is sufficient to justify his committal for trial, and I do, therefore, commit him to the common jail, there to remain until surrendered to the United States or liberated according to law. It is my duty to inform the accused that he will not be surrendered until after the expiration of fifteen days, and that he has a right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus."

British Capture Boston.

Boston, Oct. 3.—For the first time in many years, the flag of England, guarded by British rifles, was borne through the streets of Boston yesterday by the Honorable Artillery Company of London, as special guests of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of this city. For five days they will be entertained, then after a week's tour, to include New York, Washington, Niagara Falls and Canada, they will return to England.

Peebles.

In the "Memoir" of Robert Chambers by his brother William is a delightful allusion to Peebles, their birthplace and a spot ever warm in the loving memory of Scotch residents.

One of these, a man who had lived there all his life, was enabled by some uplift of fortune to visit Paris. When he came back his townsmen gravely gathered about him.

"Noo," said one, while the others listened, "tell us aboot it."

"Paris," he began, "a' things considered, is a wonderfu' place; but, still, Peebles for pleasure."

Dreaded Results of Kidney Disease.

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills.

When you think of the pain and suffering which accompany backache, rheumatism, lumbago, stone in the kidneys and bladder; when you think of the dreadful fatality of Bright's disease, dropsy, diabetes and apoplexy, you may well wonder why people neglect to keep the kidneys in perfect order, for all these ailments are the direct result of deranged kidneys.

Once the kidneys fail to filter from the blood the impure and poisonous waste matter there is trouble of a painful and dangerous nature. Among the first symptoms are backache, weak, lame back, pains in the legs and sides, deposits in the urine, impaired digestion, loss of flesh, energy and ambition, stiffness and soreness in the joints and feelings of weariness and lassitude.

Prevention is always better than cure, and hence the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on the very first indication of such derangement. Whether to prevent or cure, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most effective treatment you can obtain, for besides their direct and specific action on the kidneys, they keep the bowels regular and the liver active, and hence purify the system and remove the cause of disease.

This medicine has long since proven its right to first place as a cure for the complicated and serious derangements of the filtering and excretory organs. It has the largest sale and is endorsed by more people than any similar treatment. You can depend on it absolutely to bring prompt relief and lasting cure. In view of these facts it is a waste of time and money and a risk to life itself to trifle with new and untried remedies when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are at hand. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 5

ASPIRES TO THRONE

PRINCE MIRKO, WHO MAY SUCCEED KING PETER OF SERVIA.

Ambitions of the Second Son of Nicolas of Montenegro—Connected With the Royal Houses of Europe—A Musical Prince—Devotes Much Time Also to Scientific Research.

The dissatisfaction in Servia with the reigning King, Peter Karageorgevitch, who succeeded to the throne recently made vacant by the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga, again brings into prominence the name of Prince Mirko of Montenegro, who last year was discussed as the possible successor to Alexander.

Since King Peter ascended the throne of Servia he has done nothing to win the confidence of the people and is, in fact, generally regarded by his subjects as merely a tool in the hands of designing politicians. Recently there have been rumors that he had tired of his kingly position

Prince Mirko, who in the event of the abdication of Peter would probably be called to the throne of Servia, is the second son of Nicolas I., the reigning prince of Montenegro. He is a captain of Montenegrin infantry and a lieutenant in the Russian army. He devotes much of his time to music and to scientific research. His popularity among the Servians comes in a large degree from his wife, to whom he was married last year and who has the blood of the Obrenovitches in her veins. She is Natalie, daughter of Colonel Constantinovitch, a cousin of the late King Milan of Servia. Her mother is a daughter of a Triest merchant who made a large fortune in the shipping trade.

Like his cousin, the late King Milan, Colonel Constantinovitch is a grandson of Milosh, first prince of Servia. His daughter Natalie, who was born in Triest in 1882, is a goddaughter of the Dowager Queen Natalie of Servia. Colonel Constantinovitch quarreled with his relative, the late King Alexander, at the time of the latter's marriage with Draga and was banished from his native land. The marriage of Prince Mirko and Natalie connected the Obrenovitch family with the leading reigning houses of Europe. The present Queen of Italy is a sister of Prince Mirko, two other sisters are Russian grand duchesses, and a fourth is the wife of Prince Joseph of Battenberg.

King Peter, of Servia, is also a brother-in-law of Mirko, his wife, now dead, having been Princess Zorka, eldest daughter of Prince Nicolas of Montenegro. Thus Prince Mirko is connected by marriage with both the Obrenovitch and Karageorgevitch dynasties of Servia.

Prince Mirko is extremely genial and unaffected and is the favorite brother of Queen Helen of Italy. He was born in 1879 and educated with his brothers and sisters at home by a Swiss tutor. Mirko has but two passions besides his ambition to wear a crown—music and bacteriology. He is often to be found in the hospital at Cettinje at work with the microscope.

The rest of his spare time is devoted to music, and he composes a great deal. When his niece, daughter of the King of Italy, was baptized in Rome he composed a march and dedicated it to the city. It was performed at a concert, and Mascagni, who was conducting, led Prince Mirko to the platform to acknowledge the applause with which it was received.

Swarming Millions of China.

The population of China has always been a subject of dispute by statisticians. The Chinese count has not been regarded as trustworthy, and the estimates of foreigners, however carefully made, were but guesses, but the recent enumeration that the Chinese Government has now published is accepted as at least better than any preceding count or estimate.

It shows the enormous total of 426,000,000 persons—a gain of 18,000,000 over the Chinese count made in 1842. Compared with the growth of population in America this is a very small increase. But epidemics and the lack of sanitary knowledge and wars, and the crowding of the population greatly check the natural increase. Of course, the provinces differ greatly in the density of population. Thibet, Mongolia, Turkestan and Manchuria are sparsely peopled; but in the great provinces, such as Shantung and Honan, every available foot of soil is used and occupied. There is a considerable area so densely populated as to warrant this comparison—if all the people in the United States proper lived in Texas, 40,000,000 more would have to go there before the population would be as dense as it is in this part of China.

DISCREET INDISCRETION.

How the Insubordination of a Diplomat Averted Hostilities.

An example that can never be overlooked when the right of an ambassador to exercise his own discretion is in question is that which occurred in the career of Lord Lyons when he was our ambassador to the United States. He was a persona grata there. "All I can say, Lord Lyons, is, 'Go thou and do likewise,'" was Abraham Lincoln's genial method of receiving the British ambassador's announcement of the Prince of Wales' marriage. Lord Lyons did not take the advice, but he remained a very effective ambassador in spite of his bachelorhood. When the grave difficulty over the Mason and Slidell case arose Lord Lyons was instructed from home to present an ultimatum, afford twelve hours for its acceptance, and, the latter not being forthcoming, he was to break off relations and leave the country. The twelfth hour expired, Slidell and Mason were not surrendered and there remained apparently only the dire prospect of war. "Give me another twelve hours," said Seward, the secretary of state. It was an entire contradiction of official orders, but, nevertheless, "I will," said Lyons. From 8 o'clock that night until 6 the next morning Seward battled with the recalcitrants. Then Lyons received an intimation that the Confederate envoys would be given up. So by the insubordination of an ambassador war was saved.—St. James Gazette.

Bismarck's Best Cigar.

Unlike Napoleon, Bismarck was a hard smoker. He once told this story to illustrate his love of the weed:

"The value of a good cigar is best understood when it is the last you possess and there is no chance of getting another. At Koeniggraetz I had only one cigar left in my pocket, which I carefully guarded during the battle as a miser guards his treasure. I did not feel justified in using it. I painted in glowing colors in my mind the happy hour when I should enjoy it after the victory, but I had miscalculated my chances. A poor dragoon lay helpless, with both arms crushed, murmuring for something to refresh him. I felt in my pockets and found only gold, which would not be of the least use to him. But stay! I had still my treasured cigar. I lighted it for him and placed it between his teeth. You should have seen the poor fellow's grateful smile. I never enjoyed a cigar so much as that one which I did not smoke."

The Angel Child.

"Martha," said her mamma, "I trust that while you were at your Aunt Martha's you said nothing to offend her."

"Oh, no, mamma," declared the angel child. "I was careful to say things which would make her know that you and papa liked her for herself alone."

"That was proper."

"Why, when she asked me if you folks had named me Martha so that she would leave us her money when she dies I told her that papa and you had talked about that and that papa said we mustn't think of such a thing."

"And what did she say?" asked mamma eagerly.

"Nothing. She just laughed and said I was a good girl and I'd better run along home when I told her what papa said about her going to have a pocket made in her shroud."

Condiments and Digestion.

People with weak digestions will always be found to be fond of condiments, as the tendency of these things is to stimulate the glands of the stomach and cause them to produce a larger supply of digestive juices. Pepper, mustard and other like spices stir up the liver and are useful to people who from necessity or other causes lead sedentary lives. Vinegar dissolves the cellulose in raw vegetables, and that is why it tastes so well with cabbages and salads, for there is no better judge than the palate of what is good for the stomach. The oil is added because it protects the stomach from the biting acid.

ON THE BITTER CREEK RUN

By W. HENRY PORTER

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"Besides," observed Lester, rolling himself a cigarette with an air of finality, "you will get your hands and face all smut, and—think of your clothes, Evie!"

But Evylyn was not to be dismayed. "Write me the order, Lester," she commanded. "What is the good of being the daughter of a man who owns a railroad and the sister of a boy who thinks he owns the Bitter Creek division if I can't ride in the cab?"

"But Jim Lestrange"—

"Mr. Lestrange is nothing whatever to me. Merely because we used to know him when we were children makes no difference. He is only the engineer."

"Humph! 'Member when he and you tried to stage together in his goat wagon and with a pound of crackers and some cheese that mother had sent you to the store for, Evie? Le's—see; you were about five then, weren't you?"

Evylyn's glances would have withered anybody but an older brother. She marched away with the order addressed to the engineer of the western special, her head in the air and a deepened color in her cheek.

The fact that Jim Lestrange had been a playmate of her extreme youth did not freeze Miss Evylyn Grantham. She remembered that her mother had soundly spanked her for the escapade Lester had mentioned, and with the smart of that chastisement her interest in Jim had expired.

In fact, soon after that fateful day the Granthams had gone east. Only during visits to the town of her birth did Evylyn hear of Jim. The Granthams went up the social and financial scale by leaps and bounds. Jim Lestrange, with a pair of strong hands and some brains, had, to Evylyn's mind, scarcely risen at all.

Certainly the sooty faced fellow in a greasy cap and overalls who took her pass when she reached the platform beside which Ninety-nine and its long train of vestibule cars stood would have made a strange figure in the parlors of her eastern friends. And to her mind his "Good morning, Miss Evie," was offensively familiar. She stepped aboard the panting locomotive without answering and heartily wishing she had not come.

But what an adventure to tell the girls of when she went back! The crack 'fice of the Bitter Creek division was becoming popular. Some of her friends had been through the canyon and seen its marvels from the windows of a parlor car, but no girl in her set had dared ride from Logger to McMahon Station, the towns guarding the entrance and exit of the canyon, in the cab of big Ninety-nine.

"You better sit over on this side, miss," the fireman said respectfully, motioning to his own side of the cab. But Miss Evylyn thought him officious and crept in behind the lever and squeezed into the engineer's seat. She did not know much about the huge machine on which she was to ride and considered it a personal affront when Jim Lestrange swung himself aboard and stepped up in front of her, obstructing her view of the landscape from the front window of the cab.

Under his tight fitting jersey she saw the muscles of his shoulders and arms slip back and forth—like the contracting of the tiger's tendons under its tawny hide—when he stretched his left hand back to seize the lever. He waited, glancing ahead, for the conductor's signal. There was something fascinating in his tense though easy pose. The compressed air signal "spit" overhead. Instantly the hand on the lever tightened. There was scarcely a jar as Ninety-nine, taking deep breaths, pulled out of the Logger station.

There is little in the Bitter Creek canyon to please the eye of tourists, but it certainly awes them. Sheer walls rise so high that only for an hour at midday is the bottom of the gorge flooded with sunlight. Through this the single track of the division weaves its way, crossing and recrossing the whitened torrent upon trestlework. Around these piles the water roars when at its full, seeking to tear down the obstructions man has placed in its path.

"You should have chosen a pleasanter day for your ride, Miss Evie," Jim said casually. "It's been raining this morning and the creek will be high. And I shouldn't be surprised if we got more of it before long. The canyon will be dark."

She sat stiffly upright in her corner of the narrow seat and made no reply.

But the rain came ere the western special plunged into the gloom of the gorge. Jim reached behind her and shut the sliding pane to shield her from any chance gust. In doing so the sleeve of his jersey touched her shoulder and she shrank aside, but he seemed utterly unconscious.

The train swept into the canyon and sped over the glistening rails like a fiery eyed serpent. It was dark and the girl shivered. Suppose the angry creek should wrench free some portion of the trestlework? She only breathed with confidence when the train was upon the solid ledges of rock, which had been carved out of the cliffs by the water ages before.

Suddenly the shovel fell from the fireman's hands, ringing again upon the iron running board. He reached over and shook Jim Lestrange by the arm.

Evylyn turned also, for the man's face was white under the grime of the coal dust. He pointed behind them, where the daylight was fast fading at the entrance of the canyon. But she, too, saw what had startled the fireman.

A wall of white water curled above the tracks. It swept the canyon from wall to wall, bearing down upon the rear of the long train so swiftly that it seemed as though the cars must be almost instantly swallowed by the flood.

"A cloudburst!" she heard Jim exclaim, and then, before the words had more than passed his lips, the train leaped ahead. Twenty miles an hour through the canyon was considered a safe speed; the western special darted away at a pace double that, for the chance of wreck on a curve ahead was less to be feared than the certain death that followed behind!

Involuntarily Evylyn clutched at the arm of the engineer. "Will it catch us? Can't you go faster?" she gasped.

He turned his face around to her slowly. When she could see it he was actually smiling. "We'll make a record for the Bitter Creek run this day."

Exasperated, she shook him angrily by the arm. "That will catch us—it will!" she cried. "Can't you cut off the train? Couldn't we get away if the cars didn't hold us back?"

He turned a quizzical glance upon her. "Cut off the cars?" he asked. "There are hundreds of people back there. There are only three of us here. Would it pay to sacrifice the others?"

She was silenced and abashed, but she did not know that the thought had shot through his own mind first of all. One smashing blow of the sledge on the coupling and the locomotive and tender would be free of the heavy train of coaches, and that white wall of water was coming faster and faster.

Evylyn could not keep her own eyes from it. She leaped down from the seat, with a shriek.

Instantly the long arm of the driver reached around the lever. He caught her and lifted her bodily back upon the seat. "Stay where you are!" he commanded hoarsely, and she, forgetting the tidal wave behind, stared straight ahead, her lips a firm line of white, too angry for speech. Nobody in all her life had ever touched or spoken to her so.

She saw the fireman again lean over the lever and shout in Lestrange's ear. "The basin!" Jim nodded.

Suddenly the walls of the canyon spread apart. The train was flying so swiftly that it seemed the cliffs were moving instead of themselves. The train ran out upon a long trestle, for in this wider part of the gorge, known as "the basin," there were rock shelves on either side. The creek bed was wide, and the water roared among the debris fallen from the heights above.

Jim reversed the engine, and to Evylyn's despair the train slowed down. But she was too angry to speak. And scarcely had the train stopped when the tidal wave broke about them.

When it reached the locomotive the water had spread over so great an area that the only damage it did was to rise into the standing room of the cab and put out the fire under Ninety-nine's boiler. Then it roared on down the canyon, and unless it carried away some portion of the iron trestlework ahead the danger was over.

Jim, without a glance at her, leaped down to examine his engine. When he was satisfied that the machine was all right he came back. The fireman had cleaned out the fire box and was pitching in dry wood. Jim stood so that she was sheltered from the gaze of the stoker.

"Well, are you sorry I didn't cut off the train, Miss Evie?" he asked.

"I hate you!" she declared, looking determinedly away from him.

"Well, I'm real sorry for that. But, you know, I had the company's property to look out for—as well as the president's daughter." He was actually smiling.

"I hate you!" she declared again.

"That's pretty tough," he observed again. "And it's been so long since we've seen each other too! Do you know, I couldn't ever bring myself to the point of hating you. Fact is, I feel exactly the opposite and always have since we played at sweethearts. Do you remember, Evie?"

She turned upon him then, but the fire died out of her eyes. She remembered how he had looked when he sat her down again in that corner with a command.

Her hands went suddenly up to cover her face. "It's too bad," said Jim, "but the coal dust will settle on the woodwork. I'm afraid you're getting your face all smut from those gloves."

And he pulled the hands away and held both in one of his.

"The fire's going again. Mr. Lestrange," said the stoker.

Official Book Burnings.

The last authorized book burning in Great Britain was in 1778, when "The Commercial Restraint of Ireland Considered," by the Hon. Hely Hutchinson, was given to the flames.

The war against books began under Henry VIII., when books were burned by both religious parties. All copies of Tyndale's Bible that could be bought up were publicly burned at St. Paul's on Shrove Tuesday, 1537, and a general destruction by fire of unlicensed books was ordered three years later by the king. In 1565 the star chamber claimed the power of licensing and seizing books, and its scrutiny was as rigorous as that of the inquisition.

In 1607 Dr. Cowell's "Law Dictionary" was burned by order of the house of commons for its assertion of divine right in favor of James I., and "The King's Book of Sports" met with a similar fate at the hands of the Puritans in 1644.

About a century later De Foe's "Shortest Way With the Dissenters" was burned by parliament, and in 1763 Wilke's "North Briton" was subject to the same wanton intolerance, which in some cases defeated its own object.

The Difference in Two Words.

Did it ever occur to you to think of the difference in significance of the two words "seems" and "appears?" We say "it seems to be true" or "it appears to be true." Are those expressions identical, or if there be a difference what is it?

There is a difference, and it consists chiefly in the strength of the expression. If we read a story and say, "That story seems to be true," we mean that it has the semblance of truth and we infer that it is true. If we say, "That story appears to be true," we mean that the statements made in it or the incidents related go to show its truth.

In other words, "appears" refers to the actual presentation of something to our view; "seems" refers to an inference of our mind as to the probability of a thing being true.

First Type Cast in America.

It was a good man, Christopher Sower, who made the first punches and matrices and cast the first type in America. The anvil he made them on is still preserved. They were for a German Bible which he published.

"The price of our newly finished Bible, in plain binding, with a clasp, will be 18 shillings," he said, "but to the poor and needy we have no price. John the Baptist sent the message to Christ, 'Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?' and Jesus sent back word, 'The poor have the gospel preached to them.'"

Sower's German Bible was printed in 1743 and was the first Bible published in America in any European language.

Thoroughly "Done Up."

"Have you done up my shirt yet?" asked the patron of the laundry.

"It is just out of the ironing room," answered the clerk, "and we will have it done up for you now, so that you may take it along with you."

"All right. I hope it has had better luck than the last one I had done up here."

"Better luck?"

"Yes. You did it up so completely in the ironing room that it wasn't worth doing up in the bundle."

Good For His Business.

"If there's one thing I hate," declared the passenger who had trouble with the conductor, "it's to be contradicted."

"Well," replied the man who shared his seat, "I like to have people talk back to me."

"You do?"

"Yes. I'm an auctioneer."

The Only Way.

Fidgett—Really, now, do you think there is any way whereby a man can retain the respect of his children?

Midgett—He might send them away from home as soon as they begin to take notice.

A Poet's Neighbors.

The Manner In Which Wordsworth Was Regarded by His Neighbors.

The worthies of Wordsworth's village in the lake country of England had their own ideas of his value as a man and a poet. When questioned after his death as to his personality they readily admitted that he was kind to those who were in sickness or need. They could count on him on a pinch. But he did not hobnob with his neighbors.

"He did not notice them much," said an old man in answer to questions asked by the author of "Lake Country Sketches."

"A Jem Crow and an auld blue cloak was his rig," continued the old man. "And as for his habits, he had noan. Niver knew him with a pot i' his hand or a pipe i' his mouth."

After deep probing the author brought out:

"Yes; Wordsworth was fond of a good dinner at times if you could get him to it. That was the job."

Then the poet's aimlessness was again touched upon.

"He was forever pacing the roads and his own garden walks and always composing poetry. He was ter'ble throng in visitors and folks ye mun hen at times, but if he could get awa' frae them a spell he was out upon his walk.

"And then he would set his head a bit forred and put his hands behint his back. And then he would start a-humming, and it was hum, hum, hum, and go on humming for long enough right down and back again. I suppose, ye ken, the humming helped him out a bit."

Not a Good Location.

From the mountains of Camden, Me., comes a story of a Philadelphia merchant who has a summer cottage in that village and who wished to exchange a lively horse which he owned with a French Canadian who had a more gentle animal, which women and children could drive. The Frenchman was willing to trade, but for some reason insisted upon repeating to the visitor that the local horse did not "look" as well as the one belonging to the Philadelphia man.

An exchange satisfactory to both parties was eventually made, and the first time the visitor's wife took the new horse out for a drive she discovered that the beast was as blind as a mole. A few days later, when the rustic met the Frenchman, he said:

"You here, you rascal! That horse you swapped with me for mine was stone blind. Why didn't you tell me of it at the time?"

"Ah'm bin try tell you all Ah'm bin know how for to tell. Ah'm bin say my horse was no look lak you horse—say no sees, nine tams. Ah'm no bin blam' me you no hear me."

Trees Shaped by the Wind.

The effect of wind upon trees is powerful. Even the presence or absence of forests may be determined by the character of the prevailing wind or the conditions that modify it. The wind acts as a drying agent, giving a special aspect to many plants. When it is almost always from the same quarter the plants show greater development upon one side. Trees are smaller on the windward edges of forests, and trunks and branches are bent to leeward. The deformations are most marked near the sea or in flat regions. The cherry, plum, walnut, black poplar, ash and certain pines are very sensitive to the wind, but mountain pines and certain firs offer great powers of resistance, and these are recommended for reforesting wind swept lands.

ABOUT THAT COAT

You wear a coat. Why? To keep the cold out? No; to keep the warmth in. What of the body that has no warmth—the thin, poor body that lacks the healthy flesh and fat it needs?

For such we say that Scott's Emulsion provides the right kind of a coat. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion builds firm, solid flesh and supplies just enough fat to fill nature's requirements—no more. That means bodily warmth.

CHILL WINDS

Are the dread of those whose lungs are "weak." Some fortunate people can follow the summer as it goes southward, and escape the cold blasts of winter and the chill airs of spring. But for the majority of people this is impossible. Family cares and business obligations hold them fast.

"Weak" lungs are made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures the obstinate cough, heals the inflamed tissues, stops the hemorrhage, and restores the lost flesh to the emaciated body.

"I am a railroad agent," writes I. B. Staples, Esq., of Barclay, Osage Co., Kans., "and four years ago my work keeping me in a warm room and stepping out frequently into the cold air gave me bronchitis, which became chronic and deep seated. Doctors failed to reach my case and advised me to try a higher air, but, fortunately for me, a friend also advised me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and by the time I had taken the first bottle I was better, and after taking about four bottles my cough was entirely gone. I have found no necessity for seeking another climate."

Sometimes a dealer, tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines, will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery."

You get the People's Medical Adviser, the best medical work ever published, free by sending stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound volume, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co. have received the following:

The developments over Sunday were not of a character to develop enthusiasm on either side of the market, and sentiment is more conservative and favourable to a reaction from the sharp advance of the last half of past week. Interest will centre in the action which directors of the steel corporation will take to-morrow regarding dividends on common stock and it is doubtful if payments at the usual rates will stimulate the market. Saturday's bank statement was disappointing in showing a considerable loss in cash and until there is some reaction in the market for the time money any upward movement in stocks will be mere manipulation. We look for lower prices in the early trading and for some further recession before the close of the day, but banking support will be forthcoming.

Liverpool wheat quiet, 2-8 d lower; corn dull, 1-2 d higher.

James J. Hill and other prominent railroad men say earnings will keep up.

An extract from Henry Clewes' weekly market letter says: "The latter part of the week witnessed an encouraging recovery in the stock market owing to the belief that the worst was known regarding current difficulties and to the fact that many of the disturbing rumors afloat proved groundless. Previously fear, not reason, dominated Wall Street, and in spite of powerful resistance liquidation ran to irrational extremes. For some time past intrinsic values received scant, if any, consideration, the extremeties of a few rich holders obliging further liquidation at a time when buying power was limited, either through exhaustion or lack of courage. There has been just as much unreasoning distrust regarding security values as there was unreasonable confidence a year ago, and in nine short months market opinion has plunged from dizzy heights of exaltation to the very depths of depression, until declines were reached out of all proportion to any changes in intrinsic conditions. Statistical investigation goes to show that security values in the United States advanced about 4500 millions after President McKinley's first election, and that the present downward movement represents a shrinkage of fully 3,500 millions, showing that the boom advance has largely disappeared. Such estimates are, of course, only approximate, but they are probably not far out of the way, and very likely they at least represent the proportionate decline. So extensive and rapid a shrinkage as this is nothing less than panic of the severest type, and, while concentrated banking interests have fortunately been able to prevent a sudden crash and so save the country from vastly worse disaster, it has not been able to prevent a drastic adjustment of credit, which is responsible for much recent liquidation. It is perhaps premature to assert that this liquidation is entirely complete, or that the market has positively turned; yet there is no doubt but that the concerted action of New York bankers has saved the country from a most disastrous crisis, and that in spite of current fears the worse has been passed and improvement cannot be very distant."

Cost of Englishmen's Shooting.

The extent to which the letting of moors and forests has become recognized as a regular source of income to lord and laird alike in the Highlands, may be judged from the increase in the number of deer forests now annually let. Twenty years ago there were 90 recognized forests. A recent report from the Crofter Commission showed 109 of these forests. To-day there are 150. Shootings and forests which let for upwards of £400 or £500 a year may be counted by hundreds. In the two Counties of Argyll and Inverness alone there are a dozen forests whose rentals average £2,500. Here the cost per day will work out at over £40, exclusive of wages of attendants. The tendency of price is constantly upward. Captain Heywood Lonsdale will be interested to know that Coignafearn, the 40,000 acres of which he rented last year for £3,000, was originally let by the Mackintosh of the thirties for £30, with £5 returned as "luckpenny."

The foregoing is typical of the rise in rents which has resulted from the eager competition for forests and moors. Invershie, when it was good enough to afford a bag of 75 brace to one man and a dog, fetched £50 now it is a four-figure shooting. Mr. Geo. A. Cooper is paying £5,500 for his forest, £4,700 to Sir C. Macpherson-Grant for his share of Glenfeshie, and £800 to The Mackintosh for his portion. M. Achilles Fould has Invermark at £3,850; Mr. William Weir, Achnacarry for £2,000; Lord Burton, Glenquoich for £2,022; Mr. Frank Bibby, Mamore for £2,500. For Invercauld, £5,000 for the season is asked. For £3,000 less, Bunsecht is let. At about £2,000 many moors and forests are now being used. Then, to this must be added cost of traveling, £1 a week for each of the gillies, £1 a week for ponies; beaters and drivers, of whom there may be 30 or 40, at 4s. a day. Dogs cost from £5 to 20 times that figure; guns from £7 to £70. The game shot may, with luck, be sold for half its cost per head. The deer which has cost £50 to kill, may be sold to a dealer for its carcass for £8, its head, if a fine one, may realize anything up to £25.—St. James' Gazette.

Fashions in Horses.

As in nearly everything else, fashions in horses are frequently changing, and it is interesting to note how these have varied. Years ago nothing was considered more stylish, in tandem, for instance, than a smart dapple-grey leader and a good, upstanding chestnut in the shafts. Then came the period of rigid uniformity when the animals had all to be carefully matched—it made no matter what the color. This has lasted pretty well until the present day, with varying limitations. At one time well-groomed, satin-coated blacks were the rage, at another chestnuts were essential. Just now "liver-colored" chestnuts and browns are declared to have Dame Fashion's smile, and there is also considerable request for the good, hard, serviceable blue roan, nowadays somewhat scarce. In this, as in other matters, however, the good lady's favor is fickle. A prominent fancier decides for a certain color, and drives in a smart "turnout." He promptly has the flattery of imitation. A demand is created and the fashion set. Just as in clothes, so in selection for the stable. What was yesterday's "correct thing" may be to-morrow's "bad form"; but for the riding man the highest recommendation of a mount will always be quality rather than shade.

The Happiest Day.

The Old Man—Well, my lad, I wish you every possible happiness, and I assure you, as a man of experience, that you will always look back upon to-day as the happiest of your life. The Young Man—I am very much obliged, sir, for your good wishes, but—you are a little mistaken. It is not till to-morrow that I am to be married. The Old Man—Yes, yes, I know. That's what I mean.—Pick-Me-Up.

DEATH OF DR. LANDERKIN.

Genial Doctor Served Twenty-One Years in the Commons Before Being Called to the Senate.

Hanover, Ont. 5.—Senator Landerkin, known all over Canada as Doctor Landerkin, died yesterday afternoon at his old home. Four weeks ago he was taken ill, but the report was made public that he expected to be around again soon. Last Friday, however, he took a turn for the worse and fell into a semi-comatose condition, from which nothing could arouse him. The funeral takes place on Wednesday at 3 p.m. Dr. Landerkin was born in Simcoe, Ont., July 20, 1839, and was therefore 64 years of age. He was educated at the local school, and worked seventeen years on a farm. He obtained his degree of M.D. at Victoria College, Cobourg, in 1863. In 1870 he married Mary, daughter of Joseph Kuhendall, Elora, Ont. He was elected to the House of Commons for South Grey at the general election in 1872. He was defeated at the general election in 1878, but was elected in 1882, 1887, 1891 and 1896. In 1900, however, he met defeat, but was called to the Senate in 1901.

Four Senate Vacancies.

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—Including the seat vacated by the death of Dr. Landerkin, there are four vacancies in the Senate to be filled, the others being those held by the late Senators Primrose, Coghrane and Dickey, being two in Nova Scotia, one in Quebec, and one in Ontario. When these shall have been filled the Liberals will have a majority in the Senate of 13.

General regret will be felt in both Houses at the death of Senator Landerkin. He was for 21 years a member of the Commons, and in 1901 he was called to the Senate. Up to the recent adjournment of the Upper House, he was in the enjoyment of excellent health, and during the early summer months was to have been seen almost daily at cricketon the Parliament hill lawn.

Dr. Landerkin was a man of cheery nature, kindly disposed and was accordingly greatly esteemed in Parliament. He was noted for his wit, which even in his political speeches in the Commons was never used to wound the feelings of an opponent.

PAYING OFF AT THE SOO.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 5.—To-day the trial will commence before Police Magistrate Quibell of the eleven men who were taken into custody in connection with the rioting of Monday last. Each man will have to answer to two distinct charges out of the three, which include all made in this connection. They are, riotous conduct, destruction of property belonging to the Lake Superior Power Company and aggravated assault on peace officers.

A. Grenier and Jas. Dault, who were shot by the police in Monday's affair, will not appear with the others, as they are yet unable to leave the hospital. The other men are Leonard Lavergne, Baptiste Rozon, Albert Robinson, Frank Lalonde, Edward Glasson, Fred. Winer, Andrew Deans and Moise Dupont. J. J. Kehoe, Crown Attorney, will conduct the case for the prosecution, and Barrister J. L. O'Flynn has been retained by the prisoners. J. E. Irving will appear in the interests of the company. Some thirty witnesses have been summoned, all but two being for the prosecution.

The payment of the men which began on Saturday at 10 o'clock went along steadily, though slowly, all day, and by evening 480 of the 8,000 or more employes had received their money. The men are being paid in the order of bushmen, miners, sawmill men, veneer mill workers and other employes. Very few men have left town since Thursday, when it was announced payment of wages would be made on Saturday, but it is expected they will leave now about as fast as they receive their money.

May Be Suicide.

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 5.—John Douglas Black, city editor of The Fredericton Gleaner, is lying at the point of death in Victoria Hospital from a bullet wound inflicted Saturday evening. Some think it was an accident, others hold it an attempt at suicide. He was found on O'Dell street, about 9 o'clock, with a bullet hole, an inch below his heart, and the revolver lying at his feet.

Henry Cargill Buried.

Walkerton, Oct. 5.—The funeral of Henry Cargill, M.P. for East Bruce, took place here yesterday afternoon and was attended by the largest number of people ever seen at a funeral in the County of Bruce. There were over three hundred carriages in the procession, besides four or five hundred people in a special train from Southampton, Port Elgin, Paisley and Cargill Station.

Mr. Stewart Retires.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—John K. Stewart, Provincial License Inspector, will retire at the end of the present month to engage in business in Ottawa, where he formerly conducted an insurance agency.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE.

New Individual Opinions and Feelings Complicate the Situation.

A curious feature of the struggle of passive resisters is the ultra-official and personal attitude that is assumed by many of the overseers and their assistants. They do not seem to be capable of carrying out their unpleasant work simply as instruments of the official machine, but must needs introduce their individual opinions and feelings into the dispute. At Shapton Mallet, in Somerset, four resisters were allowed to pay the portion of the rate to which they raised no objection, whereupon the overseers, who were all churchmen, paid the remainder to save trouble. It is rumored that something of this sort may take place upon a larger scale in certain northern towns. In these places the amount of the rate to be resisted will be very small, and it is said that the overseers intend to accept part payment and take no further proceedings. In course of time passive resistance will make it impossible to collect a sectarian rate anywhere, and it is one of the first signs of victory that in some towns the impossibility or at all events the extreme undesirability of it has already been acknowledged. Taking the country throughout we are, however, far from having reached that stage. For the most part the overseers are adopting the opposite policy of exacting the uttermost farthing. Two additional cases of passive resistance came before the magistrate at Sheffield on Friday, and although part payment had been accepted previously it was in these two cases refused. The senior overseer gave the astonishing explanation that he had not accepted part payment because he had no sympathy with the movement of the resisters, or their mode of procedure. This good man appears to think that fair treatment is only for people who hold religious and political views with which he is able to sympathize. Passive resisters make no appeal to the personal preferences of the overseer. They ask to be allowed to pay what they are willing to pay. They make very natural protest against police court proceedings and the distraint of their goods for a fictitious debt which they have repeatedly offered to discharge. The Sheffield overseer is reported to have added the remark, "There must be a line drawn somewhere, or else there will be a lot of resisters troubling the court hereafter." There certainly will, and nothing is more likely to stimulate the movement than these unnecessary acts of oppression.—The British Weekly.

How the King Rests.

During his recent stay at Marienbad, where he went to rest and drink the famous waters, King Edward, who travelled incognito as the Duke of Lancaster, gave proof of his vigour in ascending a mountain three thousand feet high. At the top an old Austrian who keeps the telescopes chatted to him quite familiarly, without knowing who he was. The King on leaving invited him to his hotel, where next day the veteran duly arrived in the picturesque dress of a Bohemian peasant. King Edward shook him genially by the hand, chatted to him, and invited him to take a good meal and a bottle of wine. To the old man's great delight His Majesty pinned the medal of the Victorian Order on his tunic.

At Marienbad the King got up early every morning and took his first glass of the waters at half-past six. He then walked to the spring for a second glass at seven. He made several interesting expeditions in the afternoons, often taking coffee at an outlying restaurant. Dinner was served in his rooms an hour earlier than usual, after which a game of bridge was played till ten, when he retired. This quiet, simple, life had the best results, and His Majesty felt and looked as well as possible when he left for Vienna to resume his role as a sovereign, and to accept the hospitality of the Emperor of Austria.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron went aking a stoll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

STREET LIGHTING CONTRACT SETTLED

Bylaw Received its Third Reading Last Night.

IT GOES TO PETERBORO' LIGHT & POWER CO.

Price Paid is $50.00 per Lamp per Year—Otonabee Power Co. Makes an Offer of $35.00 per Lamp—Warm Discussion at Council Meeting.

YEAS.		NAYS.
Ald. Morrison,	Ald. Rush,	Ald. Best,	Ald. Clinkscale.
Ald. Edgcumbe,	Ald. O'Connell,
Ald. Batten,	Ald. Corkery.
The Mayor.

On the above division the Bylaw authorizing the execution of an agreement between the Town Council and the Peterborough Light and Power Company, whereby the latter is to receive the contract for lighting the streets of Peterborough for a period of ten years, beginning Jan. 1st, 1904, was passed at the meeting of the Town Council last night, with the Council in Committee, and Ald. McWilliams in the chair, and also supporting the passing of the Bylaw. The contract is for 120 lamps of 2,000 candle power each, to be the open, direct current are, or such improved lamp, as the Town Engineer, or other qualified expert of the town may recommend. They are to burn 300 full nights in each year, and on the evenings nearest the full moon, when the sky is unclouded, they need not be lighted. They are to be of 9 1-2 amperes, 50 volts, and with a capacity of 450 watts, and for every night of the 300 on which the lamps are not lighted when they are required, the company is to pay the town 25 cents. An inspector is to be allowed at any time to test the lamps and equipment to ascertain if the required amount of light is being furnished, and all additional lamps for which the council considers there is necessity, must be placed by the company on the request of the former. But the company must not increase the number of its poles except by consent of the council. At the end of the contract the council may direct the company to remove all poles from the streets, and at any time during the ten years should the poles require to be moved for any municipal purposes, such as laying a payment, the company must move them at its own expense. Four hundred dollars per year is to be paid the town for the use of the streets for poles.

The cost to the town for the lights under the above agreement is to be 1 3-3 cents per lamp per night for 300 nights, or $50.00 per lamp per year. Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of this bylaw, and speaking on it subsequently said that he considered it the best lighting contract the town ever entered into, as the latter's interests were better safeguarded than in any previous contract.

After the bylaw had received its second reading last night Mr. R. R. Hall, representing the Otonabee Power Company, addressed the Council, and created a sensation by making an offer to accept on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company the contract, word for word, proposed to be entered into between the Town and the Peterborough Light and Power Company, at a price of $35.00 per lamp per year; or $1,400 per year less than the net price of light by the contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

Mr. Hall in making the offer stated that last night was the first time he had learned the terms of the contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and that his Company was willing to accept the same contract.

Following Mr. Hall's offer, the majority of the Aldermen expressed their views on the matter, and gave their reasons for supporting the bylaw. The majority of them stated that had the offer of the Otonabee Power Company been received earlier, in its present form, the matter might have taken a different turn, but that in view of the fact that a street railway service was being secured as a condition of the acceptance of the street lighting contract they felt they they would be acting in the interest of the town to grant the contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company even at a somewhat higher price than that of the Otonabee Power Company, the Mayor asserting that even then the town was getting as cheap street lighting as any town in Ontario.

* * * * * * * * * *

The council met in regular session last night, with Mayor Roger in the chair, and the following Aldermen present: Messrs Edgcumbe, Morrison, Rush, Clinkscale, McWilliams Batten, Corkery, O'Connell.

The Town Clerk was absent for the first time in ten years, and his duties were fulfilled, by Mr. Felix Brownscombe, on motion of Ald. Edgcumbe and Rush The minutes of the last meeting were adopted as read.

COMMUNICATIONS

Communications were read from G. R. McGregor and other bakers, asking the council to change the bylaw now in force regarding the weight of bread, from two and four pound loaves to one and a half and three pounds per loaf, one reason for this change being that a misunderstanding exists in the public mind as to the weight of local bread, and that being shipped in. The bakers are allowed to make one and a half and three pound loaves, but must ticket them, thus entailing extra expense.—Legal Committee.

From the Otonabee Power Company asking for permission to erect poles on different streets of the town.—Board of Works, with instructions to the engineer to report on the request.

From R. C. Braund, asking for a sidewalk on Lafayette street from Albert to Chamberlain streets, to accommodate the occupants of five houses which he proposes to build.—Board of Works.

From His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, asking for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on streets in the vicinity of the Cathedral.—Board of Works.

From John Ryan and others protesting against the action of the council respecting the delay in the building of a granolithic walk along the west side of Reid street between King and Sherbrooke streets.—Board of Works.

From the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, asking that some action be taken to improve the sidewalks in front of their works; also that they have easy access to the hydrants in the vicinity, and a sufficient length of hose to be prepared in case of emergency.—Board of Works and Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From Messrs. Denniston, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson, plaintiffs' solicitors, in re Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company, Limited, vs Albert Firney, Margaret Finney, Fanny Matschke, Jas. Johnston, John Johnston, J. S. Graham, D. W. Dumble, F. E. E. Pearse and Sarah A Pearse and Charlotte A. Sherwood, executors; John McGrath, Hannah Moore, W. A. Stratton, Angelique Gagnon, Jos O'Connell John Thomas O'Connell, Elizabeth O'Connell, Richard Hall and Chas. McGill, trustees; Rebecca Croly, the Municipal Corporation of Town of Peterborough, and the Municipal Corporation of the Village of Ashburnham, defendants giving notice that Judge Weller had appointed October 20th at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, in his Chambers, for the purpose of considering the petition of the Hydraulic Company, and hearing objections thereto. The Hydraulic Company are petitioning for the right to raise the water of the Otonabee at what was known as the Dickson dam, in order to use and improve the water privileges by raising the head of water in the existing pond and extending the area of the said pond, for mechanical, manufacturing and milling purposes. This dam is on the property of the petitioners and the channel of the river will thereby be deepened six feet, and will slightly increase same where the banks are perpendicular upon certain lots and parts of lots, but in no case overflowing the banks. The prayer of the petitioners is that such proceedings may be had and taken under chapter 141 of the revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, as may seem just for the purpose of enabling them to improve their water priviliges, and that an order may be made fixing the height to which the proposed dam may be built, the time within which same shall be built, the lands to be taken and used, and the compensation to be fixed therefor. That an order may be made fixing the area of the mill-pond to be created and such further and other relief as may seem just and equitable in the premises.—Legal Committee.

From the secretary of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, enclosing certified copy of the order approving of the C.P.R's construction of additional tracks over Townsend, Bethune, Rink, Stewart, Perry, Park, Chamberlain, Romaine streets and Boundury Road. — Received.

From George Milne and other ratepayers petitioning for a pipe sewer on Sherbrooke street from Aylmer street east a distance of eighty feet.—Board of Works with instructions to the engineer to report to it.

From Geo. Duncan, protesting against the use of Water street by the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company as a place for storing machinery and foundry flasks.—Board of Works.

From W. J. Pope, claiming as a resident of the town a refund of $20 on a peddlar's license fee of $30 which he had paid.—License Committee.

From Geo. C. Robb, Inspecting Engineer, stating that he had tested the fire engine and that all things seemed to be in proper condition, and ready for use when required.—Received.

From Mr. R. R. Hall, on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company, stating that the lamp which the Otonabee Power Company proposes to install on the streets should it be awarded the street lighting contract is one of 2,000 candle power, while the lamps seen on the streets of Toronto Junction are only of 1,200 candle power. The lamp which the above company proposes to install are those manufactured by the C. G. E. Company, and are the best made by that Company.—Received.

From W. H. Roberts, saying that the writer had learned that the Council proposed to dispose of part of lott 11, north of Murray street, now owned by the town, and asking what amount the council will accept for it.—Property Committee and Board of Works.

From Emma H. Campbell, calling the attention of the Council to the state of Edinburgh street east of the railway, which, particularly in the spring, is the source of considerable annoyance and inconvenience to the residents of that part. The surface water runs into the premises of the writer, and she asks that some remedy be provided.—Board of Works.

From Mr. McPherson and others residing on Pattorson street, asking for the construction of a drain on that street.—Board of Works.

From W. H. Meldrum as follows:

To the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough:

Take notice that on behalf of myself and all other ratepayers of the town of Peterborough, I intend to apply to the High Court of Justice for an order to quash two certain by-laws, one of which affects the granting of a franchise to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company and the other of which affects the franchise to light the streets of the Town of Peterborough or for such further and other relief as I am entitled to upon the following, amongst other grounds, namely:—

1. That the said by-laws, prior to the final passing of the same should be submitted to the vote of the ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough.

2. That no petition has ever been presented to the Council of the Town of Peterborough pursuant to section 699 of the "Consolidated Municipal Act," 1903, asking for any bonus to the Peteborough Radial Railway Company to assist in the construction or operation of the Street Railway in question.

3. That no by-law authorizing the corporation of the Town of Peterborough to grant any bonus whatever to the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. has ever been submitted to the properly qualified ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough as required by said section 699

4. That under section 25 of "The Street Railway Act" the corporation of the Town of Peterborough has only power to exempt the property of the Company from taxation for a period not exceeding ten years, whereas, according to the by-law affecting the street railway, the council of the said town pretends to exempt the property, real and personal and the income derived therefrom, for a period of twenty-one years after the first day of June, A. D. 1904, and the corporation further undertake to extend this exemption for nine years.

5. That the corporation of the Town of Peterborough has no power or authority to agree that the said Corporation of the Town of Peterborough shall be at the expense of removing snow from the streets of the town upon which the said street railway operates.

6. That the said corporation has no power to grant the exclusive franchise of all the streets of the town, except Crescent street.

7. That the said corporation has no authority to enter into an agreement to pay the Peterborough Light and Power Company $50 per lamp for 120 lamps per annum for street lighting purposes in the face of a bona fide offer on the part of the Otonabee Power Company to supply an equal quantity of light for the same period at $35 per lamp.

8. That it is contrary to law for said corporation to pass the said street railway by-law on the express condition and agreement with the said Radial Railway Company that the said Peterborough Light and Power Company are to secure the street lighting franchise at a price that would net the said Peterborough Light and Power Company $14,000 more than the Otonabee Power Company, Limited, are willing to supply the same light for.

9 That the said Street Railway Company are only required to make a deposit of $5,000 with the Town that they will perform their agreement and it is still open to the Radial Railway Company to forfeit $5,000 to the Town and refuse to construct the railway, and thereby give the Peterborough Light and Power Company $9,000 more for lighting the streets of the Town of Peterborough than the Otonabee Power Company are willing to suply the same light for.

SCORE ONE FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

(Galt Reformer.)

The Ontario Government deserves the thanks of the whole Dominion in that it has been able to find a plan to secure the immediate payment of the wages of the Clergue employees at the Sault. This has been accomplished, too, in a manner which adequately protects the Province, as the amounts disbursed will be made a first claim on all concessions to the Company.

On the guarantee of the Province the banks will advance approximately $300,000. This, as we have said, will be applied to the liquidation of the back wages of the employees, and is amply secured.

The Government has certainly taken hold of this matter vigorously and effectively, and should be commended for its friendly interest in the workers who were liable to suffer the loss of their hard-earned wages.

As soon as the Government discovered that the failure was going to involve the men, prompt action was taken to secure the payment of their wages, and, although the opposition of the mortgage holders made it difficult, and arrangement was consummated.

The Government acted entirely on its own initiative, and not on the suggestion of Mr. Whitney, as the Mail and Empire is now trying to make it appear. Mr. Whitney had nothing whatever to do with the happy outcome of the difficulty. The sole credit belongs to Hon. Mr. Ross and his Cabinet.

A NEW SCHEME.

A new scheme has been launched within the past few weeks in Toronto, with the object of enabling working people to buy their houses upon easy terms. The principal of this new organization was illustrated in the Star in this way: Three men each wish to buy three dollar umbrellas. Each can raise only one dollar a month. If, therefore, they wait until separately they are able to make their purchases it will be three months before any one of them is protected from the weather. However, by putting their money together, one man can in a month's time be supplied with an umbrella, the second can have his in two months, and at the end of the third month the third umbrella will be bought. The last man will have his as soon as he would have had it, anyway, the second man will have his two months earlier, and the third three months earlier. This principle is applied to house-buying. Three or four ingenious men have formed a partnership to carry out the idea. They go out and ask people to enter into a contract with them upon the following lines: Each member contracts to pay to the firm $2.50 a month for twenty-four months. Two dollars of each month's payment goes into a house-buying fund. The firm, of managers or originators undertake to pay ten dollars a month into a contingent fund while forty cents a month is what they get for running the business. As soon as the sum of fifty dollars is accumulated in the house-buying fund from all the different members who are paying into it, a thousand dollar house is purchased by the firm, and monthly payments, not exceeding $50, are paid on it until it is all paid for. The title to the house is for the present vested in the men who are running the scheme. According to the order in which members have come into the scheme, and as rapidly as there are funds in hand for the managers to make the necessary $50 payments, they are given possession of their houses. When, however, possession has been taken, the amount of the monthly payments is increased from $2.50 to $5.50. We will suppose Jones is the first man to sign a contract to go into the scheme. He gets the first house, the first house being bought as soon as there is enough of Jones' money and other people's money to pay $50 a month on it. Jones' liability is now $5.50 a month, besides taxes, water rates, insurance and repairs. He goes on paying this $5.50 until his payments have amounted to $250. He then gets his deed, the manager taking a mortgage for the balance. Jones is now fairly launched as a house-owner, owing $750, which he will pay off at $5.50 a month, without interest. To do this will take him sixteen years. But even so, the argument is that he is at most only paying a low rent, and yet he is eventually the owner

LAND OF MILK AND HONEY.

Fertile Territory Through Which the Grand Trunk Pacific Will Travel.

Mr. Andrew McCormack, Ottawa's veteran lumberman, has just returned from an extended tour through the territory between Lake Abittibi and Lake Nepigon above the height of land.

He toured for over 800 miles the route through which the proposed Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will travel, and to-day Mr. McCormack says that there is no better wheat-growing land in Canada.

"It abounds with the best of spruce," said Mr. McCormack, and the growing qualities of the soil are demonstrated by the abundance of grass which is seen along the lake shores or any place where there is a clearance.

"How does the country seem to run, Mr. McCormack? Is it rough or level? Will it be easy ground over which to construct a railway?" was asked.

"Well," replied Mr. McCormack, "I consider that it should be very easy to run a line of railway over. It is perfectly level and excellent land. I should think that there is no better in Canada for growing wheat and peas. The soil is rich and is covered at the present time with an excellent growth of spruce and pine. This is another feature which should make the construction of a railway easy. Spruce is easy to clear, and besides there is any amount of other timber which would be suitable for the construction of a railway."

Mr. McCormack says that he prospected excellent pine lands in the district as well.

Mr. McCormack, though over 70 years of age, stood the trip well, and although suffering from a cold, seems to be in excellent health.

THEY FIXED GRAIN STANDARDS.

Weight of Oats, Rye and Barley Determined Upon For the Year.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—The Grain Examiners, representing the whole of the Dominion east of Port Arthur, met in the Board of Trade yesterday. Among those present were: President W. D. Mathews, Thos. Flynn, J. L. Spink, Jno. Carrick, O. B. Watts, E. Adamson, J. Hurley, Toronto; Wm. Brodie, Quebec; Jno. I. A. Hunt, London; Jas. Dunlop, Hamilton; Chief Grain Inspector E. F. Craig, Montreal. The business consisted in the fixing of standards for the different varieties of grain. The quality of grain sent into the market this year was somewhat above the average of last season, and as a consequence some of the standards were fixed a trifle higher than before. Particularly in white wheat, oats and barley, was an improvement manifest.

In the matter of weights, the following were decided upon in regard to oats: No. 1, white, 34 lbs.; No. 2, white, 32 lbs.; No. 3, white, not less than 30 lbs. It was the opinion of the assembly that the same system of weights should apply to black, and it was decided to recommend same to the Department of Agriculture.

Weight standards for rye and barley were also determined upon as follows: Rye, No. 1, 57 lbs. barley, No. 1, 49 lbs.; No. 2, 48 lbs.; No. 3, extra, 47 lbs.

The task of fixing like standards for corn will be relegated, as in former years, to the Montreal Board. Buckwheat will receive attention later on at the hands of the Toronto delegates. All other forms of grain have a fixed and stationary weight measure, and are not subject to change.

Cabinet of Quebec.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Hon. Sydney Fisher has received a private telegram from Quebec, stating J. C. McCorkill of Cowansville has been appointed Provincial Treasurer, in succession to the late Hon. Mr. Duffy, and that A. W. Weir of Argenteuil had been called to the Cabinet without portfolio.

CABINET VACANCIES

Some Cabinet Places Filled by Premier Balfour.

DEVONSHIRE HAS RESIGNED.

Hon. Alfred Lyttleton Is New Colonial Secretary and Austen Chamberlain Is Chancellor of the Exchequer—Duke of Devonshire Charged With Breach of Faith by the Premier.

London, Oct. 6.—The new Cabinet is composed as follows:

Mr. Broderick, formerly Secretary for War, succeeds Lord George Hamilton as Secretary for India.

Austen Chamberlain, Postmaster-General, succeeds Mr. Ritchie as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Alfred Lyttleton, Recorder of Oxford, succeeds Joseph Chamberlain as Secretary for the Colonies.

H. O. Arnold-Forster, Secretary to the Admiralty, succeeds Mr. Brodrick as Secretary for War.

Graham Murray, Lord Advocate of Scotland, succeeds Lord Balfour of Burleigh, as Secretary for Scotland.

Lord Stanley, Financial Secretary of the War Office, succeeds Austen Chamberlain as Postmaster-General.

The Duke of Devonshire, who was leader of the Conservative party in the House of Lords, has resigned the office of Lord President of the Council, and the King has accepted his resignation.

The Duke of Devonshire wrote to Mr. Balfour giving his reasons for his resignation, which he attributed among other things to the Premier's speech at Sheffield, and his pamphlet on insular free trade.

The Duke of Devonshire has not yet made his letter public, but a letter of acknowledgement from Mr. Balfour, dated Oct. 3, was published last night. In it Mr. Balfour charges the Duke with breach of faith.

The three weeks' Cabinet crisis has ended in a manner more remarkable and dramatic than that of its inception. The most sanguine supporters of the Government last night express the smallest hopes of such an Administration living many months, and the prevalent idea is that there will be a general election before Parliament re-assembles. The withdrawal of the Duke of Devonshire is a heavy blow. Mr. Balfour's extraordinary letter, reproaching the Duke of Devonshire with breach of faith, is the theme of universal surprise and comment in all quarters.

One consequence of the Duke of Devonshire's retirement is extremely unfortunate for the Government. It will bring the leadership of the House of Lords to Lord Lansdowne. No successor has yet been appointed to the Duke of Devonshire and several minor Government offices still remain vacant. Of the new appointments announced last night, the most surprising is that of the Hon. Alfred Lyttleton as Secretary for the Colonies. Mr. Lyttleton is a man of acknowledged ability and a good speaker, but he has had no Ministerial experience whatever. He is better known to the colonies as a cricketer than as a politician.

(C. A. P.)—The Standard says: "The appointment of Alfred Lyttleton to the great Imperial Secretaryship will be received with blank amazement. To pass from Chamberlain to Lyttleton seems like a stroke of fantastic irony. Why this rising barrister of no Administrative experience, and no commanding position either in the Parliament or in the law courts should be suddenly selected for one of the greatest offices in the Empire we have not the faintest idea."

The Morning Post says: "Alfred Lyttleton is in full sympathy with the colonial policy of Chamberlain, who is too broad-minded to be a mere partisan, too sensible to hesitate to act vigorously with the party, so long as it is in accord with his main purpose." The Morning Post believes the country will adopt Chamberlain's policy, which the repeal of the corn duty and the German attempt to intimidate Canada forced him to undertake.

The News says: "We condole with Lord Lyttleton. He is too genial and useful a man to deserve being made ridiculous, but he who dons grand robes may not complain if he excites laughter."

STRUCK THE ROOT OF HIS TROUBLE.

James Atwell Cured his Kidneys by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Campbellford, Ont., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—That Urinary Troubles and Lumbago are the result of disordered Kidneys has been proved by James Atwell of this place. He had Lumbago and pains in the bladder, and in passing his urine would hurt him so as to almost cause tears to come to his eyes.

Speaking of his case, Mr. Atwell says:

"I think Dodd's Kidney Pills made a permanent cure in my case, but I will never be without them in the house. I had Lumbago and Bladder Trouble for years. I tried other medicines and a bandage prescribed by the doctor, but I could get no relief till I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

RUSHING SUPPLIES.

House Passes One Hundred and Thirty Items Involving About a Million and a Quarter of Dollars.

Ottawa, Ont. 6.—Indications that both sides have made up their minds for an early prorogation were emphasized by the expedition with which supply was voted yesterday. With very brief explanations by the Minister of Public Works one hundred and thirty items, involving close upon a million and a quarter of dollars, were voted for public works and buildings distributed over every Province of the Dominion from Prince Edward Island to the Yukon.

Questions by Members.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—In reply to W. B. Northrup in the House yesterday morning, Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the right to mine coal on the Government reserve at Banff had been granted by lease, dated July 13, 1903, to W. H. Merritt of Toronto, for a period of twenty years, in accordance with the regulations and terms embodied in the lease at an annual rental of 30 cents per acre, payable half yearly in advance, and a royalty of ten cents per ton on all coal taken out of the mine. No limit is mentioned in the lease as to the price to be charged for the coal mined.

Replying to George Grant, Hon. Mr. Fielding stated that it would be premature, pending the adoption of legislation, to state what the intentions of the Government were with reference to the method of construction of the eastern division of the transcontinental railway. Mr. Grant had asked whether the Government would favor the letting of construction contracts for sections of fifty miles each and avoid as far as possible the usual sub-letting.

Hon. James Sutherland, replying to E. F. Clarke, stated that the Transportation Commission has not met pending the appropriation by Parliament of the necessary funds. The commissioners would be expected to meet to take evidence from all parties desiring to appear before them respecting the transportation question, and their meetings would be open to the public.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in response to a question of T. O. Davis, informed the House that no petitions have been received in favor of R. L. Borden's alternative railway policy.

CONCERNING THE FOOD DUTY.

Answers to Questions of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce.

London, Oct. 6.—(C.A.P.)—The Glasgow Chamber of Commerce, regarding the fiscal enquiry, has issued certain schedules showing that out of 1,036 members, nine per cent replied, and the majority of these said that an import duty on corn and foodstuffs would not seriously affect their trade. They also said that Canada's present preference was insufficient.

Albert Swindlehurst in The Empire Review says: "Thirty thousand American farmers have handed together not to sell wheat under one dollar a bushel, and Canadian farmers have been asked to join the combine. With present tariff advantages, there is no inducement to Canadian farmers to join the proposed agreement. Without their co-operation the attempt to raise the price of wheat must fail."

The Westminster Gazette wonders at the retention of the title "Our Lady of the Snows" in Kipling's new book, despite the Canadian protest.

Sir C. H. Tupper has a clever article in The Empire Review, avowing hearty sympathy with Chamberlain's proposals.

His Life Saved.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 6.—John Phillips, a saloonkeeper, tried to throw himself over the falls Sunday night, but was saved in time.

He Learned a Great Truth.

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley: "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for the same reason that you are told again and again that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cures colds and grip; that it counteracts any tendency of these diseases to result in pneumonia, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Colds are quickly cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs and opens the secretions, effecting a permanent cure. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, both adults and children like it. Price 25c.; large size 50c.

Rioters Got Off With Comparatively Mild Punishment.

CASE AGAINST DEANS FAILS.

No Satisfactory or Conclusive Evidence That He Fired at Fireman Pringle—The Two Wounded Men Were Let Go on Suspended Sentence—What the Crown Attorney and the Magistrate Said.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 6.—It took less than three hours yesterday to dispose of twenty-one charges against eleven men taken into custody in connection with the affair of Monday last, and of the eleven it is not likely any will remain in jail, for the penalties imposed by Magistrate Quibell, making payment of a fine, that is not more than $35 for any, optional, will be met by the men, who are able to put up the money since they can now receive their wages from the Consolidated Company.

The cases were heard at the court house in the presence of a large crowd. Upon the consent of the Crown Attorney and the court most of the charges were modified, and every man with the exception of Andrew Deans, charged with shooting at Fireman Richard Pringle, entered a plea of guilty, being advised to do so by counsel. Barrister J. L. O'Flynn.

Leonard Lavergne, St. Baptiste Rosen, Albert Dobinson, Frank Lalonde, Edouard Gaisson, Fred Wener, Andrew Deans and Moise Dupont were fined $25 or two months in jail for simple rioting, and the six first named $10 or thirty days at hard labor. The case against Deans for shooting was dismissed for want of proof, and Dupont will come up again on Thursday to answer the charge of assault on Chas. Littlewood.

A. Grenier and A. Dault, the two men who carry bullet wounds, were let go on suspended sentence, the magistrate considering the suffering they had already undergone sufficient punishment.

In his address Mr. Kehoe referred to the injustice under which the men had been smarting. It had incited them to the deeds of violence that occurred. Mr. O'Flynn pointed out that the men had not been unlawfully assembled on the day of the riot, but had been called there by the company to receive the wages due them for a considerable time. He attached much blame for the disturbance of the peace to the company, who knew for several days before that it would be unable to pay, and and did not notify the men as could have been done. "Had they done as they should," he said, "there would have been no trouble or disturbance whatever."

Magistrate Quibell also expressed himself as somewhat of the opinion that the trouble might have been avoided by proper action on the part of the company, but also pointed out that there was no necessity for the men going to the length they did. They had the law of the land behind them and the good will of the people, and were in no danger of not getting their money, although at the time, they knew not when.

Payment of the men continued steadily all day at the general office, and as fast as the men get their money they are accepting the employment offered them and getting out of town.

SWEPT OVER THE FALLS.

Workman Falls Off Crib Work and Is Swept to Death.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 6.—The first man to lose his life in the Rapids, above the Falls, where capital is preparing to sink the deep wheel pits to turn the mammoth turbines of the Niagara Electrical Development Company, occurred yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Edward Dell of this town, employed by Barry and McMordie, was out at the extreme end of the crib work. In order to get out of the way of the crane of a derrick, that was being swung he stepped backwards, losing his balance, fell headlong into the deep, seething water and was swept over the Falls. Dell was about 25 years of age, leaves a widow and one child being married about three years ago.

EXPLOSION IN POSTOFFICE.

Man Killed and Two Men and Boy Seriously Injured.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 6.—A terrible accident occurred at Springhill yesterday, about 3 o'clock, by which Sam McDowell was instantly killed and two other men and a boy were seriously injured. The heating apparatus of the new postoffice was not working properly and Frederick Eaton was employed to make repairs. Mr. McDowell, the janitor, accompanied by Mr. Eaton and his assistants, entered the basement where the furnace is located, and a few minutes later terrible explosion occurred with fatal results. The office, the fixtures, the windows, and the outside wall were demolished.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

Richard Henry Savage Badly Hurt.

New York, Oct. 5.—Col. Richard Henry Savage, author, soldier and lawyer, was run over on Sixth avenue yesterday, and now lies in Roosevelt Hospital seriously injured, sustaining fractures of five ribs, besides several severe contusions of the head.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing If It Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

NO CLEAR MAJORITY.

Position of the Parties in British Columbia—Premier McBride Said to Be Negotiating For Support.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 6.—With Comox, Similkameen and Fernie still in doubt, the Conservatives have nineteen, Liberals seventeen, Socialists two and Labor-Liberals one in a House of forty-two. Mr. McBride's supporters claim the doubtful districts will go Conservative, but at the same time the Premier announces that he hopes to control the House by securing Mr. Wells' (former Chief Commissioner) support, who secured his election by acclamation as an uncompromising Liberal, and Mr. Davidson (Slocan), elected as a Labor-Liberal, and who has left a signed and undated resignation in the hands of his committee for use if he forsakes his ante-election pledges. It is understood proposals for support were made to the Socialists unsuccessfully, and that the Speakership now has been offered Mr. Wells to induce him to forsake his party. Mr. Davidson, whom the Government hotly opposed with Mr. Hunter (Conservative), it was stated last evening, has no intention of acquiescing.

Clears the Air.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Senator Templeman, interviewed yesterday in regard to the election returns in British Columbia, said that, while not altogether satisfactory to either party, they would help to clear the political atmosphere and terminate the troubles from which the province has been suffering for some time past. One or two bye-elections, or, if needs be, a general election, would settle this, now that party lines have been drawn.

Note Your Weight.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove for a certainty that new firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body This is the severest test that can apply to any treatment and proves the superiority of this great restorative prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author.

Deplorable Shooting Accident.

Wauhaushene, Ont. 6.—A sad accident occurred here on Saturday, whereby Mr. James Raymond, an employe of the Georgian Bay Lumber Co., lost his life. A young man, Wm. McPeak, went into the lumber yard with a loaded shotgun. He laid it down for a moment, and one of the men in the yard, Peter Chalmers, picked it up and accidentally discharged it. The charge struck Raymond in the groin, killing him almost instaptly. He lived scarcely half a minute. Deceased leaves a widow and four young children.

Boom to Fort Francis.

Fort Francis, Oct. 6.—Large numbers of men are now going into the woods to prepare for the winter's cut of logs, which will exceed anything ever attempted before. It is estimated that over a million ties, one hundred million feet of logs, one hundred thousand posts, two hundred thousand piles, and fifty thousand telegraph poles will be cut and ready for shipment when spring comes. This will mean to this district about one million dollars for a winter's work in the woods.

Another Boiler Explosion.

Beverly, N. J., Oct. 6.—The boiler in the hosiery mill of Turner Birkhead exploded yesterday instantly killing John Stuckey, the watchman.

KENNEDY HAS NERVE

Inquest at Brantford Brings Out No Additional Points.

WHY THE PRISONER LAUGHED

Man Suspected of the Outrage and Murder of Little Irene Cole Was in Facetious Humor at the Inquest on Monday Night — Tracing Whereabouts of the Prisoner on the Day of the Crime.

Brantford, Oct. 6.—For the third time the inquest on the death of Irene Cole was adjourned, the Crown being unable to present all its witnesses. The prisoner was present last night, and presented a very improved condition, and on one occasion questioned one of the witnesses. The evidence:

Geo. Teakle, 50 Brook street, the first witness, was not at work Wednesday. He had worked with Kennedy at the Waterous Engine Works, and saw him on Wednesday on Newport street going towards Erie avenue about 12.05. He spoke to Kennedy, who remarked he was not working. That was the last he saw of him.

John Cameron, 97 Eagle avenue, met Kennedy on Wednesday on Erie avenue. H was on Market street and turned into "The Willows." It was about 12.10 a.m.

Mrs. Paul Potter remembered her children playing on the day of the murder and seeing Kennedy, who went up the dyke towards Mrs. Cole's residence. Kennedy was looking at her children when she saw him. She then called her children to go to school, and that was the last she saw of Kennedy.

Hamilton Berry, 231 Chestnut avenue, said on Wednesday afternoon he was piling lumber in "The Willows." He took particular notice of Kennedy, for he reminded him of a friend of his in England. Kennedy came down the road toward the gravel pit between 2 and 3 o'clock. He seemed to be pretty steady on his feet.

Robert Waunch, 93 Walnut street, saw Kennedy between 3 and 4 o'clock, when he was coming out with a load of gravel. Kennedy was sort of stooped, as though cutting something, when he saw him. He remarked it was a fine day, and Kennedy said "Yes." He thought Kennedy was about 200 yards from where the body was found. He passed Burtch, another teamster, near the Waterous Engine Works.

William Stewart, 50 Duke street, was on Market street and saw Kennedy about 3:40 coming across the C[illegible] bridge. He noticed the prisoner, who had a rather red face, and swore his trousers were wet. The prisoner walked full speed. He had never seen him before. He, Mr. Stewart, was short-sighted, but could see plainly enough to recognize the prisoner.

The prisoner laughed outright at some features of the witness' story, and at length took advantage of the privilege accorded at the opening of the inquest of questioning witnesses. "Let us understand this thing," he said, and then he suggested that the witness repeat the description of the relative positions of the two on the fatal day in "The Willows."

"He daren't deny it," Stewart said, and Kennedy's features broadened into a smile.

At another time Kennedy humorously suggested that he must have been praying when a witness said he saw him on his knees.

John Hartman, Dalhousie street, proprietor of the Butler House, said he knew Kennedy and saw him at 4.15 in the Butler House, where he bought two glasses of beer. He came to the hotel occasionally and took beer.

O. C. Gladiator, 27 Dalhousie street, knew Kennedy and saw him at 5.15 Wednesday going toward the Butler House. He knew Kennedy when he worked at Hunt & Colter's. He never saw him since.

The Crown Attorney then asked for an adjournment till Wednesday evening. Interest in the tragedy has not abated, thousands having visited the scenes Sunday, many carrying away willow and sticks as memento

A Monster Tuber.

The Examiner was shown a potato grown by Mr. J. Kemp, of Otonabee, which weighed 2 lbs. and 9 1-2 ounces. It was of the Rural New Yorker variety, and was planted on May 25th. It measures 10 1-2 inches in circumference, and is 9 1-2 inches long. It is apparently solid and of good quality. INTERESTING LEAGUE MEETING

Dr. Birnie Gave Address at George Street Epworth League.

The Literary Department of George street Epworth League have during the past year provided a number of interesting meetings in the way of instructive lectures. Another of this series of meetings took place last evening, when Dr. Jessie Birnie was heard in an address on the subject, "Body, Mind and Mental Healing." The chair was occupied by the president, Mr. Robertson, and the room was filled with a large audience who gave close attention to the speaker of the evening. Dr. Birnie is a pleasing speaker and proved her ability to make an abstract and difficult subject both instructive and entertaining. Beginning with the relation of mind and body Dr. Birnie dealt with the nervous system, and its centre, the brain, the different nerve centres located in the brain and the relation of the conscious mind and the unconscious mind or soul, giving a number of illustrations of the power of this unconscious mind as brought before the attention of the medical profession. In this connection the speaker touched on the subject of mesmerism, hypnotism, Christian Science and faith healing and the new method called by the medical profession healing by suggestion, citing a number of incidents and examples where this cure had been effected. At the close of the lecture on motion of Mr. A. O. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Galley, the thanks of the society were tendered Dr. Birnie for her very excellent address. During the evening a couple of delightful musicial numbers were contributed Miss Bolleghem by request sang the solo "The Better Land," and her superb voice was heard to good advantage in her artistic rendering of this ever beautiful song. Miss Ruby Jolliffe contributed a very pleasing violin solo and to the delight of the audience kindly responded with an encore. Miss Edith Jolliffe acted as accompanist.

HE BROKE HIS LEG.

Fell From a Wheel Under a Carriage.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Harry Roe, who is employed as a bell boy at the Oriental Hotel, while riding a bicycle, was run over by a carriage, resulting in his leg being broken. The boy was riding a wheel, and was turning up Simcoe street from George street. When opposite Ormond & Walsh's drug store the wheel slipped and he fell under the horse's feet, the two wheels of the carriage passing over him. He was carried into the drug store, and was later attended by Dr. King. Beyond the fracture the boy was uninjured. He is progressing very favourably.

EVIDENCE OF A DROWNING ACCIDENT.

A Canoe Found Drifting in Sturgeon Lake.

On Sunday, Mr. Cottingham, of Lindsay, was cruising in his steam yacht Mizpah, when he noticed a light green canoe afloat among a tangle of bushes on the west shore of Sturgeon Lake, about opposite Blythe. Though making enquiries about the lake no clue as to its ownership could be established. The canoe is an ordinary ribbed 16 foot, is painted a light green and had small transfers of crossed flags at the bow. When found it was full of water but right side up and had nothing whatever in it, paddles and even the floor boards gone, a small mast such as would be used with a "leg of mutton" sail was still standing in the bow. Not obtaining any information as to ownership the Mizpah towed the canoe on to Lindsay. This may be the first indication of a tragedy or drowning or it may simply be that this canoe got adrift from its owner but the fact of the mast still in its socket would rather point to some accident for it is seldom that a canoe is put away in a boathouse or even left on a shore with the mast in slip.—Lindsay Post.

THE 57TH BAND AT BOWMANVILLE FAIR.

Left This Morning and Will Give Concert To-night.

The 57th Regimental Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Gliddon, and accompanied by Mr. H. Morphett, tenor soloist, left by the G.T.R. this morning for Bowmanville, where they will give a concert to-night, in which the band will be assisted by Mr. Morphett, Mr. Jos. Halpany, humourist, and Mr. E. Cronk, euphonium soloist. The band will also play at the West Durham and Darlington Fair to-morrow, which the secretary states gives promise of being the greatest success in its history. The management is showing its wisdom in securing the services of such a high class musical organization as the 57th Band has proved itself to be, and it is hoped that under the inspiration of the music rendered by this band, than which there is no better in Canada, the town will, momentarily at least, forget its backwoods condition in the matter of high-class music.

The band has also been secured to give a concert at Norwood on the night of the Fair there, Oct. 14th.

by a special act for some other purpose.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Batten presented the following report, which was adopted, on motion:

Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That a copy of the petition asking that part of the Township of Smith be annexed to the town be sent to the council of that township with a request to be informed if that council will consent to the annexation being made, and if it does consent that the Town Council take steps before July 15th of next year to have the limits of the Town extended, as it is too late to have it done this year.

2. We recommend that the Mayor and Aldermen Finnie, Rush and Batten be a committee to consider the subject of a hospital or hospitals for the treatment of contagious diseases.

3. We recommend that the treasurer be authorized to pay for gravel being delivered on the certificate of the Chairman of the Board of Works and the Street Commissioner.

Ald. Best presented the following report of the Board of Works, which was on motion, adopted:

1. We recommend that the Street Commissioner be authorized to lay a crossing at Mr. John Hart's new house on Bethune street.

2. We recommend that the Smith street bridge be re-planked at once and that notices of the closing of the bridge in the meantime be placed at each end of the bridge and at the nearest corners.

3. We recommend that Mrs. A. M. Austin be given permission to cut down a poplar tree in front of her premises, No. 100 Weller street, the stump to be taken out and the street properly cleaned off, the work to be done under the supervision of the Town Engineer.

4. We recommend that the Engineer be instructed to put in a catch basin at the north-west corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets.

5. We recommend that the application of the Otonabee Power Co. to put in poles on the following parts of streets be granted, namely: Murray street, between Rubidge and Gilchrist streets, 5 poles; Park street, between Gilchrist and Elm streets, 4 poles; Downie street, between Murray and Brock streets, 4 poles; and Brock street, between Downie and Donegal streets, 1 pole, the poles to be placed subject to the approval of the Town Engineer.

6. We recommend that the Street Commissioner be instructed to put McDonel street in order and repair Reid Jstreet between the Hamilton Co's shops and McDonel street.

7. That, having examined the petitions for granolithic sidewalks as local improvements on the west side of George street from Smith street to Argyle street and on the east side of George street from opposite No. 778 George street to the northerly limit of Lot No. 21, plan 43 and found them sufficiently signed, we recommend that they be granted.

Ald. O'Connell gave notice of motion to introduce a bylaw to amend bylaw No. 612, and suggested that the motion be referred to the Committee of the Whole, and that the Committee be requested to meet as soon as possible so that the matter may be dealt with. This was acceded to.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Rush moved the first reading of a bylaw to make a grant of $200 to the West Peterborough Agricultural Society, which, after having received its several readings was passed.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw to amend bylaw No. 1040 passed Sept. 14th, by which a sewer was ordered to be constructed on Bethune street. This sewer was objected to by residents and a separate sewer asked for. The bylaw, upon receiving its several readings, passed.

THE LIGHTING CONTRACT BY-LAW

Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the execution of a contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company, for street lighting for the town for a period of ten years. The first reading was seconded by Ald. Rush, which was carried, and upon the second reading Mr. R. R. Hall addressed the Council on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company. Previous to Mr. Hall's remarks, Ald. Best asked the Chairman of the Finance Committee why the Committee proposed to grant the street lighting contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, at a higher price than that at which the Otonabee Power Company had offered to do the lighting for. Ald. Morrison replying said there were a number of reasons. The Committee had started out with the idea of establishing municipal lighting, but, upon securing expert advice the members had found that it would cost more to conduct a municipal lighting plant than either the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company or the Otonabee Power Company. The latter company had offered to do the lighting at a lower rate than the former, but it was a new company in the field, whereas the Peterborough Company had always done the street lighting and the service had on the whole been satisfactory. The Otonabee Power Company proposed to install a new style of lamp as to the efficiency of which there was a grave difference of opinion. The lamps now in use here had by some been declared to be obsolete, but they had found that a number of towns still used them and were apparently satisfied. The Otonabee Power Company proposed to install an alternating current lamp, which experts agree is not a satisfactory lamp for street fighting. The Mayor and himself had gone to Toronto Junction where a lamp similar to that which the Otonabee Power Company had tendered on, was in use and they had agreed that the light was not as satisfactory as that at present being supplied here, because it required a greater number of lamps to produce an equally brilliant light. Ottawa and London, it was learned were using enclosed direct current lamps and were getting a good service. He further stated that while the lamp which the Otonabee Power Company proposed to install was one of 7 1-2 amperes, the lights at present on the streets were of 9 1-2 amperes, therefor, the Committee believed that the town would be getting a better bargain to accept the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company in view of the fact that if the other company's offer were accepted at least one-third more lamps would be required which would make the price of light the same as that of the present company. For these reasons he asserted that the Council would be consulting the best interests of the town by accepting the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company in preference to that of the Otonabee Power Company.

MR. HALL HEARD.

Mr. Hall was then heard for the Otonabee Power Company, and said that by the agreement which he had then heard read for the first time, the style of lamp to be used was not specified, but might be any style approved of by the town engineer. The Otonabee Power Company was willing to supply any modern lamp the Council might designate, and he stated too, that his company would accept the identical contract before the council, at $1,400 a year less than the price of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. He felt that the Otonabee Power Company had not been treated fairly in this matter, as unjust comparisons had been made between the lamps which the Otonabee Power Company proposed to install and those in use at Toronto Junction. As a matter of fact his company would be prepared to put in any lamp, not necessarily those manufactured by the C. G. E. Company, but any modern lamp would be used that the Council asked for. When the company he represented made the offer to accept the same contract at $1,400 per year less he thought that the matter could not be put more plainly. There was a bylaw before the council to award the street lighting contract without reference to any other consideration, and he submitted that the members of the Council could not remain true to their oath of office and support the awarding of the contract to a company at a price $1,400 in excess of that of another tenderer.

ALDERMAN BEST SPEAKS

Ald. Best followed and said that the citizens of the town had been given to understand when the present water works plant was purchased, that there would be sufficient power to operate a street lighting plant in addition to that required for the water works, and as a matter of fact, there remained undeveloped at the dam 500 horse power, which was going to waste, and by raising the dam three feet, this amount could be increased to 1,000 horse power. The present debt on the town on account of the water works system is $247,000, and he contended that the town would never have sanctioned that expenditure had it not been believed that a municipal lighting plant would be established. He was of the opinion that the town could do its street lighting at a lower figure even than that asked by the Otonabee Power Company, and he was prepared to spend time to prove the truth of his assertion.

ALTERNATIVE OFFER IN WRITING

Mr. Meldrum, the Managing Director of the Otonabee Power Company, was also heard, and endorsed the offer made on behalf of the company, by Mr. Hall, and asserted that the Otonabee Power Company was just as well prepared to fulfill its contracts as the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and could give ample security. He repeated the offer of Mr. Hall, and presented it in writing as follows:—

To the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough:

We hereby offer to accept the street lighting franchise of the said town on the same terms and conditions as those which are set out in the by-law and agreement now submitted at the present session of this council of said town with this difference, namely: At $1,400 per year less. There has been a material alteration in the terms and conditions upon which we were asked to tender and which we have now heard for the first time.

Dated this 6th day of October, 1903.

W. H. MELDRUM,
Managing Director.
R. R. HALL,
Director.

Ald. McWilliams, who was in the chair, said that he had not had an opportunity of expressing his opinion on the street railway franchise, but he wished to say that he was in favour of granting that franchise, as he was also in favour of entering into this contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company for the street lighting, as he considered it the better offer of the two, when all sides of the question were considered.

Mr. Hall was again heard, and said that the Otonabee Power Company was at a disadvantage in being asked to tender because they were asked to frame a contract from one now in existence, and his company could not tender on the style of lamp now being used, because they did not propose to instal a lamp which the town's own expert had declared was but fit for the scrap heap. The Otonabee Power Company took the position that the council should not give the Peterborough Light and Power Company a bonus of $1400 a year, which they would be doing if they accepted their offer in preference to that of the Otonabee Power Company.

ALDERMAN MORRISON DEFENDS

Ald. Morrison, defending the acceptance of the contract, said that aside from the question of price, the contract was the best the town had ever secured. As an example, he said that with this contract the company must move the poles for municipal purposes, at its own expense, while in Toronto the city had to pay $5 for each pole it wished moved. Another clause provided that at the expiration of the contract the company must remove all its poles from the streets. The council took this means of putting the Peterborough Light and Power Company on the same footing as the Otonabee Power Company, and the Auburn Power Company, and he contended that the council would be breaking faith with the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and would bring discredit on the town by refusing to pass the bylaw authorizing the execution of the agreement.

MAYOR ROGER'S REMARKS

Mayor Roger followed, saying that Mr Meldrum, who had stated that he could prove that the town could do its own street lighing at $30 per lamp per year, had himself given a reason why the offer of the Otonabee Power Company could not be accepted. He said that because the offer of the Otonabee Power Company was somewhat lower than that of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, it did not necessarily follow that it should be accepted. He felt that the citizens were prepared to make some little sacrifice to secure the street railway, which was conditional upon the acceptance of this contract. The Peterborough Light and Power Company had for years furnished light to the town, and had been doing it fairly satisfactory, and he felt that it would be a mistake to change without good cause. Another argument in favour of awarding the contract as had been proposed, was the fact that the old company was in a position to furnish an alternative light in the shape of gas should the electric light fail. He added that there were other reasons why the offer of the present company should be accepted in preference to that of the Otonabee Power Company, which he did not care to state there. Municipal lighting was not a workable scheme at the present power house but would necessitate the erection of a new building and improvements to the dam which would cost probably $30,000. He contended that by this contract the town gets as cheap light as any town in Ontario, and a street railway in addition.

ALDERMAN O'CONNELL'S CONTRIBUTION.

Ald. O'Connell said that it would seem to be almost incumbent upon the supporters of the bylaw to give their reasons for so doing, in order not to be misunderstood. These matters had been before the Council for some time, and there were three alternative propositions. There were the offers from the two power companies and the municipal lighting project. After considerable trouble the council had got the two companies tendering on similar contracts as near as possible. The Chairman of the Committee and the Mayor had gone to different towns to inform themselves as to the best lamp, and the advice of experts had been sought, and the conclusion had been reached that the Peterborough Light and Power Company offered the better service and would be of the greatest benefit to the town. At the same time they felt that one of the advantages offered was the securing of a street car service. The expert had advised that it would be impossible for the town to do its own lighting at the same price as the offer of either company, and the council took the position that even while in 10 years they were paying $14,000 more for street lighting they were getting the better contract, and a street railway, which every citizen wanted.

ALDERMAN BEST'S AMENDMENT

Ald. Best in speaking of the advice of the expert said that he believed the latter had received his instructions from the Peterborough Light and Power Company and not from the Council, and further added that Ald. Morrison had ignored the other members of the Committee in dealing with the expert, to which Ald. Morrison replied that the expert received his instructions from the council through the chairman of the Committee, and resented the insinuation of Ald. Best, that the members of the Committee had been ignored, saying that there had not been time to call the Committee to meet the expert because of the limited time which the latter was able to spend here.

Ald. Best then moved in amendment that the bylaw be read six months hence, which was seconded by Ald. Clinkscale. The amendment, however, was lost on the same division that the original bylaw was passed. Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the exemption from taxation of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company for 21 years from January 1st, 1904, which after having received its several readings was passed.

Ald. Clinkscale moved that John Montgomery be paid $16.66, being the amount of two weeks' wages, while he was on a holiday, and also that hose expanders be purchased. This motion was carried.

The council then adjourned.

HE STOLE "TIME" AND GOT SIX MONTHS.

Cases Before County Police Magistrate Edmison This Morning.

It is the general belief that there is no such thing as lynch law prevalent in Canada. However Wm. Williams, a "hobo," was arrested for housebreaking by Chief of Police Lynch, of Hastings, and appeared before County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning, having been brought to town last night by High County Constable Cochrane. The accused was charged with stealing a clock from a house situated on the Norwood road, the property of Mr. James Buck. The prisoner was found guilty and given six months with hard labour in the central prison. In answer to the charge of stealing a clock he said he wanted "time." However, the magistrate probably gave him more "time" than he hoped for.

Howard Peters, charged with stealing a horse, the property of Jas. Dewart, of Dummer, on Sept. 22nd, elected to be tried by the Judge.

CANADA-ALASKA BOUNDARY

What the Dominion Contends for Before Tribunal Now in London to Pass Upon Clauses in the 1825 Treaty.

Does the territory of the United States in Southern Alaska form a solid margin of the coast, or is it broken into a number of pieces completely separated by ocean inlets cutting into Canada? To the first part of this question our neighbors answer most positively, "Yes," and to the second, "No." Contrariwise, and with equal emphasis, the Canadian people answer, "No" and "Yes." Beyond this exchange of contradictions it seems impossible to carry the dispute. Arguments have passed in diplomatic notes and in the speeches of negotiators who have met to reason together, but no evidence, facts, or points of law adduced by the most learned and persuasive pleader on the one side ever made the slightest impression on the previous convictions of the other. The Joint High Commission, which was to ameliorate the relations between Canada and the United States, wrought with this question, but to no purpose. It found the matter too refractory for solution by diplomatic processes, as the question divided the commission along the national line, the British members holding out for the Canadian claim and the American members for the Alaskan claim. After the question was dropped by the Joint High Commission the foreign departments of the British and United States Governments arranged a modus vivendi under which most of the territory in dispute should remain in the temporary possession of the United States.

Arbitration Rejected.

Differences of this kind are usually settled by an agreement to submit to the judgment of some third party, whose meditation is accepted. The Behring Sea controversy was not less stubborn than this one. In fact, it was far more serious, the tenacity being accompanied by acts of aggression on the one side. Yet the matter was amicably settled by arbitration. A dispute even more threatening on account of the unyielding and bellicose attitude of parties to it was that about the boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana. This, too, was peacably composed by arbitrators. Again and again the United States has been asked by Britain to join in a reference of the Canada-Alaska boundary dispute to a tribunal of arbitration. The Washington Government would not consent, except upon terms that practically conceded its claims in advance. At one time its condition was that the arbitrator should be the head of a Government on this continent; at another time it would reserve some of the most important parts of the territory; and finally it would not arbitrate at all. But it expressed willingness to have the matter passed upon by a joint tribunal, consisting of an even number of jurists, half of whom should be appointed by the British and Canadian Governments and half by the United States. This plan was agreed to in a treaty which was negotiated and ratified last winter. The treaty in question provided for the reference of the question to a court of six jurists of repute, three for each side. The business of this court is to interpret the second, fourth and fifth articles of the Anglo-Russian Treaty of 1825

The Tribunal.

This court is now in London. Its British and Canadian members are: Baron Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice of England; Sir Louis Jette, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec; Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., Toronto. Mr. Aylesworth takes the place made vacant by the death in London of Chief Justice Armour. On the United States side of the tribunal are: Mr. Elihu Root, Secretary of War in the Washington Government; Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, a United States Senator; and ex-Senator Geo. Turner, of the State of Washington. In charge of the Canadian case are: Hon. Clifford Sifton, the Minister of the Interior in the Ottawa Government, who is chief agent, Sir Edward Carson, Solicitor-General of England; Sir Robert Finlay, Attorney-General of England; Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., Toronto; Mr. F. C. Wade, K.C., Dawson, Yukon; Mr. L. P. Duff, Victoria, B.C.; Mr. Aime Geoffrion, Montreal; the United States agent is Mr. John W. Foster, who was Secretary of State in President Harrison's Administration. With him are associated Judge John M. Dickinson, Mr. Hannis Taylor, and others.

Canada's Claims.

What is the shore line from which the distance of ten marine leagues is to be preserved by the boundary? Canada contends that it is such a line as will leave on the land side all inlets or heads of inlets from any point at which their coasts come within not more than six miles of each other. That contention is based on a fair construction of the treaty of 1825, and upon the well-recognized principle of international law that waters within the three-mile limit are under the jurisdiction of the country bordering on that part of the sea. When a bay contracts to a width not exceeding six miles it becomes a part of the national territory. That is, it is within the bounds of the country. In other words, the sea boundary of the country falls outside of such inlets, and it is from such sea boundary line that the measurement of the ten marine leagues of Alaskan territory should be taken. The United States, however, holds the meaning of the treaty to be that the Canada-Alaska boundary line is to be parallel with the sinuous course of the natural shore

The controversy has always been a duel of disputants, and that is what it is too likely to be in the court that has been created to settle it. If Canada is right the United Stated jurists dare not admit it If Canada is wrong the British jurists would no doubt have the courage and independence to find in accordance with the evidence. But Canada is right.

Embarrassment of Riches.

In a preliminary debate over the question of a museum grant for Wales much of the discussion, says The London Chronicle, turned on the fact that Wales is without a capital.

This, however, did not daunt a certain Welsh member, who got on his feet and, addressing the ministers on the treasury bench, said:

"If only you will give us the money we will find the capital."

WHAT IS WEALTH?

Health and Ability to Work Better Than Money and Worry.

Does wealth consist in money, houses, lands, bank stocks, railroad bonds, etc., alone? We think not. The young man starting in life with no money, but with good digestion, good sleep, good health and ability to work in some profitable employment, has what the aged capitalist would be glad to exchange all his millions for.

What compensation is money for sleepless nights and painful days or the misconduct of dissipated children? Which brings the greater happiness, the glitter, show, jealousies and falsity of fashionable life or the heartfelt friendships which prevail so largely in the homes of the industrious poor? In how many of the palaces of our millionaires will you find greater happiness in the parlor than in the kitchen? How many millionaires will tell you that they are happier now than when starting in life without a dollar?

On the top of mountains we find rocks and ice and snow. It is down in the valleys that we find the vineyards. Let no man envy those richer than himself until taking all things into account—age, health, wife, children, friends—he is sure he would be willing to exchange.—George J. Angell in Our Dumb Animals.

The Erudite Prisoner.

"The charge ag'in yo," the police justice said, "is burglary. What have ye got to say?"

"As to that," replied the prisoner, a seedy looking man who appeared to have seen better days, "if by the term of 'burglary' you mean the offense which, according to English law and practice for centuries, has been clearly defined as 'house breaking by night,' the charge is palpably ridiculous. The policeman alleges that he detected me in the act of breaking into a house yesterday afternoon in broad daylight. If, on the other hand, the term is made to cover the same offense when committed by day, which, I believe, is your absurd American understanding of the word, in a legal sense, I shall have to concede the correctness of the charge, your honor, reserving, however, the right to regard with a species of contempt the crude jurisprudence of this country."

"Take 'im back to 'is cell," gasped the police 'ustice, "an' let 'im sober up."

To Be Healthy Be Practical.

Theoretically, every adult person of any intelligence wishes to be strong and healthy. Practically, a majority of them wish nothing of the sort. They would like to be well enough, but are not willing to pay the price, though it really costs nothing. When a man gets out of health he usually wants to get something to "patch him up" so that he can continue the foolish things which have caused his bad condition; hence the almost universal resort to drug treatment instead of the natural means of restoring and maintaining health and strength. If a man is really desirous of being naturally sound and healthy he will try to study out the means of becoming so. These means are all included in the seven foundation principles of practical hygiene—namely, exercise, rest air, light, food, drink and bathing.

When You Buy Cheese.

When you buy cheese bear in mind that all good cheese will be mellow to the touch, yet firm. The rind will be of an even tint, elastic and free from puffs, and a sample will reveal a firm, close, buttery grain of a nutty flavor. Cheese which feels so hard that you cannot dent it with your finger tips on the rind is either sour, salted too heavily, skimmed or cooked too much. On the other hand, if the rind breaks upon pressure or does not spring back readily when the finger is withdrawn this indicates an oversoft article, caused by the slack cooling of the curd or a want of acid. At best it will have an insipid flavor and will "go off" as it ages.

Purely Conventional.

"Agatha," said her mother, "I don't like to hear a daughter of mine tell even a conventional lie. You know you can't bear Aunt Becky, and yet when she came the other day you said, 'Auntie, how glad I am to see you!'"

"That wasn't a lie, mamma," answered Agatha. "That was an exclamation."

Three Show Places in Manitoba Where They May Be Seen.

It may not be generally known that Western Canada is not entirely without buffalo. Aside from the more or less mythical herd of about 200, supposed to be roaming in the natural state in the Peace River country, there are over forty buffaloes in semi-captivity at Winnipeg and in the National Park at Banff, west of Calgary. There were originally, two herds in the neighborhood of Winnipeg, one belonging to Col. Bedson, warden of Stony Mountain Penitentiary, and the other owned by Lord Strathcona, at Silver Heights. After Col. Bedson's death his herd was sold to Lincoln Park, Chicago. Later Lord Strathcona gave his herd, which contained seventeen animals, to the National Park at Banff. Winnipeg City Council viewed with dismay the removal of the last of the bison, and finally secured a portion of the herd, while the rest were sent to the Rockies. Those sent to Banff seem to have thriven better than those left at Silver Heights, and they now number thirty-six, while there are only seven at Silver Heights. The keeping up of two herds, however, is being found advantageous, as animals are exchanged from time to time to prevent too close inbreeding. This year, also, three more bison were brought to Winnipeg by the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company to form part of the "Zoo" which they are establishing at River Park. These came from the herd of about two hundred originally owned by Allar & Pablo, of Flathead County, Montana. This is probably the last remnant of the great wild herds left in the United States, and it is now being dispersed among parks and zoological gardens in various parts of the country. Eaton Brothers, of Montana, have now the largest part of the herd. Thus the visitor to Winnipeg has two chances of "seeing the buffalo." He can take an electric car to River Park and see them browsing about in a five-acre field, protected from the public (and vice-versa) by a high and stout fence, or he can drive out about seven miles to Silver Heights and see a herd of seven grazing with other cattle on the prairie. The number of buffaloes in the West will doubtless increase, owing to the immense interest taken in them by all classes, but that they will ever be bred because of their utility is very doubtful. Domestic cattle probably surpass them in every respect, save that of hair, which made the buffalo robe so popular throughout the world. As objects of curiosity, however, they are worth too much to be sacrificed for their robes, a full-grown bull being worth, it is stated, $1,000, while a good mounted head is worth $200 or more. There is no reason why they should not increase in captivity as rapidly as domestic cattle, especially when the so-called captivity consists of a run over a whole valley or a thousand acres of prairie.

The Highwaymen Outwitted.

In Mr. George E. Boxall's "The Story of the Australian Bushranger" the following little episode is related: A man named Michel, who went to an inn for food, found the place in the hands of the bushrangers. Fourteen guests were already disarmed and were being searched in order. Michel was compelled to take his place in line. The bushrangers handed him a pannikin full of tea before they took his money. Knowing what was coming, he held the pannikin as if the tea were too hot to drink, and when the leader of the highwaymen was looking away dropped his roll of banknotes into it. He stood quite quiet, and when the bushrangers came to feel his pockets there were only a few shillings in them. The robbers appeared satisfied and allowed him to go. He carried the pannikin out with him, took his money, put it into his pocket without being observed. Then he mounted his horse, rode to the nearest police station, and gave information.

Bleeding Piles and Erysipelas.

Two Severe Cases Which Illustrate the Extraordinary Soothing, Healing Virtues of

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Scores of people do not think of trying Dr. Chase's Ointment for bleeding piles because they have used so many other treatments in vain and do not believe their ailment curable. It is by curing when others fail that Dr. Chase's Ointment has won such a record for itself. It will not fail to promptly relieve and completely cure any form of piles, no matter how severe or of how long standing.

Mr. James Uriah Pye, Marie Joseph, Guysborough Co., N.S., writes: "I was bad with bleeding piles for about four years and could get no help. Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me in a very short time, and I cannot prise it too highly for this cure. Mrs. Thomas Smith was troubled with erysipelas in the feet and legs and was all swollen up. I gave her some of the ointment, which took out the swelling and healed all the sores. She had tried many treatments before, but none seemed to do her any good. I am telling my friends about the wonderful cures which Dr. Chase's Ointment made for Mrs. Smith and myself, and would say that it is only a pleasure for me to recommend so excellent a preparation."

Wherever there is irritation, inflammation, ulceration or itching of the skin Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring quick relief and will ultimately heal and cure. On this account it is useful in scores of ways in every home for the cure of eczeme, salt rheum, tetter, scald head, itching peculiar to women, pin worms, piles and all sorts of skin diseases and eruptions.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box of his remedies. 6

THE SHIP'S PURSER.

The lot of the purser is anything but a happy one. From his title one would think that he had only to look after the finance of the vessel, but in reality his office, so conveniently and picturesquely situated at the top of the grand staircase, is really as busy a bureau as any in Capel court or Wall street. It is no doubt legitimate enough to expect the purser to be quite au fait with the monetary matters, to explain to the Britisher the difference between a dollar and a crown or to the American that the greenback is treated with scorn and contumely in Europe, but our American friends are par excellence the interrogators of the world, and to them the purser is simply a walking encyclopedia.

He is expected to tell them all about the ship—that's right enough—but they want to know all about the passengers as well, who they are, where they have come from and where they are going, how much they are worth and any little titbit of news about their social life. He is also asked about every hotel, beginning at Liverpool and ending at Rome, the best shops whereat to purchase different articles, who will give the best discount for cash, where the questioner's wife can best be rigged up in European fashion and the most likely resort at which his daughter might run across some impecunious scion of British nobility.—Harry Furness in Strand.

Position of Wood and Its Durability.

The problem has troubled many why two pieces of wood sawed from the same section of a tree should possess very varied characteristics when used in different positions. For example, a gate post will be found to decay much faster if the butt end of the tree is uppermost than would be the case if the top were placed in this position. The reason is that the moisture of the atmosphere will permeate the pores of the wood much more rapidly the way the tree grew than it would if in the opposite direction.

Microscopical examination proves that the pores invite the ascent of moisture, while they repel its descent. Take the familiar case of a wooden bucket. Many may have noticed that some of the staves appear to be entirely saturated, while others are apparently quite dry. This arises from the same cause—the dry staves are in the position in which the tree grew, while the saturated ones are reversed.

PEACE OR PEOPLE.

Happy Is the Man or Woman Who Has Will Power to Make the Choice Deliberately.

A few days ago I had a letter from a friend, who used to be a good deal in the world, and to meet many clever, well-born, well-bred people, but who now, from choice, lives a very simple and retired life in a tiny chalet on a mountain side, far from noise and bustle, far from "days," parties, gossip, gaity. This friend, during some ten months of the year, meets but few people, and those mostly peasants rises early and goes early to rest, reads much, walks much amid scenes of great beauty, and knows the long calm of gently-passing quiet days—days free from all social obligations, days devoid of pasteboard, and untempered by cress sandwiches, matinee hats, whispered scandals, gout-producing suppers, and amours wreathed in smilax. Her mornings are no longer given over to the dressmaker, but to the birds. Her afternoons are not dedicated to an electric landaulette and her dearest enemies' front doors, but to the green mountain slopes; the twilight finds her at leisure to give it a thought. The night, with its stars and moon, is assured of her welcome. She has time now to realize how she is living, what she is doing.

Peace or people? Nowadays many of us must often say to ourselves, "Which do I really want." It seems sometimes almost impossible to have both in such a country as our England has become. In London anything approaching peace seems to be out of the question. Loneliness there is, murky solitude environed by noises from without. To me London is made tolerable only by gaieties, its sights, its splendid music, its lively restaurants, its theatres, its opportunities for meeting a thousand clever and interesting people. I like London for its personalities, and to me a retired life in London would be one of the dreariest lives imaginable. When I am in London I love to be what is called, in the slang of the day, "well in it," and I find my pleasure in the fury of its life, in the hum of its opinions, in the swiftly passing pictures the monstrous biograph it presents to me.

If one settles down in an English country place, one generally makes a choice between peace and people, too, for English people in the country are awfully busy and important about nothing or very little. They are for ever getting something up, they are for ever devising means of "bringing people together." In the country, charity is one of the chief amusements and is far more popular than "putting." I know a country town in which scarcely a week passes without its bazaar. There are often few to buy, but there are generally a fair number to stare, and the stall holders have had their series of committee meetings "to get it all up," and so it has served its purpose. It has been the means of that dearly loved "social intercourse" which is the foe of peace in country places. People in the country "pop in" on one at all times and seasons, to say nothing of prodigious length. It is difficult not to be either a victim or a curmudgeon. I know a lady who, sick of London's interference with her life, betook herself to a country village in search of peace and quiet. She did not know her country. The raps at her door were incessant. The idle came upon her in droves. But she was a resolute woman. She bought a large cardboard, printed her name on it, wrote underneath, in huge, round hand, "Never at home!" and pinned it up on a stout post by her garden gate. Since then she may have earned obloquy, but she says she has known peace. She has made her choice between peace and people, and she appears to be well satisfied.

People are often very good fun, and I, like others, can find a great deal of pleasure in society, in chattering, flirting, laughing about nothing in particular, doing trivial things in a crowd, and generally being cheerfully absurd. A gay time can be a good time, but, to me, only when it comes rather seldom, as a holiday. I do not think most of us use people in the right way, as a dip, as a tonic, as a gass of champagne. Perpetual champagne causes gout in many of us. Perpetual people—what do they cause? The pale ennui which is the gout of the mind. How delightful a fortnight in Paris is! How frisky one enjoys the brightness and all the pleasant and gay things there are to do—for a fortnight! I do not believe the dweller in Paris can ever know the joy of Paris as the fortnighter—despised, of course, by the Parisian—knows it. And is some such way the country cousin enjoys his month in London.

People who love society are apt to say that anything else is "ghastly dull." People who do not love it are apt to inveigh against it furiously, and to speak of those who go into it with a bitter contempt, which is quite un-Christian and unwarrantable, and highly ridiculous too. Happy and sane is the man or woman who gives a reasonable tribute of time to peace and a reasonable tribute of time to people. It is not necessary to be always en evidence, nor is it necessary in all places to stick up a board with "Never at home" at the garden gate. What is necessary, in all the circumstances of life, is will-power, the power of saying "yes" and "no" when you feel that they should be said. Some people go through life screaming "yes" at the top of their voices. They are mostly fools. Others do nothing but growl "no." They are less amiable than the fools, but hardly less foolish. The sensible and the happy have both affirmatives and negatives at command. They qualify their peace with people, and they never have the gout.

But they are rare birds in modern days, almost as rare as robin redbreasts on the property of Octave Mirbeau's Isidore Lechat.—Robert Hichens, in London Queen.

Time seems most untimely when he brings a woman to the turn of life. Life is or should be at its ripest and best for her, and she approaches this change with a dread of its effect born of her knowledge of the sufferings of other women at this season.

There is not the slightest cause for fear or anxiety at this period if Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is used. It gives health of body and cheerfulness of mind, and by its aid the pains and pangs of this critical period are prevented or cured.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is woman's medicine with a wonderful record of cures of womanly diseases. Diseases that all other medicines had failed to cure, have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"I feel it my duty to write you as I have received so much benefit from the use of your medicine," says Mrs Lizzie A. Bowman, of New Matamoras, Washington Co., Ohio. "I have taken four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' for female weakness and change of life. Before I began taking it I could not do anything. I had such pains in my head and in the back of my neck that I thought I would lose my mind. Now I can work every day. I recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all females suffering in the period of change of life. It is the best medicine I have found."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Keep the bowels healthy by the timely use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

ALMANACS ARE ANCIENT.

They Were Made by the Greeks as Far Back as A. D. 100.

According to Theon, the commentator on Ptolemy, almanacs, as we understand the word, were constructed from about the year 100 A. D. by the Greeks of Alexandria, but the dates of festivals and other events of national interest had been exposed on marble tablets in Rome 200 years B. C. Lalande, an authority on the subject, states that the earliest almanac of which the author's name is preserved was that of Solomon Jarchus, who lived in the middle of the twelfth century.

A primitive English calendar or almanac was called the "prime-staff," "rein-stock" or "clog almanac." It was made of wood, bone or horn, about eight inches long, like a square ruler. On this the days were marked by a series of notches, every seventh being of larger size. The festivals were indicated by symbols, as were the golden number and the cycle of the moon.

Specimens of this "clog almanac" may be seen at the British museum and in museums or libraries at Oxford, Cambridge and Manchester. Some of larger size were hung "at one end of the mantle-tree of their chimneys" for general use, and smaller ones were carried in the pocket or on the walking stick.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Dust in the Air.

The air of cities is impregnated with dust and filth. To combat their deleterious effects the streets should be freely ventilated and watered. Wind and rain are the great destroyers of dust. From the fields the wind lifts the debris of vegetation—pollen, seeds, spores of fungi and bacteria; the dust of the soil—silica, silicate of aluminium, carbonate and phosphate of lime and peroxide of iron. In and proceeding from volcanic regions fine particles of carbon and dried mud are taken up and wafted hundreds or even thousands of miles. In and round about cities and towns the finely ground dust of the pavements, fragments of straw, hair, stable manure, debris of insects, soot, epithelia from floor sweepings or shaken from rugs, carpets and bedding, together with gases and other volatile emanations from factories, rendering establishments, abattoirs, tanyards and compost heaps of all sorts, though not of the air, are in it, in so much as to be in some degree almost everywhere present.—Sanitarian.

A Canny Scot.

A canny Scot lived in a small settlement some miles from the neighboring town. The distance, however, could be considerably lessened by cutting through a large estate. This practice was accordingly so much resorted to that the owner gave peremptory orders for all trespassers to be turned around and sent back the way they came.

One time, however, the Scot in question, having occasion to take some articles to town in a wheelbarrow, decided to run the risk and was about half way through when he saw the owner in the distance. Not relishing the idea of retracing his steps, he bethought himself of a scheme, and, promptly turning the wheelbarrow to face the direction from which he came, he sat down upon it as if resting.

Soon the owner came up and, seeing him there, roughly ordered him to turn around and go back.

As "back" was in this case his objective point, the Scot obeyed and went on his way rejoicing.

The Home Product.

"I should think you would be ambitious for political distinction."

"No," answered Mr. Cumrox, "I don't care for it. My daughter has studied painting and her pictures of me are funny enough without calling in the aid of any professional cartoonist."

The Single Misfortune.

"Misfortunes never come singly, you know, Miss Priscilla."

"Alas," said the poor maiden, shaking her head, "the single misfortune is the worst of all!"

PHIL MAY'S BARGAIN.

An Experience the Artist Had With a Roving Conjurer.

An amusing story is told of the artist Phil May and an English conjurer at a fair at Stratford-on-Avon. Phil was in the crowd which had gathered to watch a very clever gentleman who was wrapping up sovereigns and half crowns in pieces of paper and selling them for 2 shillings. The "sharp" had a beautiful face—such a face as Phil May loved to draw. So he sketched him furtively. But the gentleman saw him and made a speech forthwith.

"If that there celebrited portrit painter with the tight breeches on will 'and up the picter, the equally celebrited benefactor to 'oomanity wot is givin' away quids for coppers will reward 'im accordingly," he shouted.

Phil, with a twinkle in his eye, handed up the drawing. The conjurer was delighted with the sketch and pinned it to the tailboard of his cart. With another preliminary speech, he threw three sovereigns, three half sovereigns and several half crowns into a piece of paper, screwed it up and handed it to the artist. "You'll be president of the bloomin' B'yal academy some dye, young man," said he. "Here, catch!"

"A bargain's a bargain," said Phil, walking off with the packet of gold and silver.

He confessed afterward when he opened the packet and found two pennies and a halfpenny in it that it was the most entertaining commission he had ever been paid for.

Men Who "Were Literature."

Balzac and Hugo were the last of the great men whose inspiration was unceasing and who did not make literature, but who were literature. Balzac wrote a great story at a sitting—a sitting that lasted for eighteen hours. All that while he wrote, for no secretary could keep pace with him, and all that while he lived on black coffee. Then he slept for thirty hours. Hugo wrote "Hernani" in a month, and we can think of Balzac and Hugo as we think of the great Venetian living in the glory and exultation of constant creation. Veronese must have improvised "The Marriage Feast at Cana" with extraordinary ease, and I like to think he painted the immortal fiddler in a morning and went out in his gondola in the afternoon thinking he had done a fair day's work. That was how men wrote and painted in the great times before science beckoned them away from the beautiful.—George Moore in Lippincott's.

IF THOU COULD'ST KNOW.

I think, if thou could'st know,
O soul that will complain,
What lies concealed below
Our burden and our pain—
How just our anguish brings
Nearer those longed for things
We seek for now in vain—
I think thou would'st rejoice, and not complain.

I think, if thou could'st see
With thy dim mortal sight,
How meanings, dark to thee,
Are shadows, hiding light;
Truth's efforts crossed and vexed,
Life's purpose all perplexed—
If thou could'st see them right,
I think that they would seem all clear, and wise, and bright

And yet thou can'st not know,
And yet thou can'st not see—
Wisdom and sight are slow
In poor humanity.
If thou could'st trust, poor soul,
In Him who rules the whole,
Thou would'st find peace and rest;
Wisdom and sight are well, but truth is best.

—A. A. Procter.

Did Not Look Right.

The intelligent compositor, one of the kind that figures in many an anecdote, worked on an Arkansas paper at a period when a well known novelist was editor. One day the printer undertook to set up the word "doughnut." He spelled it "donut."

"See here," said the novelist, "don't you know how to spell 'doughnut?' You've misspelled it here."

The intelligent compositor came over and gazed at the proof and scratched his head in perplexity.

"Well," he admitted, "that doesn't look right, but it had a 'w' in it once, and somehow that didn't look right either."

Set His Own Novel.

R. L. Farjeon was one of the very few writers who set up work in type without the medium of manuscript. When the novelist first turned to fiction he was editor and publisher of the Otago Times, which was printed at his own offices at Dunedin, and many of the chapters of his novel "Grif" were transferred direct to type by the late Mr. Farjeon, who was one of the most rapid compositors of his time. He was a firm believer in charms and attributed much of his good fortune to a New Zealand greenstone which he wore for many years on his watch chain.—London Tit-Bits.

The Thumb.

Thumbs have been appreciated ever since the world began. The ancients used to call the thumb the other hand. Barbarous kings used to swear and make compacts by their thumbs. In Rome it was a sign of favor to wring and kiss the thumb and of disfavor or disgrace to lift it up or turn it outward. A man who was hurt in his thumbs was excused from serving in the Roman wars. Some of the scoundrelly citizens used to cut off their thumbs so as to remain at home and get rich. Teachers used to punish their pupils by biting their thumbs.

Childish Amusements in Boston.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

Peterborough Will see Championship Rugby.

Toronto Teams Will Remain in Intermediate Series—Lindsay's Version of the Baseball Controversy.

RUGBY.

As a means of ascertaining whether there was any truth in the statement contained in the Toronto papers to the effect that the Wellesleys and the Victorias would probably withdraw from the Intermediate series, the Examiner wired Mr. F. D. Woodsworth, asking if the report was true, and received the following reply this afternoon:—

"Neither Wellesleys nor Victorias have withdrawn from the O.R.F.U., intermediate series Wellesleys and Peterborough will play off as originally scheduled. Victorias will be given a bye, and will play home and home games with the winner. Frank D. Woodsworth, secretary O.R.F.U."

This assures the sport-loving public that there will be a contest for the championship. The first game will be played here on Thanksgiving Day between the home team and the Wellesleys.

All members who have tickets to dispose of are asked to push the sale of them as vigorously as possible, as it is now assured that Peterborough will have championship Rugby games played here this season. This will be a pleasing announcement to the many lovers of the game here.

* * * *

The Examiner has received an anonymous poetical contribution on the Rugby game, of Saturday, which it has not been able to use because of the fact that it deals in personalities.

* * * *

There will be no practice at the rink to-night, because of the fact that the seating for the Guy Bros. show will be in progress. The Intermediate team will practice with the Britannias at seven o'clock on the T.A.S. grounds.

SPRINTING.

W. J. Armstrong challenges Chas. Martin to a 100-yard foot-race to be run at any time or place the latter may designate, to be run in heats, 2 out of 3, 3 out of 5, or one heat, as the challenged may desire, and for any trophy Mr. Martin may name.

BASKET-BALL.

There will be an organization meeting of the Athletic Basketball Club at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 8 o'clock. Officers will be elected.

BASEBALL.

The Lindsay Post comes out with an article under the heading "Peterborough has Flunked," insinuating that the Excelsiors have backed down from their offer to play the Clippers. The facts, however, are that the Excelsiors have made every reasonable attempt to arrange the game which was to decide the superiority of those teams. Mr. C. G. Graham made a trip to Lindsay for the purpose of arranging a game, and offered to play a week ago last Saturday, which the Clippers would not consent to. He also endeavoured to induce the latter to come to Peterborough, offering them $30.00 and all expenses including those of the umpire. This they absolutely refused to do, and even wanted the Excelsiors to go to Lindsay for their bare expenses. The team here has offered every inducement to have the game played, but does not feel that it should be expected to play it at this late date when most of the players are busy with Rugby. The article in the Post follows:

"The great baseball game that has been spoken of so much these past few weeks and for which the Lindsay citizens were anxiously waiting will not take place. Peterborough having shown the white feather. After several futile attempts made by Lindsay to have them come up. Everything that was reasonable Lindsay has offered, even giving them their choice of umpire, Mr. Walsh, of Toronto, and having his word that he would appear when called on, also Manager Simpson agreed to pay all his expenses. Peterborough claimed it was too late in the season. Why, the Strathconas and Park Nines, of Toronto, play games on Oct. 4, 11 and 17th. A lame excuse. The Lindsay players feel disappointed as they would have liked to have locked horns once more with the Excelsiors, knowing that they could turn the trick on them again. Perhaps there is some fast nine in this district that would like to try conclusions with the Clippers. Let them speak out. Excelsior your name should be 'Flunkior'."

Enormous Growth.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. This is probably the best evidence of their remarkable efficiency as a treatment for derangements of the kidneys, liver and bowels. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

ORILLIA LADY DROWNED.

Miss Beatrice Laplante the Victim. But Her Escort Saved.

Orillia, Oct. 6.—Lake Couchiching claimed its first victim this season Sunday afternoon, when Miss Beatrice Laplante was drowned, as the result of the upsetting of a canoe. Her companion, a young man, was picked up, when nearly exhausted, by Eden Howard of Edgarwold, who heard his cries. The body of the unfortunate young lady was not recovered till last evening. Miss Laplante's father was buried only a little over a week ago, and much sympathy is felt for her grief-stricken mother.

Bodies Strewn Along the Shore.

West Selkirk, Man., Oct. 6.—Rev. J. McLachlan, Indian missionary, and a party of six Indians, some of whom were children, were drowned during a recent storm on Lake Winnipeg. After several days search Rev. Mr. Semmens found most of the bodies strewn along the shore.

Canadian Women in New Role.

I wonder how many people in Canada realise that there are seventy women who own and manage steam vessels, and fifty-six sailing vessels, in the Dominion? I am often amused at the scorn with which the majority of people regard the idea of agriculture for women being practicable and desirable. As a matter of fact, both in the United States and in Canada, farms of all kinds are most successfully run by women, and all branches of horticultural work are being taken up by women in every part of the world. For the sixth time in eight years a woman has headed the list of successful candidates and won the medal in the Royal Horticultural Society's examination in London; and the Swanley Agricultural College in Kent, run by private enterprise, has had so many applications from women that the governing body have reorganised the institution and made it a woman's college. The colonial training branch is under a strong committee, and at present from the report presented in the biennial leaflet of the W. A. and H. I. U., it appears that the efforts of the management are being directed towards fitting students for life in South Africa, where situations open to well educated and capable gentlewomen are to be found. Canada, it appears, furnishes no opening for women of this class, so little attention need be paid by English authorities to training students for life in Canada. In the article by the Secretary of the Colonial Training Department at Swanley the following notice is given a conspicuous place, and should, I think, apply to Canada as well as South Africa: "No woman should proceed to South Africa unless under the protection of her relatives, or of this society, and to a definite home or definite engagement."—Lally Bernard, in The Globe.

Forty-Three Feet of Flesh.

A Whitby family of seven brothers measure at least 43 feet. No family is more widely or favorably known in Whitby than the McGillivray family, and the aged mother of these interesting and conspicuous children may well be proud of her offspring. And not only are the seven McGillivrays all tall men, but they are heavy weights, and will average over 210 pounds, the combined weight being not less than 1,480 pounds. The seven brothers met in Toronto on Friday last, and six of them spent Sunday in Whitby. The genial doctor and T. A., the barrister, are residents of the town; George, a veterinary surgeon, of Spring Valley, Minn., had journeyed across the line to see the Dominion Exhibition; William, a medical doctor of Pipestone, the same State, also took in the Exhibition; J. A., of Forestric fame, whose home is in Uxbridge, and Norman, Presbyterian minister, of Carp, Ont., were the sextette who spent the Sabbath in town. And they were all at the Presbyterian Church at the evening service, one of their number, Norman, being the preacher.—Keystone.

Salisbury's Fine Contempt.

The note in Lord Salisbury's character which appeals most to us, the quality the country will miss, though it may not regret, the most, is his fine contempt for popularity. Lord Salisbury troubled himself little with what people thought of him. What he was, was much to him; what he was thought to be, nothing. This may have been a fault in the politician, but it was a splendid, and extremely rare, virtue in the man. It was the key to his finely tempered irony. It distinguished it wholly from cynicism. There was no contempt for man, no indifference to things, but a complete contempt for pretended things. This great man was not afraid to neglect the art of success, while lesser men neglected every other art. Maybe not every man can afford to take Lord Salisbury's view of life; but it is a great thing that one who has been on all men's lips should leave this salutary lesson of care for truth rather than for show. After all, it was what we ought to expect from so deeply religious a man as Lord Salisbury.—Saturday Review.

BYE-ELECTION DATES.

Sault Ste. Marie and Muskoka to Be Held Tuesday, Oct. 27—North Renfrew Date Not Yet Fixed.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—The bye-elections in Sault Ste. Marie and Muskoka will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 27, and the nominations, Tuesday, Oct. 20, one week earlier.

The date of the bye-election in North Renfrew was not settled, but it will be fixed for a date shortly after the others.

Andrew Miscampbell, Conservative, and Charles N. Smith, Liberal, are the candidates in Sault Ste. Marie.

A. A. Mahaffy, Conservative, and Dr. Hart, Liberal, are the candidates in Muskoka.

The Soo is vacant, owing to the unseating of Andrew Miscampbell, who was elected on May 29, 1903, by a majority of 275.

The death of Dr. Bridgland, Liberal, a few days before the close of the last session of the Legislature, caused the vacancy in that riding. Dr. Bridgland's majority was 89.

After Mr. Wallace's Scalp.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—A writ has been issued against A. E. Wallace of the Atlas Loan Co., now living in Toronto, by Kingamill, Hillmuth, Saunders and Torrance, claiming damages for fraud, misrepresentation, malfeasance and deceit of the defendant. Michael Heenan, an M. C. R. detective of St. Thomas, and a depositor to the extent of $1,145, is complainant. It is reported that Mr. Heenan, through his counsel, intends to obtain a complete examination of Mr. Wallace upon all matters in connection with the Atlas Loan Co.

New Townships Surveyed.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—T. B. Speight, who was in charge of a Government surveying party in New Ontario, surveying six townships in Algoma, and fourteen in Nipissing, is back in Toronto. He reports that the new townships contain 75 per cent. of splendid agricultural land. The timber consists of spruce, tamarack, poplar and balm of gilead principally.

Ran a Nail Through His Hand.

While opening a box, J. C. Mount, of Three Mile Bay, N.Y., ran a ten penny nail through the fleshy part of his hand. "I thought at once of all the pain and soreness this would cause me," he says, "and immediately applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and occasionally afterwards. To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed. For sale by all druggists.

No Room For Him.

Several relics of exceptional value and of unusual interest to archaeologists were discovered in a small town near Nuremberg, and as soon as the news reached him the director of the Nuremberg Historical museum went to the village and introduced himself to the mayor, saying:

"I am in charge of the museum at Nuremberg, and I'd like to"—

"You're too late, my good sir," interrupted the mayor. "We've already got here several merry go rounds, a bearded woman, a theatrical company composed of apes, a troupe of trained dogs and a band of Hungarian musicians, so you can readily see that we've got no room for your museum."

And with these words he nodded to the director and went away.

Hunting Season.

The Grand Trunk Railway has issued a very handsome illustrated pamphlet, entitled "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting deer, moose, reindeer, caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of the same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticekt offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto. d68

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron was taking a stroll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive Sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

CASH SYSTEM.

A truly cash system—no credit.

Some stores advertise a cash system to gain the benefit that a Cash Store infers—"merchandise sold at a small margin"—but do they refuse to give credit? With very few exceptions—No.

Our system a true cash system, allowing us to lop off profits on account of less office help required. No bad debts to be evened up—no interest to be reckoned for outstanding accounts. This is the Sutcliffe method of cash retailing.

TRUSTWORTHY DRY GOODS UNIFORMLY RIGHT PRICES

Saves the gentlewoman from paying more than the real value. (She doesn't ask the merchant to alter his price.)

Every customer shares alike.

No haggling or discontent! What no one gets causes no ill feeling.

Saves time, and gives assurance to those denied.

Price has to be reckoned at the lowest a competitor would sell the same goods for, even though that competitor accepted his second price. (We have none.)

One price—an honest method—no discriminating. Would you sooner shop at a One-price Store or "check it" and ask for a second price?

RAILWAY SUBSIDIES

The Total is Something Over Twelve Millions.

HOW ESTIMATE IS REACHED.

Minimum Rate is $3,200 a Mile, But Per Difficult Work It Is Increased to $6,400 a Mile—Proposals to Be Told—In Committee of Supply the House Voted Nearly One Million Dollars Tuesday.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The House continued its rapid disposal of the supplementary estimates yesterday, disposing in Committee of Supply of 181 items, amounting to $934,020. These were the river and harbor appropriations for Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Ontario. Little progress was made early in the day owing to objections by several Ontario Conservatives to eastern expenditures, a position for which they were indirectly rebuked by Mr. R. L. Borden and warmly challenged by Liberals from Nova Scotia. The progress made gives color to the hope of an early prorogation, which is further strengthened by Mr. Fielding's statement at adjournment that whether or not the audit act will be proceeded with is still a matter of consideration.

The Railway Subsidies.

The Minister of Finance last night laid before the House railway subsidies calling for an expenditure of at least $12,092,800. In each case, for the purpose of reaching an estimate, the subsidy is placed at the minimum rate of $3,200 per mile, but in many instances the cost will reach $6,400 per mile, the maximum amount allowed for difficult railway work. There is a total of $150,000 asked in aid of bridges, and if this be added to the main sum the grand total of proposed expenditure will be at least $12,242,800. In addition to re-votes, these subsidies are proposed:

A new and important clause provides that the Governor-in-Council may take into consideration that the company shall lay its road with new steel rails made in Canada if they are procurable in Canada of suitable quality, upon terms as favorable as the rails can be obtained elsewhere of which the Minister of Railways shall be the judge.

QUIT, DONE, TIRED.

Hon. Joseph Martin is Disgusted With Politics.

SAYS M'BRIDE CAN'T GO ON.

Premier McBride's Plan to Secure Mr. Wells For Speaker Won't Work With Consent of Latter—He Would Not Desert His Party, But Mr. McBride May Hold Power Without Him.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 7.—From present appearances Premier McBride will have twenty-two seats in the next House, Comox, Skeena, Similkameen, Kaslo and Revelstoke all evidently going his way. He also counts on Davidson of Sloean, and possibly on Wells. A recount in Fernie may put Smith, thus reducing McBride's members to 21. Returns are not all in yet, but Herman of Skeena, wires that he expects Clifford to be elected with about 15 majority. The Liberals also concede Similkameen to Sharford (Conservative). There is some talk of protesting Esquimalt.

Mr. Martin Retires.

Mr. Martin yesterday announced that he had retired from British Columbia politics. He said. "I'm quit, I'm done, I'm tired, I'm disgusted with politics. Don't misunderstand me. I'm not disgusted at the result of Saturday's election, but there's been such dissension in the party, and I have received so much abuse from my enemies and so little thanks from my friends, that I am glad to avail myself of the opportunity of retiring from politics."

McBride Can't Continue.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 6.—Latest advices show 22 Conservatives, 18 Liberals, 2 Socialists elected. This is conceding to the Conservatives all doubtful seats. Two portfolios must be filled. Indications all point to the inability of the McBride administration to remain in power. Look for another general election very shortly. Joseph Martin.

Wells Burst the Bubble.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 7.—Premier McBride Monday declared that he would be able to carry on the Government by inducing Mr. Wells of Columbia to accept the Speakership. He said Mr. Wells was really not antagonistic and had not been opposed by the Conservatives, in consequence of an understanding of support. Yesterday morning Mr. Wells burst the bubble of the Premier's hopes by this message to Mr. C. H. Gibbons, editor of The Vancouver World: "I would under no circumstances desert my party by accepting the Speakership or any office in the McBride Government."

SIR LOUIS JETTE'S ANSWER.

Yankee Lawyer Disputes Meaning of a French Phrase.

London, Oct. 6.—(C.A.P.)—Don M. Dickenson for the United States yesterday before the Alaska Boundary Commission, doubted whether Vancouver's story was before the negotiators of the Alaskan treaty.

He considered that "le long de la passe" meant "through the middle of the channel," but Sir Louis Jette said it meant "along the bank."

Mr. Dickenson devoted the afternoon to a detailed examination of the maps subsequent to the treaty of 1825 with the object of showing that their testimony favored the United States contention as to the southern channel.

By the Electric Chair.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Nelson Boggiano was yesterday sentenced to death the week beginning Nov. 16. Boggiano was convicted of the murder of Harry Bender, with whose wife he was infatuated. Boggiano is only 25.

FUNERAL OF SIR MICHAEL HERBERT.

Lord Strathcona and Alaskan Commissioners Attended the Funeral.

London, Oct. 7.—The body of Sir Michael Herbert, the late British Ambassador at Washington, was interred yesterday afternoon in the family burial ground at Wilton, Wiltshire. King Edward and the Prince of Wales sent representatives. A memorial service in the Marlborough House Chapel, St. James' Palace, was attended by the Earl of Kintore, representing King Edward; the Alaska Boundary Commissioners, Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, Lord Strathcona, the Canadian High Commissioner, and Lady Strathcona, Lady and Miss Pauncefote, Lord and Lady Cromer, Sir C. S. Scott, the British Ambassador to Russia, and Sir Clinton Dawkins.

TURKS' ARTILLERY PRACTICE.

Canon Balls Went Over Heads of Rebels and Killed Friends.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 7.—Details of the fighting at Kittkar, near Kratovo, Oct. 1 and 2, have reached the revolutionary headquarters here. The battle was waged for 36 hours. The Turks found it impossible to dislodge the eighty insurgents and brought up two cannon. The shots went over the insurgents and wrought havoc among the Turks on the other side of the position. The insurgents escaped. The Turkish losses are variously estimated at from 60 to 250 men killed or wounded.

C.P.R. Revised Grain Tariff.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—The revised C. P.R. grain and flour tariff was announced to-day, and will go into effect to-morrow. A compromise has been reached between the C.N.R. and the C.P.R., and instead of the C. P.R. reducing the rate to 10 cents a hundred, the Canadian Northern, with the consent of the local Government, increases its rates to 11 cents west of Winnipeg, and the C. P.R. meets that rate at all points in Manitoba. The 10 cent rate is to be maintained on the C.N.R. from Winnipeg to points east to Port Arthur and the C.P.R. meets that rate.

Children and Matches.

Corinth, Oct. 7.—About 9.30 yesterday morning the large barn belonging to G. Fenty, on the 8th concession, half a mile west of Culloden, caught fire. The cause is supposed to be children playing with matches.

Few Cattle Shipped.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—J. T. Gordon, the cattleman, says that only about one-third of the number of cattle has been shipped this year as compared with last. The reason was soft grass on the ranges.

Pope Pius First Encyclical.

Rome, Oct. 5.—The Osservatore Romano published last night the text of an encyclical by Pope Pius X. commemorating Leo XIII. The encyclical, the first issued by Pope Pius, is entirely religious in tone.

Poor Vintage This Year.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The vintage of 1903 will be bad everywhere in France. The season is very backward and the product cannot be reckoned at more than half a crop.

A FAMILY REMEDY.

Pe-ru-na in Use in Thousands of Homes.

Congressman H. Henry Powers, of Vermont, writes from Morrisville, Vt.:

HON. H. H. POWERS.

"Peruna I have used in my family with success. I can recommend it as an excellent family remedy and very good for coughs, colds and catarrhal affections."—H. Henry Powers.

John L. Burnett, Member of Congress, Seventh Alabama District, writes:

"I take pleasure in testifying to the merits of your Peruna. At the solicitation of a friend my wife used it, and it improved her condition generally. It is a remarkable remedy. I can cheerfully recommend Peruna as a good, substantial tonic, and a very good catarrh remedy."

Peruna Cures Catarrh.

Half the ills of life are due to catarrh and catarrhal derangements. Peruna is the only internal, systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Peruna is not a guess nor an experiment—it is an absolute, scientific certainty. Peruna has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

BANK AND OTHER DEFALCATIONS.

(St. Thomas Journal.)

It is customary to say that public business in the United States is transacted in a loose way and is marked with much dishonesty. Some comparative figures have been got together from different sources which are interesting.

The United States Fidelity and Trust Company reports that the banks throughout the Union lost by defalcations in 1901 the sume of $1,665,109, and in 1902 the sum of $1,709,391.

From another source comes the information that the loss of federal, county and municipal governments from defalcations during 1901 amounted to $1,293,055, and $1,067,789 in 1902.

The defalcations on the part of trusted bank officials aggregated a greater sum than that of public servants handling public money. There is supposed to be better management in the banks, better auditing, more care in selecting persons to be trusted with funds, and less likihood that persons known to be unreliable can get near the money vaults of a bank than into what is called the public treasury. But the figures show that the bank defalcations are greater.

In commenting on these figures an American contemporary says that they prove the public official to be equal to the bank official in honesty, and while the defalcations seem large, they are not large in view of the immense aggregate sums that are honestly handled during the year by both bank officers and public officials.

THE FIRST TURBINE FOR THE ATLANTIC FERRY.

(Montreal Herald.)

The Allans are to be complimented upon being the first to contract for a ship using the new turbine system of steam propulsion and intended for the Atlantic voyage. It was only a matter of time until this would be done, and there is probably less risk about the present experiment inasmuch as the Canadian company do not propose, as the New York lines probably would, to go in for record smashing, which runs away with inordinate quantities of coal, but to take advantage of the new device to the extent of getting superior results without undue forcing. The use of turbine engines on the Dover to Calais ferry has served to demonstrate their practical utility. The ships used are not very large, 900 tons or so, but they have many important advantages over the old style boats. The machinery required to operate three screws takes very little room, and can be so placed as to allow of a division of space that is much more agreeable to passengers. Great speed is attained, and without loss of steadiness. In the recent storm in the Channel the turbine boats stood the weather better than any of the others. The new Allan boat will not be able to go any faster than the old ones through a fog, but after it gets out it will be able to let out enough to make up for any lost time.

HARVEY ANNUAL FALL EXHIBITION

Was Held at Lakehurst Last Friday.

Best Fair in History of Society—Exhibits Fully up to the Standard of Former Years—Prize Lists.

The exhibition held under the auspices of the Harvey Agricultural Society, held at Lakehurst on Thursday and Friday, October 1st and 2nd, may, with truth, be said to be the best in the history of the society. The attendance was fully two-thirds over that of last year, and the exhibits were also more numerous than former years. In horses the showing was particularly creditable, the classes devoted to draught horses being well represented. A special feature was the contest for Mr. W. R. G. Higgins' prize for ladies' driving. It was won by Miss Vina Nicholls after a spirited contest. The novelty race was also a very interesting one, the winner not having been decided upon. It was a tie between Jas. Irwin and J. Wilson. In the special class for foals of 1903 got by Black Hawk, there were about twelve entries. In the class for two year old draught colts, the judges stated that they had not seen this fall such a creditable showing. The poultry class was represented by a large number of entries, the quality also being up to the usual standard. A Durham bull shown by Mr. J. Smith of Lakehurst, was declared to be equal to any in the province. The grain shown was fully up to the standard of former years, both as to quality and the number of varieties shown. The roots were especially good, as were also the fruits shown. Mr. Cullis of Fenelon Falls, who has visited a number of Fairs this year, stated that he had nowhere seen apples to compare with those seen at Lakehurst. In potatoes some particularly good specimens were shown. One tuber grown by Mr. N. Thompson, weighed 1 lb. 11 oz. Mangolds were seen weighing 18 to 20 lbs., and fodder corn 14 and 15 feet in height.

In dairy produce there were a number of entries for prizes donated by the Peterborough Hardware Co., J. W. Green, and W. H. Hunter. In the ladies' work section nearly every class was filled. An interesting contest was that in the home made bread exhibited, the first prize donated by G. B. Micks, being awarded to Mrs. John Adams, a lady 70 years of age. The prize donated by Roy & Co., for the best collection of ladies' work was won by Mrs. W. Irwin.

The directors are greatly encouraged by the success of this year's fair, and confidently expect that in future exhibitions the splendid record of this year will even be surpassed. By the work of last year the Government grant was increased from $70 to $101.

The officers for this year, to whom the credit for the splendid results achieved, is due, are: President, Jno. Smith; Vice-President, W. T. Elliott; directors, J. G. Weir, Jas. McGuire, A. G. Shearer, W. Clarkson, Wm. Irwin, Alex. Thompson, Robt. Tedford, H. G. Nesbitt, and A. Wilson, jr. The secretary-treasurer is Mr. J. W. Irwin, who has worked indefatigably for the success of the exhibition, and to whom no inconsiderable thanks is due.

CANADA'S PROGRESS.

(Toronto News.)

Our trade increase increases have been enormous. In 1902-3 our exports of home products stood at $214,000,000, almost four times the $55,000,000 of 1871, not far from three times the $81,000,000 of 1881 and the $105,000,000 of 1891 and just double the $106,000,000 of 1896. We all know how rapid the increase has been in the last three or four years—$177,000,000 in 1901, $196,000,000 in 1902 and $214,000,000 in the fiscal year just closed. The imports are $232,000,000, about double the $112,000,000 of 1896 and the 119,000,000 of 1891. For a quarter of a century before that they had ranged about the hundred million mark. The imports of dutiable goods have doubled and those of free goods have quadrupled. The customs revenue stands at 37 million dollars, and the excise at 12 millions. Twenty years ago they stood at 6½ and 5 millions respectively. A noteworthy fact is that the business failures in 1902 numbered 1,109, with liabilities of $11,000,000 as against nearly 1,900, with liabilities of $17,000,000 ten years ago, over 1,200 with liabilities of $5,750,000 in 1881, and 726 with nearly $6,000,000 of liabilities in 1871. The failures have increased more slowly than the volume of business.

ONE SCHOOL BOARD'S WOES.

(Hamilton Times.)

Over in Passaic, N. J., the School Board is carrying a heavy load of trouble. No sooner does it get its staff of teachers completed and things running smoothly than along comes some wife hunting bachelor who breaks into the charmed circle and carries off his pick of the girls as a bride. The trustees have stood this sort of thing till patience has ceased to be a virtue, and now they are talking of a regulation that will preclude any school ma'am from marrying within five years of signing her contract. Of course the trustees are to be pitied; they cannot be expected to stand guard with a club to keep lovers away. And, anyhow, Love is said to laugh at locksmiths, and he would probably make contemptuous signs at the school trustees who meddled in the school ma'am's affairs of the heart. The only thing left for the Passaic board to do is to get a marriage-proof staff. If they scurry about they can get enough of the stop-a-clock style of beauties to scare Cupid out of the city. If they can't, they should shut up shop.

But to talk about contracting out of marrying for five years a woman in love and a man waiting for her — whew — sweeping back the ocean with a broom is hardly to be mentioned in a breath with it.

POLICY AS DEFINED.

Empire Fiscal Scheme Outlined at Glasgow.

THE COLONIES ARE WILLING.

Mr. Chamberlain Believes They Will Respond to British Advances—A Tax on Wheat Included in the Program of Preference—The Trend of Colonial Relations With the Mother Country.

Glasgow, Oct. 7.—Whatever may be the opinion held regarding the great question which Mr. Chamberlain has raised, or the probable issue of his campaign, it is generally admitted that he has opened it in a masterly manner. For nearly two hours last night he had a vast and enthusiastic audience absorbed. As though inspired by the knowledge that the practical collapse and breakup of the Unionist party left him in sole possession of the field, he spoke with more than his customary energy and persuasiveness.

It was an inspiring scene within St. Andrew's Hall, where he delivered his speech. Every corner of the auditorium was packed with a crowd cheering, singing and waving handkerchiefs as Mr. Chamberlain went to the platform. A distinguished company of peers and members of the House of Commons were present. He was greeted at the close with a great demonstration. The points of his speech attracting remarkable attention were his eulogy of Mr. Balfour; his representation of the coming struggle as one greater in its consequences than the Boer war; his description of the American tariff as an abomination.

Chamberlain's Fiscal Plan.

Mr. Chamberlain stated his plan of fiscal reform briefly as follows: He proposed to put a low duty, not exceeding 2 shillings (48 cents) a quarter on foreign corn, but none on corn from the British possessions.

He proposed no tax on maize, partly because it formed the food of some of the very poorest among the population, and partly because it was raw material as feeding stuff.

He proposed a corresponding tax on flour, and he would give special preference to the miller with the object of re-establishing one of our ancient industries and of preventing a rush from the country to the town, and also of placing corn, offal and feeding stuffs more cheaply within the possession of the farmer.

A small tax of about 5 per cent. on foreign meat and dairy products would be imposed, excluding bacon, which was the food of so many of the poorest population.

Lastly, he proposed to give a substantial preference to the colonies on wines and fruits.

Some Great Remissions.

Against these increases he proposed some great remissions. He proposed to take off three-quarters of the duty on tea, half they duty on sugar, with corresponding reductions upon cocoa and coffee.

The net result of these impositions and remissions would be that the town artisan's food would according to the most elaborate calculation, cost him two pence half penny (five cents) less per week than it did at present, while that of the agricultural laborer would cost him two pence (four cents) less, but if, as he believed, a great part of the tax on food would be paid by the foreigner, there would be a reduction in the cost of food, both for the artisan and the agricultural laborer.

The loss to the Exchequer, he estimated at £2,6000,000. A moderate duty of 10 per cent. on manufactured goods would give to the Exchequer £9,000,000 a year, and he would make use of that for remission of taxes.

Treatment of the Colonies.

The question was, what would the colonies say? He believed they would treat generously any offer Great Britain might make. On this point he said:

"Were we to lose the colonial as we have lost our foreign trade, we should arrive at the parting of the ways. If the opportunity is not seized now it will not recur. Canada will fall to the level of the United States, Australasia to the level of Canada, and South Africa to the level of Australasia, and that would be the beginning of a general decline which would rob us of our most important trade."

Mr. Chamberlain said he believed that the colonies "are prepared to meet us in return for a very moderate preference. They would reserve to us the trade we already enjoyed, would also arrange their tariffs in the future in order not to start industries in competition with those already in existence in the mother country, and not only would they enable us to retain our trade with them, but they would give us preference on all trade done with them by our foreign competitors."

The Colonial Trend.

He had spoken with many colonists who believed that the present colonial relations could not be permanent. They must either be drawn closer together or they would drift apart.

He believed that it was only by a commercial union and reciprocal preference that they could lay the foundation of a federation of the Empire, to which they all looked as a brilliant possibility. He wished to repeat explicitly that he did not wish to tax raw materials used in British manufactures. He said he proposed nothing that would add one farthing to the cost of living of any workingman or of any family in the country.

Concluding Words.

Mr. Chamberlain concluded: "I warn you, I urge you, I implore you to do nothing that will tend towards the disintegration of the Empire, not to refuse to sacrifice futile superstition and inept prejudice and thereby to lose the result of centuries of noble effort and patriotic endeavor."

Given Royal Send-Off.

Birmingham, Oct. 7. — Joseph Chamberlain set out from here yesterday morning on his fiscal campaign, amid every demonstration of good-will from his fellow-townsmen. Hundreds gathered at the railroad station and alternately sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and shouted "Good old Joey" and "The country's with you." Vain appeals were made for a speech, but the only expressed opinion that could be extracted from the former Secretary for the Colonies was in reply to congratulations on the appointment of his son, Austen, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, when Mr. Chamberlain admitted that there were a "lot of difficulties before the party," but he thought they would "get through with them all right." Mrs. Chamberlain accompanied her husband on his speech-making tour, which began at Glasgow yesterday.

May I Help You

You Who Are Sick?

My help is offered on trial. I want to show each sick one just what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do before a settlement is made. And then, after a full month's treatment, the patient is to be the sole judge.

If you say, "I am no better," there is not a penny of cost to you. I alone will assume the expense.

The offer is unique. The way to secure six bottles of my Restorative on trial is simple. There is no trouble but to write a postal or letter. I have made the way to help, so easy, so simple, that none need hesitate.

I have published the books shown in the coupon below. You are simply to sign the coupon, mark the book you need, and mail it to me. That's easy enough, surely.

Then I will arrange with a druggist near you, so that you can secure six bottles of

Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

You can take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails, the cost is mine. I will then ask the druggist to bill the cost to me, and you alone are to decide.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative acts on the inside nerves. The nerves that control the vital organs. Here lies the key to my success. This success makes it possible to give a month's treatment on trial.

If failures were common I would withdraw the offer. But I do not. You will see my offer everywhere year after year. And the offer is so easily obtainable, too. It is much easier than to call a physician. And a physician's call means expense, whether he succeeds or fails.

Did you ever know of anything more fair, more liberal? And I want you to make the test, too. You will do me a favour to write to-day, now, while you have it in mind.

COUNCIL TO ADVISE GOVERNMENTS.

Suggested by British M.P., to Promote Imperial Union.

London, Oct. 7.—(C.A.P.)—Alfred Emmott, M.P., addressing his constituents at Oldham, said: "The Canadians have told us they do not wish us to pay more for food in order to buy it from the colonies if it is against the interests of Britain. The Western farmers of Canada are free traders. As it is obviously to the interests of the manufacturers of Canada not to give up the protection they have, and there is not a sufficient increase of trade to be got from the colonies to pay for the sacrifices we should have to make, the only way to arrive at closer connection with the colonies is through an Imperial council to advise the governments of the various colonies what is best to be done to promote closer Imperial union."

Denounced Chamberlain.

London, Oct. 7.—(C. A. P.)—The Miners' Federation, representing 850,000 members, in session, denounced Chamberlain's policy. The resolution of the Trades Union Congress of Canada was endorsed, and the chairman declared the trades unionists in Canada to be the biggest party in the Dominion.

What Canada Will Do.

London, Oct. 7.—(C.A.P.)—The Irish Times states: "The Canadian ministry have informed Mr. Chamberlain for the second time that if no reciprocity is given by England they will reconsider their position and the preference already given."

No Mandate From Canada.

London, Oct. 7.—(C.A.P.)—Dr. Goldwin Smith writes to a free trade union: "You may rest assured, I believe, that no mandate in favor of Chamberlain's scheme is likely to come from Canada."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. MR. ELLIOTT'S IMPRESSIONS.

Brantford Suspect Had Blood on His Hands Before Murder.

Brantford, Oct. 7.—Joseph Kennedy's remarkable nerve, displayed at the adjourned inquest Monday night, is the principal topic of conversation on the streets, and everybody is impatient to know what is the nature of the statement he promises to make on Thursday morning.

It now transpires that W. G. Elliott of the Portland Cement Co. is prepared to say that Kennedy applied at the office for work on the day before the murder and that his impression is there was a slight trace of blood on one of Kennedy's hands.

Mayor Halloran has received a letter from a person in Albion, Mich., who signs himself "Yours truly." The writer, under the date of Oct. 2, states that Kennedy is not the guilty party and claims that a man who greatly resembles Kennedy probably committed the deed and is now walking around in perfect freedom. He implies that the murderer purposely disguised himself in order to appear similar to Kennedy. The writer makes reference to lynch law and the manner in which many innocent men have been wrongfully punished, and concludes by urging His Worship to use his best endeavors in Kennedy's behalf.

Blew Up a Tug With Dualin.

Kingston, Oct. 7. — Richardson Bros. of this city, carrying on feldspar mining in Bedford township, are meeting with opposition. Recently a large pile of feldspar awaiting shipment was undermined and precipitated into the lake. A fine new tug has just been blown up on Thirty Island Lake. Those guilty of the latter act broke into Richardson Bros'. powder house and stole dualin, placed it on the tug and blew the craft to pieces. The Attorney-General has been asked to send a provincial detective to investigate. Richardson Bros'. offer a reward for the conviction of the perpetrators of the outrage.

Insane Man's Suicide.

London, Ont., Oct. 7.—James E. Haldane, an inmate of the asylum for the insane, adopted an extraordinary method of taking his own life yesterday. He attached chains around his throat, whipped up the horses and they broke his neck instantly. He was a farmer and 24 years of age.

Salvationists For Canada.

London, Oct. 7.—(C.A.P.)—Governor Lamb of the Salvation Army colony at Hadleigh, has been commissioned by General Booth to proceed to Canada to conduct negotiations with the Canadian Government for the emigration of a thousand men, women and children in the spring.

Lad Took Poison.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—Ewart, the three-year-old son of Allen Carswell of Bryson, while playing in a storeroom found a bottle of strychnine. He took some and died three hours later.

A G. T. R. GATEKEEPER WAS BADLY INJURED.

Mr. Richard Twanley of Lindsay, in a Runaway Accident.

Richard Twanley, the G. T. R. gate keeper of the Simcoe street crossing, who boards at the Queen's Hotel, was badly hurt yesterday at about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. It is learned that a horse ran away down Simcoe street as the gates were down and a train crossing. Mr. Twanley was leaning on the gate with his back to the approaching runaway, which he did not see or hear until the horse crashed on to the gate in an attempt to jump it. The iron casting was broken and Mr. Twanley hit below the knees, bringing him forcibly to the ground. At first it was thought his leg was at least broken, but Dr. Greer, on examination, found the gate keeper's bones in perfect condition, he only having sustained some severe bruises.

The injured man's home is in Lindsay, where he has a wife and two children living.

The animal, after smashing the gate, turned and went south down Bethune street, not, however, doing any more damage.

ASHBURNHAM AND PETERBOROUGH.

The Proposal to Amalgamate the Two Municipalities.

UNION WOULD BE BENEFICIAL

The Matter will Probably be Voted on in the Near Future—Cost of Sewage System Should be Borne by Whole Municipality.

The union of Ashburnham and Peterborough Municipalities was the subject of a lengthy discussion at the Ashburnham Council meeting on Monday night. The discussion being induced by a letter received from Mayor Roger. The village Council decided to ask the Union Committee of the town Council to meet the former at Ashburnham to-morrow night when the matter will be further discussed. The Mayor's letter is as follows:—

F. Adams, Esq., Reeve of Ashburnham:

Dear Sir,—The Council of Peterborough would like to know what action if any, your Council is taking in pursuance of the joint resolution passed last spring looking towards the union of the two municipalities. It is now getting towards the end of the year and if the union is to be brought about at the end of this year it will be necessary to have action taken at once.

Yours truly,
G. M. ROGER.

Peterborough, Oct. 3rd, 1903.

The resolution referred to in the Mayor's letter was one passed at the Council meeting of March 17th, and is embodied in the following report of the Committee of the Whole:—

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council, appointed to confer with the Council of Ashburnham in regard to the union of the two Municipalities, appointed a sub-committee which had a conference with the members of the Village Council at which it was agreed that both Committees should report in favour of the Union of the Municipalities, to take effect on Jan. 1st, 1904, the united municipalities to take over the assets and assume the liabilities of the present Town and Village, and the Village to form one ward for all such purposes as wards now serve in the Town or may hereafter serve in the United Municipalities, and in the event of a vote being taken upon the question in the Town it shall be taken upon a date to be agreed upon between the Town and Village Councils so as to have the vote taken upon the question in the two municipalities on the same day, this to be without prejudice to any public works undertaken by either municipality in the meantime.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

That the Ashburnham Council is willing to have the matter submitted to the people is evidenced by the following letter which Mr. Frank Adams, Reeve of Ashburnham, sent to Mayor Roger in reply to his letter of the 3rd inst.

G. M. Roger, Mayor of Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—Replying to your favour of the 3rd inst., I beg to say that since the meeting last spring at which the joint resolution referred to was passed, the Ashburnham Council has had the matter of sewage for the village under consideration. You will remember that this was one of the questions discussed at that meeting.

We now have a plan and report from Willis Chapman, Esq., a sanitary engineer of Toronto, and respectfully invite your Committee on Union to meet the Ashburnham Council on Thursday evening next, in the Ashburnham Council Chamber, Mark street, at 8 o'clock, when the plan will be submitted for consideration.

At this meeting the date of voting on the subject of union can also be arranged and any other matters considered, that may be necessary to further the scheme.

Yours truly,
FRANK ADAMS.
Reeve.

Ashburnham, Oct. 5th, 1903.

The general opinion of Ashburnham residents on this matter is that it would be for the benefit of the village to have the union effected. Ashburnham is now face to face with the necessity for a sewerage system, and it is felt that this would be an opportune time to join with Peterborough. The Examiner, in interviews with some of the residents of the village, found the position to be, that it was generally felt, that a union of the two municipalities was something which was bound to come, and that the longer it was delayed, the greater would be the difficulties in the way of an amicable adjustment of the few points on which a difference of opinion is held.

Those who expressed themselves on the subject thought that the cost of the sewerage system, which must be installed in Ashburnham, should be borne by the amalgamated municipality, and should not be charged to the new ward as a local improvement.

Mr. Frank Adams, reeve of Ashburnham, who was spoken to, said that he was in favour of the proposed union, as he believed it would be to the material advantage of the two municipalities affected.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt also expressed himself as being in favour of the two becoming one, and obtaining incorporation as a city. He thought there would have to be concessions on both sides, but was of the opinion that it would give Peterborough a better standing to be known throughout the Dominion as a city.

Mr. J. C. Sullivan was very busy when called upon, but graciously gave the Examiner his views on the union. He holds the opinion that Ashburnham should remain a separate corporation. He is well satisfied with the way the affairs of the village are being administered by the present council, and thinks that nothing is to be gained by amalgamation.

The opinions of a number of other residents were sought and although they did not wish to be quoted, they were in favour of Ashburnham becoming a part of Peterborough, providing the union can be effected so that impossible burdens will not be placed on the new portion.

It is probably, however, that the whole matter will be submitted to the ratepayers of the two towns at a near date, when they will have an opportunity of registering their approval, or disapproval, of the plan, and it is felt that a majority of the residents will be in favour of the proposal, which has been contemplated for a number of years.

The secretary read the following communication:

Dear Sir,—I am authorised by the Honourable the Minister of Agriculture to arrange for an extensive series of dairy meetings to be held during the coming winter. It is thought that some of this work might well be done in connection with the various cheese and butter boards, and your board is requested to name a committee who will act in conjunction with the officers of the Department in carrying out the idea. The Department will furnish the speakers and pay for the advertising, while the local committee would be expected to assist in distributing advertising matter, to provide meeting places, and to see that such are properly warmed and lighted. This is an effort to reach the the man producing the milk, and it is the intention to have small meetings where the patrons of three or four factories may come together. Kindly advise me as to what action is taken by your Board, and if a committee is appointed please give me the name of the convenor with whom we may correspond to arrange details.

Yours truly,
J. A. RUDDICK.

THE GATES WILL BE EFFICIENTLY OPERATED.

Mayor Roger Receives Word From C. P. R. That a Man Will be Stationed at Gates.

An announcement which may mean much to the safety and protection of those having to drive along George street, and across the C.P.R. tracks, is that made to Mayor Roger by the C.P.R. officials to the effect that a man will be stationed at the crossing to operate the gates at that point. Numerous complaints have reached the town officials that the gates were not being operated effectently, and that the fact of their being up was no guarantee of safety, as trains frequently passed through without the gates being lowered. This is explained by the fact that there is no one whose especial duty it is to attend to the gates, and the Mayor wrote the C.P.R. asking that measures be adopted to guard more closely the public safety. That his request has been granted is a pleasing announcement.

OBITUARY.

The Late Wm. W. Armstrong of Campbellford.

This morning at Campbellford Mr. William W. Armstrong, father of Mr. S. R. Armstrong, town clerk, passed away at the age of 80 years. Last Friday week, Mr. Armstrong fell upon the steps of his residence and sustained serious injuries to his hip, and this, taken in connection with his advanced age, and affection of the heart and kidneys, was sufficient to cause death. Mr. Armstrong was for many years prominently connected with this county. He was a native of County Fermanagh, Ireland, coming to this country about 60 years ago. He has been in business at times in Stirling and Belleville in the late fifties and early sixties he was engaged in teaching in Marmora, being also the clerk of the township. In 1862 he removed to Belmont, and in 1867 opened a general store at Blairton. From 1869 to 1871, he was Reeve of the townships of Belmont and Methuen, and consequently a member of Peterborough County Council, and will be well remembered by many of our older citizens. In 1881 he removed to Campbellford, where he was in business till about five years ago. He was for a time school trustee and chairman of the Board of Education of Campbellford. Mr. Armstrong was possessed of qualities of character which won for him the highest degree of respect in whatever community he was a citizen.

The funeral takes place on Friday next at Campbellford.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and travelling grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself, for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines, and they maintain their their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicines as much as in selling barbwire.

REV. C. H. BONDFIELD AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

A Large Audience Hears His Eloquent Address.

He Spoke in the Interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society - Its Work.

Rev. C. H. Bondfield, of London, Eng., last night spoke in St. Paul's church in the interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society, which was founded on March 7th, 1804, for the purpose of placing into the hands of the many peoples of the world, a translation in their own language of the word of God. During the hundred years of its life the Society has expended sixty-four million dollars upon its project, issuing one hundred and eighty million copies of the Scriptures in 350 different languages, while at the present time it is preparing translations or revisions in over one hundred different languages. The Society has adhered very closely to the principle on which it was founded—"the circulation of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment," and in doing so has done one of the most glorious works which could be effected by mortal man.

Next year will witness the celebration of the first centennial anniversary of the Society which celebration will be respected throughout the Great British Empire and for which event the Canadian Auxiliaries of the parent society are endeavouring to raise a special thank-offering of $50,000. This sum is hoped to be secured by the following methods:—

1. Increasing, and if possible doubling contributions in 1903-4.
2. Increase of the numbers of members and life members.
3. Special envelopes for church offerings, March 6th, 1904, when the authorities of the church will permit the use of such.
4. Such other methods as the Auxiliaries may advise.

It might here be incidentally mentioned that all contributions should be addressed to Mr. Elias Rogers, Treasurer, Upper Canada Bible Society, 102 Yonge street, Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Bondfield last night addressed a large audience although the church was far from being filled. The speaker began by outlining the life and work of the Society during the past 99 years, continuing by stating that the Parent Society without the aid of the Auxiliaries, such as abound in Canada, could not have done such a great work as it has. He said we should not only look back upon what we had done, but also give thanks to God for the progress made. When the inspiration came upon the few godly souls one hundred years ago, they could not have realized to what extent the society would develop. The society last year had printed in 77 countries in all parts of the world, 850 Culporteurs, who sold to those who could afford to buy, and gave to those unable to purchase, 1,900,000 translations of the Holy Scriptures. Last year also 2,500 women were taught to read God's word.

The society knows no denominations, and is the willing servant and co-worker of all. As we think of version after version said Rev. Mr. Bondfield, leaving the publishers' hands, and passing around the world, we can only compare it with the rising of the sun. As we look back and note the wonderful translations of the Bible into languages which a century ago were entirely unheard of and unknown, it gives us encouragement, but there are still languages in China and India, in the South Sea Islands, and all over the less civilized world, in which the word has yet to be written and preached. How could our thirst be quenched if water was 100 miles away? In the same way how can the heathen be converted if he cannot read of the salvation which our God has promised us? The world is closed in upon us, and we are continuously having to find means of putting Bibles into the hands of all the peoples of the world. We must thank God for the open door and the facilities afforded for our work.

The speaker concluded with a forcible appeal for funds to help continue the good work of the society.

Sheriff Hall spoke a few words of thanks for the eloquent address on behalf of the audience, also read the following report:—

John Crane, Treasurer, in account with the Peterborough Bible Society:—

INDUCTION AT STOUFFVILLE.

Rev. Walter Archbold Becomes Rector in Charge.

Rev. Walter Archbold, of Stouffville, was inducted to the charge of the Church of England at that town last night. The induction ceremony was performed by Rev. H. G. Lang, acting for the Rural Dean, while the sermon was preached by Rev. J. C. Davidson. Mr. Archbold was formerly a resident of Peterborough, and was an efficient worker in St. John's church. His many friends here wish him success in his new parish.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE GROWTH of Peterborough has been great, but not greater than the advance of some of its citizens. A view of an old pamphlet, printed to describe "The Advantages of Peterborough and County," brings forcibly to mind the rise and progress of a citizen whose name at that time—1861—was as honourable, if less known and conspicuous, as it is to-day, when it is a power in financial circles, and well known all over this continent and in Europe. The little book referred to is a pamphlet published by the late Hon. Thomas White, also another Peterborough citizen, who subsequently rose to a high position and attained an honourable eminence, but in 1861 was "only a common printer." This pamphlet contained an advertisement of Mr. George A. Cox, then in business, in a humble way, in Peterborough. The great rise of Mr. Cox during the intervening forty-two years, may be briefly and cogently illustrated by means of parallel paragraphs, though there is little parallel in the conditions:—

1861	1903
GEO. A. COX. Photographist and Ambrotypist. Rooms Fitted with Skylight, etc George Street, Peterborough	HON. GEO. A. COX. Statesman, Senator and Financier, Pres'd't Canada Life, Pres. Bk. Commerce etc., etc., etc. Peterboro', Toronto and Ottawa.

It is not unbecoming to rejoice in the rise of a fellow-citizen, nor is it unbecoming to rejoice and boast of the great progress of our country, to whose growth citizens like Mr. Cox have so greatly contributed.

• • •

"I'M SICK OF IT!" said a well-known citizen who, when the action of his liver limps, is an ultramarine-blue pessimist, taking to his tub a la mode Diogenes, and railing like a Thersites. "The way Blair and Stratton puffed up Canada at the opening of the exhibition, was disgusting." Not at all. They spoke as they should speak, as patriotic Canadians. We refer, with pride, to the rise of citizens, by virtue of ability and applied brains, why then not boast of our great resources as a country, and of our great future? Canada's past experience justifies this. Canada has in the past been spoken of by our Yankee cousins with undisguised sneers and contempt, and none the less disgusting has been the tone of insulting tolerance and patronage which our British cousins have used towards us. Even our republican French friends have not been averse to adopt the spirit of the sneer of the Grand Monarque at Canada as "a few arpents of snow." Canada has for a long time been the toad under the international harrow; now, that she is on top, it's no harm to celebrate the fact a little. Time was when every Canadian school book was printed in the United States or Britain. Now every school book is "Made in Canada," all through — from brains to binding. Time was when we took our politics and government from Downing street; now we are as politically independent as any country. Time was when Canada sat still, or impotently squirmed under the knife of treaties negotiated by diplomatic blunderers like Ashburton, which sliced off chunks of our territory big enough for principalities. Now—at this very moment—Canada is doing her own talking—and doing it well—in the matter of the Alaska boundary arbitration. "Generally Speaking" remembers a Yankee map of North America of the past on which a big white blank label: "The Great American Desert" represented the Canadian North-west, now "the Granary of the Empire," where today are domiciled Yankee immigrants as many in numbers as the whole of Canada's population a hundred years ago. The world moves and we are moving with it. We should not be afraid or ashamed to say so. The man who properly asserts his self-respect and has the ability behind it, is taken at his own valuation by the world. The nation which, like Canada, asserts its self-respect and has the resources and ability behind it, will be taken at its own valuation by the nations.

THE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION "struck oil" on Monday when it condemned, by resolution, the raids of ticket sellers. The Association is assured that it has the sympathy of, especially the business portion, of the public, who thank the ministers for trying to put an end to what many merchants consider is very like blackmail. A bevy of energetic ticket sellers distribute a sheaf of church affair tickets amongst their number and their respective victims are listed. One girl says "I'll take so-and-so; our family are good customers of his shop and he daren't refuse." That's where the polite form of blackmail comes in. For fear of offending a good patron, the merchant is forced to buy a ticket for some church enterprise in which he has no more interest than he has in the ginseng crop in China. Then as to the moral side of the matter, giving for religious purposes in church is as much an act of worship as praying, and can the "hold-up" offering bulldozed out of an unregenerate publican, be regarded as an acceptable gift to be laid upon the altar?

FRUIT IS ABUNDANT, especially apples which are a drug on the market and are going to waste by thousands of barrels all over the country. Now is the time for those of limited means or those who spent the time of fruit "canning" at the lakes or in some other grasshopper fashion, to take advantage of the opportune abundance of fruit to lay in a very good substitute for fruit that is not. Apples which are now "as stones for abundance" and will in a few days be past caring for, can be "canned" very cheaply and will make palatable food in the dreary months when the whole land lies in the dreary grip of winter. Apples pared, quartered and cored and properly cooked can be canned without sugar and will keep for months as sweet or sour, as the case may be, as when first tinned. A good supply will "come in handy" in the case where other fruit has become exhausted or where there is a family of growing boys with appetites like the hopper of a mill. Good housewifery consists among other things, in looking ahead and utilizing every opportunity of meriting the encomium of "a good provider."

THE GOVERNMENT'S AID APPRECIATED.

Men at Sault Ste. Marie Receiving Their Pay.

The Examiner has received the following letter from its special correspondent at Sault Ste. Marie:

"The Toronto soldiers have departed for their homes, the last company, C School, leaving on Thursday morning. The local militia are now on guard about the works, and everything is quiet. There are not more than 30 men on guard, who in the daytime hold in check the crowd at the main office and at night are divided up between the car barns, veneer mills, head gates, Tagona Company docks, iron works and the powder magazine. The strongest guard is stationed at the latter place as twenty tons of dynmite is stored there. The men are comfortably quartered on board one of the company's boats, the "Ossifrage," and all details are looked after the same as they would be on active service.

"At 10.30 o'clock on Saturday Saturday morning a special guard was ordered to the Imperial Bank and in a short time returned with the money necessary to pay off the men, between $275,000 and $300,000. The woodsmen were paid first, and at nine o'clock at night all those who had time checks properly signed had been paid, but out of 1600 men only about 200 put in an appearance, so that many have left town. At 6.30 on Saturday morning the crowds began to arrive at the main office until by 8 o'clock about 250 had gathered. It was such a gathering as one may read about in Black Rock or Sky Pilot—rough looking but good natured and jolly. They were allowed into the office ten at a time, and quite a few were there whose hopes were not realized. For instance, one man who came up from Ottawa, had signed an agreement with the company for six months, and had worked for 24 days. He received $8, and was put out of the building. The company is coming in for some sharp criticism for what seems to be almost robbery. Mr. C. N. Smith, Liberal candidate, and through whose efforts the money was secured, is the man of the hour and if the election is brought on will certainly be elected. It will be Thursday before all the men are paid. The man who is held in gaol for being the ring-leader in Monday's rioting, is a Frenchman, and comes from near Ottawa, and the company owed him but 22 cents. Most of those who participated in the rioting were Finns or Swedes; there were many Italians in the crowds but they refrained from doing any damage.

"The Speyer Syndicate has secured control of the company buildings on the American side but have not as yet obtained any foothold on this side. There is likely to be some warm debating in regard to the paying of the Toronto soldiers' expenses. The council seems determined not to pay the bills, but it will be remembered that Valleyfield had to pay the expenses of the Montreal troops there three years ago. The militia at present on duty here are on the pay roll of the company.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong.

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron was taking a stroll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by D. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive Sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

SALISBURY'S SCIONS.

HOW THE SONS OF A GREAT PREMIER COMPARE WITH THEIR SIRE.

New Marquis of Salisbury Is Not Without Ability, But Has as Yet Failed to Show the Qualities That Made His Father Great—Lord H. H. Cecil, Who Shared With Baden-Powell the Defence of Mafeking.

The recent death of Robert Cecil, third Marquis of Salisbury, chief of four cabinets of the British Empire and twelve years premier of England, attracts attention to his eldest son and heir, formerly Viscount Cranborne, and induces speculation as to whether he inherits his father's commanding ability as well as his title and estates.

History has recorded until it has almost become an axiom that the sons of great men seldom become great, and it seems to be the general opinion in England that this axiom will not be reserved in the case of the late marquis' heir, for, while the new holder of the title is not without ability, he has as yet failed to show the qualities that made his father great.

THE NEW MARQUIS OF SALISBURY.
Formerly Viscount Cranborne.

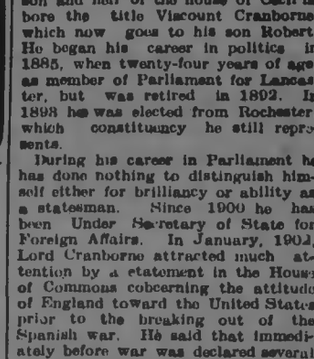
James Edward Hubert Gascoyne Cecil, fourth Marquis of Salisbury, is the eldest of a family of seven—five sons and two daughters. As the son and heir of the house of Cecil he bore the title Viscount Cranborne, which now goes to his son Robert. He began his career in politics in 1885, when twenty-four years of age, as member of Parliament for Lancaster, but was retired in 1892. In 1893 he was elected from Rochester, which constituency he still represents.

During his career in Parliament he has done nothing to distinguish himself either for brilliancy or ability as a statesman. Since 1900 he has been Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. In January, 1902, Lord Cranborne attracted much attention by a statement in the House of Commons concerning the attitude of England toward the United States prior to the breaking out of the Spanish war. He said that immediately before war was declared several communications were received by the British Government from other powers suggesting the presentation of a joint note to President McKinley. England agreed, expressing the hope that further negotiations might lead to a peaceful settlement, but first took steps to ascertain if such a note would be acceptable to the president.

Lord Cranborne added that the British Government declined to associate itself with other subsequent proposals which seemed open to the objection of putting pressure on the American Government. He declined to say by what powers the latter proposals were or to publish any papers on the subject.

The new Marquis of Salisbury was educated at Eton and Oxford and was married to Cicely, daughter of the fifth Earl of Arran, about twelve years ago. Their eldest son, born in 1893, if he survives his father, will one day be the fifth Marquis of Salisbury.

But two other sons of the late Marquis have become prominent before the public. They are Lord Edward Herbert Cecil and Lord Hugh Cecil. Lord Edward is the fourth son and has won considerable fame as a soldier. He is a major in the Grenadier Guards and before the opening of hostilities was sent to South Africa on special service. He was shut up in Mafeking with Colonel Baden-Powell and was wounded in one of the sorties. He went with the expedition to Dongola in 1896 and was present at the taking of Omdurman and Khartoum in 1898. Lord Edward is a veritable son of Anak, and his height, which is considerably over six feet, makes him a noticeable figure in any assembly. He married in 1894 a daughter of Admiral Maxse of the British navy.



LORD EDWARD HERBERT CECIL.

According to a story that emanated from Lord Kitchener, Lord Edward deserves as much credit as does Baden-Powell for the defence of Mafeking. Lord Kitchener relates that soon after reaching South Africa he came across a well-known Dutchman who was filling large contracts for provisioning the British army, from whom he learned this incident: Just before the breaking out of hostilities the contractor received instructions to send a certain quantity of stores to Mafeking. While shipment was going forward Lord Edward Cecil called on the contractor and asked for particulars of the stores. These being supplied, he said:

"Could you send four times as much?"

"Yes, if I had authority," said the contractor.

"Very well," said Lord Edward; "you send four times as much as you have orders for, and I will give my note for the cost of the surplus quantity. If the Government doesn't pay you I will."

Considering the fact that Lord Edward's financial resources were chiefly represented by his pay as major, an undertaking to pay $150,000 to $200,000 out of his private purse was characteristically daring. The contractor thought he was safe in dealing with the premier's son and sent the stores. Mafeking was stocked with provisions and general stores four times as great in quantity as the authorities thought was sufficient. According to Lord Kitchener's testimony; that is how Mafeking managed to hold out.

Lord Hugh Richard Heathcote Cecil, fifth and youngest son of the late member of Parliament, having representer, like his elder brother, is a scented Greenwich since 1895. He is a typical Cecil in appearance and temperament. Those who are old enough to remember his father as a young man say that Lord Hugh is the very duplicate of his famous progenitor. He is regarded as the enfant terrible of his party, but was idolised by the old marquis, who looked upon the young man as the successor of the family honors in the political arena. The dead statesman, it is said, long ago gave up the hope once centered in his eldest son and heir. It is to Lord Hugh that the Cecils look for their continued glorification.

Tall, thin as a reed, very pallid, very nervous—his long, thin hands shake for half an hour before he is going to make a speech—he looks more like a hungry curate than the free lance politician of thirty-four. He has great powers of eloquence, is unusually quick, belligerent in manner, unresponsive to the most urgent appeal for moderation or reason other than that which agrees with his own set views and has an unhappy manner of making enemies of his intimate friends.

But he is a Cecil all over, even to the family stoop and the shabbiness of his clothes. He was of course born in politics. After leaving school he was made private secretary to his father, who was then foreign minister, and, being a good Tory, as well as his father's son, was in due time elected member from Greenwich. He represented his electors so creditably and respectably, for he always managed to get his name into the papers, thus giving Greenwich a boost in its own estimation, that he was elected again, and he bids fair to represent Greenwich for the rest of his political life, which promises to be long, strenuous and interesting.

The halo of the Cecil name protects him from abuse, and the prestige of it gives him a power that another young man of equal ability could not command. In England he is regarded as the ablest of sons of the late leader and a possible prime minister in the distant future. But he has a long and rugged road ahead of him and many difficulties to overcome before he reaches that eminence, if he ever does.

A Slave to Method.

A medical specialist was very much in the habit of using a notebook to assist his memory and insure precision. In course of time it happened that his aged father died. The worthy doctor attended the obsequies as chief mourner with due solemnity. At the close he was observed to take out his notebook and carefully to erase the words "Mem. Bury father."

STRUCK THE ROOT OF HIS TROUBLE.

James Atwell Cured his Kidneys by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Campbellford, Ont., Oct. 5.—(Special).—That Urinary Troubles and Lumbago are the result of disordered Kidneys has been proved by James Atwell of this place. He had Lumbago and pains in the bladder, and in passing his urine would hurt him so as to almost cause tears to come to his eyes.

Speaking of his case, Mr. Atwell says:

"I think Dodd's Kidney Pills made a permanent cure in my case, but I will never be without them in the house. I had Lumbago and Bladder Trouble for years. I tried other medicines and a bandage prescribed by the doctor, but I could get no relief till I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

Ideals of Beauty.

Famous men and famous judges of beauty have differed very greatly in their idea of what constitutes it.

Byron liked glossy hair clustering around a white, smooth brow; delicately arched eyebrows and glowing cheeks frequently suffused with blushes.

Spenser very explicitly described his style of comeliness. It consisted in "eyes like sapphires, teeth like pearls, a forehead like ivory, hair like gold and hands of silvery whiteness."

Scott's heroines were generally soft eyed and pensive, with sweeping eyelashes and high, intellectual foreheads.

Ben Jonson preferred a face characterised by simplicity of expression, flowing hair and "a sweet neglect."

Cowper placed very high value on cheeks of damask.

Applied Dictionarylitis.

Mrs. Mixitt, whose husband recently achieved wealth, and as a result bought 200 feet of books for his library, found much to interest her in the volumes. Especially was she taken with the dictionary, the study of which she found to be a great help to her in conversing with the cultured people whom she met at different places.

Some friends called one evening to bid the Mixitts farewell before the latter left for their European tour.

"Now," said one of the friends, "when you go to climb those mountains you be sure that you have a good guide."

"We will," said Mrs. Mixitt. "I wrote to the landlords of all the hotels where we will stop and told them to retain us the services of their best pathologists."—Judge.

A Reminiscence of Fanny Kemble.

Fanny Kemble is remembered by old residents of Germantown and Philadelphia as a superb horsewoman. She had a fiery temper, which matched that of her husband, Pierce Butler, and speedily brought about one of the most noted divorce trials reported in the law books. In her youth she was remarkably beautiful, and in the role of Juliet she was the personification of dazzling loveliness. She was noted for her keenness of wit even in the days of her old age. Once when an impertinent street lounger stepped up to her while she was looking in the window of a bric-a-brac store and said, "Are you fond of antiquities?" Mrs. Kemble quickly unpinned her veil and, turning on the man her aged face (she was then seventy-three), asked, "Are you?"

An Aggravating Speech.

One of the wits of the parliament house is said to have observed on the occasion of Judge Dean' promotion to the honor of knighthood, "The queen may make George Dean a knight, but no one will ever make him a gentleman." Dean was quite able, however, to hold his own, and he punished the wits when they came to make their maiden speeches before him. "Prisoner at the bar," he once said to an unfortunate wretch on whose behalf an infant advocate had been feebly urging "extenuating circumstances," "everything that your counsel has said in mitigation I consider to be an aggravation of your offense."

Two Ways of Doing Business.

The industrious man—the plain, everyday kind, we mean—gets to his work early. Three hours later the man of marked executive ability drops in to see that the industrious man keeps steadily at work. If everything is going well the man of marked executive ability leaves for the day, for there is no need for a display of his peculiar qualities. If everything is going ill the man of marked executive ability quits at once in order that his reputation may not be compromised by his presence.

Chamberlain's Woods.

Here is a story of an amusing incident that occurred at Highbury a few years ago. Mr. Chamberlain had planted a number of young larches about his grounds with the object of ultimately having the place well wooded. One night he gave a dinner party, to which, among others, his son, the present Postmaster-General, was invited. The latter was very late, and the assembled guests were kept waiting for him in the drawing room, to the obvious annoyance of his father. At length, Auston Chamberlain arrived, and in reply to his father's remark as to his lack of punctuality, he said, with a sly glance at some of those present, "Oh, I must really apologise. I should have been here in ample time, but as a matter of fact, I lost my way in your woods." There was a regular outburst of merriment at this, as the "woods" in question were about two feet high at that time.—London Answers.

GEESE AS GUARDIANS.

Said to Be More Effective as Sentinels Than Watch Dogs.

Having discharged the family watchdog, in disgarce, says London Answers, a farmer in the Midlands has installed two enormous grey geese as guardians of his home. These are more effective as sentinels than the best watchdog that ever lived, he thinks. In addition to which they have the following points in their favor. They do not howl at the moon; they do not make friends with visiting burglars and bite the parson; they do not transform the front garden into a depository for ancient bones. Like most big ganders they are belligerent. The minute the front gate clicks they come rushing around from the back yard with wings outstretched and dapping, looking for a fight. It is no use to say, "Good doggy, nice doggy," to them. They cannot be flattered or cajoled. Moral suasion falls futile. The average burglar who hears about these geese will doubtless be of the idea that one has only to say, "shoot chicky," to send them scuttling. Any burglar who knows a goose will know better. A big grey gander is not afraid of anything. These two will attack anything that comes in the front gate with the savageness of a bulldog. And they are able to do about as much damage. They take flying leaps at the intruder, beating him about the head with their wings and punishing him in the face with their bills. All the time they keep up such a blessing and noise that it is enough to scare away the stoutest-hearted burglar.

Drolls to the Front in England.

Sir Edward Clarke, K.C., who was entertained in Toronto recently, is an admirable example of the fact that brains count in the public life of the United Kingdom, although not yet so potent a factor as birth Sir Edward, who is in his 63rd year, is the son of a London jeweller. He was educated at the city of London College and King's College, was a clerk in the India Office for a short time, studied law, and became a House of Commons reporter and a contributor to The Standard's literary columns. The law claimed him finally in 1864, when he was called to the Bar. Sixteen years afterward he "wore silk" and entered Parliament. His splendid powers as a debater were of great value to the Conservative party, and in 1886 he became Solicitor-General in Lord Salisbury's Government and received the honor of Knighthood. He followed Mr. Gladstone in the great home rule debate of 1893, which means that Sir Edward is in the front rank of speakers in England. Sir Edward sat for Plymouth for the twenty years—1880-1900—but resigned after vigorously attacking Mr. Chamberlain's conduct of the South African negotiations. It was his belief that Mr. Chamberlain's blundering or bad faith brought on the war. Sir Edward, therefore, can hardly be expected to receive with enthusiasm the latest project of the man from "Brummagem."

Post Office Rumors.

A member of the London post-office department tells of an undelivered letter which when opened was found to contain a long list of sad troubles. But the writer struck one note of gladness at the end of the epistle in the sentence, "Thank God, the pig had ten young ones."

The officials once had a letter addressed to "Uncle John, Hoppesite the Church, London, Hingland." This was not delivered, but another one was. It was addressed thus: "To My Sister Jean, Up the Canongate, Down a Close, Edinburgh. She Has a Wooden Leg." This last part of the address was doubtless the clew.

In the telegraph department of the British postoffice they get curious messages also. One young married man hurried to wire interesting news to his wife's relatives. "Twins to-day; more to-morrow."

ARE YOU ONE OF THE WEAK ONES?

Subject to Sinking Spells and Feelings of Languor, Depression and Weakness—You can be Helped by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Very many people feel much as you do. They do not like to confess that they are sick, but they are weak and languid, feel drowsy and depressed after meals, are easily tired and discouraged, suffer from indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability and general bodily weakness. At times, it may be, some of the old-time vigor returns, but you no more than get your hopes aroused when the sinking spells come on again and you are as helpless and disheartened as ever.

Such symptoms point to lack of nourishment in the blood and an exhausted nervous system. You can get well if you will but restore the system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great food cure forms new blood and instils new force and energy into the wasted and depleted nerve cells. It makes you well in nature's way by supplying to the blood and nerves the very elements in which they are lacking.

These symptoms of which you complain are but a warning of approaching nervous prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or even insanity. The time to act is before these dreadful diseases of the nerves have fastened themselves upon you. They are much easier to prevent than to cure, as many know, on account of long years of helplessness and suffering.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will give you new hope and courage. Not only will you be able to feel the benefit you are deriving from it, but by noting your increase in weight you can prove conclusively that new, firm flesh and tissue is being added to your body.

The success of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in curing all ailments arising from weakness of the blood and an exhausted condition of the nerves has been phenomenal. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 7

A MUSICAL NATION

By RAYMOND RAYNE

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Among the many unpleasant tasks which fall to the lot of a concert agent not the least difficult is to decline the tempting offers of certain virtuosi without hurting their very sensitive feelings.

When Pan Ogie Trepanowski wrote to me from Poland in this sense, my first impulse was to indite a very firm refusal. Reading his letter a second time, however, I gathered from the mixture of English and what appeared to be Volapuk, in which his intentions were conveyed, that he was following on its heels with such truly artistic impetuosity that no reply could possibly reach him in time to prevent his departure.

All his qualifications were duly set forth. Of course his hair (he inclosed a photograph) and his names were unexceptional; the rest I did not go into. It was quite out of the question for me to run any pianoforte virtuoso on my own account, unless indeed it had been the Paderewski himself.

On the morning of the 14th I received a telegram couched in these terms: "Locomotive twelve hours permit that one encounters me to the station Trepanowski." On solving this—he had evidently got it word by word from a dictionary—I gathered that the professor was coming by way of Quebec on the 12 o'clock train, and wanted to be met at the station.

I went down myself and saw the train in. Pan Ogie was there—a private detective could not have missed him. He stood well over six feet and was broad even for his height. Despite the warmth of a summer's day he wore an immense fur lined overcoat with collar and cuffs of sable.

He spoke English rather worse than he wrote it, but fortunately understood fairly well what was said to him. He was full of questions about the series of concerts which he supposed I had already arranged for him. I avoided giving any definite replies as well as I could until we reached the house.

During luncheon I was saved any trouble by the artist's appetite, which was well sustained and did credit to my housekeeping. We retired to the music room, and I got Pan Ogie behind a big cigar before breaking to him that I had not yet arranged any concerts. I told him that many most deserving foreign artists spent their first decade in New York in playing for nothing at the functions of wealthy patrons of the art and in giving their services at charity concerts, or, in fact, wherever two or three could be gathered together to hear them. I said that was a popular error into which all Europe seemed to have fallen. I told him we were the most musical nation in the world. I sank my voice to a confidential whisper. I said, "The real reason we cannot get audiences is that for some time past listeners have been to a man (or a woman) better performers than those on the platform."

Pan Ogie looked incredulous. It was time to lead trumps. I said, "I will wager anything you like that the first tradesman who calls at this house this afternoon will play you any one of Beethoven's sonatas you choose to name."

Pan Ogie laughed aloud.

"You make what you call se fun, is it not?" he asked.

"I was never more serious in my life," I replied. I rang the bell, and the servant entered.

"Parkin," I said, "ask the first tradesman who calls to step up here."

"Mr. Blunt, the pork butcher, is downstairs now, sir," said Parkin.

"Well, ask him to spare me a moment or two."

"Yes, sir," replied the impassive Parkin and disappeared.

The door opened, and Mr. Blunt walked in. He was in his shirt sleeves and had on the blue apron which seems inseparable from the vending of pork.

"What can I do for you today, sir?" he said. "I have just started a new line of sausages which I can thoroughly recommend. I call them the Diminuendo brand merely for distinction. They taper toward one end, you see."

I suppressed a smile.

"It was not in connection with your—er—profession that I wanted to see you, Mr. Blunt. Do you play the piano?"

"Well, I do, sir, or, rather, I did. In fact, I very much wanted to go in for the music when I left school, but my father would not hear of it. He said there was no money in it. 'The music business is played out,' he would say. 'There are too many at it. But the art of making sausages will always provide a competency for the few.'"

"Quite true, Mr. Blunt," I assented. "Now, the professor and I are at issue as to the tempo of a movement in one of Beethoven's sonatas, and I should be greatly obliged if you would play it to us. It is the first movement of opus 8."

The pork butcher sat down deferentially on the piano stool, presenting a singularly unmusical spectacle.

"I have not had any practice for months; still to oblige a customer," and he struck the commanding phrase which begins the introduction.

Before he had played many bars the pork butcher had disappeared and the artist was revealed. The colossal phrases of Beethoven's last sonata were given out with a certainty, a restrained force, a nobility of tone, an all compelling rhythm, which took the listener by the throat.

When the last chord had died away there was a hushed pause. Then the professor burst forth into a torrent of polyglot superlatives. He embraced the reluctant pork butcher. He demanded of me why such a player did not devote himself to the career of a virtuoso. I assured him that Mr. Blunt was a fair specimen of the public to whom artists had to appeal in America.

"I don't know whether you are aware of it," said Blunt, speaking to me, "but your two servants are capital hands at the violin and cello. They come around to my house for a trio sometimes when they get a Sunday off."

I rang the bell, and Parkin again appeared.

"Mr. Blunt tells me you play the violin, Parkin," I said. "Please ask William to bring his cello and let us hear a trio."

"Yes, sir," answered Parkin, as placidly as if I had ordered whisky and soda.

He returned almost immediately, bringing his violin. William followed him. Apparently disturbed in the act of blacking boots, his hands and arms bore unmistakable signs of his employment, this evidence being eked out by a large black smear down one side of his nose. He carried his violoncello in one hand and his bow in the other.

"You did not tell me you played the cello," I said to William. "I want you to show this gentleman how three Americans can play this trio of Smetana. Do you think you can manage it?"

I handed him the music which I had taken from the bookcase. He laid down his bow and rubbed his hand on his trousers before turning over the leaves with a gingerly thumb and forefinger.

"It looks rather stiff, but I'll have a go at it, sir."

The technical difficulties of this romantic work of Smetana are extreme, even when they are familiar, but to render the composition at sight with the freedom and abandon which it demands might fairly be deemed impossible. Nevertheless on this occasion the astounded professor heard a performance wherein the complete mastery of the several instruments was surpassed by the unanimity and poetry of the rendering.

Trepanowski declared he had never heard such an ensemble. His admiration was so frank and general that I began to have scruples of conscience. It was too late to go back, however. I pressed him to play. He declined politely, but firmly.

I dismissed the performers with thanks for the exercise of their skill, the professor adding many compliments both intelligible and otherwise.

When we found ourselves alone Trepanowski remained silent.

"It is merveilleux!" he ejaculated at length. "What then are your public artists like?"

"You have heard D'Eugen?" I inquired in turn.

"Ja, ja. He is magnifique!"

"Well, he left America. Why did he leave England? You shall answer the question for yourself."

He gave another shrug.

"I shall think; I shall write to you; one thousand time thanks."

I insisted on seeing him to the station. On the way he was wrapped in a gloomy silence. Only when we arrived on the platform did he recover a little. A harsh voiced porter was calling out the various stopping places of the incoming train. The professor touched him on the shoulder.

"My friend, what instrument do you play?" he asked sadly.

The porter looked at him in surprise.

"Chicago express," he said from sheer habit and passed on.

I parted from the professor with mingled feelings. I had begun to like him. When I returned home I found my three friends, H— S, F— H—, and T— W— (an intelligent public will fill the blanks), engaged on a Beethoven trio.

I heard from Trepanowski in due time, but his letter was dated from Poland. He had decided not to try his fortune in America.

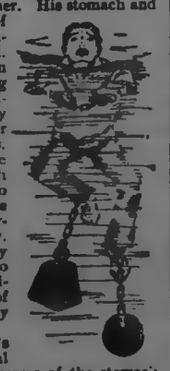
A MAN CAN'T swim in shackles. It isn't a question of his winning a race, but a question of being able only to keep afloat. The man who is suffering from malnutrition is like the fettered swimmer. His stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased. It is not a question with him of winning in the race for business but of simply keeping up under any circumstances.



Whenever disease affects the stomach it is affecting also the blood and the health of every organ of the body. For blood is only food converted into nutrition and nutrition is the life of the body and every organ of it.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood and enables the perfect nutrition of the body which means perfect health.

"For six long years I suffered with indigestion and my liver and kidneys, which baffled the best doctors in our country," writes E. L. Ransell, Esq., of Woolsey, Prince William Co., Va. "I suffered with my stomach and back for a long time, and after taking a 'cart-load' of medicine from three doctors I grew so bad I could hardly do a day's work. Would have death-like pains in the side, and blind spells. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Before I had taken half of the second bottle I began to feel relieved. I got six more bottles and used them, and am happy to say I owe my life to Dr. Pierce."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

British Government Appoints Commission to Inquire Into the Alleged Physical Deterioration of Lower Classes.

The Government has appointed a Commission to inquire into the alleged physical deterioration of the lower classes in the United Kingdom. Almeric W. Fitzroy, clerk of the Privy Council, is the chairman. He is assisted by the former head of the army gymnastic school, the inspector of reformatories, the chief of the navy recruiting service, statisticians and others.

The appointment of the Commission was the outcome of a debate in the House of Lords, July 16, during which Lord Meath and the Bishop of Ripon drew attention to the terrible conditions prevailing among the poorer classes. The Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council, then admitted that Great Britain's military and industrial outlook was seriously threatened and promised an inquiry into the matter.

The subject was also brought up in the House of Commons by Sir William R. Anson, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Education, who declared 60,000 children now attending London schools were physically unfit for instruction.

The Director General of the Army Medical Service reports that one man in every three offered as recruits had to be rejected. The appointment of the Commission is hailed with approval. The Daily Chronicle says:

"If the people as a whole are deteriorating we must change our ways or give up the national struggle as a mistake. The creation and preservation of a fine stock of mankind is the first, perhaps the only, reason for national existence, and if the mass of the people are going downhill in physique we may be quite sure it is going downhill in character and intellect as well."

A Living Paper Cutter.

The following story is told by a South African paper: "An Indian rajah who had learned the English language after a fashion frequently visited some years ago the Viceroy of Calcutta and on one occasion borrowed of the latter a copy of the Edinburgh Review, which he happened to see lying on the table. When he returned the magazine the viceroy asked him if he had found anything interesting in it. 'Oh, yes,' he replied; 'many beautiful things, but also many disconnected articles. See here. This begins with "Hunting the Orang-outang," does it not? And now turn over the page, and here you have "The History of Mary Stuart."' The viceroy laughed. He perceived that the rajah had attempted to read the book without cutting the leaves. He accordingly took from his table a beautiful ivory paper cutter, explained its use to his visitor and made him a present of it. About a year after this occurrence the viceroy saw a gay company entering the court and in the centre of it the rajah seated on a young elephant. No sooner did he see the viceroy than he cried: 'Do you happen to have an uncut copy of The Edinburgh Review If so, please toss it to me.' The viceroy threw out the magazine. It was caught by the elephant, who placed it between his tusks, which had been wrought into elegant paper cutters, even including carved handles, and quickly cut open the leaves, after which the knowing animal passed The Review back to the surprised viceroy. The rajah then dismounted and said to the viceroy as he pointed to the elephant: 'He is yours. I return you the paper cutter alive.'"

Anecdotes of Churchmen.

An excellent paper of anecdotes of Churchmen is contributed to the August number of Blackwood's Magazine by "Sigma." The writer tells several stories of Blomfield, Bishop of London. One of these arose out of the complex character of the Bishop's plentiful domestic circle. It appears that His Lordship married twice, and in both unions had been blessed with progeny, while his second wife was a widow, who, besides supplementing her second husband's family, had imported an independent brood of her own. "In my experience, the children of ecclesiastics do not, even under normal conditions, always exemplify the Christian unity so solemnly enjoined from the parental pulpit, and with such a blend as that which I have just denoted, it is scarcely surprising that unruffled peace was not invariably present under the Bishop's roof. On one occasion when an unequal battle was raging fast and furious among the miscellaneous offspring, the Bishop was disturbed in his study by the impetuous entrance of his lady. 'What is it, my dear?' he inquired, with ill-concealed testiness. 'Oh, Bishop,' she replied in agonized accents, 'quick, quick, there's not a moment to lose. Your children are siding with my children, and are murdering our children!'"

THE GROVES OF BLARNEY.

The groves of Blarney; they look so charming,
Down by the purlings of sweet silent brook—
All deck'd by nature, that spontaneously grow there,
Planted in order in the rocky nooks.
'Tis there the daisy, and the sweet carnation,
The blooming pink, and the rose so fair;
Likewise the lily and the daffodilly—
All flowers that scent the sweet, open air.

'Tis Lady Jeffers owns the plantation,
Adam Alexander, or Helen fair;
There's no commander in all the nation
For regulation can with her compare,
Such walks surround her, that no nine-pounder
Could ever plunder her place of strength;
But Oliver Cromwell he did her pummel,
And made a breach in her battlement.

There's gravel walks there for speculation,
As contemplation in sweet solitude;
'Tis there the lover may hear the dove, or
The gentle plover, in the afternoon.
And if a young lady should be so engaging
As to walk along in those shady bowers,
'Tis there her courtier he may transport her
In some dark fort, or under the ground.

For 'tis there the cave where no daylight enters,
But bats and badgers are forever bred;
Being moss'd by nature, that makes it sweeter
Than a couch and six, or a feather bed.
'Tis there's the lake that is stored with perches,
And comely eels in the verdant mud;
Besides the leeches, and the groves of beeches,
All standing in order for to guard the flood.

'Tis there the kitchen hangs many a stitch in,
With the maids a-stitching upon the stair;
There's bread and bisket, the beer and whiskey,
Would make you frisky if you were there.
'Tis there you'd see Reg Murphy's daughter
A-washing praties foreneat the door,
With Roger Cleary and Father Healy,
All blood relations to my Lord Donoughmore.

There's statues gracing this noble place in,
All heather goddesses so fair—
Bold Neptune, Plutarch and Nicodemus,
All standing naked in the open air.
So now to finish the brave narration,
Which my poor gyul could not entwine;
But here I Homer, or Nebuchadnezzar,
'Tis in every feature I would make it shine.

—Richard Alfred Millikin.

Nature and Deformity.

Nature is very particular to conceal her deformities, and all that is worthless or ungraceful generally drops off from a tree unless it be an injury to the trunk. From such effects the tree never recovers. Go into the forests and how often we see deformed trees, some bent and twisted, some parted till the original trunk becomes like two, each crossing and recrossing the other. This was done by depression or injury to the tree in its young and tender years. Nature has no power to right a broken law either in the animal or the vegetable organism. Punishment follows, and deformity results.

A Generous Secretary.

A curious story is told of Lord Rowton in his younger days as Mr. Montague Cory when he was secretary to Lord Beaconfield. In 1868 came the Fenian outbreak, with the Clerkenwell explosion and the consequent desolation of the neighborhood. The private secretary walked across from St. Arthur's club to a fashionable harness maker's in St. James' street and was at once fitted with a strong leather girdle from which depended two enormous pockets. Thus equipped, he drove to Downing street to see the chief. "In heaven's name, what is this?" was the exclamation of surprised astonishment. "I am going," replied the secretary, "to distribute largess of silver and copper to the Clerkenwell sufferers. I have a hansom waiting below. When I have placed some small change in these pockets I shall drive off."

It was of Lord Rowton that Lord Sherbrooke said at his elevation to the peerage: "Caligula made his horse a consul. I really see no reason why Lord Beaconsfield should not create his private secretary a peer."

A MERCHANT ON TICKET SELLING.

Discusses the Question Raised by Ministerial Association.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me a small space in your columns in which to offer my congratulations to the members of the Ministerial Association for their action in discountenancing the ticket selling nuisance—for it has become a real nuisance. When you consider that, connected with the churches in Peterborough and Ashburnham there are at least one hundred organisations of different kinds and that when any one of these societies determines to hold an entertainment, every member of it troops up and down George street and the other business streets, "holding up every merchant in town. In some cases, in order to move successfully blackmail us, they divide themselves into groups and each little group "holds up" the merchants at whose stores they generally deal. There is a drawer in nearly every store in town in which you will find stowed away handfuls of these little pasteboard mementoes which recall to our minds the roguish smile or the drooping eyelid of some fair ticket seller who was not averse to using some of the arts of feminine witchery to cajole the hard hearted merchant when ordinary methods did not suffice. The business men's Association should have taken this up long ago, but they were always afraid to tackle it, but now that the ministers have shown them the way, I hope they will stiffen their backbones and refuse to be blackmailed any longer. Each merchant has enough to do when he properly supports his own church societies.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THEM.

GOLF.

THE SIRATTON TROPHY

This beautiful trophy has been won for the present year by Mr. J. Hampden Burnham.

The competition for this cup is by medal play. There were 58 entries for this contest and the first draw was finished on 11th September, since then rounds have been continued until yesterday when Mr. Burnham and Mr. V. C. McGill played off the final.

The final game resulted in a decisive victory for Mr. Burnham, who played a consistant and steady game all through, as the score below will show.

Mr. McGill who finished in 91, made his second round in 38. During the first round he experienced some of the trials of golf, when at the O'Herron he drove through the fence into the ditch and lost heavily.

This trophy was won last year by Mr. A. D. Burnett with the score of 80.

The score was as follows:—

Mr Burnham:

	Tot'l	H'cap	Net
1st round ... ... 446434654—39
2nd round ... ... 536534654—40	79	0	79

Mr. McGill:

	Tot'l	H'cap	Net
1st round ... .4554 10 5834—53
2nd round ... . 346444554—38	91	5	86

Mr. Burnham 7 strokes up.

* * * *

Mr. Miles Hamilton yesterday morning in a game with Mr. McGill, broke the record of the links, which previously was 77, made by Mr. Burnham, by making the round of 18 holes in 75.

His card ran as follows:—

1st round ... ...436333565—38
2nd round ... ...445343554—37—75

This is the same as the professional record held by Mr. Freeman. The record last year was 79 also held by Mr. Hamilton.

* * * *

Geo. Powell's "Red Pat" took first money in the 2.30 trot at Kinmount Fair, winning in three straight heats, in 2.50, 249 1-2, 2.49 1-4.

Geo. Powell went to Napanee this morning taking with him "Sphinx B," "Rob Roy," "Black Mac" and "Red Pat," which he will enter in the races being held there.

HOCKEY.

It is hoped that Oshawa's proposal to place a team in the Intermediate Series of the O.H.A. will be carried out. In previous years the teams in this district have been too few and consequently the season for the losing team was rather short. A district made up of Belleville, Peterborough, Oshawa and Port Hope with a double schedule would give each team six home games and make the season better in every way. Marlboros, who went into the finals last year with Paris after winning the protest against Belleville are talking of entering the senior series this year. The Marlboros were by no means out of their class last year but of course as there is very little difference between Intermediate and Senior, the chances are they might make a fairly good showing. Paris, last year's champions, will likely follow suit.

If Belleville carries out her threat to enter the series and Oshawa fails to put in a team it will be up to Peterborough and Port Hope to take a step higher also.—Port Hope Guide.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mrs. James McLean is enjoying life in Toronto, from there she will go on a visit to her daughter at Richmond Hill.

The annual meeting of the Bible Society was held here on the 29th of September. The agent, Rev. J. H. Locke, of Omemee, gave a splendid discourse on the Bible and the circulation of it by the British and Foreign Bible Society. Rev. Mr. Mounteer opened the meeting by reading a portion of the scriptures and prayer. The choir was well prepared with very suitable selections for the occasion for which a vote of thanks was given them.

Mr. J. R. McLean, of Toronto, is visiting at the home of his grand-parents.

The Millbrook fair is said to have been the best ever held in the village, showing great improvement over previous exhibitions.

Potatoes are likely to be scarce this season. There are reports of rot, which, however, may not be so bad as reported.

Enormous Growth.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. This is probably the best evidence of their remarkable efficiency as a treatment for derangements of the kidneys, liver and bowels. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Dr. Pendry Died in Brooklyn, New York.

The many friends of Mrs. (Dr.) Pendry, of Brooklyn, N.Y., will regret to learn of her death, which occurred at Brooklyn, on Monday, after a lingering illness, extending over a period of about 8 months. Mrs. Pendry lived in Peterborough a number of years ago, and it was by her express wish that her remains are being brought here for burial. They will arrive to-night, and the funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. Ed. Courtney, Concession street, Ashburnham, on Thursday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery. The late Mrs. Pendry was born in England, and came to Peterborough, where she with her husband lived, until about 25 years ago, when they left for Brooklyn, N.Y., where they have lived ever since. During her residence here Mrs. Pendry made a great many friends, who will be deeply pained to hear of her death. She leaves one son, and her husband also survives her. The deceased lady always felt a warm love for Peterborough, and it was her earnest wish that she should be buried here. Her husband is a veterinary surgeon in Brooklyn, as is also her son.

VISITED SCHOOLS IN WESTERN ONTARIO.

Deputation From Local Board of Education on a Business Trip.

Obtaining Information Relating to the Subject of Free Text Books.

Some two months ago the Board of Education adopted a resolution in favour of the principle of public ownership of all school books, and a committee, composed of Messrs. Pringle, chairman; J. J. Hartley, W. H. Hill and F. J. Jameson, was appointed to consider the matter, and report on the best system to be made use of. As a means of ascertaining the results of public ownership in other cities, the committee, accompanied by Inspector D. Walker, this week visited Toronto, Brantford and Hamilton, where this system is in force, with varying methods of administration. The system has been in use in Toronto since 1892, while Hamilton has been supplying free text books for fifty years, and Brantford for forty years, and in each city those in charge of educational affairs state that the system has met with complete success. The object of the visit of the committee was to get the details of the working of the system, because it was recognized that while the principle might be the correct one, unless it was administered properly it would prove a failure. In each of the cities visited it was learned that while on its adoption, the system had some opponents, all agree that at present the universal opinion is that it is by far the more successful system.

In Toronto, the first city visited, the committee was shown through a number of schools by Mr. J. L. Hughes, the Inspector, who treated the members of the committee with every courtesy. The text books, ink, pencils, paper, work books, etc., are all supplied to the pupils absolutely free, but they remain the property of the Board, and are simply loaned, and must be returned on the pupil leaving school, or advancing to a higher grade. They have a very complete system of keeping account of all books given out, and a special room in the city hall is devoted to the supply department, and persons appointed to have charge of the books. The Inspector impresses upon the principal of each school the necessity for the children taking good care of the books supplied them, which is an education in itself, and the result of the care thus exercised is seen in the after-life of the pupils. The teachers in each school have to examine periodically all books, including the note books, used by the pupils, and any sign of carelessness are promptly and severely dealt with. The system is found to work admirably.

From Toronto the deputation went to Brantford, where they were met at the station by a deputation from the Board of Education, and entertained very pleasantly by them while in the city. They were also shown through the schools there, which are certainly a credit to the city, and far superior in the elegance of the buildings and efficiency of the equipment to Peterborough's educational institutions. That day prizes were being awarded to pupils who had made the best showing in the different subjects, Arithmetic, history, geography, spelling, writing, etc. These prizes had been offered by citizens of the town, and were said to be a great stimulus to good work on the part of the pupils. A photograph of each successful pupil is taken, and, after being handsomely framed, is hung upon the wall of the room in which the pupil was at the time of taking honours. The system adopted by the board in dealing with the text-books is that while all books are supplied by the board, there is a small monthly fee charged, and even then there is a saving effected to the public of at least one-third. The fee ranges from thirty cents per year, to scholars in the part first, to twenty cents per month in the higher grades. The books here also are returned when a pupil is promoted and remain the property of the Board. This system is universally admitted in the city as being a highly satisfactory one. But few pupils are exempt from the fee; those whose parents are too poor to pay for the fee are exempted, but exemption is only allowed after the truant officer has investigated the case and reported in favour of it. In this city two departments have been added to the curriculum, and these have met with great popular favour. They are the Manual Training for Boys and Domestic Science for Girls. These departments are so popular with the pupils that they even ask to be allowed to come back on Saturdays and work at them. It is said that these departments are among the most beneficial in the schools, and it is admitted by all that the instruction given along these lines is a decided help to the pupils in their work on the other subjects. It is confidently asserted that the manual training given in the schools has had no inconsiderable effect in making Brantford perhaps the greatest manufacturing city of its size in Canada. The greatest accuracy in this department is enforced, and work not properly done is required to be done a second time. The skill shown by some of the pupils is really wonderful, and it is asserted that boys of nine and ten years can accomplish what with nine-tenths of the men of today is impossible. The tools and supplies used in the Manual Training Departments were gifts from public spirited citizens of Brantford, who take a lively interest in the work accomplished. The Government makes a yearly grant of $1,000 towards this department, and Mr. W. C. MacDonald, of Montreal, who has taken an active interest in manual training schools for boys gave a donation for the institution of the department. About 150 boys are taking up this work with very gratifying results.

The great value of the Domestic Science Department for girls is admitted on every hand, and the girls themselves take a great interest in the work, and show the results of their training with pride. One of the members of the committee stated that while the girls attending Peterborough schools, take pride in their musical achievements, the girls in the Domestic Science Department of Brantford schools, take pride in their ability to cook and sew, which accomplishments are important factors in the public happiness and comfort. In Hamilton, which was the next place visited, the committee again met with very hospitable treatment. Mr. Ballard, the Inspector, took the committee in charge and they spent a very pleasant day visiting the different educational institutions, of which that city is justly proud. The Inspector very courteously gave the visitors all possible information, relating to the public ownership of books, which system is in force there. The system made use of by Hamilton is different to that of either of the two cities previously visited. While the books are paid for by the Board and supplied to the pupils, a fee is charged similar to Brantford, but, unlike Brantford and Toronto, the books become the property of the pupil. A somewhat higher fee is charged than that of Brantford, but it is still much to the advantage of the pupil, and at the same time it is a profitable system for the Board, as the fees collected are more than sufficient to meet all expenses in connection with the purchase of supplies, and a surplus is realized every year. This plan works to the entire satisfaction of the Board, and the pupils keep their books in good condition, and the clean and tidy manner in which all the pupils kept their books was a noticable feature. Only one book of a kind is given to each pupil, and should it become lost or destroyed, the pupil has to replace it. This has a tendency to induce the parents to take an interest in seeing that the books are kept in good shape. A feature of the school system of Hamilton is the formation of a fifth class in which commercial subjects are taught. A three year course is given, shorthand, bookkeeping, typewriting, algebra and advanced arithmetic being taught and it is a tribute to the efficiency of the instruction given that the graduates of this department are sought after by the business men in the city, and those taking the course have no difficulty in procuring positions. The instruction given is very thorough, as will be imagined when it is stated that a three year course is given. The only fee in connection with this class is 25c. per month for books, the great advantage of the department will thus be readily understood.

In the matter of buildings, the cities visited are greatly in advance of Peterborough, the equipment also is far superior. All the rooms are well supplied with maps, etc., while the walls are further decorated with pictures and flags, and flowers are in evidence in the majority. In the teaching staff, it is believed that Peterborough is equal to any of them, but in other respects it is far from being equal.

The visit of these members of the Board should be of great benefit to the educational facilities of the town, and it is felt that if more such deputations were sent to other cities to see how the schools were conducted it would be to the material advantage of the schools here, because by this visit it was made painfully evident that in the matter of her schools Peterborough is far from being in the position which her natural advantages should place her.

The report of the committee will be presented to the Board at a future meeting.

GUY BROTHERS' MINSTRELS

Appear Before a Large Audience in the Hockey Rink.

The exhibition given by the Guy Brothers' Company, in the rink last night, suggests Shakespere's reference to "the veteran who lags superfluous on the stage." It was greeted by a large house, which would have been considerably smaller if the attendance had been in proportion to the merits of the performance. This aggregation is evidently trading on its reputation, for it failed on its merits to meet the appreciation of those who patronized it last night. The bill presented, and the way it was presented, was not in keeping with the reputation of Guy Brothers. When the public pays good prices for a good show, it expects to get it. The arrangements were crude—only one wicket for ticket selling, which made made a jam at the outside of the doors. In consequence it was quite nine o'clock before the performance began. While the programme was in spots high class of its kind—good trick bicycle riding, acrobatic feats and good singing, to the accompaniment of an excellent orchestra, yet the other features were considered amateurish. Some of the jokes can be spoken of kindly by those who believe it their duty to respect old age. Guy Brothers can do much better on the whole than they did last night, when they distinctly disappointed their numerous patrons in Peterborough.

CASH SYSTEM.

A truly cash system—no credit.

Some stores advertise a cash system to gain the benefit that a Cash Store infers—"merchandise sold at a small margin"—but do they refuse to give credit? With very few exceptions—No.

Our system a true cash system, allowing us to lop off profits on account of less office help required. No bad debts to be evened up—no interest to be reckoned for outstanding accounts. This is the Sutcliffe method of cash retailing.

ACCIDENT ON STURGEON LAKE.

Albert Davey of Emily Creek Supposed to be Owner of Canoe Found Sunday.

(Lindsay Post.)

It is feared by the friends of Albert Davey, who resides on an island at the mouth of Emily Creek, Sturgeon Lake, that he has been drowned, as he has been missing since Friday last, and that the canoe picked up on Tuesday afternoon by the Mizpah was his.

Davey, who is a man about sixty-five years of age, was last seen on Friday afternoon. He was seen by Mrs. Walkey at Sturgeon Point and it is said he had considerable money on his person. Davey had supper at Aldon's hotel, Fenelon Falls, Friday evening and those who saw him say he had been drinking. He left the Falls after supper and started down the river in his canoe. On the way down he enquired of Mr. G. Johnston, in charge of Rathbun's camp, if he could be accommodated over night. Mr. Johnston had no accommodation, so Davey started out for home in the canoe. Shortly after he left the camp he was heard singing some distance away. A canoe was found near the west shore of Sturgeon Lake on Sunday afternoon and beside it was found a broken mast. As Davey is accustomed to use a short lug sail, it is feared he has met a watery grave. The story of Davey having considerable money with him is confirmed by a citizen of Fenelon Falls, who says that he must have had over $200. At the Falls Davey was seen in company with a pedlar and the two had been drinking. It may be possible that a foul act has been committed in order to secure his money. The finding of the canoe may be taken that he has been drowned. Perhaps the man has been brutally assaulted by some villian and left to die, the canoe having been put in the lake as a blind. Mr. McConnell's yacht, the Laura Mack, conveying a few of our citizens will leave to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock for Sturgeon Lake, where a careful search will be made for the body.

WEDDED IN TORONTO.

Mr. T. D. Mulholland's Sister Married on Tuesday.

The Globe of yesterday contained the following account of the wedding of Miss Lillian McBeth Mulholland, sister of Mr. T. D. Mulholland, assistant manager of Perkins, Ince & Co.'s Peterborough branch:

"In Christ Church, Deer Park, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Lillian McBeth Mulholland, youngest daughter of the late Mr. Wm. Mulholland, was married to Mr. Arthur Duncan Coulson, son of the late Mr. Arthur Coulson, of Toronto. The chancel and altar were beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums, palms and ferns. To the strains of the Lohengrin Hymn, played by Mr. Morton Jones, the bridal party entered. The bridesmaids were Miss Hattie Latter, niece of the bride, and Miss Gertrude Edwards. They both wore becoming gowns of white Shanghai silk, tucked and inserted with handsome lace. The hats were of white beaver, with handsome ostrich plumes, and the bouquets were of pink roses, tied with ribbon streamers of the same shade. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. T. D. Mulholland, looked very handsome in a long trained gown of white crepe de sole, mounted on taffeta. A handsome diamond ring, the groom's gift, was also worn. Mr. Frank Coulson, of London, cousin of the groom was best man. Rev. T. W. Paterson, rector, conducted the ceremony. A reception was held afterwards at the residence of Mr. T. D. Mulholland, on Clinton avenue, Deer Park. Mr. and Mrs. Coulson left on the 5.25 train for New York. On their return they will live on Woodlawn avenue."

Mr. T. D. Mulholland will remove to Peterborough shortly, bringing his family.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. A. L. Colville at Campbellford.

The following report of the death of Mr. A. L. Colville, of Campbellford, was crowded out of yesterday's issue:

On Tuesday morning the death occurred in Campbellford of Mr. A. L. Colville, after a brief illness, lasting only a few days. The late Mr. Colville was one of the most highly respected residents of the town in which he died, and he was also well known in Peterborough, where he had a number of friends, who learn with the deepest regret of his sad and untimely end. The cause of his death was inflammation of the kidneys, with which he was taken ill on Saturday. It was thought, however, that the illness was not serious until Monday, when Dr. Boucher, of Peterborough, the deceased's brother-in-law, was sent for and immediately left for his bedside. He gradually became worse, however, and died on Tuesday. The funeral is being held this afternoon at two o'clock to the Campbellford cemetery.

The late Mr. Colville was born in England, and came to Canada about 35 years ago. He studied law with Judge Weller for some time and for the last 27 years has been a most successful barrister in Campbellford. He married Miss Mary (May) Boucher, sister of Dr. Boucher of town, who with two sons and two daughters are left to mourn his demise. The sons are Mr. Cyril Colville, who is on the staff of the Bank of Montreal at the head office, Montreal; and Mr. A. B. Colville, of the legal firm of Hamilton, Elliott, Irving & Colville, of Sault Ste. Marie, solicitors for the Consolidated Lake Superior Company. Mrs. Fry, a daughter, was married but three weeks ago, and the remaining daughter lives at home.

The deceased was a consistent member of the Church of England and at the time of his death was churchwarden of Christ church. His large circle of friends will sympathize with the bereaved ones in their trial.

THE BACON HOG.

Types Most in Favour With Consumers in the British Market.

Since the pork packers are in closest touch with the British consumer, they are the most competent judges of the class of hogs required for the most profitable trade, and we find that they recommend the use of Yorkshires and Tamworths as especially suitable for the production of bacon hogs, while Berkshires of the newest type are also excellent. The other breeds are not, as yet, so well adapted; but, as has already been stated, the breeders of these breeds are rapidly bringing their pigs into line, and sows of these kinds when crossed with males of the more approved bacon type, produce good bacon pigs. These cross-bred pigs frequently make more economical gains than the pure-breds. The Yorkshire-Berkshire and Tamworth-Berkshire cross is especially popular.

No breed or combination of breeds has a monopoly of all the desirable qualities in a pig. There are good and bad in all breeds and bad and worse in some. It does not follow that because a hog is of any given breeding he is necessarily a good or a bad bacon hog. It is necessary, therefore, that the breeder of market hogs have a clear-cut conception of the ideal pig. Then he will be in a position to make the best use of the materials at his disposal by judicious selection and careful breeding.

It is commonly believed among breeders of live stock that if a sire and dam be equally well bred, the former has the greater influence on the conformation and the latter on the nervous temperament and feeding qualities of the progeny. Whether this be true or not, care should be taken in selecting the females of the herd to choose only those of a quiet, contented temperament. Few things are more exasperating than a roving, noisy, discontented sow; not only is she a continual menace to fences and gates, but she is quite as likely as not to destroy half of her litter in some fit of nervous excitement. In addition to this, a sow of this description is seldom or never a good milker, and every stockman knows that the profit or loss on a batch of pigs is determined largely by the start they get in life during the first six or eight weeks. The milking qualities of the sow is a matter, too, often overlooked or ignored when selecting the females for a breeding herd. Many men seem to take it for granted that if they can get a sow to produce a large litter, she will as a matter of course, nourish them afterwards. This is a grave mistake. Sows vary in their milking propensities as widely as the cows in an unselected herd. Among pigs the ability to give a large flow of milk is more a family trait than a breed characteristic; that that is to say, different families of the same breed differ more in this particular, than do the different breeds, each considered as a whole. It is, therefore, largely a matter of selection. A well formed udder is, of course, essential. There should not be fewer than twelve, better fourteen, well developed evenly placed teats, extending well up to the fore-legs. The sow should be large and roomy, with great length and depth of side; she must, however, be trim and neat in her outlines, showing no tendency to bagginess or flabbiness, and, though not wild or nervous, she must be active in her movements. A heavy, listless clumsy walk should not be tolerated in breeding stock of either sex; it indicates a lack of vital force, and an animal with this characteristic is not likely to be so prepotent as one with a more active, sprightly temperament.

The brood sows should be selected from prolific families. A sow must raise a given number of pigs each year to pay expenses, and each additional pig represents a profit. There is, however, a limit to the number of pigs in a profitable litter; very large litters are apt to be weak and uneven in quality. Few sows can properly nourish more than fourteen pigs, and an even litter of from eight to twelve large, strong, lusty fellows is much more profitable than a litter of sixteen or eighteen weak flabby and ill-nourished pigs.

Knew Dr. Chase in 1867.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe Co., Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The farmers are very busy during this fine weather, saving their different kinds of root crops all of which are excellent, especially the sugar beets.

Our choral society runs an excursion to Midland on October 13th, tickets being good for two days.

The Cereal works at Peterborough will get a large share fo the oat crop of this district. The yield is excellent.

Dr. and Mrs. Keith had a grand reception, lasting two days. Nearly one hundred citizens and friends calling.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

May Be Fatal Row.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 8.—An Italian who works for the Ontario Power Company near the Dufferin Islands had an argument with a Pole, a fellow workman, just about quitting time Tuesday night. The Pole pushed him into the revolving cylinders used for mixing concrete. The Italian was taken to the hospital, where his left leg was amputated. The other is also badly crushed. He may die.

Colds are quickly cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs and opens the secretions, effecting a permanent cure. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, both adults and children like it. Price 25c.; large size 50c.

CHICKEN AS A BAIT.

Was That How Little Irene Cole Was Lured to Death.

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY

Find That Irene Cole Was Wilfully Murdered by Person or Persons Unknown to Jury at Present, But Our Unanimous Opinion Is That From Evidence Produced Suspicion Points to Prisoner Kennedy.

Brantford, Oct. 8.—We find that Irene Cole was wilfully murdered by a person or persons unknown to us at present, but from evidence given suspicion points to the prisoner Kennedy. We would recommend to the City Council that the part of the city known as "The Willows be destroyed, as it is a place notorious as a rendesvous for the worst of characters.

This is the verdict of the coroner's jury on the death of Irene Cole. Kennedy was again present, and seemed to be in the best of spirits. He had secured the services of Livingstone, Heyd & Couch to look after his interests. Yesterday afternoon, in conversation with a newspaper man, he stated that he would be glad when Thursday, the day of his appearing before the magistrate was here. He promises to give a statement then.

Henry Howe, 187 Darling street, was first called. He did not think he ever saw Kennedy before. He was a keeper of chickens of different varieties. He sold one Tuesday of last week. He thought he saw it dead in the police office, which showed it to be a buff rock, similar to the variety he kept.

Mrs. Howe, the wife of Henry Howe, was then called. She thought she knew Kennedy. He came to her house at 11 o'clock on Tuesday, last week. He came to purchase chickens. She told him she had none to sell, but she directed him to a man on Darling street. He returned shortly, and said he was unable to buy any chickens, and that he liked hers the best. She desired him to buy a pair, but he said he only wanted one, as he wanted to give it to a little girl friend of his, to whom he had promised a chicken. He paid 75 cents for it, and she gave him a sack to take it away in.

Sergeant Wallace then testified to having taken part in the investigation. He found a dead chicken of a buff rock variety. It was somewhat decomposed. He found it in "The Willows," some 60 paces from the place where the body was found. He was never in that specified spot before. He saw a bag about seven yards from where the chicken was found on Sunday. He picked it up, and he had not seen it since. He had looked for the bag, but was unable to find it.

Chief Vaughan was then called. He stated that he first heard of the murder at 7.45 Wednesday night, the night of the murder. Kennedy was arrested about 1.30 Thursday morning. He told of the examination of the prisoner and the marks of blood on his clothes.

Medical Testimony.

Dr. Ashton was next called. He was called to the Police Station between 2 and 2.30 o'clock on Thursday morning. He was asked to come to the Police Station to examine the man Kennedy. He examined his suit. On the coat and vest he found no marks, but on the trousers was found a spot of indistinct reddish hue, and perceptibly damp, not wet. He could not say that the clothes showed any signs of rubbing. There was a spot above the knee that looked like a splash and of a redish brown color. It looked like a dried clot of blood. A redish brown spot resembling blood was found on a tab of the trousers. He examined the two shirts, on which were stains which gave him the impression of a smear. It was not stiffened. The spots were on the outer surface of the shirt. He saw the envelope which was spoken of. It had on both sides redish stains, which, if they were blood, were diluted with water or of a very light nature. They might have been caused by seizing it with the fingers. He then stripped Kennedy of some clothing which the police had lent him. His hands were clean, his chest and arms were very dirty. Under his nails he found dark dirt, but no signs of a redish color. Portions of the skin were of a lighter color, as though they had been washed recently. The strains mentioned looked as though they were caused from the outside.

Ed. Gleden, who works for Hunt & Coulter, said he knew Kennedy, who had slept at the barn on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. He looked as though he was on a spree. He came on Wednesday about 10 o'clock. When spoken to of the murder and outrage of the little girl Kennedy said: "You must be joking."

Sergt. Wallace testified to arresting Kennedy in the hay loft of Hunt & Coulter's barn at 1.30 a.m. Thursday morning. He was not very sound asleep, for he answered immediately. He was asked to come to the police station, and did not object. He never asked why he was arrested and was never told.

This finished the evidence. The coroner addressed the jury, telling them it was their duty to say how the child met her death and to try and ascertain the guilt with some person if possible.

CLOUD IN THE FAR EAST.

A Crisis May Come at Any Moment Between Russia and Japan—Latter Rejects Former's Proposals.

Yokohama, Oct. 8.—The press which reported the fortification by Russia of Yokgampho, on the Corean bank of the Yalu River, considers this action as a possible casus belli as being an infringement of Corean integrity. The report, however is not confirmed officially.

A rumor current last evening says that definite Russian demands concerning Manchuria and Corea have been presented to Japan by Baron Von Rosen, Russian Minister to Japan.

The Daily Mail's correspondent says that Russia sent a note to the Japanese Government contending that Japan had no right to interfere in the question of the evacuation of Manchuria, which solely concerned Russia and China. The note further proposed the partition of Corea and suggested that Japan should take the southern half and Russia the northern provinces. The Japanese Government sent a reply rejecting the Russian proposals. A crisis is possible at any moment.

Ask For a Warship.

Yokohama, Oct. 8.—The Japanese residents of Jei-Wio-Ju have filed a petition with the Foreign Office at Tokio, asking that a Japanese warship and troops be sent to protect their interests, in view of the menacing attitude of Russia.

Russians Building Forts.

Tokio, Japan, Oct. 8.—Rumors are afloat here that the Russians are erecting forts and mounting guns at Yongampho on the Yalu River.

PAYMENT OF EMPLOYES.

Proceeding at the Rate of $200 a Day.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 8.—The work of paying the employes is going along steadily, though only at the rate of two hundred a day, and it is not expected all will be done before Tuesday next. It took three days to pay the woodsmen, although the clerks are working as late as midnight. It is costing the company hundreds of dollars or more daily to keep twenty-five militia men on duty. The privates are getting $1.75 and non-commissioned officers in proportion. Besides this a staff of cooks and waiters is kept on the steamer Ossiferage, where the men are quartered, and the boat is kept heated and electric lighted.

Track Blown Up.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 8.—Several feet of the Algoma Railway track near the Consolidated Lake Superior Company's brick plant was blown up with dynamite Tuesday night. The dynamiters were evidently in too great a hurry to do a complete job. The track was repaired yesterday without trouble and trains are running as usual.

SMASHED INTO BOX CARS.

Bad Accident on the I.C.R. at Petitcodiac, N.B.—Much Damage.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 8.—A turned switch caused quite a bad accident on the I. C. R. at Petitcodiac, between here and Moncton yesterday. No person was badly hurt, but the rolling stock was damaged. A freight train had been using a siding at Petitcodiac and left the switch turned. The express from Moncton came along at a fast rate, and not expecting the switch to be opened, swung from the main track against the siding. Quickly the brakes were applied, but a few hundred feet in on the siding were four box cars, and into those it plunged, ripping and tearing into them, butting in the front of the locomotive and driving the box cars along the siding, demolishing all four. The engine turned over on its side and was badly damaged. The driver and brakeman, who jumped, were badly cut but not seriously injured. None of the passengers was injured.

DIVIDENDS OF C. P. R.

Annual Meeting Takes Stock of the Progress of 1903.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—The annual meeting of the C.P.R. was held yesterday. The directors were re-elected. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in the annual report announced that an additional half per cent. for the half-year was distributed, owing to the good year. Since the publication of the report a further amount of a million dollars had been deposited with the Dominion Government toward the redemption of the three and a half per cent. land grant bonds, leaving a balance to be paid of $13,500,000.

THE BRITISH COLONY.

Five Hundred Actual Settlers in the Nora Lloyd Reservation.

Mr. A. J. Gay arrived in Edmonton on Monday from Lloydminster, Britannia. Mr. Gay and his partner, Mr. A. Still, have been granted the contract for grading twenty-five miles for the Canadian Northern through the British colony. They have also secured an option on fifty additional miles of grading if they can handle it. In Mr. Gay's opinion the Canadian Northern should be complimented on granting this contract, which will provide ample work for both men and teams this fall. The railway starts in the colony, going twenty-five miles east towards Battleford from the fourth meridian. Mr Gay is confident that the Canadian Northern will have their line graded through to Edmonton by next midsummer. The rails will be laid as far as the British colony by August, 1904, and on through to Edmonton before the snow flies.

The committee, of which the Rev. Mr. Lloyd is president, which took over the affairs of the Rev. Mr. Barr, have everything arranged most satisfactorily. There are five hundred actual settlers on their own land at the present time and all are greatly pleased with Western Canada. Through the instrumentality of the Rev. Mr. Lloyd six thousand additional settlers are expected to arrive in the colony from the Old Country next spring. The present extent of immigration is but a drop in the stream which will follow in due course. The business men of the colony are now making arrangements to get down $100,000 worth of supplies and provisions for winter consumption, before river navigation closes. These goods will be stored at Fort Pitt this fall and teamed to the colony in the winter. This will give employment to many of the colonists during the winter months. All the railway supplies will be shipped down the river from Edmonton. Mr. Gay is at present waiting on a carload of scrapers, which have been shipped from Winnipeg for Edmonton for over six weeks. The colonists are adapting themselves to their surroundings and are thrifty and industrious. Mr. Gay has lived west of Winnipeg since 1878 and he says that the land at the colony is excellent, particularly around the east of Birch Lake, where there are at present excellent opportunities for homesteaders. The land is well watered, free from scrub, but with some fairly good timber.—Edmonton Bulletin.

History Made Palatable.

Joseph Salvador, the French historian, and Jules Sandeau, a novelist, made their meeting at a public reception the occasion for a dispute as to the respective places which they occupied in the world of letters.

"The reading of history is like a pill—it needs the sugar coating to make it palatable," argued the novelist.

"Ah, but it is the ingredient which cures, not the coating," remarked the historian.

"Then let us divide honors," said Sandeau, "for if it were not for my sugar coating your historical facts would dry on the shelves."

The Duration of a Dream.

One evening Victor Hugo was dictating letters to his secretary. Overcome by fatigue, the great man dropped into a slumber. A few moments afterward he awoke, haunted by a dream which, as he thought, had extended over several hours, and he blamed his secretary for sitting there waiting for him instead of wakening him or else going away. What was his surprise when the bewildered secretary told him that he had only just finished writing the last sentence dictated to him.

The final game in the open championship of the Peterborough Golf Club was played off yesterday between Messrs J. H. Burnham and J. Laurence, Mr. Laurence winning out by 5 up and 4 to go. The first round was very even but in the second Mr. Laurence gradually drew ahead and kept his advantage up to the finish.

The Game

1st round,—Mr. Burnham gave Mr. Laurence the honour and he started off with a drive straight for the hole. The ball however struck the top of the tree and landed amongst the stones at the foot. Mr. Burnham pulled his drive among the long grass and failed to get it out with his next stroke. Mr. Laurence recovered well and won the hole in 4. The second ball was halved in 3 by perfect golf. Both players took 5 to the third hole.

Mr. Burnham missed his drive at the "Lane" hole and failed to recover, and as Mr. Laurence was comfortably on the green with his second, Mr. Burnham gave up the hole. Mr. Laurence carried the green at the Open hole with his drive and won the hole. The game at this point stood 3 up in Mr. Laurence's favour.

The short hole was won by Mr. Burnham in 3, Mr. Laurence putting badly. At the 7th hole Mr. Burnham fuzzled his approach and had again to give up the hole to Mr. Laurence who had carried the green with his second. The 8th and 9th holes fell to Mr. Burnham, Mr. Laurence getting into difficulties at both.

Result of first round—Mr. Laurence, 1 up.

In the second round Mr. Burnham's game fell to pieces and one after another of the holes went to Mr. Laurence until the "Ohern" green was reached, when the match finished with 5 up and 4 to go.

The Junior Series of the City Rugby League opened yesterday afternoon with a game between the St. John's Choir Boys and Rough Riders II., the former winning by 6 points to 4. The game was played at the Nicholls Oval. The Rough Riders started out like winners, making the first score, Kelly getting a try. Their lead was short-lived however, as the Choir Boys got into shape and forced two rouges in the first half. Seymour opened the second half by getting a try, putting his team in the front by two points. The game was a very creditable one, the wings of both teams doing especially good work, and showed a good knowledge of the rules. The back division of the Rough Riders, composed of Ackerman, Kelly and Ward, is a strong one while that of the Choir Boys also played a good game. A feature of the game was the punting of Weller. Mr. R. F. McWilliams and C. T. Graham gave good satisfaction as officials.

The next game in the Junior series will be played next Saturday at Lakefield between the Rough Riders and the Grove team of Lakefield.

The teams were as follows:—

St. John's—Back, F. Sawers; halves, Seymour, Weller Robinson; quarter, E. wood; centre, Cumming; wing, Ray, Jamieson, Stone, Craig, Strickland, Thornton.

Rough Riders—Back, A. Parks; halves, Wood, Kelly, Ackerman; quarter, Burrit; centre, Greer, wings, Overend, O'Brien, Sheffield, Quinlan, O'Brien, Greer.

* * * *

The Rough Riders are requested to meet at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 to-night, in uniform, as a practice will be held. This will be the last practice before the game on Saturday with All Saints' team in the City League Series. All members are requested to be present as a practice is assured.

* * * *

All Saints' Rugby Team is requested to turn out to-night at 7 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A., as this will be the last practice before the game on Saturday. A full attendance is requested.

SPRINTING.

Martin contained in yesterday's issue of this paper, and will have a representative at the Oriental Hotel to-night at nine o'clock to meet a representative of Mr. Martin. The former's backer will be willing to accept the $100 offer of Mr. Martin, and stipulates that a deposit be made.

FAREWELL SERVICE AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

The Rector Preached Sermon for Miss Alice Scott's Farewell.

She Leaves To-night for N. W. T.—Will Enter Missionary Work.

At St. Luke's church last night, a farewell service was held for Miss Alice Scott, who leaves this evening for Gleichen, Alta., where she will enter the mission work. The valedictory sermon was preached by the Rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.

Miss Scott has for some time been an active worker in the missionary interests of the church here, and in leaving home to further pursue her line of service, she is but continuing along the line for which she has shown a marked adaptability.

A large number of the members of the parish, and other friends of Miss Scott, were at the church last night, and the sermon preached by the Rector, was a most appropriate one, which all enjoyed.

The whole service was one especially timely, being entirely along missionary lines.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt's sermon was preached from the text in Colossians 1, 18, "And he is the head of the body, the church, who is the beginning of the first born from the dead; that in all things he might have the pre-eminence." The speaker said that as Christ was the first to be risen from the dead, so He was the first in all things, and should be given the first place. In His manhood, by His death on the cross, He descended to the lowest point of degradation that He might be able to uplift mankind to the highest height of divinity, and while in His manhood He was brought to degradation, in His divinity He was supreme, and in His ascension He was but exercising a power which he had always possessed. The Rector said that Christianity was the essence of all that was classic in literature, all that was refined in art, and all that was best in chivalry; in fact, there is nothing great or good that is not also Christian.

They had gathered to unite their prayers for God's blessing upon the young woman who was going out from the folds of the church, from the parental as well as her spiritual home, to labour in a distant field in the missionary cause. They rejoiced that she had recognized the call to the work. He desired to give her some words of encouragement, and he thought no more comforting or cheering words could be spoken than to say that Christ reigns, and has all wordly affairs under his control. He hoped that Christ would always be given the pre-eminence in her life and work, and was assured that she would meet with success in her work, and that she would not only be blessed but that in her work of ministering to the temporal and spiritual needs of those among whom she will labour she will prove a blessing, and that St. Luke's church will have cause to feel proud of its representative in the missionary field.

After the sermon, Miss Scott was asked to speak, and she responded in an unaffected and earnest manner. She said that she experienced a feeling of joy in the fact that she had been counted worthy to undertake the work. She said that she felt she had been especially called to devote her life to missionary enterprises, and was starting out in the home mission work, but that she hoped in a few years to go into the foreign field. All lives had been created with a divine purpose in view and all should strive to find out the special line of work to which they were called, and accomplish it. She concluded by asking the prayers of the church for success in the work to which she was going, being assured that if she was made the subject of their prayers her work would meet with gratifying results.

Miss Scott is fully competent to fill the duties of the work to which she has decided to devote her life. She said farewell in an informal way at the close of the service last night, and will leave by the 5.10 C.P.R. train this evening, for the field in which she will for some years work.

OBITUARY.

The Death of Mr. John Clarke a Well Respected Citizen.

Yesterday there passed away at the Nicholls Hospital one of our best known and most highly respected citizens in the person of Mr. John Clarke, who has been a resident of Peterborough for over half a century. Mr. Clarke's last illness, due to pernicious anaemia, was of about six weeks' duration. Mr. Clarke was born in the north of Ireland about 77 years ago and came to Canada when a young man. After spending some time in Montreal he came to Peterborough where he has since lived. He was associated with the late Templeton Brown, father of Mr. C. N. Brown, in the watchmaking and jewelry business for many years, having been in his employ and in partnership on several occasions. They were close friends. Mr. Clarke was also in business on his own account for some time, till he entered the firm of Clarke & Gibson in 1888. This connection continued till 1890 when the partnership was dissolved. Since then Mr. Clarke has been unconnected with business. Mr. Clarke was a gentleman of high principles and well earned the high respect in which he was held on all hands. He was of a retiring disposition yet fond of social enjoyment of a quiet kind. He was fond of music and to his intimates could sometimes be induced to sing some of the songs of his old friend, Mr. Templeton Brown, in his day one of the leading amateur singers of the country. Mr. Clarke was very much alone in the world, leaving no direct relatives only two nephews in Montreal and a grand-nephew at Grand Mere. The funeral will take place on Friday at 2.30 p. m. from the Nicholls Hospital.

LAKEFIELD'S SUCCESSFUL EXHIBITIONS.

An All-round Excellent and Successful Show.

An Increased Entry List and Larger Attendance Than Last Year.

Mr. R. Q. Dench, the veteran president of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society, his fellow directors and the "shareholders" of the Society, generally, are to be congratulated upon the marked success of this year's exhibit. In spite of the threatening weather there was a much larger attendance than last year. In 1902 the gate receipts was $270, and this year the total is considerably over $300. The entries this year were considerably in excess of last also, and altogether then, in social and other respects, the annual exhibition was a gratifying success. The energy of the directorate conjoined with the advantages derived from having two or three of the finest townships to draw from had a good deal to do with this, but a large share of the success is due to the friendly co-operation of all classes and interests of the Village of Lakefield, who seem to work together very harmoniously to give both moral and material aid to their excellent annual exhibition. It may be remarked that the business men of Peterborough also did a noticable share in extending encouragement, not only by contributions of special prizes, but by personal attendance. A considerable number from Peterborough were present.

THE INSIDE EXHIBIT.

This was surpassingly excellent. There was a fine display of grain, and allied to this was an unusually strong competition in home-made bread of supreme quality, a fact that provides a reversal of the old grumble about bad cooking—"The Lord sends meat," and also assists the cook, that is those connected with the bread-making department. There was also a good show of rich, sweet butter. A magnificant exhibit of roots and vegetables was made, potatoes, roots, pumpkins etc. The show of potatoes was superb and must have been bewildering to the judges. An ordinary observer on looking at the large and closely matched exhibit would not have blamed the judges if they had tossed a penny to decide which should take the red and blue card respectively. Corn in the ear was well and largely represented and in this section the whole display was creditable. Apples loomed up largely. There was a large, beautiful and varied display and some very fine pears were also shown. Another evidence of the thrifty housewifery of the farmers' helpmeets was the excellent array of canned fruits. Some beautiful bouquets and displays of cut flowers were made and a fine collection of potted plants added to the brightness of the tables. The ladies' work and fine arts department was most creditably represented, the collection being large in the latter and of a high degree of merit. A word of praise is also due the more domestic needle work, fancy quilts, etc. The displays of Peterborough and local merchants and manufacturers served to make the inside exhibit most attractive.

On the grounds, the exhibit of stock was attractive, but not very large.

HORSES.

As is the rule of exhibitions at Lakefield there was a splendid show of horses. The people residing in the vicinity are lovers as well as judges and owners of good horseflesh. The following were the exhibitors in the different classes:—

PETITION FORGERY.

Serious Charge by the Member for Bellechasse.

AN INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

Question of the Forgery of Names to Petitions Against the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill Referred to the Privileges and Elections Committee—At Opposition's Request All the Petitions Were Referred.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—It was like a thunderbolt out of a blue sky, when Mr. O. E. Talbot of Bellechasse rose immediately after several questions had been asked, and replied to by Ministers, and claimed the right of addressing the House upon a question of privilege in the House yesterday. He had not uttered many words before a point of order from the Opposition side was raised, but the Speaker held that the member for Bellechasse was in order, and Mr. Talbot said:

"On Wednesday last, Mr. Speaker, I drew attention to the fact that I had serious doubts about the authenticity of the signature of certain petitions which were presented in this House in opposition to the construction of a new transcontinental railway. I am now in a position to prove to this House and to the country that a very grave abuse of the honor and dignity of this Parliament has been committed, that wholesale forgery has been committed by over-zealous partisans, urged by unscrupulous, though important, newspapers of Montreal. These petitions contain the names of mere boys, names of people who live in the United States, names of people who have been dead for years, names of people who are in lunatic asylums, names of people who, owing to their advanced age, are absolutely irresponsible, names of people who know nothing of these petitions and of people who, when asked to sign, positively refused." (Cheers.)

He then moved that the whole question be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections to inquire and report.

Mr. E. F. Clarke moved that all the petitions presented against the national transcontinental railway be referred to the committee.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Carried. The amendment of Mr. Clarke was accepted by the Government and passed.

In Committee of Supply.

Shortly before 6 o'clock the House got into Committee of Supply, and resumed the consideration of the supplementary estimates for harbors and rivers in the Public Works Department. The items are: Manitoba; $10,000; British Columbia, $85,100; the Yukon, $80,000, and $8,500 for harbors and rivers generally. For roads and bridges, $57,-251 was passed with little discussion. Votes for telegraph lines for the Maritime Provinces, $7,500, and several of the items for Quebec telegraph lines were also passed.

The Opposition strenuously opposed the item of $25,000 for expenditure in connection with the Transportation Commission. A motion by Dr. Reid (Grenville) to strike out the estimate was voted down by a majority of 18— yeas 22, nays 40.

Several other items were passed, and the House adjourned.

WORDS CANNOT TELL

"For upwards of ten years I have been a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia. I doctored almost continually and used almost everything I could hear of but got no real relief till I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Words cannot tell the great good they have done me."

These are the words of Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont. They come as a message of hope to all sufferers from Indigestion or Dyspepsia—to all who suffer from sour sour stomach, bloating pains in the stomach, headaches and that terrible depression that is probably the worst symptom of this all too prevalent disease.

This is proof that Dyspepsia can be cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Thousands of similar proofs lead to the conclusion that there is no case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cannot cure. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are an insurance policy against discomfort; they are the surest guarantee of good health.

WINNIPEG LADY SHOT.

Objected to Her Remarks Concerning Use of Cigarettes.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Card was yesterday seriously shot by a small boy for remonstrating with him about smoking cigarettes. When going over the Norwood bridge she noticed a crowd of small boys under it smoking cigarettes. She remonstrated with them and one of them, young Graham, aimed at her when her back was turned with a 22-calibre rifle and pulled the trigger. The bullet took effect in Mrs. Card's leg just about the knee. She was knocked down by the shock. The bullet has not yet been found.

Mrs. Bredin Took Poison.

Hamilton, Oct. 8.—Shortly before midnight Tuesday night Mrs. Bredin, 86 Florence street, wife of Egerton Bredin, night operator at the Bell Telephone Company's head office, was found at the rear of the house, dying from the effects of carbolic acid. The doctors did all they could for her, but she died in agony in a few hours. She had attempted to take her life once before by cutting the artery in her wrists. It is supposed that her mind was unhinged by ill health. Coroner McNichol will hold an inquest Friday evening.

A DISASTROUS HURRICANE.

Germany Suffers Much Damage—Four Men Killed—Kansas Tornado.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—A hurricane swept over Germany yesterday. A portion of the tower, 180 feet high, of the new City Hall at Charlottenburg, a suburb of Berlin, has been blown down, and trees in the parks and forests have been uprooted. A wall at the new baths of Dresden has been blown over, killing four workmen and injuring eight others. A mill was blown down at Lubeak, and numerous other small accidents have occurred. The large vessels left Bremen and Hamburg, but the smaller craft remained in port on account of the storm.

Whole Town Destroyed.

Burlington, Kan., Oct. 8.—The town of Alicesville, Coffee County, Kansas, is reported to have been destroyed by Tuesday night's tornado. Fifteen persons are reported injured, three seriously. Wires are down and details are meagre. A number of houses and barns south of Alicesville are also reported blown down.

Three Persons Killed.

Emporia, Kan., Oct. 8.—A special to The Gazette from Hamilton, Kansas, says: The worst tornado in years passed west of Hamilton Tuesday night, leaving death and destruction in its wake. Three persons are known to have been killed and 10 seriously injured.

Blew Down a Wall.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 8.—A severe wind storm, which struck the eastern portion of Omaha yesterday blew down a brick wall of the new Union Pacific shops, burying a number of workmen, one of whom was killed. Three others were seriously injured and several were slightly hurt.

He Learned a Great Truth.

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley, "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." For sale by all druggists.

Classifying Him.

"Yes, ma'am," said the peddler, "this here hair tonic will raise hair on a billiard ball."

"But will it raise hair on a pumpkin?" asked the lady of the house.

"Well, I should say so!"

ARE YOU ONE OF THE WEAK ONES?

Subject to Sinking Spells and Feelings of Languor, Depression and Weakness—You can be Helped by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Very many people feel much as you do. They do not like to confess that they are sick, but they are weak and languid, feel drowsy and depressed after meals, are easily tired and discouraged, suffer from indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability and general bodily weakness. At times, it may be, some of the old-time vigor returns, but you no more than get your hopes aroused when the sinking spells come on again and you are as helpless and disheartened as ever.

Such symptoms point to lack of nourishment in the blood and an exhausted nervous system. You can get well if you will but restore the system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great food cure forms new blood and instils new force and energy into the wasted and depleted nerve cells. It makes you well in nature's way by supplying to the blood and nerves the very elements in which they are lacking.

These symptoms of which you complain are but a warning of approaching nervous prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or even insanity. The time to act is before these dreadful diseases of the nerves have fastened themselves upon you. They are much easier to prevent than to cure, as many know, on account of long years of helplessness and suffering.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will give you new hope and courage. Not only will you be able to feel the benefit you are deriving from it, but by noting your increase in weight you can prove conclusively that new, firm flesh and tissue is being added to your body.

The success of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in curing all ailments arising from weakness of the blood and an exhausted condition of the nerves has been phenomenal. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 7

HIS FAVORITE HOBBY.

Englishmen Cultivate Rabbits and Thus Combine Pleasure With Profit—Animals at $50 Each.

"I spend hours upon hours in here," said a London fancier just lately, during a chat in his rabbitry. And after all, when exhibition rabbits are daily changing hands at prices ranging from £3 to £30 apiece, there is no cause for surprise that men spend time and money over their cultivation.

One hundred pounds was refused during the Crystal Palace show in the Autumn of 1900 for a winning Belgian hare doe, while £50 for a winning buck was paid. Canadians and Americans were over here at that time with the object of satisfying the craze then existent in their country for Belgian hares.

Medical men having propounded the theory that the flesh of these little animals was better food in every way than anything else, nothing would do but that the best of the breed should be found in the hundreds of Belgian hare rabbitries that sprang up in America.

The British fanciers, seeing how matters stood, simply sat tight until the most fabulous prices were obtained, £25 being an ordinary figure! One fancier I know made over £1,000 during the temporary boom.

But the boom died out, and we will confine ourselves only to present-day obtainable prices.

The Belgian hare, so-called because of its likeness in color and form to the wild hare, is always a favorite among the visitors to a show because of its lovely color and "racy" style; £5 to £15 are everyday prices paid for a good specimen.

The lop rabbit's beauty lies in its length and breadth of ear, specimens having been shown with ears measuring 27 inches from tip to tip, and 7 inches broad, for which £25 was paid without a murmur. The Flemish Giant is so-named because of the tremendous size to which it grows, show specimens having been known to turn the scale at 20 pounds, while those weighing 15 pounds are quite ordinary.

Silver-greys—at one time termed chinchillas—silver-fawns, and silver-browns are strikingly beautiful little animals, with their body color silvered all over, short coats, and very neat ears.

Five pounds was lately paid to a North London fancier for a silver-grey thirteen weeks old, and before it was in full coat, while £8 to £10 is the price paid for a really good adult, £18 being mentioned as the price given for a doe a short time ago.

A peculiarity of the young of the silver-grey lies in the fact that they are jet black until about a month old, when they begin to turn grey on the nose, taking from that age to about four months to "silver off" completely.

The English rabbit is a largish animal, white, with color dispersed over its body in certain patches and spots, the proper location of these spots determining its show value. Especially is its face curiously marked, the nose being colored in the shape of a butterfly, while it has other important spots and circles round the eye. At the present day there is a specimen of this breed that £20 would not buy from its owner.

The Dutch rabbit is small—in fact, from a fancier's point of view, diminutive size is a greater consideration—but its chief characteristic is its markings.

From the centre of the body of the hinder part is colored black, blue, gray, yellow, or tortoiseshell, with the exception of the hind feet, which are white for one and a half inches from the toe. The forepart of the rabbit is white, with the exception of the head, which is the same color as the hind part, but with a white muzzle, from which runs a white mark right up the centre of the head to between the ears.

There are specialist clubs for all the breeds, but the United Kingdom Dutch Rabbit Club is the strongest.

In 1902 over 800 rabbit shows were held; this number only includes public, not small club shows. There were instances of over 1,000 exhibits being penned at a show, and 124 different rabbit judges were engaged. At the Tunbridge Wells agricultural show, held this month, there are five rabbit judges engaged, and the entry will probably be over 500.

What style of man is the rabbit fancier? Readers will have visions of Seven Dials and its bird shop-keepers, but oh, dear no! Take a few of the rabbit fanciers in and around London known personally to me. One is a solicitor, who gave £9 10s. for a Dutch rabbit during the auction at a Dutch rabbit show held in Brighton last year, when there was a record entry of 324 Dutch rabbits to judge.

Another is a stock broker, who spends much of his time among his rabbits in their comfortable houses in his large garden. Another is an insurance agent, who spends his spare time with his hobby, which besides pleasures gives him profit to add to his none too excessive income.

Another is a South London carrier, whose work necessitates his appearance at 5 a.m., but releases him at 11 a.m., until evening. It was this fancier who made the remark at the beginning of this article.

Another is a doctor's coachman, another a plumber, and so one might give dozens of different trades and professions represented in the rabbit fancy in London, while in the north of England and elsewhere the collier, with his few shillings a week, and the doctor and the retired merchant vie with each other to breed the winners.

What is the good of the hobby? Well, many and many a wife will tell you that since her husband has become interested in rabbits he spends his spare hours with them and not at a public house or his club, for all his time and spare cash is wanted if he wants to be among the successful exhibitors; and the money so spent comes back when the young rabbits are sold. It never came back from the public house.

BLIND-FOLD.

Blindfold a woman and she loses all confidence in herself. Her step is slow, hesitating and uncertain. Her hands are raised to ward the imaginary blows which threaten her. When a sick woman seeks the means of health she is often like a woman blindfold. She has no confidence. She cannot tell what her effort will lead to. She turns now to this side and then to the other in uncertainty and doubt.

The sick woman who uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may do so with absolute confidence. It invites open-eyed investigation. There need be no hesitation in following the hundreds of thousands of women who have found a perfect cure for womanly ills in the use of this medicine.

"Favorite Prescription" cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With a heart full of gratitude to you for sending out over the land your wonderful medicine I send these few lines, hoping that some poor suffering women will try Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Cora L. Root, of Greenspring Furnace, Washington Co., Maryland. "I had suffered severly from female weakness and had to be in bed a great deal of the time. Had headache, backache, and pain in left side when lying down. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and had not taken two bottles when I was able to be around again and do my work with but little pain. Can now eat anything and it never hurts me any more. Have taken seven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and one of his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' Feeling better every day. My husband says I look better every day."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

THERE ARE NO MOUNTAINS.

Within the Meaning of Treaty Is U.S. Definite Contention Before Alaska Boundary Commission.

London, Oct. 8.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Dickenson for the United States continued his argument before the Alaskan Commission yesterday.

Discussing the mountains, arguing along Mr. Watson's line that the treaty contemplated their regularity and continuity, he said that the mountains relied upon by Great Britain did not fulfil the essential requirements of the treaty mountains selected by King. In their isolation they suggested the Scriptural description of "skipping like rams," while 34 miles of this mountain line is over water.

President Lord Alverstone: Do you contend that there are no mountains anywhere within the meaning of the treaty? I must know this.

Mr. Dickenson, hesitating: That is the contention of the United States.

He discussed the Russian official maps subsequent to the treaty, showing the line going round the heads of the inlet and asked why Great Britain did not say they claimed these heads of inlets. She not only did nothing of the kind, but actually issued her own official maps showing the same line.

President Lord Alverstone: I do not understand what you mean by "official" maps. The phrase conveys to meaning to my mind, unless that the Government actually published maps with the object of showing some particular feature, such as the boundary.

Mr. Dickenson: By "official maps" I mean those issued under the authority of the Government, whether with special reference to particular features or not.

He then said that Great Britain never sent a ship into those interior waters, or did anything inferring a claim to jurisdiction along that coast. He asserted that Russia exercised a certain authority over the coast tribes, though, for a reason everyone who knows the American Indian must understand, this authority was more or less veiled under polite forms implying a certain independence of the savage tribes.

He argued from the lease to the Hudson Bay Company of the Mainland that Great Britain had notice thereby of a claim to a sovereignty by Russia of all these interior waters. So also when the United States flag was hoisted at the head of the Lynn Canal the representative of the Hudson Bay Company was present at the ceremony and made no protest.

SUICIDE IN AMBITIOUS CITY.

Hamilton Man Takes What May Prove to Be a Fatal Dose.

Hamilton, Oct. 8.—Alfred Gidley, 58 East Jackson street, took what the doctors believe will prove to be a fatal dose of carbolic acid last evening. About 5.30 he walked into the Hub saloon, North Hughson street, with James Moran, ordered drinks and excused himself while he went into a side room. He came back and took his place at the bar again. After standing a few seconds, he fell back on the floor unconscious and frothing at the mouth. A bottle labelled carbolic acid fell from his hand. There was a strong smell of the acid about his person and in the room where he had retired. Dr. Gillrie was called and had him hurried off to the City Hospital. Gidley is a married man about 28 years of age.

Latest Penny-in-the-Slot Machine.

The most interesting of the penny-in-the-slot machines introduced in London is the post restant. An English paper thus describes it: You have an appointment, say, with John Jones at Paddington Station at 5 o'clock. You find that you can not keep it, and it is too late to apprise Jones of the fact by telegraphing at his home or office. You can't send a messenger, for he probably wouldn't find the right Jones. So you despatch a telegram addressed "John Jones, Automatics, Paddington." The telegraph messenger delivers it to the machine, which exposes the address behind the glass. Jones, finding that you don't appear at the proper time, looks in the machine and sees the telegram. He gets it by putting a penny in the slot.

The disadvantage is, of course, that anybody can get anybody else's message by putting in his penny. But the British public seems willing to take a chance at that.

SHORT SESSION HELD.

Dickenson, For the United States, Continues His Argument.

London, Oct. 7.—(C. A. P.)—Mr Dickenson yesterday before the Alaskan Commission argued that the line should be drawn from the head of Portland Canal along the valley, continuing in a general direction along the canal until the 56th parallel is reached. He declared it was the duty of the Tribunal to define the meaning and application of the words "coast," "ocean," "sinuosities" and the like, otherwise there is no use of their being here.

He discussed article seven of the treaty of 1825, and said Russia knew that England claimed territory lying south of 54.40 latitude as well as the United States, but did not know which had the better claims, so she took reciprocal privileges there from both to make sure.

He argued that the term "north-west coast of America" means the whole coast. The British contention limits it to the lisiere.

He then took up and discussed what he termed the crucial question of the meaning of the word "coast," and argued that all the negotiators of the treaty of 1825, Canning, Bagot, Pelly, the Russians, everybody, considered it to mean the whole coast, not a coast composed partly of land and partly of a line drawn across the water. Their use of the expression "sinuosities of the coast," he said, put this beyond doubt.

The Commission adjourned at 1 p. m.

Postponed Till October 15.

New York, Oct. 7.—The sale of the Consolidated Lake Superior has been postponed, and $83,000 has been raised of the $250,000 which it is hoped to raise by assessment. R. F. Rothermel last night said: "The sale will be postponed until Thursday, Oct. 15."

Another Fatal Gun Accident.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 7.—Hubert J. Malben, aged 27, was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun yesterday, which tore off his left arm and part of his heart. He was a brother of W. S. Malben, accountant, Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto.

Broiler or Toasting Door.

A broiler or toasting door, to be of any practical value in a range must be so constructed that the steak or bread can be placed immediately over the live coals—broiling and toasting should be done quickly to be done well.

Broiling door in the Pandora is so constructed that a broiler can be placed almost on the coals if desirable, and the door is large enough to admit any style of broiler—a thick, juicy steak can be broiled to retain all its rich, natural flavor and bread can be toasted with that appetizing brown, so hard to get just right, if done in the ordinary range.

Pandora range is fitted with enameled reservoir, triple triangular grates and steel warming closet, features found on no other range.

THE SPEEDING EVENTS.

A lively card of speeding events was provided which furnished excellent sport, and aroused considerable interest. A great many from town were keenly interested, and very reluctantly left the grounds to catch the 4.30 train, and a bunch of sports had a good, if a somewhat distant view of sections of some of the heats from their seats in the train, while waiting for the signal to pull out.

The following is a summary of the results of the several scheduled events:

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

The number of special exhibits of a mercantile or manufacturing character was smaller than usual, this year, but those made were altogether more effective and interesting than any before attempted at this Fair.

DISPLAY OF DRESS GOODS AND READY-TO-WEAR GARMENTS.

One of the newest and most attractive of the special exhibits was the display made by Mr. "Rolly" Johnston, proprietor of Lakefield's Up-to-Date Dry Goods and Clothing Store. It was a clever miniature store representation, showing samples of some of the most important of the varied lines regularly carried by Mr. Johnston. The exhibit occupied the best position in the building, being immediately next the public entrance to and from the grounds. It took the form of a square, the outlines of which were prettily decorated with yellow and white bunting, and was greatly admired by the ladies especially. The central figure of the exhibit was a handsome mantle made of the fashionable "snow flake" material, around which were displayed other stylish ready-to-wear coats, walking skirts, costumes, etc. There was also shown the very latest fabrics in fall and winter dress goods, camel's hair cloths, gray and white snow flake tweed effects, night gowns, underskirts, carpets, rugs, etc. A beautiful glass caseful of patent and enamel leather boots and slippers was an additional feature. Besides the ladies' ready-to-wear garments, there was an interesting display of men's and boys' fall and winter suits and top coats windstops, rainproofs, pea jackets, etc. A number of floral decorations judiciously distributed, enhanced the beauty and brightness of this most pleasing and practical display, which must have been productive of good business pointers to the crowds who inspected it. The well-arranged trim was made by Mr. Johnston himself, and showed that while having to devote himself chiefly to the more important details in connection with his business, his tasteful hands had not forgotten their cunning.

GRAFTON'S HIGH-CLASS CLOTHING.

The visitor's attention was next arrested by the well-dressed display of high-grade clothing made by Messrs. Grafton & Co, of the Peterborough branch store. Everyone who passed through the building could not fail to see it, and admire it. It was a representative display of up-to-date styles of men and boys' ready-to-wear garments. There was a careful selection of the different styles contained in their regular stock on sale at their store in Peterborough, and the requirements of all ages were well represented. It was noticed that all the approaches to the Fair grounds betokened the presence of Grafton & Co. At the entrance doors, and all around the race track, their coloured bulletins and fancy lithograph posters, were displayed in the most public places. The exhibit was located right in the eye of the crowds that surged in and out of the building. The general arrangement of the suits, coats, wax figures, show cards and bulletins, was the creditable work of Mr. Herb Conway, assisted by Mr. Alf. Kingscote. Mr. Wm. Conway, the manager of the Peterborough store, was present during the afternoon, and had many old and new customers to call upon him.

STRATTON'S WALL-PAPER DISPLAY.

This was a new feature at the Lakefield Fair, and it is safe to say that most of the visitors never saw such a handsome exhibition of fine wall papers as was displayed. The novelty of this exhibit was largely the work of the artistic arrangement which was made by the tasteful trimmer in charge. He secured a good place facing the procession of visitors, and also the important advantage of having a good light, supplied by a south window, which heightened the effect of the brilliant papers in the middle of his space. The display of rich wall hangings was made on patent racks, which showed the combinations for wall, border and ceiling to match. Some of the high class patterns were designs same as were shown at the Toronto Exhibition last month, including the new "Art-Nouveau" effects in red and yellow shades, which have been so much admired. An art display was also made of some fine water colour subjects, richly framed in gilt. A novel feature of this exhibit, and one which was instrumental in catching the crowds, was the singing of a splendid gramaphone, the cylinders rolling off some of the newest pieces of a lively nature. Mr. Henders, who was in charge, had a constant stream of interested spectators and inquirers, and gave away hundreds of fancy advertising fans and cards.

GOUGH BROS.' BIG DISPLAY.

The magnetism of a name is irresistible. The dauntless Gough Bros. never sleep on their oars. The same far-sighted policy, which has made this firm's business grow bigger and bigger year after year, is the same policy still. They plan months ahead of time, and with every new season at every country and township fair, the planning is on the same scale of progression. They made a big display at the Lakefield show — the largest they ever made—and added another triumph to their reputation as extensive buyers of ready-to-wear clothing and gentlemen's furnishings. The firm secured a good position for their exhibit, which was prominently displayed right opposite the thoroughfare to the show grounds. The samples of their great fall stock was well shown, and their good values conspicuously ticketed. The multiplicity of styles shown gave a good idea of the vastness of their stock.

The representatives of the "Wonderful Cheap Men," were in the village early the evening before, and had "billed the town" effectively. Their attractive coloured posters were everywhere to be seen—buildings, fences, trees and posts being adorned with the fancy painted bulletins advertising Gough Bros.' clothing and rock-bottom prices.

A complete range of the newest of Fall's fashions in swagger, medium, light and heavy over-coats, popular cravenette shower proof coats, etc., were exhibited, in grey and other shades; men's suck suits in tweeds, serges and worsteds, unmatchable in price; boys' two-piece and three-piece suits in Norfolks, Russian blouses, sailors and other chic juvenile styles, as well as workingmen's clothing of various patterns.

Mr. W. Merrell, one of the local managers, had the credit of fitting up and displaying this exhibit, which must have engaged him a good many thoughtful hours. Mr. Robt. Begley had charge of the advertising matter, and was industrious in circulating Gough's literature to the crowds at the Fair and throughout the village. This firm donated an $8 suit of clothes as a first prize for heavy draught team in Class I.

THE "SIMPLEX" CREAM SEPARATOR.

Mr. W. Gillespie, of Messrs. White & Gillespie, of Peterborough, showed one of the "Simplex" link-blade cream separators. The "Simplex" is attracting more than usual attention this year, since the local agents have been pushing it before the attention of farmers and dairymen. Mr. Gillespie has been kept busy at the various Fairs held this fall, explaining the principal features of the "Simplex," and has been awarded with good results. Whatever merits may be claimed for other cream separators, the "Simplex" has now features which the dairyman soon learns to appreciate. The chief advantage of this link-blade separator is in the construction of the bowel. It is claimed for the "Simplex" that its new link-blade device increases the separating capacity from thirty to fifty per cent, with equal closeness of skimming. It has the further advantage that the blades will not clog up, and when run for hours the operator hasn't to stop for cleaning, and keeps up an equal degree of skimming throughout. A number of other important improvements have been incorporated in the "Simplex," for both hand-power and factory machines, such as the improved manner of discharging the skim milk from the bowl, without the use of tubes, etc. The agents, Messrs. White & Gillespie, No. 336 George street, Peterborough, are always glad to explain the full workings of this most successful machine.

STROUD'S TEAS.

Mr. Walter Reid, the enterprising manager of Stroud's Tea Store, Peterborough, was in attendance at the Lakefield Fair, industriously advertising the superior merits of those well-known teas. He devoted most of his time to giving away free sample packages of Stroud's green and black teas, and explaining their coupon and premium systems. Coupons are given with every pound of tea purchased, and these coupons entitle the holder to purchase any of the handsome premiums which are shown in their beautiful china and lamp department displayed in their George street store. The same attractive inducements are offered to buyers of their Mocha and Java coffees. Good orders were secured from out-of-town people.

BUDD & CO'S TEAS AND COFFEES.

One of the most active rivals for the tea and coffee trade of Peterborough is the new firm of Budd & Co., tea merchants, 172 Hunter street, opposite the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Budd was, personally, in attendance at this Fair as well as at most of the other Fairs held in the county, and in addition to giving away samples of his celebrated Ceylon tea, has made a specialty of securing large orders from farmers and others to be delivered as desired. The teas which Budd & Co offer, range from 25c. to 40c. per pound, and the coffees at the same price. Premiums are given to all customers. At the Peterborough, Millbrook and Keene Fairs where this firm put up a large exhibit in a tent, they have been highly complemented for their excellent display. They intend making a very interesting exhibition at the Norwood Fair, next week.

A MEETING HELD TO CONSIDER UNION.

Committee Meets the Ashburnham Council.

Ratepayers Will be Asked to Vote on the Union—Sewage Question Discussed.

At the joint meeting of the Ashburnham Council and the Union Committee of the Peterborough Council held last night in the Ashburnham Council Chamber to consider the matter of the amalgamation of the two municipalities, there were present Reeve Frank Adams, and Councillors Scott, Gibbs and Faint of the Village Council, and Mayor Roger and Ald. McWilliams and Ald. Morrison, representing the Town Council. One of the chief subjects discussed was the proposed sewage system for the Village of Ashburnham. A report presented by Mr. Willis Chipman, C.E., of Toronto, accompanying which was a plan of the municipality showing the proposed sewage works was before the meeting and was considered by the representatives of the two Councils. The report of Mr. Chipman is as follows:

Toronto, September 4, 1903.

To the Reeve and Council of the Village of Ashburnham:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit for your consideration the following report upon a system of sewerage for the Village of Ashburnham, accompanied by a general plan of the proposed works.

I made a personal examination of the town in May 29th, 1903, and my assistant, Mr. W. J. Bowers, took the necessary levels in June, 15th to 24th.

Population.

The population of the village is now estimated as over 1,800 and rapidly increasing.

Topography.

Ashburnham is situated on the east bank of the Otonabee River, immediately opposite to the Town of Peterborough. The Trent Valley Canal runs parallel to the river and about half a mile to the eastward, entering Little Lake, an expansion of the river, in the south-eastern part of the village. The built up portion of Ashburnham lies entirely between the river and the canal. The celebrated lift lock on the canal, is situated immediately on the line of Elizabeth street, which is your main business street, produced easterly.

The surface of the ground is very hilly with intervening valleys, that afford a good fall for drainage, but unfortunately the natural outlet for the greater part of the village is into the river at a point where the discharge of sewage in large quantities would be objectionable.

Water Courses.

The most important water course in the village flows southerly parallel to the river, discharging into it at a point nearly opposite Robinson street. This stream drains more than half of the built up part of the village. It is a small stream useful for surface drainage, but with practically no flow in a dry season. A large quantity of water flows in it diring heavy rains and in the spring freshets.

An important branch of the stream can be diverted along Wilson street directly to the river, by a comparatively short drain, thus reducing the storm water flow below this point.

In the southern part of the town, in the vicinity of Mark street, south of Sophia street, there is a large area of low land that is now drained by ditches to Little Lake.

Sewage Disposal

As it may become necessary to purify the sewage to a certain degree before discharging it into the river the domestic sewage should be kept separate from the street drainage, and I would therefore recommend you to utilize the existing drains, ditches and water courses for surface drainage and roof water, and to lay down a system of small pipe sewers for carrying the domestic sewage and for the drainage of cellars and basements.

To purify the sewage I would recommend the construction of septic tanks near the shore of Little Lake. These tanks should be of sufficient size to contain one day's flow of sewage and should be provided with all necessary appliances for controlling the flow and for emptying them.

System.

I propose to construct the main sewer on Mark street, to Sophia, along Sophia to the G. T. R. right of way, along the G. T. R. line to Elizabeth street, westerly on Elizabeth to Lake, and southerly on Lake to James street. Another main sewer will extend on Elizbeth from the G. T. R. to Stewart, thence northerly along Stewart to Douro, easterly on Douro to Concession, thence northerly along Concession to McFarlane.

Into these sewers practically all of the town can be drained. At the intersection of Elizabeth and Lake, if the sewer were laid at a sufficient depth to drain cellars the depth of the main sewer along the G. T. R. would be excessive. I therefore propose to drain cellars in this vicinity into a second pipe, laid in the same trench as the sewer pipe, but at a lower elevation, discharging it westerly into the river.

The deepest cutting will be 20 feet at the intersection of Elizabeth and Stewart. This can be avoided by following along the G. T. R. from Elizabeth 200 feet northerly to the creek, then following the creek north-easterly to Stewart.

Along the G. T. R. right-of-way from Sophia to Elizabeth the average depth of the trench will be 15 feet, for a distance of 1,350 feet. In all other parts of the town the depths will be moderate. To give proper cellar drainage a sewer should be three feet below a cellar bottom forty feet distant.

Water Supply.

The village is supplied with water from the Town of Peterborough through a six-inch main laid across the river at Elizabeth street. There are now laid about 11,500 lineal feet of water mains, and fire protection is given by twelve fire hydrants. No doubt the water works system will be greatly extended at an early date, as there are several streets now being rapidly built up that will require water service.

Extent.

I will include in my estimate of cost the main sewers formerly described, and such tributary sewers as I consider should now be built, all of which are shewn in full red lines on the plan, and comprise 250 feet of twelve inch iron outlet pipe, 3,150 feet of 15 inch sewer, 2,871 feet of 12 inch, 2,550 feet of 10 inch and 5,750 feet of 8 inch, a total of 14,570 feet of sanitary, also 450 feet of storm sewer, 350 feet of 12 inch and 1,120 feet of 8 inch, a total of 1,920 feet of storm sewers. The dotted red lines indicate that extensions may be built as required.

Frontage Assessment.

To raise by general taxation a sum sufficient to sewer part of the village only would be an injustice to those portions of the village not sewered.

To sewer the village piece-meal on the frontage plan, as provided by statute would give you a disconnected, imperfect, unsanitary system of sewers.

I propose neither of these methods, but the uniform frontage rate system, the same as that adopted by Brantford, Barrie, Toronto Junction, Berlin, Niagara Falls, Smiths Falls, Sault Ste. Marie and other places. By this method the village council by by-law fixes the rate to be assessed upon abutting property—this tax to be levied only where a sewer has been constructed. This frontage rate has, as a general rule, been sufficient to meet about one-half the total cost of the sewerage system, when such system is practically completed. The other portion of the cost is to be paid by the village, the interest and sinking fund being met by a general sewerage tax.

The lower the frontage adopted, the higher the general tax, the higher the frontage rate the less the village's share.

For corner lots the village may, by by-law, prescribe some equitable exemption. This is generally fixed at about 100 feet for each corner, or half the total frontage, the exemption not to exceed 100 feet.

In case of a corner lot 32 feet by 121 feet, the assessed frontage would be 33 feet only, if a sewer were built on the front street and none on the other side street. If a sewer were afterward built on the side street, an additional 49 feet would be assessed, making 82 feet in all. If however, the sewer were first laid on the side street, the assessment would be 82 feet and no further assessment would be made.

If a building be erected at the rear of the lot, each building should be treated as a separate lot.

For Ashburnham I would recommend a uniform frontage rate of $1.00 per lineal foot, an annual tax of about six cents per foot, to be collected only on streets where sewers are laid.

By the Local Improvement Act there are three methods of proceedure specified for building a sewer:

(1) By petition.
(2) By taking the initiative.
(3) As a sanitary measure.

In the majority of places the town proceeds on the initiative, until the principal sewers are constructed, and this is the method I would recommend you to adopt.

Cost.

The following is my estimate of the cost of the works, including the cost of manholes, flushtanks, and all accessories:

Sanitary sewers,—

(1) Disposal works and outlet	$ 4000
(2) Main sewer (Elizabeth st. 3, 150 of 15 inch	6500
(3) Elizabeth st., Lake to Stewart, 1,300 ft. of 12 inch	2860
(4) Lake, 1,430 ft of 10 & 8 in.	2200
(5) Robinson 650 feet of 8 in.	1000
(6) Sophia, 430 feet of 8 inch	650
(7) Mark, 750 feet of 8 inch	1100
(8) Stewart (N), 1870 ft. of 12 and 10 inch	3000
(9) Brown, 1070 ft. of 8 inch	1500
(10) Douro, 500 ft. of 12 inch	750
(11) Concession, 1270 ft. of 10 inch	2000
(12) Elizabeth (S), 800 ft. of 8 inch	750
(13) Stewart (S), 750 ft. of 8 inch	1100
(14) Carlyle ave, 450 ft of 8 inch	700
(15) Stanley, 250 feet of 8 inch	400
Storm sewers,—
(16) Wilson, 450 ft. of 18 inch	900
(17) Elizabeth, 520 feet of 12 & 8 inch	800
(18) Lake, 950 feet of 10 and 8 inch	550
	$29,800
Engineering and superintendence	1,800
Legal and contingencies	1,400
	$33,000

I estimate that the average cost of the extensions to the sewer system will be $1.50 per lineal foot.

Assuming that $1.00 per foot be adopted as the frontage rate on all streets, excepting along the main sewer from the disposal works to Elizabeth street, about $15,000 can be assessed as a local improvement, which would leave a balance of $18,000 to be raised by the municipality.

The cost of future extensions would be met by the frontage rate.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIS CHIPMAN.

It will thus be seen that the outlet sewer, which it is proposed to construct as soon as possible, with the septic tank will cost about $10,000, which, if paid for by thirty year debentures at six per cent., would mean an annual cost of about $600 for thirty years, which added to the present debentures of the village, amounting to $19,500, would be the entire additional liabilities which the amalgamated municipalities would have to assume, and as an offset to this the assessment of Ashburnham is $457,000 which at the present rate of taxation, 18 mills, produces an annual income of about $8,500, and in the event of the union most of this would go to Peterborough, so that the latter will not be called upon to assume any objectionable liabilities.

The details of the conditions under which the union might be effected were discussed in an entirely harmonious spirit and the decision arrived at by the meeting as embodied in the following resolution was supported by every member present. The resolution was moved by Ald. Morrison and seconded by Mr. Wm. Faint, and is as follows: "The Joint Committee of the Committee of the Town of Peterborough and of the Village of Ashburnham appointed to consider the question of the union of the municipalities agree to recommend to their respective councils that failing the settling of the question of a sewage system for Ashburnham before the taking of the public vote on union there, that it be made one of the terms of union that an outfall fall sewer be constructed in Ashburnham from Elizabeth street southward to a septic tank, and outfall on the shore of the Little Lake to be completed within two years from the date of union at an estimated cost of $10,000, and that the vote on the question of union shall be held on the 26th of October, or such the Mayor and Reeve." This condition, with those embodied in the resolution passed on March 17th, and which follows, are the only ones conditional upon the union. The last resolution referred to is as below:

"Gentlemen—Your Committee of the Whole Council, appointed to confer with the Council of Ashburnham in regard to the union of the two Municipalities, appointed a sub-committee which had a conference with the members of the Village Council at which it was agreed that both Committees should report in favour of the Union of the Municipalities, to take effect on Jan. 1st, 1904, the united municipalities to take over the assets and assume the liabilities of the present Town and Village, and the Village to form one ward for all such purposes as wards now serve in the Town or may hereafter serve in the United Municipalities, and in the event of a vote being taken upon the question in the Town it shall be taken upon a date to be agreed upon between the Town and Village Councils so as to have the vote taken upon the question in the two municipalities on the same day, this to be without prejudice to any public works undertaken by either municipality in the meantime.

All of which is respectfully submitted."

The question of representation on the Board of Education and the Council Board was discussed, and it was found that the ward which Ashburnham would comprise would be entitled to two representatives on the Board of Education as provided by the Revised Statutes of Ontario, and that in reference to the matter of City Council representation, the ward would be in identically the same position as the other wards in the town. The present system of electing the alderman by vote of the whole municipality would still prevail, and it was not anticipated that the residents of what is now known as Ashburnham would suffer any more than any ward of the town as at present constituted. The basis of representation is one alderman for each one thousand of population, taken from the census of 1901, which with the addition in population given by Ashburnham would give twelve Aldermen instead of eleven as at present.

In accordance with the resolution adopted by the meeting last night it is practically assured that the voters of each town will be asked to register their desire on this question during the next few weeks.

HARRY LINDLEY AT THE NEW RINK

Will Present To-night "Scotch Lassie Jean."

Harry Lindley, with a company of fourteen people, will open an engagement at the rink to-night, presenting "Scotch Lassie Jean." To-morrow a matinee will be given, when the production will be "Little Mystic." The company will also play to-morrow night and on Monday night; if the scenery can be arranged, "David Harum" will be put on the boards. The pianist with the company is the celebrated Ethel Laboreau. Harry Lindley is the Nestor of the theatrical profession, and is responsible for more aching sides than any other actor in the profession, and his return will doubtless be welcomed by the many friends who have heard him in the past. Harry Lindley, though perhaps the oldest actor on the boards on this continent is evergreen, and is just as jovial as he was forty years ago.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1903.

FOUR LOCAL GENTLEMEN MET COLONIAL SECRETARY

Made his Acquaintance on Board the "Pretorian" When Returning From England.

Perhaps it is not generally known that Hon. Alfred Lyttleton, who has recently been appointed to the position of Colonial Secretary, vacated by Hon. Jos. Chamberlain, crossed to Canada per the Allan Liner "Pretorian," in August, 1902, and it probably is an unrecorded fact that at the same time Messrs J. Jeffries, H. R. H. Kenner, D. Walker and W. G. Morrow, returned from a visit to the old country. One of the above gentlemen in speaking to the Examiner, termed Lord Lyttleton as being a most sociable gentleman, and a keen sportsman, which remarks the British press comments seem to re-echo. It will only be natural that the Peterborough gentlemen, as well as others, who made his acquaintance on board ship, will watch his movements with considerable interest, more so than the general public.

EQUIPMENT OF POWER HOUSE.

The Electric Generators in New Power House to be of Large Dimensions.

The Canadian Engineer has the following description of the power equipment, at the new dam, of the plant of the hydraulic power Company: — "The Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., of which Senator George A Cox is president, is building a new power plant, which will be equipped with a 1,500 kilowatt, 2,240 volt generator, having 7,200 alternations and running at 150 revolutions per minute, to be direct coupled to water wheels; also two 125 volt D. C., direct coupled exciters of 75 kilowatts capacity each; together with switchboard consisting of a large generator panel and two exciter panels. The power house will be an unusually fine one. Power is to be furnished to the American Cereal Co., to a number of other manufactories, and to the Peterborough Light and Power Co."

SURVEYING TOUR IN NEW ONTARIO.

Mr. J. A. Fife, B. A., Tells the Story of His Travels.

NUMBER THREE.

Early on the morning of July 15th, we left New Liskeard, and soon rounded Mabe's Point, on which is an outcropping of lithographic limestone, which has been worked to some extent, but which was found to be useless on account of small concretions of quartz which are in the rock. Passing Burnt Island, on which there is a deposit of the same material, our course lay in a northwesterly direction, and as we passed the mouth of the White River an American tourist rushed on deck, field glass in hand, and announced that he had seen three large moose feeding in the marsh close by. Imagine his disappointment, when on closer view they proved to be horses.

About twenty miles from New Liskeard the lake gradually narrows into the river Quinze, a short river, so called from its fifteen dangerous chutes. Near its mouth is the Indian village of North Temiscamingue, and an Indian Reserve. This is in Quebec, and the inhabitants whom we met were mostly French Canadians and French half-breeds.

Beyond this point there is no postal communication, and arrangements were made for forwarding mail as opportunity might occur, either by the Hudson Bay Company's or Biedermann's freighters.

Having been strongly advised to avoid the Quinze River, arrangements were made to transport the boats and supplies by wagon, over a 15-mile portage road from North Temiscamingue to the Klock Lumber Company's Depot on Lake Quinze. The road is a private road, and is so very rough that from 1200 to 1400 lbs. is a heavy load for a strong lumber team. It costs 70 cents per cwt. to freight goods over this 15 miles, and it is not excessive, considering that the road is almost impassable, and that the trip requires an entire day, and also that the company exacts $1 toll for each trip. Canoes were carried inverted over the other parts of the load, and it was with great difficulty that they were kept from being dashed to pieces.

Rain was falling as we set out and the clay road soon became very slippery, and travelling for teams and men was very tiresome. Towards evening the hindmost team became separated from the others, and eventually stuck fast on a steep hill. What were we to do? Eleven of the party were with the four teams in advance, leaving only two with the one in trouble. No settler was within miles of us, so the only way out of the difficulty was to unload, and carry the entire load to the top of the hill. When this had been completed, and the wagon again loaded, the rosy hue surrounding a surveying trip into the north country had almost vanished, and one felt impelled to agree with my French-Canadian companion's remark, when he said, "Ba Gosh, this is no pleasure trip, for sure!"

"But all is well that ends well," and Klock's Depot was reached about 9.30 p.m., and as the sleeping apartments were all occupied, we gladly accepted the offer of the dining room floor, with the understanding that it must be vacated at 4.30 a.m., as the room would be required for the preparation of breakfast.

The next morning was spent in loading boats with supplies necessary for three or four weeks, and in making general preparations for the remainder of the journey, which was to be made entirely by canoe.

Arrangements had been made with the Dutch Trader Biedermann, (already referred to), to transport the balance of our supplies, about 3,000 lbs., from Klock's to his trading post on Lake Abittibi, a distance of 170 miles, at a cost of $3.25 per cwt. The scene of our labours lies 44 miles beyond the trading post referred to, and an effort was made to have everything delivered at our camp, but it did not succeed.

By twelve o'clock all arrangements were completed, and we launched our canoes on Lake Quinze, a beautiful expansion of the Ottawa, with a few nicely wooded islands, and with forest clad shores. Our outfit consisted of one 19 ft. canoe, three 17 ft. canoes, and one 16 ft., and as we paddled up the lake that afternoon, it reminded one of the pictures of crews of Indians traversing our Canadian waters in early days, lacking only the feathers and paint.

Towards evening we entered the deep, still-flowing river, into which the Lake narrows, and as we leisurely paddled along, one felt impressed with the calmness and beauty of his surroundings. The sinking sun had almost disappeared behind the forests, and the stillness was broken only by the noise of our dripping paddles and the occasional splash of a leaping fish.

We covered about 15 miles during the afternoon and camped at the foot of the rapids, which divide Quinze and Barrier Lakes.

In the morning we made our first portage, a distance of 300 yards, and were soon afloat on Barrier Lake, so named, I presume, from several rocky shoals which extended out a considerable distance from shore. This, too, is a fine stretch of water about 20 miles long with a few wooded islands and with only two or three vacant lumber camps to break the belt of green which presses close to the water's edge.

In the afternoon we approached the mouth of Lonely River and as the lake had been somewhat rough for our heavily loaded boats, we were glad of the shelter which its densely wooded shores afforded. The stream is narrow, deep and very crooked and one cannot but be struck with the appropriateness of its name. Nothing to be seen but the heavy green forest on either hand, the sky overhead and the dark streak of water in front. Birds are rare; only a few wood and black ducks were seen and one or two sandpipers were observed teetering along on the projecting logs. At one point on shore we saw that a large spruce had been flattened and on it carved the picture of a moose cow and her calf. Our half breeds exclaimed "Moose on Lonely River."

Thus far we had not seen one, but tracks were plentiful on shore and several times the crashing of branches had been heard as if from the tread of some heavy animal. After two and on-half hours steady paddling Long Lake expanded before us, and as the wind was very high we were forced to encamp. This was our first full days paddling and the patter of the rain on the canvas was a sufficient lullaby to soothe us to sleep.

Long Lake is about 25 miles in length and in may places very narrow, but at it's widest point stretches out nearly three miles. On either shore as far as the eye can carry stretches the primival forest of spruce, poplar, white pine and birch. The lake teems with pike and pickerel and little effort was necessary to provide us with all the fish we could use.

Returning to camp one evening two of our men came upon a large black bear swimming the lake, but as they were unarmed they gave bruin a wide berth.

While we were lying in camp over Sunday, two large Hudson Bay Co's canoes heavily freighted passed northward, they were each manned by a crew of nine Indians, and were returning from Long Point on Lake Quinze and bound for the H. B. Co's post at the south end of Lake Abittibi.

This is part of the Hudson Bay Co's old canoe route between Montreal and Moose Factory on James' Bay, and the mode of travel at present is quite as primitive as that of the old voyageurs of 200 years ago.

The northern extremity of Long Lake extends to the "height of land," which we reached on the evening of July 19th.

Here is a portage of a mile, the longest on the entire trip and the path over it is worn by the tread of many feet. Having made this portage we entered the Lake of Islands, and now we were going down stream towards Hudson's Bay. Northward, still northward, we steered our course among the numerous spruce-covered beautiful islands from which the lake receives it's name. The lake is nearly twenty miles in length and would be a veritable summer tourists' paradise, but no traces of man's presence are to be seen except one or two lonely trapper's deserted cabins and the occasional white cotton sheet on which are printed the Quebec regulations regarding forest fires. It is indeed a very remarkable fact that on the whole of our route through Quebec Province there was scarcely any forest which had suffered from the ravages of fire and one sees it in all its pristine beauty.

Leaving Island Lake we entered Thirty Mile River, a long tortuous stream on which there are plenty of portages, fine scenery and whose waters teem with fish. Having camped one day for dinner at the foot of one it's rapids, one of our men threw in a silver minnow bait and in a very few minutes pulled out five pickerel each about 5 lbs. weight. This was sport sufficient to delight even the most ardent disciples of Izak Walton.

Thirty Mile River empties into a wide expanse called Upper Lake, about 15 miles in legth, passing which we entered a river about 12 in length, (the name of which we did not learn,) which empties into Lake Abittibi. As we neared the river's mouth we could see in the distance the Hudson Bay Co's post, consisting of a store, the agent's residence and a neat little Roman Catholic Church and a large number of Indian tents and teepees. This was the first sign of civilization we had seen since leaving Klock's depot on Lake Quinze. The Indian village at the Post is called Abittibi, which has a population of about 150 men besides women and children.

We were informed that the H. B. Co. had been trading at this Post for upwards of 200 years. The Indians are a mixture of the Cree, Algonquin and White, strong traces of the latter being easily seen in the faces of many of them. On our first visit to the Company's store we met an old Scotchman named McKenzie who informed us that he had been in that country for twenty-five years. On being asked what he followed, he Oin the Scothman's non-committal way, said,—"Oh, I do many things," and that was all the information he offered along that line.

WORDS CANNOT TELL

"For upwards of ten years I have been a severe sufferar from Dyspepsia. I doctored almost continually and used almost everything I could hear of but got no real relief till I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Words cannot tell the great good they have done me."

These are the words of Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont. They come as a message of hope to all sufferers from Indigestion or Dyspepsia—to all who suffer from sour stomach, bloating pains in the stomach, headaches and that terrible depression that is probably the worst symptom of this all too prevalent disease.

This is proof that Dyspepsia can be cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Thousands of similar proofs lead to the conclusion that there is no case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cannot cure. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are an insurance policy against discomfort; they are the surest guarantee of good health.

Instead of being charmed, as he expected, "she never smiled, but when he had finished slid from his knee, with a solemn face, and, going to her mother, said: 'Mamma, Uncle Jim will go to the bad place sure. He has just told me two big stories.'"

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and travelling grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself, for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines, and they maintain their their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicines as much as in selling barbwire.

COMPROMISE RESULT

London Report Regarding Award in the Alaska Case.

FOUGHT BATTLE OF EMPIRE

Mr. Aylesworth's Frank Opinion Regarding the Arguments of U. S. Counsel—End of the Arguments—Decision Expected Soon by the Alaska Tribunal—Commissioners to Meet in Private.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Oct. 9.—A. B. Aylesworth, speaking to your correspondent yesterday, said: "Regarding the Alaska case we think Canadians have fought the battle of the Empire. All Canada has been for months in a nervous dread lest the award go against her. I told Lord Alverstone that we Canadians of the Tribunal would never sign any document giving away a single inch of territory we considered British."

Mr. Aylesworth declined to talk concerning the award beyond stating that the case was grandly presented by the British side, and apart from Mr. Dickenson, weakly presented by American counsel.

A Compromise.

The Americans have asked for an immediate award. Your correspondent learns from an excellent authority that the result will be a compromise, and that Lord Alverstone will side with the Americans.

The argument before the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal was concluded yesterday, and the Commission adjourned until Monday, when it will hold its first private session to consider its verdict.

Mr. Dickenson Closes.

Mr. Jacob Dickenson yesterday morning resumed his argument dealing with various notices claimed to have been given of the British claim to the heads of inlets and declared that up to 1898 all were ineffective. He quoted a letter from Lord Herschell to Lord Salisbury to show that the British claim was presented to the High Commission at Quebec in 1898, implying that this was the first time. He reviewed the notices seriatim, and contended that Dr. George Dawson's letters to Sir Charles Tupper and Sir A. T. Galt, in 1858, were purely informal; that Sir Lionel Sackville West's letter in the same year was falsely detective; that Lord Salisbury's protest against Lieut. Schwatka's reconnaissance was irrelevant, and so on.

He enumerated acts which he claimed proved continuous occupation on the part of the United States of the head of the Lynn Canal, and quoted reports of military and naval officers in support of his arguments. He read depositions from Indians in that locality with the object of showing that they had always considered themselves subjects of Russia prior to 1867, and to the United States since. He said the records of the civil authorities showed the same thing. Customs and mining laws were enforced there, postoffices established and other acts of sovereignty performed without a protest from anybody. All this, he argued, showed acquiescence on the part of Great Britain.

The Tribunal's Place.

He said a few words as to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, and quoted the late Lord Russell's speech before the Law Association of the United States, in which he dwelt upon the excellence of the settlement of international questions by peaceful means, such as this. He eulogized such methods, and said, looking to the magnitude of the interests involved, and the feeling aroused in both countries, the position of this Tribunal is unique. He commended the issues to its determination, and expressed the thanks of himself and colleagues for the patience, courtesy and impartiality which they had received.

The President, Lord Alverstone, thanked him for his brilliant and powerful argument.

The Attorney-General expressed pleasure at being associated in such a friendly rivalry.

General Foster, the United States Agent, expressed the thanks of his Government for the courtesy and general hospitality of His Majesty's Government. No word, he said, had been spoken to mar the cordial and friendly character of the proceedings, and he trusted this might be a happy augury of the Tribunal's decision.

Mrs. Sternaman Again.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Mrs. Olive A. Sternaman's suit against the Metropolitan Insurance Company, to recover $1,000 on a policy on the life of her late husband, George N. Sternaman, is on trial in the Supreme Court here. The company refused to pay on the policy, alleging Mrs Sternaman poisoned her husband

THE JUBILEE BRESENTS AT ST. LOUIS FAIR.

The Beautiful Gifts of the Late Queen Have Arrived in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 8th.—The last of the Queen's Jubilee presents which arrived from Toronto Saturday for exhibition at the World's Fair, were safely stowed away in the vaults of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company yesterday, and will remain there until the opening of the Exposition.

"Property of King Edward, of England," was stamped on each of the heavy cases, and these marks alone distinguished the boxes from ordinary packing cases.

The last dray load of the gifts arrived at the trust company's office shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when the streets were crowded. As soon as it became known that the heavy boxes contained the gifts a large crowd gathered, and the police had to make room with their clubs before the men who had the boxes in charge could work.

They were unloaded on the Pine street side of the building and lowered to the cellar by a freight elevator. There are thirty-five cases in the exhibit, weighing nearly twenty tons.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., Oct. 8.—There were 703 boxes of white and 135 of colored cheese boarded here to-day. Bidding was started by Deaning at 10½c, buyers present offered same price. The salesman would not sell at this figure, as they wanted at least 11c. It is reported that nearly all the cheese was sold on the street at 10½c; there were eight buyers present: E. C. Rae, Welsh, McGregor, Wenger, Deaning, Pitt, Bennett and Fraser, Fraser, for J. S. Williamson, bought six or seven hundred boxes.

Are You Billious? Blame the Liver.

Scores of the Common Ills of Life Due to Disorders of the Liver and Curable by the Use of

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills.

If you are bilious blame the liver. If your digestion is impaired and you suffer from headache and dizzy spells, blame the liver. If your bowels are irregular, constipation and looseness alternating, blame the liver. If you have pain under the shoulder blades, feelings of fullness after meals, aching limbs, a yellow, muddy complexion, blame the liver.

Torpid, sluggish action of the liver is responsible for all these symptoms, and while you have a right to blame the liver, it may be well for you to set about to help the liver out of difficulty.

Though bile, which the healthy liver filters from the blood, is nature's cathartic and is necessary to healthful and regular motion of the bowels, it is poison when left in the blood and gives rise to many distressing symptoms. The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills promptly cures torpid liver and biliousness, and because of their combined action on liver, kidneys and bowels ensure a thorough cleansing of the system.

There is probably no one organ responsible for so many ills as the liver. Overeating, excessive drinking or irregular meals are very likely to upset the action of the liver, overload the system with bile and bring on biliousness or sick headache. Keep the liver in health by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you will avoid many of the common ills of life. There will then be no constipation, no stomach troubles, no danger of kidney and urinary derangements.

The position which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills hold to-day as the leading family medicine is undoubtedly due to their wonderfully prompt action on the liver and their combined effort on the kidneys and bowels. There is no medicine obtainable which is more useful in cases of emergency when the digestive, urinary or excretory systems are deranged than this great prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 8

A NOTORIOUS CORPS.

The French Foreign Legion and Its Dangerous Characters.

The death penalty awarded a private in the French foreign legion for throwing his cap in his captain's face at Oran is an illustration of the merciless severity exercised in that famous corps. Shooting at sight is permitted the officers, who have to deal with dangerous characters from all quarters of Europe.

Nowhere is there such a corps, according to the London Chronicle. Its ranks are recruited from outcasts of all social ranks. Disgraced officers of the Russian service, deserters from the German army, broken scions of the Austrian nobility, fraudulent debtors from Belgium, forgers from Spain, homicides from America, ruined gamblers from Italy, are found in plenty in the ranks. No excuse is taken for a fault, and the slightest symptom of insubordination carries with it a swift passage to another world. It is understood that recruits are simply seeking refuge from the arm of the civil law.

The foreign legion is the only voluntarily enlisted corps in the French army. It has done excellent service against the Arabs and is always placed in the forefront of the fight.

WEDDED IN TORONTO.

Rev. J. W. Clarry of Millbrook Married to Miss Florence McTaggart.

A wedding which will be of interest to many in Peterborough, took place in Toronto on Wednesday. The following is from the Toronto News:

"A very pretty house wedding took place on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents, 239 Markham street, when Miss Florence Annetta McTaggart, F. T. C. M., lately a teacher at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, and daughter of Mr. M. and Mrs. McTaggart, was married to the Rev. John Wilson Clarry, B.A., of Millbrook. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. N. Baker, of Broadway Tabernacle. The couple were supported by F. L. Farewell, B. A., of Toronto, as best man, and Miss Cora McTaggart, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. The bride was daintily gowned in white silk organdie over taffeta, the bodice having a large yoke handsomely trimmed with fagot stich. Her going away gown was of blue camels-hair over blue taffeta, and hat with black tips. Among many and beautiful presents to the bride were a sunburst of pearls, the gift of the groom, and an elegant Gerhard Heintzman piano, presented by her father. The wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives and friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Clarry purpose taking up their abode in Millbrook."

FUNERAL OF MRS. PENDRY

Held Yesterday and was Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Mrs. (Dr.) Pendry, of Brooklyn, N.Y., yesterday was very largely attended by many of the friends of the deceased lady, who during her residence here won the respect and esteem of all with whom she came in contact. The remains were conveyed from the residence of Mr. E. Courtney, Concession street, Ashburnham, to the Little Lake cemetery, were they were interred in compliance with the express wish of the deceased lady, who, during her long absence from Peterborough, never lost her love for her old home, which love was doubtless accentuated by the fact that her only son was born here. Dr. Pendry, the husband of the deceased and his son, Captain Pendry, also a veterinary surgeon, accompanied the remains here for burial, and the first remark of the son, on seeing the beautiful cemetery, in which his mother wished to be laid, was that he was not surprised at her wish.

The pall-bearers at the funeral were Mr. Geo. Hutchinson, Mr. F. Adams, Mr. Geo. Carpenter, Mr. Stephen Gaskin, Mr. Wm. Fowler and Mr. P. Moffat. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt conducted the service.

The esteem in which the late Mrs. Pendry was held in New York was evidenced by the very beautiful floral tributes which surrounded her coffin at the church service held in New York previous to the remains being conveyed here.

Dr. Pendry since his removal to New York, has been elected to the State Legislature, and represented a constituency the population of which was 70,000. Capt. Bryan Pendry, his son, is a member of the New York Board of Health, to which city he and his father will return to-morrow. Dr. Pendry is deeply grateful for the many kindnesses shown him and his son in their trial and states that they will return cherishing very kindly feeling towards the people of Peterborough.

LITTLE GUY QUARTERMAIN WAS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

While Playing in Riverside Park Yesterday Afternoon.

About five o'clock yesterday afternoon, while in the Riverside Park, the ranges of the Peterborough Gun Club, Guy, the 13 year old son of Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, of Ashburnham, was accidentally shot in the back.

At the time of the unfortunate accident, the lad in the company of two or three others, was playing in the north-west corner of the park, in which direction no gun is fired, the rule being to shoot towards the river. However, some member of the club, seeing a pigeon behind him, turned around and fired, resulting in practically the whole contents of the barrel burying itself in the unfortunate boy's back.

It is a matter of scorn to say that the "sportsman," whose name is unknown, on ascertaining that he had shot the boy, made off, without even waiting to see whether the lad's injuries were of a serious nature or not. Such a man should carry a "pop-gun," and not be allowed to handle a loaded weapon.

The boy was driven to his home, where he was attended by Dr. Young who succeeded in extracting most, if not all, the shot. He spent a quiet night and to-day is doing as well as can be possibly expected under the circumstances.

New York, October 9. — Six and 24-100 inches of rain fell within 24 hours, with the rain still falling. Trolley lines and railways are either crippled or delayed, and in New York city a conduit containing 70 telegraph wires is so flooded as to disable all the wires. A heavy flood in the Bronx district damaged several packing houses and a portion of the freight yard of the New York Central Railroad was covered by 12 feet of water. Along the North River front cellars were flooded and in some instances a heavy loss on goods is reported. West street in front of the Jersey City and Hoboken Ferries was flooded and passengers were carried across it in drays and grocery wagons.

GEORGE STREET GUILD ANNIVERSARY

To be Held on Sunday and Monday Oct. 18th and 19th.

The Young Men's Guild of George street will celebrate the first anniversary of its organization, on Sunday and Monday, Oct. 18th and 19th. On Sunday special sermons will be preached by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, a feature of the evening service will be the presence of a male choir led by Mr. G. W. Mulligan. When the sermon will be specially directed to Young Men's Guild work. On Monday a fowl supper will be held in the Sunday School room, from 6 to 8, followed by an entertainment of a musical and literary character, and rendered solely by young men.

It is just a year since this Guild was organized, and the success thus far has been very gratifying. The young men of the church are recognizing the benefit to them of being identified with such a society, and are joining in large numbers.

As the fowl supper now being arranged by them will in all probability be the only one held in the church this season, it will doubtless be well attended.

Says Poverty is a Disease.

Vitosophy will be the subject of an interesting lecture to be given to-night at the Y.M.C.A. Hall by Prof. William Windsor, LL.B., Ph.D., an eminent phrenologist. He claims that poverty is a disease and it can be cured if taken in time, but the fact that it is not regarded as a disease and no attention paid to its proper remedy, has filled the world with financial wrecks. When a man has a weak and paralysed arm the fact is noted as a disease, and he is cured, if it is a curable case; and if not curable he is not expected to lift heavy weights with it. But many a man has his brain in a weak and paralysed state, and in that state is loaded with the heaviest commercial responsibilities. Frequently the victim goes down under the strain, and too often lands in the penitentiary. Vitosophy sets everybody right, by surveying the mental capacity of each individual and putting him in his proper place and vocation, besides indicating the limit of his financial responsibilities. As this lecture will be free no doubt Professor Windsor will have a large audience to greet him.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

Field Day in Rugby To-morrow Afternoon.

Peterborough Boys' Success in Sport at Port Hope—Other Sports.

RUGBY.

A great Rugby field day will be held to-morrow afternoon at the oval.

At 2 o'clock the Britannias will play a practice game with the Intermediates, following which the scheduled City League game between the All Saints and the Rough Riders will be played off, and the third event will be a game in which the Trinity College School Team of Port Hope and the Britannias of Peterborough will struggle for supremacy. This is a programme which will prove very interesting and no doubt a big crowd will be on hand to witness the games. Word was just received this afternoon to the effect that Trinity College School team would be here, and their presence will add to the interest in the games.

• • • •

The second game in the City League, senior series, will be played to-morrow afternoon at the Nicholls' oval between the All Saints' and Rough Riders. The Rough Riders will probably play the same team as that which won from the Britannias last week, with the exception of Wood and Dormer, whose places will be taken by two new men. Wood is out of town and Dormer will not be able to play. The All Saints team will be chosen from the following players: Ford, Cranfield, Gilbert, Peddar, Hopkins, Henderson, Alford, Canniff, Gillespie, Dusty and Campbell. Spare men will be Adamson, Robertson and Thornton.

This game promises to be an interesting one, as All Saints have shown in their practice work that they will have to be reckoned with in the race for the championship. The Rough Riders are naturally elated over their victory of last Saturday, but realize that the game to-morrow will be no walk over.

• • • •

The Torontos have secured a good wing in Robinson, who is a new man. Robinson played with Peterborough two years ago.—Toronto News.

• • • •

A full practice of the Rugby Club is called for 7.30 at the T.A.S. grounds this evening, and to-morrow at 2.15 the team will play a practice game with the Britannias. The Brits. will have the back division of the Peterboroughs, and their backs will play for the Peterboroughs side. In this way a good practice will take place. The following are asked to be on hand: Lee, Morgan, Crough, Thornton, Dillon, Burnham, Noble, Rickey, Cameron, Paschal, Craig, Grady, Cole, Lush, Asselestine, Hurtubise, Meagher, Shortell, Crowley and Graham.

• • • •

All Saints against the Rough Riders in the City League game on Saturday will be:—Back, Alfords; half backs, Ford, Cranfield, Dusty; quarter back, Gillespie; centre, Canniff, wings, Peddler, Campbell, Henderson, Hopkins, Roddy, Gilbert; spares, Adamson, Thornton, Robertson.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams will referee and Mr. W. F. Crowley umpire Saturday's game between the Rough Riders and All Saints.

Every person should see the Burnside rules in operation on Saturday. The tickets are only 10 cents, help the coming seniors along.

• • • •

A meeting of the O.R.F.U. Board of Referees, of which Mr. A. W. MacPherson, is a member, was held last night in Toronto, when the new rules were discussed, and it was decided to recommend to the union the following additional penalties for violation of the rules on off-side plays in scrimmage:

"If a player of the side in possession of the ball is off-side in a scrimmage, that is, ahead of the ball when it is put in play, the ball shall be given to the opponents."

"If a player of the side not in possession of the ball is off-side in a scrimmage, that is, ahead of the ball when it is put in play, the opponents shall be advanced ten yards."

The meeting also discussed the blocking or holding by opponents when players were following up a kick. The following rule was suggested:—"If any player holds an opponent who has not the ball, the side not offending shall be given a free kick." By offending is meant catching hold of so as to prevent the player from getting up to the ball.

Those present approved of the action of the union in interpreting the five yard rule to mean that an opportunity must be given to make a fair catch, and opponents must not interfere in any way to prevent a player making a catch. This will necessitate opponents, if any should happen to be close to a player, waiting to make a catch, chary attempting to give a fair distance by moving away. In case of a bouncing ball the same rule should hold; a fair distance, and if within a very close distance, clearly moving away to give a fair chance.

Referees and umpires who officiate in the O.R.F.U. games, are requested to send in reports of each game in which they officiate, to the secretary of the union, mentioning any disputed points which may arise.

LACROSSE.

At the meeting of the Judicial Committee of the C.L.A. the complaint of the T.A.S. of Peterborough against the Oshawa Juniors was allowed, and in default of payment, the bond of the Oshawa club, amounting to $25, was assigned to the T.A.S. club by the president.

BASKET-BALL.

The Athletics will place two basketball teams in the field, a first and a second. At a meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours Tuesday night the following officers were elected:—

President—E. Dillon.
Secretary-Treasurer — H. Dunsford.
Manager—E. Howell.
Captain, 1st team—W. Cavanagh.

The captain of the 2nd team was not elected nor will be until the senior team has been formed.

BASEBALL.

The managers of the Lindsay and Peterborough baseball clubs held a confab over the long distance phone yesterday, and owing to the unsettled condition of the weather it was decided to call the proposed game of ball off until next season, when it will be played as an opening game between the towns. Both teams are evenly matched, but each team thinks they are the better one, and it is too bad the deciding game was not arranged earlier in the season. The Excelsiors had a great season, winning 16 and losing 2 games.

• • • •

Flaherty, the clever twirler of the Excelsiors, will go to Oshawa to-morrow to play with that team against the Crescents of Toronto.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The annual athletic sports of the Trinity College School, Port Hope, were held on Wednesday and Thursday, and the various events were well contested. Many friends were present from a distance, Mrs. Hammond and Mr. P. Campbell, from Peterborough, and Mr. Delafosse, of Lakefield, being among the visitors.

Alan and Gordon Campbell and Douglas Hammond, were among the most successful contestants, and their winnings aggregated fifteen prizes, which is a remarkably good record for the representatives of one town. The events in which they participated are as follows:—

Mile, open, 12 entries — 1, D. Hammond.

THE KILLIN-KEOUGH CONCERT TO-NIGHT

At Opera House Under Auspices of the Charlotte Street Guild.

The Young Men's Guild of the Charlotte street church are to be congratulated on their enterprise in securing the Killin-Keough Concert Company to give an entertainment under their auspices in the opera house to-night. This company has been giving concerts in different towns during the last month, and is very highly spoken of wherever it has appeared. Miss Terry, in a concert given at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, was very warmly received, and her work was commented upon very favourably. She is spoken of as being an elocutionist of more than ordinary ability and will be welcomed to Peterborough. The singing of Mr. and Mrs. Keough has always been enjoyed here, and many will be glad of this opportunity of again hearing them here.

CONSOLIDATED STEEL TRUST.

Evidence to Be Presented of a Sensational Nature to-day Case.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. 9.—There are indications of sensational developments to come in connection with the second round in the legal struggle for the possession of the works, which is scheduled for this morning before Judge Johnston.

It is said that the true inwards of the attack on the great industries will be laid bare. For a couple of weeks it has been hinted that the United States Steel Trust was the cause of all the trouble, and it is expected that to-day's examination of some of the gentlemen who will be put in the witness box, will reveal an astounding story, one that will shock Canada.

For the past week it has been freely said that the object of Speyer & Co. was to get hold of the works and demolish them. There can hardly be any doubt that this consummation was only prevented by the herculean labor of Mr. Clergue. It has been recognized for weeks by those citizens of the Sault who followed the developments carefully that Government interference of some sort would be necessary to prevent Yankee financiers sacrificing the town.

The legal battle to-day will give the town a glimmering of the fate arranged for it by foreign speculators.

SIGNED AT SHANGHAI.

Trade Treaty Between China and the United States Made Good.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The American State Department was informed yesterday that the American-Chinese commercial treaty has been signed at Shanghai, and that the Japanese treaty will be signed during the the afternoon. The principal points of the treaty are, briefly, as follows:

First: Settlement of the long vexed question of internal taxation in China.

Third: Protection of patents, trademarks and copyrights.

Fourth: Mining rights.

Fifth: Opening of new localities to international trade in the part of the Empire in which the United States has most commercial interests.

Sixth: Right to carry on trade, industries and manufactures in all open ports of China.

MAKE JUST ONE MORE TRIAL.

No Matter How Many Remedies You Have Tried, Here is one That Will Cure Your Piles.

If you are suffering from pain and torture of piles and want to be cured spend 50 cents at the druggists for one package of Pyramid Pile Cure, and convince yourself beyond a doubt that it can be done. There is no earthly doubt that this remedy will cure you just as it has cured thousands and thousands of others, if you follow the directions and give it a fair trial.

You may have tried so many remedies that you may feel that yours is a hopeless case. You may have become discouraged and suffered so long that it is almost second nature to you. It makes no difference how serious your case is, or how long you may have had it, you will be cured just the same

Pyramid Pile Cure is in the form of suppositories, and reaching the seat of the trouble gives instant relief. It does away with the torture of the knife and the humiliation of an examination and operation by the physician. It is administered by the sufferer himself in the privacy of the home. There is no record of it ever failing to cure the most severe, aggravated and long standing cases.

Mrs. R. T. C. Boylan, Marshall, Mississippi, writes: "I suffered awful torture for years from piles. I used Pyramid Pile Cure and was well in three days."

Amos Crocker, of Worcester, writes, "After going through a frightful surgical operation and after trying any number of salves and ointments, one 50 cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure gave speedy relief, and it quickly cured me."

James Kenton, Memphis, Tenn., says: "I suffered the tortures of itching piles for years, and not even mercurial ointment would relieve me. One 50 cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure cured me entirely."

Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale by all druggists, or will be sent upon receipt of price, 50 cts. a package, by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

Write for free booklet on the nature, treatment and cure of piles.

ANOTHER SESSION.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The Globe's Ottawa correspondent left night sent the following despatch. The impression is gaining ground that there will be another session before an election. It will be a very brief one, and only legislation of the most urgent character will be passed. Then the Government will dissolve Parliament and go to the country. It is understood that the majority of Ministerial members, certainly those from Quebec, favor another session rather than an immediate appeal to the electorate. At the same time, if the Government choose to have the elections this winter, they have good reasons for doing so in the redistribution of constituencies and the Grand Trunk Pacific policy.

Japan Loses Greatest Actor.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 9.—Mail advices received by the steamer Shinano Maru tell of the death of Ichikawa Danjuro, the most prominent actor in Japan. He was 75. The "chief actor of Japan"—his official title—was entirely bald, with deep wrinkled, parchment-tinted face, but in his daimio costume he showed a graceful carriage, a mobile, attractive face, and the energy of a youth.

Russian and Japanese Fleets Anchored Almost Together.

RUSSIA TO HOLD MANCHURIA

Reports Show That Evacuation Has Not Begun—May Fight With Japan—A Russian Official Declares Japan Is Anxious For War, But His Country Is Prepared—China Buying Arms.

Paris, Oct. 9.—Official information received here shows that a formidable Russian fleet, comprising ninety warships of all classes, has left Port Arthur and has arrived at Ma San Pho, south of Corea, where the Japanese fleet had already arrived. The Russian ships have anchored within the Ma San Pho harbor, alongside the Japanese ships. Several brigades of Russian troops have been moved forward to the Corean boundary and are now encamped on the border.

Russia Holding On.

Tien Tsin, Oct. 9.—A telegram from Yin-Kow, under date of Oct. 8, states that the Russians are taking no steps to evacuate New Chwang. Reports from the north show that they are holding their positions everywhere.

Ready For War.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The Patrie yesterday, in a special despatch from Darmstadt, gives an interview with Alexandre Savinsky, the secretary of Foreign Minister Lamsdorff. M. Savinsky is quoted as saying: "Our agents at Tokio have informed us that Japan desires war and is prepared for it. We have enough troops in Siberia to resist all the Japanese troops."

Buying War Material.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—The Chinese Minister is at Essen, where he is buying arms and other war material.

MR. BORDEN BANQUETED.

Conservative Leaders and Members Meet to Greet Parliamentary Leader.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—The Parliamentary caucus of the Conservative party banqueted Mr. R. L. Borden last night at the Grand Union and vented very enthusiastic over him. The menu card was elaborately gotten up and the interior with a half-tone portrait of the guest, bearing underneath the inscription "Hail to the chief."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who leads the Conservatives in the Senate, occupied the chair, and had on his right Mr. R. L. Borden and on his left Mr. F. D. Monk, the party leader in Quebec. The vice-chairs were occupied by the youngest members, Messrs. F. A. LaRocque of Prince Edward Island and J. E. Leonard of Laval.

In his reply to the toast, "The Guest," Mr. Borden compared the present session of Parliament to the "Million Dollar Congress," and gracefully acknowledged the courtesy of the Government in adjourning to permit Conservative members to participate in the banquet.

ANCIENT ENEMIES.

Agree on Terms of a General Treaty of Arbitration.

Paris, Oct. 9.—It was learned in authoritative quarters last evening that the terms of the general treaty of arbitration between France and Great Britain have been completed.

The treaty recognizes the theory of arbitration, and is significant in being the culmination of the rapprochement between France and Great Britain after the centuries of warfare, the maintenance of defensive armaments and the recent animosities growing out of the Fashoda incident and the South African war.

It is also significant of the tendency towards a rearrangement of the European political alliances. The treaty is mainly the outcome of the exchange of visits between King Edward and President Loubet.

Miners Are For Free Trade.

London, Oct. 9.—The Miners' Federation of Great Britain, representing, it is said, 847,000 workmen, at a meeting in Glasgow yesterday, after a heated discussion, passed a resolution "that in regard to the views of the Premier and Mr. Chamberlain the Federation believes that the policy they foreshadow in regard to protection will be a great mistake, and will ultimately lead to the ruin of this country, and hereby resolves to protest against any alteration of the free trade policy, which has existed for the past sixty years."

Found Illicit Still.

Montreal Oct. 9.—An illicit still was seized in Quebec to-day. For six months it has been turning out forty gallons of whiskey a day, which was sold by J. T. Thibaudeau at $2.75 a gallon. On the premises were found four stills, 2,400 pounds wort, three barrels of whiskey, four barrels wine, 2,100 barrels sugar, 800 pounds raisins and currants.

Fighting Still Goes on.

Salonica, Oct. 9.—A serious engagement occurred Oct. 7 between Turks and insurgents near Gumenjo. About three hundred Turks are reported to have been killed or wounded. Fighting is still proceeding. It is reported that 10,000 Albanians, irritated by the raids of Servian bands, threaten to cross the frontier.

AN INCREASE OF 44,000 MEN.

A Reserve of 69,000 to Be Trained in the Use of the Rifle—Decrease of the Public Debt—Sir. Fielding's Announcement Received With Applause, As Was Also His Statement of an Enormous Surplus.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—When the House opened yesterday morning the Premier moved the withdrawal of the bill standing under Mr. Sifton's name to amend the Dominion Lands Act.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, in reply to a question by Mr. Clancy, said the revenue consolidated fund for the last fiscal year was $68,084,105; the expenditure chargeable to consolidated fund $51,707,172, the surplus for the year being $16,376,933. The capital expenditure on railways, railway subsidies and bounties on metals was $10,807,149, and for the sinking fund $5,569,783. The decrease in the net debt of the Dominion on the operations of the year was $6,550,950. There was a further decrease of debt from the adjustment of the Provincial accounts to the extent of $2,304,450, making a total decrease in the net debt for the year of $9,365,410.

In reply to Mr. Wilson (Lennox), Mr. Fielding said the amount paid in railway subsidies in the fiscal year [illegible] $1,972, 1902, $815,-[illegible] 1901, $976,494.

The Finance Minister's statement was received with loud Liberal applause.

Mr. Chamberlain's Meaning.

Before the orders of the day were called, Mr. Monk read an extract from Mr. Chamberlain's Glasgow speech, in which he said he believed the colonies were prepared to meet them in return for a very moderate preference and arrange their tariff so as not to start industries in competition with those already in existence in the Mother Country. Mr. Monk asked if the Government had made a proposal at the colonial conference which would justify any such inference as to the starting of new industries.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he had read the reports of the speech, but he did not draw the same inference as his honorable friend. He understood Mr. Chamberlain to have made an argument, not a statement. He had made the argument that if the British public were to give a preference to the colonies it would be an appeal to the colonies to return a preference, not only on the matters which had been already agreed to, but in what might be suggested. With regard to any statements which had been made at the conference or elsewhere they were all contained in the paper submitted by the Canadian Ministers at the conference, and which had been conveyed to the Home some time ago.

For a Citizen Army.

In Committee of Supply the House took up the militia supplementary estimates. Sir Frederick Borden made a comprehensive lengthy statement of policy. He regarded the increase in development and revenue as involving increased responsibility. At Confederation the Dominion, with a revenue of $13,000,000, undertook to spend $1,000,000 annually on militia, but now the revenue was five or six times that sum, and the total expenditure on militia per head of population was 39 cents, from 1871 to 1881 it was 39 cents 1881 to 1891, 37 cents, from 1891 to 1901, 48 cents, and 1901 to 1904, 60 cents. The department were entering upon a policy of increasing the arms, equipment and clothing. There were less than forty thousand rifles in the country, and there should be at least 100,000. The field artillery and the garrison artillery were inadequate and out of date. The sum asked for this year, $1,00,000, would not change all this in one year, and that rate would have to be repeated five times over. He still looked forward to having a force of 100,000 men available for service when required. He wanted on a peace footing a force of 40,000 to 45,000 men, of whom say 22,000 would be drilled annually, as well as all the officers and non-coms. for the total force. The 22,000 would be selected men.

Rural Militia.

Resuming his speech at 3 o'clock, the Minister of Militia said he estimated that between 20 and 25 per cent. of the 100,000 men of the rural militia would be trained annually. Besides, there were between 12,000 and 15,000 of the city militia who drilled every year. Sir Frederick said further that acting on the advice of Lord Dundonald, he established in the department a military secretary, and he had found a first rate man for the position in Lieut.-Col. Smith, who was at the head of the medals claims board. For the establishment of the School of Musketry at Ottawa, which is doing such good work, the minister gave credit to General O'Grady-Haly. It was under command of Lieut.-Col. Cartwright, "who has done, I am bound to say," added Sir Frederick, "magnificent work as the head of the school, and who deserves highest credit from the militia generally and from the people of Canada."

School of Signalling.

In regard to the School of Signalling, which had been established, an officer was now in England, Lieut. Lister, receiving training in that branch, but the minister could not say whether or not he would take command of the school. The Signalling School would be located in Ottawa side by side with the School of Musketry. A engineer branch had been established in the department, also a central registry branch, and a small vote was also asked to make a beginning for providing a military library here in connection with the headquarters staff and the department generally. The military stores branch had been transferred to the permanent force, and the direc-

It is a great affliction for a woman to have her face disfigured by pimples or any form of eruptive disease. It makes her morbid and sensitive, and robs her of social enjoyment. Disfiguring eruptions are caused by impure blood, and are entirely cured by the great blood-purifying medicine—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes from the blood the poisonous impurities which cause disease. It perfectly and permanently cures scrofulous sores, eczema, tetter, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by the blood's impurity. It increases the action of the blood-making glands and thus increases the supply of pure rich blood.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main Street, Battlecreek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

sor and all the officers under him were now in the permanent force. It would be known as the ordnance branch. In regard to the permanent force, it was to be augmented by 200 infantry and artillery at Montreal, and a second depot at Calgary of 100 mounted men, to be known as the Strathcona Horse. These would relieve the Mounted Police for duty farther north. A small detachment of engineers, numbering in all 100 men, would be attached to each depot. This, with the 100 ordnance men, would increase the permanent force by 500 men. The engineers and Strathcona Horse would be established at once.

In Good Shape.

On the whole, the militia was in fairly good shape, as was shown by the experience of the South African war. If there was sufficient money, the whole 100,000 men would be drilled annually, but as it is, the best had to be done with the money available. It was not true that, as said by Col. Thompson, we had only the shadow of the skeleton of a force, but rather a skeleton with some of the small bones missing. He said every company must be provided with suitable accommodation for at least 100 men, where they could receive instruction. The minister referred to the good work done by the Royal Military College to the enlargement of the cartridge factory and the construction, now under way, of an establishment for the manufacture of shells. But for the desire of the Imperial authorities to confer with him on the matter, he would have introduced a Militia Act this year. Sir Frederick concluded by observing that if his plans were carried, we would have in Canada in five years one of the best fighting militia organizations in the world.

Arsenal for Ontario.

Col. Tisdale, who followed, spoke in favor of the establishment of an arsenal in Ontario.

The minister said the government had been approached by a company who offered to establish one in Ottawa if given the contract for supplying a considerable quantity of ammunition to the government.

Col. Tisdale strongly advocated an increase of pay to the military and quoted returns showing that the attendance at camp was less than previous to 1896. He also deprecated the action of the minister in suppressing the report of Lord Dundonald.

In this Col. Tisdale was joined by Mr. Ingram of Elgin, who did not consider the report confidential.

The minister replied that he was the best judge as to whether the report was or was not confidential, and as it contained a comprehensive scheme of defence it was not such a report as should be published to the world.

Give More Pay.

Lieut.-Col. Ward of Durham expressed regret that the government had not seen fit to increase the pay of the militia, pointing out that at present rates it was impossible to get the men to turn out. A similar plea was put up by Mr. Richardson of South Grey and Lieut.-Col. Thompson of Haldimand, who urged an increase to $1 per day.

Lieut.-Col. Sam Hughes advocated supplementing the British pension by a Canadian pension to Canadians wounded in South Africa, the training of boys in the use of the rifle, the erection of monuments on Canadian battlefields, and the arming of the militia with the Ross rifle. Col. Hughes urged that especially the frontier of the Dominion should be mapped for war purposes.

The House rose for the day shortly after 6 o'clock to allow the Opposition members to attend the Borden banquet.

IRENE COLE'S MURDER.

Kennedy Did Not Make His Promised Statement—No New Evidence.

Brantford, Oct. 9.—Joseph Kennedy, the man who is charged with the murder of Irene Cole, did not make the statement that he promised at the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Woodyatt yesterday morning. He has retained Messrs. Lloyd, Livingston & Couch to defend him and they will not allow him to do any talking until the proper time comes. A great deal of evidence bearing on the case was taken yesterday morning, but the witnesses were the same as those who appeared before the Coroner's jury and nothing new in the case was presented. The trial was adjourned till Tuesday morning, so that the result of the analysis of the stains found on Kennedy's clothing can be obtained from Prof. Ellis.

The McDougall Case.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—There is every indication that Alfred McDougall, charged with misappropriation of provincial funds, will never come before the courts for trial. Yesterday his name was called in the General Sessions, but the voice of his counsel was heard in response. McDougall lies in bed at his home, and, according to the doctor's evidence, he will not recover from his illness. The case was adjourned till Thursday, Nov. 26.

Meat Trade Under Preference.

London, Oct. 9.—(C.A.P.)—One of the largest meat importers says his company is free to buy where it likes, and if it became unprofitable to buy United States meat, and more profitable to use colonial, it would give orders accordingly. Other companies, however, were not in the same position, and would not only have to pay the duty, but would be giving a distinct advantage to Canada and New Zealand.

Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good and that he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

An Unknown Suicide.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 9.—Lying on the ground, face upward, with a revolver by his side, a dead unknown man was found in the rear of a lumber yard on Higgins avenue yesterday morning shortly before 6 o'clock. The man was about 30 years old, and evidently a German.

THE 57TH BAND APPRECIATED.

Gave Two Concerts in Bowmanville and Scored Great Success.

The 57th Band returned last night from Bowmanville where they had been engaged to play at the West Durham Fair and also to give two concerts. Bandmaster Gliddon states that the Band was very well received and the members speak highly of the hospitality extended to them while in the little lake town. The concert given on Tuesday night was fairly well attended and the one on Wednesday was heard by an immense crowd, an evidence of the fact that the music supplied was appreciated. In response to a request, the selection, "The Forge in the Forest," was given again the second night, after having been rendered on the first evening. The audiences also showed their appreciation of the work of the soloists, Mr. E. Cronk, Mr. H. Morphett and Mr. Jos. Haipany, by frequent recalls.

THE EXHIBITION AT CENTREVILLE.

Another Successful Intertownship Fair.

Good Stock Shown and an Excellent Inside Exhibit.

The thirty-third annual exhibition of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society held on Thursday, was successful in every way except attendance, the number of visitors having been below the average, a feature to be largely accounted for by the uncertain weather.

But to compensate there was increase of about one hundred entries, the number in 1902 being 593 and this year, 646.

THE INSIDE EXHIBIT.

This was of special excellence. The show of grain was large and of good quality, while roots and vegetables were splendidly represented. Plants and cut flowers were also very creditably in evidence. The ladies' department of handiwork in all branches as as usual at Centreville, very finely fitted. The fancy work was abundant and of a high degree of excellence, while the more prosaic but more comfortable domestic department presented a fine array of home-made goods, flannels, counterpanes and warm quilts. A specially elaborate showing of home made rugs was a feature of the exhibition. An excellent and abundant display of home-made bread and golden butter presented an appetising appearance. An unusually fine display of apples loaded the long tables, the exhibit fully justifying the claim made by an enthusiastic former resident that South Monaghan is the finest apple growing township in the district. There was a limited but good representation of the fine arts and some excellent penmanship was shown. All through the inside exhibit was most creditable to the exhibitors and the townships represented.

On the grounds there were exhibits of cream separators and Mr. L. S. Clarry, of Millbrook, had an exhibit of Carey's Magnesia Flexible Cement Roofing, guaranteed to be fire-proof, lasting, easily applied and as cheap as good shingles. It certainly seems to be excellently adapted for roofing purposes and is worthy of the attention of builders. It can be applied over an old roof without the removal of shingles and presents many features that commend it to practical use.

THE STOCK EXHIBITS.

Horses.

There was a fine exhibit of stock on the grounds, for Centreville had attracted exhibits from five townships—Cavan, Hope, South Monaghan, North Monaghan and Otonabee. There was an excellent showing of horses of all classes, especially of those devoted to farm use. There was no programme of speeding events. In the several classes the exhibitors and exhibits were as below:

Thos. McCamus exhibited a pair of general purpose horses in harness and in the same class Everett Zealand showed a two-year and one-year colt. David Wood showed a one-year heavy draught colt, a mare and foal and a 1903 foal. Alfred Anderson had a two-year colt in general purpose and carriage classes. Peter Dawson showed a pair of general purpose horses and a brood mare and foal and foal of 1903 in same class. J. A. Carl had a single horse in the carriage class, and W. B. Hutchinson showed a two-year colt in the same class, and in the general purpose class and a one-year colt, mare and foal and 1903 foal. N. M. Breckinridge entered a 1903 foal in heavy draughts and a two-year colt, single horse, mare and foal and 1903 foal in the carriage class and single driver. W. B. Stewart exhibited a one-year general purpose colt, a one-year heavy draught and a one-year colt, mare and foal and foal of 1903 in carriage class. J. J. Heron entered a two-year general purpose colt and A. M. Tamblyn a two-year carriage colt, a one-year colt, a mare and foal of 1903 in same class. J. L. Fair and Howard Barnard were also exhibitors in this class with a two-year filly each and the latter a mare and foal and 1903 foal. Mr. Barnard also a two year heavy draught and a two-year general purpose colt. In carriage horses R. Vance & Son showed a single horse.

Wm. McKnight's exhibit consisted of a pair of carriage horses, a two-year colt and two single horses. C. A. Cole showed a two-year general purpose colt as did also R. Latimer. Geo. Ward had a pair of heavy draught horses; Hugh Halligan had a one-year general purpose colt and Wm. Christie a pair of general purpose horses. In the carriage class, the following made these respective entries: Hilliard Caldwell, pair of horses and one-year colt; John Elgar, mare and foal and 1903 foal and two-year colt; R. Dixon, single horse, and David Armstrong, single horse; Dr. King, Peterborough, single horse, R. H. Leary, Peterborough, pair of horses in Harness and G. A. Gillespie, single horse. Hugh Halligan showed a one-year general purpose colt; Wm. Christie team of general purpose horses and John Edgar, the same. R. Dixon had a general purpose colt two years old and a span of heavy draught horses. John Edgar, pair of heavy draught horses.

Cattle.

The exhibitors of Durhams were Thos. McCamus, bull calf, milch cow, two heifers, heifer calf and two year old bull; Wm. Rutherford, two milch cows, and two heifers. D. Wood, a two-year bull; N. M. Breckenridge, a two-year bull; W. B. Stewart, a one-year heifer. Thos. Coyle, a bull calf.

In Jerseys W. B. Stewart showed a milch cow, and N. M. Breckenridge the same.

No Ayrshires were shown and in grades the exhibitors were W. B. Stewart, J. A. Carl, Peter Dawson, with five entries, Alfred Anderson, David Dodds, Wm. Rutherford, T. McCamus.

In Polled Angus David Dodds, of Benafort, had the field to himself with a bull, bull calf, milch cow, two and one-year heifers and heifer calf. This exhibit, which was a fine one, attracted a great deal of attention as this kind of splendid beefy cattle with their rich furry coats and milk of superior quality as to taste and richness in cream, is comparatively little known or at least bred in this section of the country.

Sheep.

In sheep the exhibitors were David Wood, N. M. Breckenridge, Wm. McKnight.

Swine.

Swine were shown by Thos. Johnston, Ben Johnston, W. B. Stewart, J. J. Herron and R. Vance & Sons.

Poultry.

Entries of poultry were made by W. J. Campbell, J. J. Herron, N. M. Breckenridge, J. A. Carl, Ben. Johnston, Peter Dawson, Jas. Wood, David Wood, Joseph Clark.

Though there were no speeding events the offer of substantial prizes of $3.00, $2.00 and $1.00 for the "most comical turn-out" created a competition which afforded a lot of fun to the youngsters especially Mr. Matthew Laing and "Mrs." Jas. Campbell, the latter with a Berkshire baby—alive and kicking—seated in a rickety road cart drawn by a rickety horse to match, and clad in the stage attire of the farmer and farmer's wife, made quite a sensation. Master Jack Laing with his boyish face concealed by liberal, if rather streaky layers of burnt cork, appeared alone in a road cart of primitive construction, drawn by a horse that would do credit to a bone-yard. Messrs. Dan Higgins and E. Anderson had an "up-to-date" outfit, a sort of reversed horse automobile, a clear case of the cart before the horse.

The officials are well pleased with the outcome of the exhibition as an exhibition, though the financial end was not as heavy as they would have liked it to be. The press has good reason to be grateful to the efficient and obliging secretary, Mr. Isaac L. Kerr, for favours received.

A Peculiar Find at Chemong

Mr. P. Cameron, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending his vacation at Chemong. One day of last week Mr. Cameron went aking a stoll along the beach, north of the bridge, and he came across a peculiar stone. On it was the words "Turn Me Over" in a clear black type. Mr. Cameron scarcely knew what to do. However, he did as anybody would do—he turned the stone over, and on the other side he saw this inscription:—"Wise Business Men get their Signs Painted by F. Cook, Peterborough's Exclusive sign Painter. 'Phone 119."

A NOTABLE MUSICAL AND LITERARY TREAT.

Killin-Keough Concert Company Gave Pleasing Entertainment.

Charlotte Street Y. M. C. Provides Enjoyable Concert.

The Killin-Keough Concert Company, the members of which had already won favour with Peterborough audiences, gave a concert last night in the Opera House under the auspices of the Young Men's Guild of Charlotte street church, and those who attended were well repaid, as a programme of unusual musical and literary excellence was presented. The musical numbers were given by Mr. and Mrs. Keough, both of whom, during the months spent here were heard by many and their singing was always enjoyed, and Miss Maud L. Brown a clever pianist, who also is not a stranger to Peterborough concert goers. The literary selections were rendered by Miss Anna Hobert Terry, who fully sustained the reputation which her work in other towns has made for her.

The attendance was not as large as the quality of the entertainment deserved, but the audience was competent to appreciate good music such as was presented and that it was appreciated was evidenced by the applause with which the rendition of each number was accompanied.

The programme was pleasingly arranged and combined the classical with the popular, the former predominating, and so perfect were the interpretations of the works of such artists as Verdi, Mendelssohn and Gounod that they at once appealed to everyone present.

The programme opened with a well rendered duet given by Mr. and Mrs. Keough, whose re-appearance before a Peterborough audience was signalled by a warm welcome. Miss Terry followed with a well-known reading, "In the Toils of the Evening," in which the trials of a Yale supporter at the inter-Collegiate boat race were realistically portrayed, Miss Terry evidently having an accurate conception of the emotions characteristic of the boy of tender years. An encore was demanded to each of Miss Terry's readings, to which she graciously responded. After a solo, "A Song of Pleasure," by Mr. Keough, a scene from Verdi's great Italian opera, "La Traviata" was very artistically sung by Mrs. Killin-Keough, in the Italian. This selection was one of the most enjoyable on the whole programme and Mrs. Killin-Keough gave ample evidence of her ability to interpret successfully the highest thought of this great composer.

A piano solo "Valse Chromatique," by Benj. Godard, was the next number, played in a highly accomplished artistic manner by Miss Brown. A second duet by Mr. and Mrs. Keough and a reading by Miss Terry preceded a scene from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" by the two talented singers of the company. This was the scene of the widow and the prophet, and before its rendition, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe gave a short explanation of the passage and read the portion of scripture from which the music had been taken.

Miss Brown's piano solo, the "A Toi" march was the next number and was thoroughly appreciated. It was played with a pleasing accuracy and appealed to the highest musical taste. Perhaps the most enjoyed of all the selections was the scene from "Faust" given by Mrs. Killin-Keough, who gave a very highly creditable number under most unfavourable circumstances so far as stage accommodations were concerned. Had the stage accessaries been on an equality with the dramatic and musical ability shown by the singer, the production would have done credit to grand opera. Nor was the "Jewel Song" from "Faust" the only jewel on the programme, the duet "Killarney" by Mr. and Mrs. Killin-Keough, was a gem, and was given with an expression and spirit that at once proclaimed them artists of decided ability.

The Young Men's Guild are to be congratulated on securing this company to give a concert under their auspices and the programme rendered was one highly enjoyable.

The Guild wish to thank Mrs. M. J. Hall for flowers kindly loaned for the occasion, also Messrs. J. C. Turnbull Company and A. Comstock for courtesies extended.

The piano used was an "Owan Martin" instrument, supplied by the Martin & Stanley Piano Company. The charms of its tone was much commented upon.

SCIENCE STUDENTS TO VISIT THIS TOWN.

Will Visit Industrial Establishments and Public Works—250 Coming.

Another evidence of the fact that Peterborough is attaining a position of considerable importance in the industrial life of Canada is the fact that the Faculty of the School of Practical Science of Toronto has decided that the annual trip which the students and faculty take each year to visit some manufacturing city in Canada, shall this year be made to Peterborough. On October 24th about 250 of the brightest young men along engineering and mechanical lines in Canada will be here to visit the different industrial establishments and public works, including the lift lock, Cereal dam, etc. The following letter from a Peterborough man, at present in attendance at the school makes some suggestions which it might be well for the civic authorities to consider:

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — The Faculty of the School of Practical Science has decided to take its annual trip to Peterborough this year, on Saturday, October 24th.

This trip is taken every year to different places to enable the students in engineering to obtain an insight into the practical part of the work which they are studying. Last year the students visited Niagara Falls and were very kindly treated, and shown over the great power works and manufacturing establishments. Peterborough has been chosen this year as the place of interest, and I, as a Peterborough boy, hope that the old town will do its best to entertain my fellow students.

The lift lock, Cereal dam, and other construction works will be visited, as well as manufacturing establishments, and other points of interest.

We hope that some one will take this matter up, and perhaps the civic authorities, or Toronto University Alumni Association will provide reception committees.

There will probably be about two hundred and fifty students in the party, which will arrive by special train sometime in the morning, and leave in the evening. As these gentlemen come from all parts of Canada, it will be a splendid chance for the town to uphold its reputation as a manufacturing centre.

As the street car service is not yet open to the public, permit me to suggest that ample provision be made for transportation. It would look rather tame if the boys had to walk from the depot to the lift lock, cereal dam, etc.

Perhaps I have taken up a good deal of space to say what I wish but I am anxious for the boys to have a good time.

Thanking you, for your space, Mr. Editor, I am, yours sincerely,

A PETERBOROUGH STUDENT.

SECRETARY PRESENTED HIS SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.

Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Historical Society.

Not Sufficient Interest Taken in the Society—History of the Older Members of the County.

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Historical Society which was held on Thursday evening there were present: Messrs. H. C. Rogers, E. B. Edwards, H. T. Strickland, T. A. S. Hay, E. H. D. Hall, J. B. McWilliams and Mrs. Birdsall and Miss Watt.

The chief business transacted during the evening was the amending of the constitution of the Society.

The secretary, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, presented the following report:

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen, —As secretary, I beg to present my sixth annual report as follows:

The society has been somewhat dormant during the past year, having held but few meetings.

The executive committee, however, has been fairly active.

It was found advisable to amend the constitution and by-laws. This has been undertaken by the executive committee whose report will come before you at this meeting.

The annual fee of members has not all been collected this year and it will be necessary for the Society to devise some means of overcoming this difficulty, as it is not possible to carry the work on without some revenue.

The museum has been visited during the year by large numbers. The collections have been increased by many valuable additions. The steady and consistant growth of this institution is a source of gratification to the society and especially to the museum committee.

The society has been fortunate in having for a caretaker of the museum, one whose faithful services have been of great value. Mrs. Howland has kept the rooms clean and bright and the exhibits in good order.

The funds at present in the hands of the museum committee amount, to $143.38. In accordance with the amendment of the constitution, the funds of the society will be consolidated. Hitherto there have been two separate funds and two treasurers, which arrangement has been found impracticable, entailing confusion in making annual returns to the government. The work of the museum committee will not be changed thereby.

This society was very ably represented at the annual meeting of the Ontario Historical Society, held in the city of St. Thomas, Ontario, on June 4th and 5th by Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, who will, no doubt, give you an outline of the business transacted.

The most important events of an historical nature which have occurred in Peterborough during the past summer have been the visit of their Excellencies, the Governor General and Lady Minto and their daughters, who spent a few hours in town. Although their visit was short, they had a most hearty reception by the town and county councils and a committee of citizens, and were given a drive about to a few of the most interesting points in the vicinity.

Another event was the first homecoming of the "old boys" in July, which was the occasion of the reunion of a large number of former residents gathered from far and near. Many of the visitors were conducted to the museum among other places of interest and recorded their names in the register.

I would again remind the members of the importance of keeping this society well up in activity. Opportunities are met with almost daily of adding to the store of information for the accumulation of which we are organized. We are to collect past history and store records of present events. Our efforts may not meet with appreciation by the present generation but future generations will be grateful for any labour now expended on the work. In conclusion, I would remind members that the annual fee of 50c is now due.

I have the honour to be, yours respectfully,

T. A. S. HAY,
Secretary.

On motion of Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Strickland, the report was received and adopted.

The treasurer's report showed that on January 1st, 1903, there was in the bank a deposit of $158.43. Since then, however, $10 had been expended to defray the expenses of delegate to the convention, leaving a balance of $143.43.

Col. Rogers thought it would be a good thing to get a history of the older residents of the county.

On motion of Mr. E. H. D. Hall, seconded by Col. E. B. Edwards, it was moved that the officers of last year be re-elected, with the exception of the treasurer, and that Miss Watt be appointed to that post. The officers, as they now stand, are:

Honorary President—Judge Weller.
President—Col. H. C. Rogers.
Vice Presidents—Messrs. Rich. Hall, J. B. McWilliams, and Mrs. Birdsall.
Secretary—Mr. T. A. S. Hay.
Treasurer—Miss Watt.
Executive Committee—Messrs. Col. Edwards, D. Spence, E. J. Toker, Rev. J. C. Davidson, J. Coyle Brown, F. J. Jameson and E. Elcombe.
Museum Committee—Messrs. J. H. Burnham, H. T. Strickland, and T. A. S. Hay.

After a number of accounts were passed the meeting adjourned.

ON MUSICAL SUBJECTS.

Letter From "Music Lover" in Which Some Suggestions are Made.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

The writer, who has been a resident of Peterborough for some time, is a great lover of music well rendered, and as a means of cultivating the best musical abilities of those who fill positions in the different choirs of town, would make a suggestion to the daily papers, the adoption of which would, in my opinion, have a decided tendency in the right direction. It has been the custom of the press in this town to speak of every so-called musician who perpetrates upon a long-suffering public, renditions of composers, which, but for the fact that the listener was in the sacred precincts of a church, would almost have tempted one to use language which would be, to say the least, unbecoming in such surroundings; and yet, the evening papers the next day, in speaking of these identical selections, say that they were "rendered with a fine artistic taste," etc., when as a matter of fact, if a mild criticism had been administered the effect upon the singer would doubtless have been beneficial and a distinct service would have been done to the musical community of Peterborough.

No one doubts the fact that these singers are anxious to develop the highest musical ability of which they are capable, but to have their work spoken of as has been indicated above, when, it was anything but deserving of it, is doing neither justice to the public nor paying a compliment to the singer whose work is thus spoken of. This does not apply to singing alone, but is equally applicable to all lines of musical and literary effort, and it is to be hoped that, for the sake of fostering a good healthy and highly cultivated musical and literary community, a change in the manner of dealing with the performances of local amateurs will be made by the press.

Yours truly,

MUSIC LOVER.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

A Century in Existence Come March 7th, 1904.

The "British and Foreign Bible Society" was founded on the 7th of March, 1804, and on the 7th of March, 1904, it will celebrate its centenary. The society was at first small in membership and weak in means, but it grew steadily during the century until it has 5,800 branches in Great Britain and 2,000 more abroad. Its operations have been carried on in every lands. It is constantly bringing out translations of the Bible into languages never before attempted, completing translations partly done, and revising translations found to be imperfect. It maintains an army of people engaged in the work of distributing Bibles and teaching people how to read them.

No society ever organized has had a more altruistic purpose than the Bible Society has had. Not a scintilla of commercialism has been infused into its plans and propaganda. Believing that the Bible is the most potent promoter of civilization, it has earned the civilized world's gratitude by circulating the Bible while others were looking out for opportunities to secure wealth or prestige. The amount of good it has thus accomplished cannot be estimated, but there is less need to dwell upon it because no one seems disposed to question it. In any account of the changes through which the world has passed in a hundred years no small place must be assigned to the Bible Society as a power in effecting them.

Of course, all this has cost enormously. The wonder is, that for such a purpose carried out on such a scale, funds should have been provided. It is not surprising that the society finds itself under the necessity of appealing to its supporters and well wishers for a "centenary fund" of a quarter of a million guineas. For twenty years the free income of the society has remained almost stationary, while its expenses have rapidly increased, and for four years there has been a grave discrepancy between receipts and expenditure. Money is needed to clear the society to date, but it is needed much more to provide for the expanding work of the future. The appeal is largely to those who do not take part personally in its work but are in a position to afford contributions to increase its efficiency. To quote one of the centenary pamphlets: "A quarter of a million of guineas! The South African war cost as much as that each day it lasted. The people of the United Kingdom spend twelve times as much every week in strong drink. The smokers of the United Kingdom burn three times as much every fortnight in tobacco. Who can believe that such a sum will be refused by the Christians of this country to the greatest society which they all combine to support?"

REDUCING CANADA'S DEBTS.

(Globe.)

Mr. Fielding's statement regarding the public finances of the Dominion for the year ending with June last is a gratifying assurance of continued prosperity and expansion. The net debt of the Dominion has been reduced by $9,885,810, a result that shows not only an abundant revenue but a wise and statesmanlike policy in its administration. A portion of this reduction in the net debt is the result of adjustments in the accounts between the federal Government and the provinces. But the actual operations of the year have reduced the debt by $6,580,360. This is by no means a spasmodic fluctuation in Dominion finances, as it is a continuation of the debt reduction of the previous year. And so far as the current year has gone every month has made a new and a better record. The revenue on consolidated fund exceeded the expenditure by $14,326,985, and the reduction of the net debt was accompanied by a capital expenditure of $10,867,163 on railways, railway subsidies, and bounties on metals.

The policy of maintaining a separate capital account may be open to question. There are grounds for the contention that the cost of government is in its nature an incubus and should be so regarded in public accounts, irrespective of the items for which the outlays are made. That is the policy generally adopted. But the system of maintaining a separate capital account has become established in Canada, and it facilitates and gives value to comparisons with previous years. The main point is that the debt of the Dominion is being reduced at a rate that promises its extinction in the comparatively near future. A few years ago under less favourable fiscal management, the growth of the debt was sufficiently rapid to cause serious misgivings. Every year brought a large balance on the wrong side, and as the growth of the population was insignificant, a time seemed in prospect when the growing burden would become too heavy for the people. But that state of affairs is happily at an end. Our population is increasing at an unprecedented rate, thus lessening the individual burden of the debt. And with this influx the fiscal management of the Government has been such as to effect an actual reduction in the total burden year after year. The reduction of the debt, especially during years of prosperity, is sound public policy and will be generally commended. The debt is a burden on every productive worker in the Dominion, and its influence in discouraging immigration or promoting an exodus, must always be proportion to its magnitude.

COMING AT LAST.

(The Globe.)

The days for waiting for population are drawing to a close. Canada has been discovered, or rather rediscovered, for over half a century ago the Irish famine and the clearings in the Highlands drove grant swarms of settlers into Upper Canada, and raised it from the position of a series of straggling settlements into a powerful and populous Province. The West seems destined to have a similar rush. Figures issued at Ottawa last night show that the immigrant arrivals in Canada for the nine months of the present calandar year ending on Oct. 1st numbered 108,014 or 39,182 in excess of the total for the same period of last year. Of this year's immigrants 43,187 come from the British Isles, 32,498 from the Continent of Europe, and 32,329 from the United States. In 1902 the immigrant arrivals were:—British, 16,979; continental, 25,236; the United States, 25,617.

For the first quarter of the present fiscal year ending on September 30th the arrivals were 26,987, as against 23,361 for the same three months in 1902. The British arrivals were 12,478, an increase of 6,133; the continental arrivals 7,218, an increase of 208, and the American 7,291, a decrease of 2,735.

The extraordinary diversion of British emigrants from the United States to Canada is made evident by the fact that in the period between 1891 and 1900 736,000 persons emigrated from Great Britain, and of these 520,000, or seventy-two per cent., went to the United States, and only 90,000, or thirteen per cent., to British North America. Since January first Canada has attracted almost half as many British immigrants as she did in the ten years preceding 1900.

Breaks up Grip and COLDS

A common cold is taken by the skin becoming colder than is natural. The instant a chilly sensation is felt the mischief is done; but it always can be rectified so that no appreciable ill results will follow, by the immediate use of Dr. Humphrey's "Seventy-seven" restoring the checked circulation, starting the blood coursing through the veins and "breaking up" the Cold. This may be hastened by taking some form of gentle exercise or work, and continuing it until a prespiration is induced, manifested by a slight moisture on the forehead.

"77" cures Grip, Colds, Influenza, Catarrh, Pains and Soreness in the head and chest, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, General Prostration and Fever.

The persistent use of "77" will break up a Cold that hangs on and has not yielded to other treatment.

The tonicity of "77" sustains the system and restores the vitality.

"77" is a small vial of pleasant pellets that fits the vest pocket, ever handy and ready prepared to take.

THOS. MULVEY APPOINTED

To the Office of Assistant Provincial Secretary.

Succeeds the Late Geo. E. Lumsden—A Toronto Barrister of Fourteen Year's Standing.

The Ontario Cabinet yesterday appointed Mr. Thomas Mulvey, K.C., assistant Provincial Secretary, the post made vacant by the death of Mr Geo. E. Lumsden. Mr. Mulvey, who will enter on the duties of the office on Monday, is well qualified by his 14 years' practice as a barrister in Toronto to look after the important work of the department, particularly with reference to charters of joint stock companies, which is especially under the charge of the Assistant Secretary.

Mr. Mr. Mulvey was born in Toronto, is a graduate of the University of Toronto, 1884, and a gold medalist in physics, in which department he held the fellowship for two years after graduation. He is also a graduate of St. Michael's College and was one of the founders of the Canadian Magazine. In 1885 he aided in the formation of the Young Liberal Club. While especially prominent in all admiralty litigation in this Province, Mr. Mulvey has had an extensive commercial practice and will bring a wide knowledge of industrial and business methods to the work of his office.—Globe.

MOTHERLY ADVICE

From One Whose Daughter was Restored to Health.

Had Suffered from Headaches, Dizziness and Fainting Spells—Feared at one Time That Consumption Would Follow.

All the freshness of youth, the rosy cheeks and bright eyes of girlhood, the charms of budding womanhood, are due to pure rich blood and healthy nerves. When the face is pale and the eyes lack lustre, when there are headaches and backaches, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart the blood is seriously out of condition, and decline and consumption may well be feared. In emergencies of this kind there is no medicine so certain in its beneficial results as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every pill makes new, rich blood, strengthens the nerves and puts the sufferer on the road to health. Proof of this is found in the case of Miss Bertha Milloy, Port Dalhousie, Ont. The story of this young lady's restoration to health is told by her mother as follows:—"A few years ago my daughter Bertha began to decline in health. Among the early symptoms were loss of appetite, loss of strength and an aversion to exertion. These were followed by severe headaches, and sometimes fainting fits; her colour left her and she was greatly reduced in flesh. In fact her condition was such that I feared she would go into consumption. We tried a number of medicines but they did not help her; then a doctor was called in, but there was no improvement, and things looked very hopeless. At this stage acting on the advice of a lady friend (who, by the way, was studying medicine and is now practicing in Chicago) I started giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the course of a few weeks there was a decided improvement in her condition, and by the time she had taken nine boxes she was again enjoying perfect health. During her illness her weight was reduced to ninety-five pounds and while taking the pills it increased to one-hundred and ten pounds. My advice to other mothers who have weak or ailing girls is to lose no time in giving them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Nearly all the ills of life are due to bad blood, and they are cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills simply because these pills make new, rich blood thus bringing strength to every part of the body. That is the whole secret, and it is the reason why these pills have cured after other medicines have failed. All medicine dealers sell these pills, but there are some who offer substitutes; see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is printed on the wrapper around every box. If in doubt send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Two Meaford Firemen Hurt.

Meaford, Oct. 8.—James Randle's large three-storey woollen mill was partially destroyed here yesterday afternoon by fire. The loss is about ten thousand dollars. James Grant and Alexander Hill, two Meaford firemen, were injured by falling from a broken ladder. Both had bones broken, and Jas. Grant was injured internally. Mr. Randle, the owner, is at present visiting in Europe.

NEW TIMBER REGULATIONS.

Future Sales Will be Made on the Basis of Measure Instead of Acreage.

The Forest Reserve Areas are to be Extended.

Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands; Mr. J. W. Gibson, Director of Mines; Mr. Thomas Southworth, Director of Colonization, and Mr. Geo. Yates returned this morning from a trip through the Temiskaming and Temagaming districts. A direct result of the trip is the confirmation in Mr. Davis' mind of the wisdom of his policy in setting aside forest reservations, and he has now determined that the proper thing for the Province is to extend that policy. The Temagami reserve covers 1,400,000 acres, roughly speaking, and there are two other smaller reserves in the Province. Mr. Davis believes that other reservations should be made. There is a lot of land that is too rough for agricultural settlement much of which is now under timber license. Mr. Davis' plan is to make forest reserves of these, as the licenses expire and opportunity affords, and keep them as Crown lands.

The plan will mean an almost revolutionary change in the disposal of the Province's timber. It will mean that licenses will not be issued by the acreage, and that timber will be sold by measure. The problem has already arisen on the Temagami reserve, where some of the pine has reached maturity, and will now begin to get shaky and "go back."

"It is the intention," said Mr. Davis to-day, "to frame regulations for the disposition of this timber. It will be sold in the stump after being marked by our expert men, and after it is cut the youngor growths will have a chance to develop. In this way we will have perpetual forests."

This is the plan of forestry in vogue in Germany. The most stringent regulations regarding the burning of the debris will be necessary, else the forest will be endangered.

TO SEEK MINERALS.

The party had a look at a number of mining properties along the north-eastern area of Lake Tamagami. The prospects are good for copper, iron, nickel, and asbestos mining there, and a Government diamond drill will be sent in to determine more precisely the value of the deposits.

Mr. Davis was greatly interested in a number of water powers he saw, especially along the Montreal River. Many of these will have a new value when the Government railway is completed as it skirts the river for a considerable distance.

A number of incidents greatly enlivened the trip. On Lake Temiskaming the party sighted a moose, and an Indian killed it. The game wardens could not interfere, because Indians are privileged. While the moose was being skinned Mr. Gibson went trawling, and caught an 18 1-2 pound lake trout, while others of the party got magnificent strings of the speckled beauties.

At Bear Island there was a reception. All the Indians and rangers gathered, and indulged in a dance, preceded by an address by Mr. Davis.

WORDS CANNOT TELL

"For upwards of ten years I have been a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia. I doctored almost continually and used almost everything I could hear of but got no real relief till I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Words cannot tell the great good they have done me."

These are the words of Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont. They come as a message of hope to all sufferers from Indigestion or Dyspepsia—to all who suffer from sour stomach, bloating pains in the stomach, headaches and that terrible depression that is probably the worst symptom of this all too prevalent disease.

This is proof that Dyspepsia can be cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Thousands of similar proofs lead to the conclusion that there is no case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cannot cure. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are an insurance policy against discomfort; they are the surest guarantee of good health.

CANADA'S MINERAL DEVELOPMENT

The development of mining in Canada may not be as rapid as the richness of our heritage in mineral wealth seems to warrant, yet it continues steadily from year to year and holds out abundant promise for the near future. The Canadian Mining Manual has reached, with the current issue, the thirteenth year of its publication, and the statistical record presented is certainly encouraging, if not as great in aggregates as some have felt inclined to expect. The total value of the mineral products of the Dominion for 1902 was materially reduced by the shrinkage in the market price of copper, silver and lead, and there was also a considerable reduction in the gold output from the Yukon. Yet, in spite of these influences, there was a satisfactory increase in the aggregate. The total output of metallic and non-metallic minerals for 1902 was valued at over $70,000,000 as compared with $69,709,350 during the previous year. Nova Scotia leads in the record of the provinces with an output of $19,501,130 and British Columbia is second with an output of $17,486,550. This is a reversal of the record of the previous year, when British Columbia led, with $20,086,780, and Nova Scotia was third, with $13,000,000, the Yukon holding second place with $18,500,000.

Ontario holds third place, with $13,577,440, a gain of over $2,000,000 compared with the previous year, and the output of the Yukon, $12,000,000, is fourth in the record of provinces and territories. Quebec produced to the value of $4,000,000, Alberta, Manitoba and the other territories, $2,515,953, and New Brunswick, about $1,000,000. The year was one of exceptional activity in the production of coal and coke, iron and steel, nickel, copper and asbestos. The total production of coal for the year was 8,850,529 tons of which 4,725,450 tons were mined in Nova Scotia, while British Columbia contributed over a million and a quarter tons. Over two million tons of bituminous coal were exported, but there was a total importation of 2,806,129 tons of bituminous and 961,833 tons of anthracite. Although there has been depression in certain lines, the present year promises to surpass the record of 1902 in aggregate mineral production.—Globe.

HALF OUR ILLS ARE CATARRHAL IN NATURE.

Catarrhal Diseases are Most Prevalent in Winter.

IS THERE NO WAY OF ESCAPE FROM THEM?

Pe-ru-na Never Fails to Cure Catarrh Wherever Located.

There are some things which are as sure as fate, and can be relied on to occur to at least one-half of the human family unless means are taken to prevent.

First, the climate of winter is sure to bring colds.

Second, colds not promptly cured are sure to cause catarrh.

Third, catarrh improperly treated is sure to make life short and miserable.

Catarrh spares no organ or function of the body. It is capable of destroying sight, taste, smell, hearing, digestion, secretion, assimilation and excretion.

It pervades every part of the human body, head, throat, stomach, bowels, bronchial tubes, lungs, liver, kidneys, bladder and other pelvic organs.

That Peruna cures catarrh wherever located is attested by the following testimonials sent entirely unsolicited to Dr. Hartman by grateful men and women who have been cured by Peruna:

Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. M. K. Bousch, Richmond, Va., writes: "I had catarrh all through my system for two years and could get no relief. I was advised to try Peruna and I have taken five bottles of it and am well and better now than I have been for years. I can advise any one who has catarrh of any part of the body to take Peruna. My little girl who is eleven years old had catarrh, but was cured by Peruna. Before I began to take Peruna I was sick all the time, but now I am entirely cured, and all praise is due Peruna."—Mrs. M. K. Bousch.

Catarrh of the Nose.

Mr. Herman Ehlke, 962 Orchard street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"I am entirely cured of my catarrh of the nose by your Peruna. My case was a severe one."—Herman Ehlke.

Catarrh of the Throat.

B. H. Runyan, Salesville, O., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the throat for five years. I was induced to try Peruna. I have used five bottles and am perfectly well."—B. H. Runyan.

Catarrh of The Ear.

Mr. Archie Godin, 128 Beech street, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of catarrh of the middle ear. I feel better than I have for several years."—Archie Godin.

Catarrh of The Lungs.

Mrs. Emilie Kirckhoff, Ada, Minn., writes:

"Through a violent cold contracted last winter, I became afflicted with catarrh of the nose, which in a short time affected my lungs. I took Peruna which cured me thoroughly. I now feel better than I have for forty years."—Mrs. Emilie Kirckhoff.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Mr. John Smith, 311 S. Third street, Atchison, Kan., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the urethra and bladder for two years. At the time I wrote to you I was under the care of my home doctor, and had been for four months.

"I followed your directions but two months, and can say Peruna cured me of that trouble."—John Smith.

Catarrh of The Head.

Mr. D. R. Ramsey writes in a recent letter from Pine Bluff, Ark., the following:

"My son, Leon Ramsey, four years of age, suffered with catarrh of the head for eighteen or twenty months. He took one bottle of your Peruna and could hear as good as ever."—D. R. Ramsey.

Catarrh of The Kidneys.

Peter J. Unger, Hawley, Pa., writes: "I think that I am perfectly cured of catarrh of the kidneys by Peruna, as I have no trouble of any kind."—P. J. Unger.

Catarrh of The Stomach.

A. W. Graves, of Hammond, Ind., writing to Dr. Hartman, says:

"I am well of catarrh of the stomach after suffering two years. I have taken five bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin and I feel like a new man now."—A. W. Graves.

Pelvic Catarrh.

Miss Katie Lochman, Lafayette, Ind., writes:

"I had pelvic catarrh, pain in the abdomen, back, had stomach trouble and headache caused by catarrh. I followed your directions: took Peruna and Manalin according to directions, and how happy I feel that I am relieved of such a distressing ailment."—Miss Katie Lochman.

Catarrh of The Bowels.

Mr. Henry Entalon, South Bend, Ind., writes:

"The doctor said I had catarrh of the bowels and I took his medicine, but with no relief. I was getting worse all the time.

"Before I had taken a half bottle of Peruna I felt like a new man."—Henry Entalon.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Pandora Range.

MEALS ON TIME.

If a dinner, which should be cooked with a light fire, is fixed for the hour of twelve, you can use a light fire and absolutely depend upon the "Pandora" to cook it by twelve—no need to waste fuel in keeping up an unnecessarily strong fire, "just to make sure." And the same accuracy can be depended upon if a strong fire is necessary.

The hot-air flues force all the heat around the oven twice and directly under every pot hole, which means that every atom of heat is used, and only smoke goes up the chimney; also facilitates the work of cooking.

"Pandora" Range is entirely new, and is equipped with every latest feature for cooking in a hurry, saving fuel, and lessening kitchen troubles generally.

If your local dealer does not handle it, write to us for Catalogue.
